AT MISS DELANEY'S

Early Spring Millinery Already on Exhibition—Peterborough as Well Advanced as Toronto.

Miss Delaney takes the lead in early spring millinery. Among the novelties for spring there is an exquisite display of tulle, lace, chiffons, crepe, flowers, ribbons and satins, in new shades, the richness of which has seldom been seen here so early in the season, and affords a new pleasure to Peterborough ladies. The admirable taste shown in the choice of goods, both as to quality and style, is, this year, more noticeable than ever.

In colours the leading shades are purple, new blues, pink and cerino. A noticeable feature of all the smart millinery is the number and variety of handsome buckles, vellings and ornaments. Miss Delaney always makes a specialty of gloves, hosiery and corsets, and her spring selections in these lines have been made with extra care. The ladies of Peterborough need not delay making their selections for spring as Miss Delaney is quite as well prepared to supply their wants as are the milliners of Toronto and other centres.

THE NOBLEMANS FAITH.

This Was the Subject of Rev. Mr. Cowsert's Address Last Evening in Park Street Church.

At the Park street Baptist church last evening Rev. Mr. Cowsert gave a soul-stirring address on the above subject from John 4, 50.

The faith of this man suggested the kind of faith required in order to receive the salvation of God. There were two mistakes generally met with in connection with faith. The first was in supposing that because a man did not believe in Christ, he did not believe in anything; the the second was in thinking it made no difference what a man believed so long as he was conscientious. Everyone believed something, and the devil never tempted us to have us believe, but rather to believe what was not true. The real question was not how we believed, but what we believed. Care should be taken, however, to distinguish between a mere intellectual assent, and a heart-confidence.

The faith of this man was not a trust in his own doings, though he had come from Capernaum to Cana. Many were trying to manufacture away of salvation of their own, and in so doing, were rejecting the way of God. Good works had a place in the place of redemption, but it was at the other side of the cross. The atonement of Christ was the only and all sufficient grounds of salvation.

Another characteristic of the man's faith was, that it was not based upon feeling. He felt deeply the need and besought Jesus to heal his son, but was not expecting that his feeling would bring about the result. Many a soul was lost, waiting for a cyclone of feeling that would never come. The divine order was fact, faith, feeling, but satan reversed those, and kept sinners waiting for feeling that could only result from faith.

He was not trusting in the experiences of others, or looking for similiar experiences. The stumbling block in the way of many was the expecting to be saved, just exactly as some one else had been. Now no two people had, specifically, the same experience in coming to Christ, and it was folly to expect it, when in doing so we rejected the present offers of mercy.

This man simply took Christ at His word, and if sinners were to be saved, they would have to be willing to accept as true, the testimony of God in His word, regarding their sinfulness and need, and Christ's complete redemption. There was no other way of salvation.

Just before the sermon, Mrs. Dingman sang with much feeling, "The Sinners and the Song." At the conclusion of the meeting, several testified as to having accepted Christ.

The meetings will be continued during next week. The last meeting of this week will be held this evening commencing at 7.30.

GUELPH NATIONALS ARE A FAST TEAM.

THEY DEFEATED THE PETERBOROUGHS LAST NIGHT.

The Score Stood Seven to Five at the Close—Local Team not in Shape.

The Peterboroughs met their second defeat of the season last night, when the Guelph Nationals administered the blow by the score of 7 goals to 5. That an intermediate team, however fast, should be able to cope with a senior seven, may seem peculiar until the circumstances of the case are taken into consideration.

The Peterboroughs went out of training after the 'Varsity match, and as condition means everything in all athletic sports, they simply weren't in it when pitted against a team which has been steadily training for championship matches without intermission during the whole season.

Guelph has a team of which it may well be proud. The defense men are great on interference work and the forwards have a snappy way of dashing down the rink which is very taking.

The style game last night bore a strong resemblance to the 'Varsity game here. The Peterborough forwards allowed the visiting rush line to get away from them time and again and work a pretty combination down the rink.

It is a pity that the local men were not in better shape, as a big score against the Nationals would have been a most assertive method of proving Peterborough's strength. The Nationals were defeated by the Kingston Frontenacs, the score being 5—3. The Frontenacs will play Queen's before long, and therefore if the Peterboroughs had been in shape last night and defeated Guelph, the relative strength of Peterborough and Queen's could have been decided on the result of the Frontenac-Queen's game.

The match started last night only ten minutes behind time, and the crowd certainly got the worth of their money, as until time was called the play scintillated with brilliant rushes on either side, the visitors excelling slightly in combination work. The teams were marshalled out on the ice in the following order.

Guelph.		Peterborough.
Raymo	goal	Wasson
Howitt	point	Reynolds
Wallace	cover point	Hollingshead
Snell	forwards	King
Banker		Davidson
Carmichael		Crossley
Shields		Balleghem

Mr. Harry King officiated as referee. The goals were scored as follows:—

1	Guelph	scored by	Banker	Time 1½ min
2	Peterboro	do	Crossley	do 8½ do
3	Peterboro	do	King	do 4 do
4	Guelph	do	Carmichael	do 7 do
5	Guelph	do	Howett	do 4 do
6	Guelph	do	Carmichael	do 1 do
7	Peterboro	do	Davidson	do 1 do
8	Peterboro	do	Belleghem	do 8 do
9	Guelph	do	Shields	do 14 do
10	Guelph	do	Carmichael	do ½ do
11	Peterboro	do	Davidson	do 1½ do
12	Guelph	do	Snell	do 2 do

Some funny incidents occured during the game, noticeably when the Peterborough goal was completely blocked by a scrimmage, when every man on the ice was piled in a confused heap, with the exception of Morrison and Raymo.

Guelph was given a game which they did not score, and Peterborough claimed one which was not allowed.

Norwood comes up to play the Junior Colts at seven o'clock to-morrow evening.

HORSE AND TRACK.

The old grey gelding Charlie Ford, 2:16½, by McKisson's Grey Eagle, died in Chicago a few days ago at the advanced age of 28 years. Charlie Ford made his debut on the turf in 1878 and before he retired he had to his credit 36 winning races. His best year was in 1881 when he defeated such horses as Robert McGregor, Trinket, Hannis, Midnight, Hopeful, Santa Claus and So So. That season he was driven by the late James Distin and in 1880, when he also raced very successfully, he was in John Splan's stable.

Pillows Made of Pine Needles.

Are becoming popular, owing to their medical effect on catarrhal maladies. Catarrhozone is like a breath from the pine woods, and yet is a powerful microbe destroyer and germ killer. It is a certain cure for catarrh, though until recently catarrh was considered incurable. It penetrates wherever air can go, and cleanses as by fire. You simply breathe it in—it does the rest. KENNEDY'S STOCK YARDS.

The Committee of the Whole Will Recommend Certain Assistance be Granted.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy appeared before the Council in Committee of the Whole yesterday afternoon, when the question of the establishment of stock yards was again taken up.

Mr. Kennedy is acquiring the Park lot on the south side of Romaine street between Park street and the Boundary and intends erecting thereon buildings which will cost in the neighbourhood of $4,000. In consideration of this the committee decided to recommend that he be granted exemption from taxes for ten years and be given an electric light a hydrant and $100 in cash.

The lot in question is not immediately adjacent to any dwellings and is well suited for the purpose of stock yards, as both railroads run through it.

HENRY MARTYN, MISSIONARY.

Interesting Address Upon the Life and Work of a Pioneer Indian Missionary

Rev. W. L. Armitage gave a most interesting address in St. Luke's church last night on Henry Martyn, the famous missionary to India.

The Empire of India, said the speaker, has a peculiar interest for us as Canadians, seeing that it is a part of the British Empire. This vast country is 1800 miles long by 1500 wide, and has a population of 184,000,000 of people, of whom 139,000,000 are Hindoos, 40,000,000 Mohammedans, 3,000,000 Buddhists, 1,000,000 Sikhs, and 900,000 Christians. Protestant missionary work in India has lasted only about 100 years. The work has been accomplished by grave difficulties, its progress has been slow, but it is now beginning to bear fruit. Many of the rulers of India, and amongst them so great a man as Lord Lawrence, had spoken in the highest terms of the value of missionary labours in India.

It is said that the Apostle Thomas was the first missionary to India, but the first great name of which anything definite is known is that of the Jesuit St. Francis Xavier, who died in 1552. Protestant missions date from the year 1705, and to-day there are missionaries representing thirty five societies.

The name and work of Henry Martyn are not so well known as they ought to be, because his biography has never been properly written. He sprang from humble parents, and distinguishing himself at school, was able to go to Cambridge University and won the bigest honours of scholarship, being Senior Wrangler. Here he came under the influence of the great evangelist leader, Charles Simeon, and by him received that impulse which ultimately took him to India. In 1805 he became a chaplain in the East India Company. He lived for some time at Calcutta. Here he saw with his own eyes an Indian woman burned upon the funeral pyre of her husband, an event that made a deep impression on his mind. He devoted his great intellectual powers to the translation of the Scriptures, and published the New Testament in Hindustani, Hindi and Persian, a remarkable feat for one man, in perpetual ill health, in the face of many other obstacles, and who died at the age of thirty one. After leaving Calcutta he was successively stationed at Serampore, at Dinapore and at Cawnpore.

At this last place his health completely failed, and he attempted to recuperate by seeking other districts. Ill-health could not quench his astonishing ardour. He sailed to Bushire and then travelled various places in Persia, and finally sank exhausted at Tokat and died on Oct. 6th, 1872.

Whilst the numerical results of Martyn's life were insignificant, his labours as a pioneer were of the utmost value. "One man soweth and another reapeth" is preeminently true in the case of this heroic man, whose life has been an inspiration to hundreds.

Next Wednesday Rev. H. Symonds will give the address on another Martyn missionary of more recent times, Bishop Hannington, of Central Africa.

ACCIDENT AT LADNER'S LANDING

A Bale of Hay Falls on the Shoulder of a Prominent Citizen.

I was badly crippled with a sprained shoulder and the doctor told me I would not be able to raise my arm for a week. I procured a bottle of Griffiths' Menthol Liniment, and after three rubbings I was back to work the day after the accident. I have used many different liniments but Griffiths' Menthol Liniment is the best. This liniment and my quick recovery are the talk of the town.

Energy Easily Earned.

DR. WARD'S BLOOD & NERVE PILLS

Wasted energy must be made up or the body will weaken and perhaps perish.

For a long time prior to taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills my nerve system was greatly deranged and I was terribly nervous, so much so that in my business (Lineman of the Kingston Electric Light Co.,) my extreme nervousness naturally made the following of my business extremely hazardous. Before taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills my kidneys had been affected for some time. I had constant soreness and stiffness across my loins and the small of my back. My appetite was variable and very poor. I also suffered greatly with constant headaches. I am glad to be able to inform you that Dr. Ward's Pills completely cured me of all the above ailments and made me a well man. I have found no medicine like Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills, although I have tried many different kinds. They acted quickly and effectually on my nerve system, making my nerves strong and removing all indications of nervousness. These valuable pills also removed all kidney and back trouble and restored to me a healthy vigorous appetite. I have had no headache since five months ago and feel justified in saying that they are a wonderful remedy. They not only removed nervousness, but gave me healthy kidneys, removed all soreness and stiffness from my back and loins, cured me of headache and gave me a good appetite, consequently I am highly pleased. I know of no medicine that equals Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills for nervousness, chronic headache, sore kidneys and back and loss of appetite. Yours truly, John McCutcheon, 522 Princess St., Kingston, Ont.

All good druggists sell them. If they won't, we will supply you by mail on receipt of price, 50c. per box, or 5 boxes for $2.00. The Doctor Ward Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MR. KIPLING IMPROVES.

Has Not Yet Been Told of the Death of His Daughter.

New York, March 9.—Rudyard Kipling's health continues to mend slowly. So far beef tea is his only article of diet, and nothing will be added to it until an improvement in his condition will permit. He has not been told of the death of his daughter Josephine. Elsie, the other daughter, rested quietly yesterday.

Fire at the Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 9.—About 5 o'clock yesterday morning the bakery and dwelling of Edward Healey was discovered on fire. The building was badly gutted before the fire department got water on it. Loss to building, $1,000; on plant and contents, $600; both partly insured. Cause, unknown, but supposed to be from an oven in the bake shop.

A Poisoned Egg.

Huntington, W. Va., March 9.—Mrs. H. W. Burnside placed some poison in an egg to kill rats. The cook found the egg and made bread with it. The family ate the bread, and the cook and four members are now in a critical condition.

British Emigration to Canada.

London, March 9.—During February the emigrations to Canada consisted of 594 English, 43 Scotch, 30 Irish and seven foreign. Those who emigrated to Cape Colony numbered 1,650, and to Australia 802.

Christian Scientists Barred.

Guthrie, Oklahoma, March 9.—Both Houses of the Legislature have passed a bill prohibiting the organization of Christian scientists in Oklahoma. The Governor, it is said, will sign the bill.

Alleged Burglars Committed.

Guelph, March 9.—At the Police Court yesterday W. R. Clark and James Thompson, charged with burglary at Hillsburg on Feb. 19 last, were committed for trial.

MR. FRANK DODGE

Says His Life was Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto Feb. 27.—Mr. Frank Dodge, of North Maupeberg, Ont., has been visiting here recently. He is a splendid specimen of Canadian manhood, standing more than six feet high "in his stockings" erect and muscular.

"I was a different man two years ago," said he to a friend to-day. The truth is I would have died of Kidney Complaint, if it hadn't been for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I had been treated by physicians and had taken various remedies without getting any better. I read of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and decided to try them. I did so, and was thoroughly cured in a couple of weeks.

Briefs.

Winnipeg, March 8.—All colleges in the city will be represented to-day at the funeral of Dr. King.

Carl Russell, the Russian railway official arrested for theft in Russia, has been remanded for a week. He will waive extradition if the Russian Government decides to go ahead with the case. He says it is Siberia for life.

John Bull Taxes Chicago.

Chicago, March 8.—Judges of the British Court of Appeals have upheld the decision of a lower tribunal ordering the Peter Schoenhoefen Brewing Company to pay an income tax to the Crown on the entire profits of the business. By this decision citizens of Chicago will be taxed between $25,000 and $50,000 a year by the revenue collectors of the British Empire.

PROBABLY HIS LAST DIVE.

Donaldson, the Champion High Diver, in Sorry Plight.

New York, March 9.—Thomas Donaldson of Bath Beach, known the world over as a champion high diver, dove from the roof of Madison Square Garden, a distance of 85 feet, yesterday afternoon, with probably fatal results. He struck the water head first, and failed to come up. Small circles of blood came bubbling up from the bottom, and Harry Reeder, the amateur champion swimmer and an attache of the Garden, plunged into the water. He dived several times, and finally brought Donaldson to the surface. He was apparently dead, with blood flowing from the mouth, nostrils and ears, and from wounds in the head. The doctors say he has a fractured skull, with compression of the brain, and the left side of his face is crushed in. Death is only a question of hours.

Brazil Accepts Arbitration.

Rio Janeiro, March 9.—The Brazilian Government has accepted the proposal of Great Britain to submit the Guiana boundary dispute to arbitration. Senor Joaquim Nabuco, former Brazilian secretary of legation in London, has been appointed to represent Brazil on the arbitration commission.

MARKET REPORTS.

Very Weak Wheat Market at Chicago—A Drop of a Cent and a Half—The Prices.

Liverpool, March 9.—Wheat futures yesterday closed ½d to ⅝d per cental below Tuesday's final figures.

Chicago, March 9.—Wheat futures were weak yesterday. The May option dropped 1½c, and the July option over 1c a bushel below Tuesday's final figures, and closed near the bottom prices for the day. The feeling was heavy, based upon indications of coming large movements of Russian and Argentine wheat to western Europe.

Trolley System for London.

Detroit, Mich., March 8.—Tom L. Johnson, who lately disposed of his Brooklyn street railway interests, is not going to retire from the business. It has been learned that he has made arrangements to invade London, England, and it is understood that his plans for building an electric street railway system there have been completed.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents a bottle every bottle guaranteed.

"What I can't understand," remarked Biffles, "is how Totterham died and didn't leave a debt in the world."

"Oh, well," responded Sloops, "folks sometimes do do that."

"Yes, I know," continued Biffles, "but just think how popular Totterham was. Everybody liked him, and that's why I can't understand how he came to die without owing a cent of borrowed money!"—London Judy.

Three Years in Bed.

From Kidney Disease—Although a Man of Three-Score and Ten, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills gave him back perfect health.

This is to certify that I was sick in bed the most of the time for three years with kidney disease. I took several boxes of pills—different kinds—and a great many other kinds of patent medicines; besides that I was under treatment by four different doctors during the time and not able to work. I began to take Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and since that time have been working every day, although a man nearly 70 years of age. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me.

WRITERS AND PAINTERS.

Stanley Lane Poole, the author, has just been appointed professor of Arabic in the University of Dublin.

William M. Chase, the celebrated American artist, says he wanted to be a painter from boyhood, although he had to begin life as a clerk in a shoe store.

The Queen Tita of several of the late William Black's novels was in some sort a portrait of his first wife. His widow, it is said, recognizes herself as Dove Annerly in "In Silk Attire."

Gerome, the French artist, is talking of giving up signing his pictures. He says: "Velasquez, Rubens, Zurbaran, Gainsborough, Reynolds, Lawrence and J. M. W. Turner rarely signed. If an artist has style, his work is signed all over."

In a letter to a friend in Milan Verdi intimates that the four sacred compositions that he made known about six months ago contained the last that he felt was within him to compose, and that nothing further was to be expected from his pen.

Not Sufficiently Self Assertive.

"I thought you believed in training girls for household rather than business affairs."

"So I do."

"And yet your daughter is learning typewriting."

"Yes, but that's an exceptional case. The poor girl hasn't enough aggressive independence to be a cook."—Chicago Post.

His Calm Assurance.

"Don't you want to be the George Washington of the Philippines?" asked one of the insurgents.

"Not at all," was the calm and haughty reply, "but I shall have no objection if some future historian turns his dates around and alludes to George Washington as the Aguinaldo of America."—Washington Star.

AFRAID SHE WOULD LOSE HER BOY.

He was wasting away with a terrible Cough. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cured the Cough and restored his health.

It takes the life out of a mother to see her child—the idol of her heart—slipping away, succumbing to a cruel Cough that all the remedies she has tried won't cure.

Mrs. Jasper Singer of Burgessville, Ont., went through a trying experience and gladly gives an account of it for the benefit of Canadian mothers. This is what she says: "My little boy of a year and four months old took down with a heavy cold last fall. I tried different medicines but they did no good. He got so thin he was nothing but bones and hardly ate anything.

"I thought quite a few times I would lose him, till I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The first bottle helped him wonderfully and the third bottle completed the cure.

"I would advise all mothers to give their little ones Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup as it is so pleasant to take and so effectual." Price 25c. All dealers.

BEARDED WOMEN.

Designing men, through alluring and cunningly worded advertisements, constantly endeavor to work upon the feelings of sick and ailing women by inviting them "to write to a woman (!) and secure a woman's sympathy." It is well to remember that the best sympathy is to be had at home and not from strangers, perhaps hundreds of miles distant. The object of the sick is to get well, and however precious sympathy may be, it never yet cured a seriously afflicted woman. While the sympathy of your milliner or dressmaker might be appreciated and be just as beneficial, if not more so, than sympathy from a stranger, yet it can not effect your cure if you are an ailing woman.

It is loudly proclaimed through the press that "a woman can best understand a woman's ailments," and on this ground sick women are invited to "write to a woman" and get the benefit of a woman's advice. The sort of "understanding of her ailments" wanted by a sick woman is a trained medical understanding. If a woman has this trained medical knowledge she understands woman's ailments not as a woman, but as a physician. If she is not a doctor she cannot understand the ailments at all, and cannot treat them successfully, because she lacks the necessary training.

As far as known, there is no regularly qualified woman physician connected with any proprietary medicine especially designed for women—no one, therefore qualified by learning and experience, to advise on questions of disease and its cure.

It is certain that there is no one, man or woman, connected with any "put-up" medicine for women, excepting only Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, who, like Dr. Pierce, is a regular graduated and qualified physician, and who has, like him, devoted more than thirty years to the special study and treatment of diseases of women.

For more than thirty years Dr. R. V. Pierce, a regularly graduated doctor, has been chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. On his staff are nearly a score of regularly graduated, experienced, skilled physicians, each of whom is a specialist in his chosen class of diseases. Every letter addressed to Dr. Pierce as above, has prompt, conscientious attention, is regarded as sacredly confidential and is answered in a plain envelope so your private affairs are kept safe from prying eyes.

AN OPEN UMBRELLA.

The Tragedy It Led to In a Gambling Room.

"Gamblers are notoriously superstitious," said a veteran sport, "and a thousand stories are told of their eccentricities in that line. The queerest thing that I know personally to be a fact occurred in 1878 in a Colorado mining camp called Carbonate. It was a wild, woolly place and practically run by the tough element. Of course there was plenty of gambling, and one evening a stranger carrying an umbrella walked into a place where a faro outfit was in full blast.

"Happening to notice that one of the ribs of the umbrella was sprung, he thoughtlessly opened it right over the head of a player. The man glared around and, whipping out a pistol, shot the stranger dead. He was arrested and taken before a self appointed judge, who was also the proprietor of a keno room. The prisoner admitted the deed, but pleaded extreme provocation. The opening of the umbrella over the head of one who is playing faro, he explained, was, as everybody knew, a hoodoo for life and doomed its victim to a career of uninterrupted disaster. The only way to remove the curse was to instantly slay the owner of the umbrella.

"The judge listened with sagacious nods and then sent for a number of hoodoo experts—in other words, the principal gamblers of the town. They turned pale at the very mention of umbrellas and declared on oath that such an episode as the one described would undoubtedly blight anybody's entire life. Only two courses were open in such a case—suicide or manslaughter. The magistrate charged the jury that they were the sole judges of the facts and the hoodoo, and they promptly returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

"After that umbrellas became unpopular in Carbonate, and oilskin coats, or 'slickers,' as they are called in the west, enjoyed a great boom."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A TRUE STATEMENT

By Foreman White, of the Hamilton Screw Works.

Hamilton, March 6.—If a vote of the people were to be taken to ascertain which is the most popular medicine on the market, Dodd's Kidney Pills would lead by a large majority.

One of the latest cures by that grand remedy is that of Foreman T. H. White, of the Screw Works here, who testifies that he was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills of Kidney Disease of eight years' standing, after other medicines had failed.

Mr. White says: "One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me, four boxes cured me. Publish this statement if you wish. It is true in every particular."

Dynamite.

SNOW EATING MANIA.

A PECULIAR HABIT THAT DEVELOPS IN THE KLONDIKE.

The Appetite, When Once Acquired, Is Extremely Difficult to Control, and to Indulge It Means a Short Cut to the Grave.

Every great discovery in the world's history has brought with it an accompanying affliction, and it remained for the Klondike to develop a peculiar mania that threatens to outrival opium eating. Among the residents of the far north it is known as the "snow habit," and it is said to be incurable. A returned Klondiker tells the strange story.

"There are many strange things in the Klondike," said the narrator, "but perhaps the strangest and that about which nothing has been written so far, is the dissipation caused by eating snow. In the north, when the thermometer reaches 30 to 40 degrees below zero, a mouthful of snow is like molten metal. It brings an inflammation to the palate and tongue and it is impossible to quench the thirst. The first advice an old timer offers a newcomer in the region is 'Don't eat snow.' There are men in that country, once hearty, robust miners, now weak, effeminate creatures, whose fall can be traced directly to the time they began munching snow.

"The matter has been but little investigated, but the scientists who have examined the subject say that the waters of the north are rich with mineral deposits which are being constantly washed down from the mountains. A certain per cent of this mineral is taken into the air when vapor rises, and the snow becomes impregnated with it. There have been several falls of red snow near Point Barrow, the deposit being of a reddish brown color, due entirely to minerals. Thus it can be seen that a person eating large quantities of the snow takes into his system a corresponding amount of minerals."

While coming down the Copper river last spring the narrator came upon a party of miners where one was dying from the effects of eating snow. He had been a hard drinker, but had run short of whisky. His thirst became unendurable and as water was scarce in midwinter he had taken to eating snow. Soon he claimed it relieved his appetite for the liquor, but his companions noticed that his appetite for the snow increased until he was consuming enormous quantities. Gradually his skin, which was a dark bronze, grew light, his rugged stature became bent, and even his harsh voice changed to the effeminate squeak of an old woman. His strength gave way, and his companions tried to break him of the habit. He would lie on his pallet and moan pitifully for a mouthful of snow and when opportunity offered would steal unobserved to the doorway and gulp down huge handfuls. At last, seeing death was inevitable, his companions allowed him the snow, hoping to prolong his life. It proved unavailing, however, and one morning the man was found dead.

There are some spots on the Copper river where the snow, when melted and strained through a cloth, shows perceptible signs of minerals, and often gold is found plentifully intermixed, but of course not in paying quantities. Where this comes from is a mystery, but it may be brought from the far north by the heavy winter gales that sweep over this part of the country. It has been said that if the snow could be melted away it would leave deposits of millions of dollars in gold dust on the ground.

The narrator had a close call himself from falling a victim to the snow habit. "It was in the winter of 1896-7," he said, "and I was new to the country. An old miner near Dawson had warned me against eating snow, but I, with my partner, had gone back into the hills on a prospecting tour and had got caught in a blizzard. We were shy of provisions and on our way up lost the package containing our cooking utensils. This we remedied by broiling our cooked foods, but we had nothing in which to melt the snow. It is claimed that melted snow is harmless, as the metallic deposits it contains sink to the bottom of the receptacle.

"We decided to try it 'raw,' and we did. Whether it was the food or the snow I don't know, but during the week we waited for a chance to get out we had an ever increasing thirst, until, when we were finally able to strike the trail, we were consuming snow at a frightful rate. When we reached our companions, we attempted to assuage our thirst with water, but it did no good. We had acquired a taste for the frozen water, and it seemed to have invigorating qualities. At night we could not sleep unless we took our snow.

"We were fast approaching the degenerate stage when I reached a realizing sense of our condition and undertook to break off. I began by degrees and worked down, but up to the very moment I left the country the sight of the snow always raised in me an inordinate craving. It cost me many sleepless nights and weary days to restrain myself. Had I given way to the habit I would, like many another poor fellow, have lost all ambition and filled an unknown grave in that frozen wilderness."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Women's Worst Enemy

Some hesitate before giving an answer, but those who know best will immediately say HEADACHE.

Thousands of women live in misery day after day, and week after week, suffering untold agony from these dreadful headaches. Husbands are disheartened, children neglected, and happy homes ruined. Most women strive to bear in patience the suffering which they consider part of life without looking into the cause or searching for relief. Food cannot digest without the bile which the liver supplies and hence the necessity of keeping the liver in good working order. To cure the headaches you must cure the liver and thus remove the cause of disease.

Dr. Chase spent years of his life in perfecting a medicine which acts directly on the kidneys and liver. Thousands of grateful women have testified during the past ten years to the effectiveness of this remedy for sick headaches. Many a home has been restored to happiness as a result.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the greatest discovery of this great scientist, are put up to sell at 25c. per box. All dealers.

WITH A PAIR OF SCISSORS.

The Wonderful Artistic Feats Performed by Joanne Koetren.

More than 200 years ago a little girl was born at Amsterdam, Holland, whose name was Joanne Koetren. She was a peculiar child in that she cared nothing whatever for play and sport, but found her greatest delight in making copies of things about her, imitating in wax every kind of fruit and making on silk, with colored floss, exact copies of paintings, which were thought wonderful.

But after she had become very accomplished in music, spinning and embroidery, she abandoned all these for a still more extraordinary art—that of cutting. She executed landscapes, marine views, flowers, animals and portraits of people of such striking resemblance that she was for a time quite the wonder of Europe. She used white papers for her cuttings, placing them over a black surface, so that the minute openings made by her scissors formed the "light and shade."

The czar, Peter the Great, and others of high rank paid her honor. One man high in office vainly offered her 1,000 florins for three small cuttings. The empress of Germany paid her 4,000 florins for a trophy she had cut, bearing the arms of Emperor Leopold, crowned with eagles and surrounded by a garland of flowers. She also cut the emperor's portrait, which can now be seen in the Royal Art gallery in Vienna. A great many people went to see her, and she kept a book in which princes and princesses wrote their names.

After she died, which was when she had lived 65 years, her husband, Adrian Block, erected a monument to her memory and had designed upon it the portraits of these titled visitors. Her cuttings were so correct in effect and so tasteful as to give both dignity and value to her work and constitute her an artist whose exquisite skill with the scissors has never before or since been equaled.—Lewiston Journal.

A Tulip Festival.

Tulips are cultivated in Constantinople, and there is a tulip festival there once a year in spring. Every palace, room, gallery and garden is decorated with tulips of every kind. At night they are all lighted by colored lamps and bengal fires, and the sultan sits in their midst, while women sing around him and his odalisques dance before him.

They make pure blood and strong nerves and build up your health. Easy to take. Try them. Only 25 cents. Money back if not cured. Sold by all Druggists.

The Minister's Mistake.

This story is told of a prominent preacher: On a hot Sabbath as he was preaching he took from his pocket what he thought was his handkerchief, shook it out and wiped his face, intently talking all the time. To his surprise a broad smile was on every face in his audience, when he discovered that what he had put in his pocket for a handkerchief that morning was a pair of his little child's drawers, the legs of which were quite visible as he wiped the perspiration from his face.—Homiletic Review.

A NEW INVENTION!

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which lights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. THE WITCH'S CURSE.

A GLOOMY OLD LEGEND OF THE TOWN OF BUCKSPORT, ME.

The Imprecations and Prophecy of the Condemned Woman on the Scaffold Recalled by a Strange Blemish on Col. Buck's Tombstone.

Close by the country road on the outskirts of the sleepy old seaport town of Bucksport, on the Penobscot, down in Maine, is a small family cemetery. Within the inclosure, with its high iron fence, in the quiet and almost gloomy shade, sleep the Bucks, the blueblooded and aristocratic clan which first settled the town and bequeathed it their name—and a legend.

Of the many moss grown tablets and monuments the largest and most conspicuous is a tall granite shaft in plain sight of the highway. On one side is the inscription:

COL. JOHN BUCK,
The Founder of Bucksport.
A. D. 1762.
Born in Haverhill, Mass., 1712.
Died March 18, 1795.

On the other side is the single word "Buck," and also something not wrought by the marble worker. On the smooth surface of the pedestal is a curious outline, irregular and describing that which can easily be imagined to be the form of a foot of normal size. Some people say that it is a foot, but those are of the superstitious town folk who believe the legend which has been choice stock in Bucksport for many years.

They that delight in perpetuating this story say that Colonel Jonathan Buck was a very stern and harsh man and the leading spirit of his day and generation. His word was law in the community. He was the highest in civil authority and his decision as immovable as the granite hills that loom up in the haze of the northern horizon.

He was most Puritanical, and to him witchcraft was the incarnation of blasphemy. Thus, so the story goes, when a certain woman was accused of witchcraft, at the first clamorings of the populace Colonel Buck ordered her to be imprisoned, and later, after a mere form of a hearing, she was sentenced to be executed as a witch. She pleaded to Buck for her life, but as to a heart of stone.

The day of the execution came and the condemned woman went to the gallows cursing her judge with such terrible imprecations that the people shuddered, but the magistrate stood unmoved and made a sign to the officers to hasten the arrangements. All was ready and the hangman was about to perform his grewsome duty when the woman turned to Colonel Buck and raising one hand to heaven as if to direct her last words on earth pronounced this astounding prophecy:

"Jonathan Buck, listen to these words, the last my tongue shall utter. It is the spirit of the only true and living God which bids me speak them to you. You will soon die. Over your grave they will erect a stone, that all may know where your bones are crumbling into dust. But listen! Upon that stone the imprint of my feet will appear, and for all time, long after your accursed race has perished from the face of the earth, will the people from far and near know that you murdered a woman. Remember well, Jonathan Buck, remember well!"

Then she turned to her executioners and another act, one of the forever ineffaceable blots, was made a part of American colonial history.

The "witch's curse," as it was called, and is to this day, was almost forgotten until many years afterward, when the monument was erected to the memory of Bucksport's founder. It had been in position hardly a month when a faint outline was discovered upon it. This gradually grew more and more distinct until some one made the startling discovery that it was the outline of a foot which some supernatural draftsman had traced on the granite. The old legend was revived and the Buck cemetery was for years the Mecca of the superstitious and curious for miles around.

The "witch's curse" had been fulfilled, they said. An attempt was made to remove the stain, but all efforts tended only to bring the outline out in bolder relief. The stain or whatever it was seemed to penetrate to the very center of the stone.

The hinges of the big gate have creaked for the last time to admit a Buck. The last of the race has been laid to rest beneath the oaks and maples, and the setting sun throws the shadow of the once mighty Colonel Jonathan Buck's monument athwart the double row of mossy mounds, as if still exerting his authority, and the same rays light that mysterious tracing held up to the view of all that pass and repass along the dusty turnpike.

The imprint of the foot is a fact, and is there today as plain as ever. The legend of the "witch's curse" may or may not be a fact. The fanciful defend the legend, but the practical point out the apparent discrepancy between the dates of the era of witchcraft persecution and the regime of Colonel Buck. They say that the stain is simply an accidental fault in the granite, and that the legend was made to fit the foot and not the foot the legend. But the foot is there.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Will be given of the superiority of FEATHERBONE in its various uses and applications in the art of Dressmaking, especially as an aid towards the improvement of the form and fit of the waist, giving added beauty to the lines of the bodice and perfect smoothness to the cloth.

The use of FEATHERBONE has revolutionized the older methods of taying a waist as it is stitched in by machine, right through seam, bone and all becoming actually a part of the bodice, moulding it into a shape that it will retain until worn threadbare, giving to the form a graceful outline and a decided elegance to the figure.

BRITAIN HAS GAINED.

Canada's Preferential Tariff Works for Mother Country.

RUSSIA HAS RECEDED AGAIN.

Russian Troops Said to Be Threatening to Seize an Important Stretch of the Famirs in Central Asia—Prince Krapotkin's Guess at Meaning of Czar's Peace Congress.

London, March 11.—In the House of Commons yesterday afternoon the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, replying to a question put by Col. Sir Howard Vincent, member for Sheffield, said that for the six months ended Jan. 31 the exports from England to Canada showed an increase of one per cent., but if the month of July were included it would show an increase of six per cent.

To Sir F. H. Evans, the Liberal member for Southampton, Mr. Chamberlain said it would be competent for any future Parliament to pass an act annulling the Reid contract with Newfoundland.

Russia Has Backed Down.

Pekin, March 11.—The Chinese Foreign Office has received a despatch from St. Petersburg saying that as a result of negotiations between Russia and Great Britain the Russian Minister here will withdraw his protest against the Hongkong contract. The Hongkong despatch is identical with the Niuchwang contract.

RUSSIAN AGGRESSION.

Czar Said to Threaten With Force the Pamirs in Central Asia.

London, March 11.—A despatch from Allahabad, capital of the northwest provinces of India, says it is reported there from Yarkand, Chinese Turkestan, that a large force of Russian troops has arrived at the Russian post, Fort Murghabi, on the Murghabi River, on the Sari (Great) Pamir, with the intention of seizing Sir-I-Kol, the hundred-mile stretch of territory north of the Mustagh Mountains, which was left undefined by the Pamir boundary commission in 1895. Its seizure by Russia would cause complications with Great Britain.

The Pamirs, great and little, are an extensive table land of Central Asia, called by the natives the "Roof of the World." They are bounded on the south by the Hindoo-Koosh Mountains, and the plateau forms the central node whence radiate the principal mountain ranges of Asia. The tract is mainly under Russian authority, but Sir-I-Kol, in which is Lake Sir-I-Kol, the head waters of the Oxus River, has remained disputed ground since 1895.

Krapotkin Shows It Up.

London, March 11.—Prince Krapotkin, the Russian exile, who has made a savage attack on the Czar's peace proposal, says that the real objects of the proposal are for Germany to exchange Alsace-Lorraine for French Indo-China, thus bringing about an understanding between Germany and France, and to re-establish the temporal power of the Pope for his services in this direction.

Chinese Are Still Tricky.

London, March 11.—The Pekin correspondent of The Times says: "In retaliation for blocking the extension of the French concession at Shanghai, the French and Russian Ministers instructed their consuls to block the extension of the Cosmopolitan settlement. China, therefore, refuses to extend the latter, on the ground that the consuls are not unanimous.

Italy Means Business.

London, March 11.—The Rome correspondent of The Daily Mail says: The Government has ordered three more cruisers to get in readiness to proceed to Chinese waters in connection with the demand of Italy for a concession at Sanmun, Province of Chekiang.

Rhodes and the Kaiser.

New York, March 11.—A Berlin cable to The Herald says that Cecil Rhodes arrived there yesterday. The object of his visit is to have an audience, if possible, with the Kaiser, and to obtain His Majesty's adherence to his project of a railroad from the Cape to Cairo, passing through German East African territory. He will, it is said, be granted the desired audience, in which case there is every prospect of his carrying his point.

Duties on Bounty-Fed Sugar.

Calcutta, March 11.—In the Legislative Council yesterday Sir James Westland, the Financial Secretary, introduced a bill, modelled upon the United States act of July, 1897, giving the Government power to impose countervailing duties on bounty-fed sugar imported into India. It is proposed to pass the measure during the present session.

Fighting in Arabia.

London, March 11.—According to a despatch to The Morning Post from Bombay, severe fighting has taken place between the Turkish troops and the Arab tribesmen near Shafil, in the Province of Yemen, Arabia, where an insurrection has been progressing for ten months. The Turks lost 160 men and the Arabs 300.

Ernest Terah Hooley Ill.

London, March 11.—Mr. E. T. Hooley, the notorious promoter, is critically ill. A personal friend of his reports that his mind is unhinged. The illness is probably temporary.

A Move to Help Workingmen.

London, March 11.—On Tuesday next Mr. Chamberlain will introduce a bill empowering local authorities to advance money to enable occupiers to acquire ownership of small houses, on the principle of the Irish land acts and the small holdings acts.

Shipping Home the Dead.

Manila, March 11.—The remains of Col. W. E. Smith, Major E. McConville, Capt. David S. Ellicot and Second Lieut. Eugene Franch, who were killed in action, were shipped home yesterday by the United States transport Scandia, with military honors, the Second Oregon Volunteers furnishing the escort through the city.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the temperature was 80 degrees and the weather showery.

With the exception of San Pedro Macati, where Filipino sharpshooters incessantly annoy the American troops, matters are unusually quiet along the line.

The Pope Is Weak.

London, March 11.—The Rome correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says: The Pope continues to improve, but his physicians say he shows great weakness, which is rather alarming to his entourage.

Hurricane Killed 200 People.

London, March 11.—According to a despatch to The Times from Sydney, N. S. W., no fewer than 200 persons perished in the hurricane that has just swept the northeast coast of Queensland.

Queen Marie Is Better.

Brussels, March 11.—Queen Marie Henriette was much better last evening, but she is not regarded as out of danger.

The Men Are Alive.

Leadville, Col., March 11.—Communication has been established with Charles Reuss and Bert Frey, imprisoned in the Bonair mine through the caving of the shaft, by ripping asunder the water pipe by a charge of dynamite lowered to the proper depth. Provisions were lowered through the pipe. A new shaft will have to be sunk 75 feet before the men can be reached. The rescue will take about a week.

Did the Boy Steal ?

Princeton, March 11.—Alex. Brown, a farmer, was relieved of $25 at Dake's Hotel last night. Brown procured a warrant for the arrest of Ernest Howes, a boy about 18 years of age. Special Constable Tisdale of Woodstock executed the warrant early yesterday morning, and Howes was taken to Woodstock jail to await trial. About 10 o'clock yesterday morning Brown's pocketbook containing part of the money was found on the street at the south of the village.

DISGRACEFUL SCENE

At the Hanging on Friday of Cordelia Poirier and Parslow.

AN UNCONTROLLABLE MOB

Tore Away the Black Cloth in Their Efforts to View the Bodies After the Drop Fell—Both Their Necks Were Broken—The Third Woman Hanged in Canada.

St. Scholastique, Que., March 11.—At four minutes past 8 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Cordelia Poirier and Sam Parslow paid the penalty for their crime of murdering Isidore Poirier while helplessly sleeping in his house at St. Canute in the month of November, 1897. Great numbers of people had arrived by the Thursday evening trains, and those were early on hand to see the execution. The admission to the jail yard was by ticket, and fully 300 people were admitted to the enclosure. Parslow's brother and sister watched their brother's death from a window in the jail.

The doomed people spent a fairly good night. They slept for a little while and then engaged in devotional exercises. At 5 o'clock low mass was celebrated by Fathers Meloche and Collin. All the families of both criminals were present. After mass they partook of food and had a last interview with friends.

The two condemned prisoners were placed on the gallows side by side, with a black curtain between them. The drop fell at 8.04 and in six and a half minutes the woman's pulse ceased to beat. Parslow's pulse beat for 12 minutes, but examination showed that both their necks had been broken.

The bodies were cut down by Radcliffe at half-past 8 o'clock.

Immediately after the drop fell a disgraceful rush was made by the spectators for the gallows. They tore away the black cloth in their efforts to view the bodies. Father Meloche upbraided them from the scaffold, but to little effect.

An inquest was held and the usual verdict was returned. The body of Parslow was immediately taken to St. Canute for interment. The Government has also granted permission for the body of Mrs. Poirier to be given to her friends.

Parslow's brother, George, was very much affected.

Mrs. Cordelia Viau, along with her paramour, Samuel Parslow, who was hanged yesterday, is the third woman to meet death on the scaffold in Canada.

Louis Roesel Hanged.

Elizabeth, N.J., March 11. — Louis Roesel was hanged here at 11.13 o'clock yesterday for the murder of James C. Pitts, a wealthy farmer of Summit, N.J.

A Hanging in Kentucky.

Cincinnati, O., March 11.—A special from Glasgow, Ky., says: John Franklin was hanged at 7.10 a.m. yesterday for the murder of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Bowles. Franklin professed to having experienced religion and stepped to the scaffold smiling.

Anticipated the Gallows.

Auburn, N.Y., March 11.—Frank N. Sheldon, on trial here for the second time for the murder of his wife, Eva M. Sheldon, committed suicide in the jail yesterday by hanging.

JOSEPHINE KIPLING.

Tears Stood in Her Father's Eyes When Told and He Murmured, "Poor Little Joe."

New York, March 11.—Mr. Kipling is still improving, said Mr. Doubleday last night. Unable to keep Mr. Kipling in ignorance of his daughter Josephine's death, the news was broken to him last night by Dr. Dunham. The blow was a heavy one, but the father bore up bravely.

"How long was she ill?" he asked. He was then told as much as the attendants thought wise. Tears stood in the poet's eyes and he murmured half to himself, half aloud: "Poor little Joe!"

It was this he always called the little one. The doctors believe it was best to break the news, as the worry and the distrust he seemed to have in all the replies given to his questions about the little one would have probably been more harmful than to let him have the truth.

Judge Armour's Decision.

Toronto, March 11.—The case of the Queen v. Robert Reid was before a court of three judges at Osgoode Hall yesterday. It is an appeal against the conviction by three magistrates of the defendant for helping to unload grain from a steamer to the Grand Trunk elevator at Midland.

The court held that the Provincial Lord's Day Act did not apply to any Dominion railway, or any of their servants. The court also held that the act did not apply to any employe or servant of any corporation. Furthermore, the court intimated that it was ultra vires the province to pass a Sunday act affecting any Dominion railway or steamboat corporation.

Steamboat Lines May Unite.

Owen Sound, March 11.—A report emanating from a reliable source is in circulation this week that the White and Black lines of steamers will be amalgamated and the old-time rivals become one institution. A meeting is called for next Wednesday to deal with the matter. The Great Northern Transit Company—White Line—and the North Shore Navigation Company—Black Line—have been operating together for the past two seasons, and we presume the proposed amalgamation is to reduce management expenses.

A Nervous Toronto Woman Walked the Floor During the Night for Hours at a Time—She Makes a Statement.

TORONTO, ONT.—"I was troubled with nervousness. It was impossible for me to keep still and if the spells came over me during the night I had to get up and walk the floor for hours at a time. My blood was very poor and I was subject to bilious attacks. My feet would swell and I was not able to do my own housework. I treated with two of the best physicians here but only received relief for a time. I became discouraged. One day a friend called and advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I laughed at the advice but I was prevailed upon and procured one bottle. Before I used it all I began to feel better. I took several bottles and also several boxes of Hood's Pills. Now I can eat and drink heartily and sleep soundly. Hood's Sarsaparilla has entirely cured me and also strengthened me so that I now do all my own work. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all sufferers from nervousness, weakness or general debility." Mrs. H. F. Parm, Degrassi Street.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25 cents.

NEW YORK STATE CANALS.

Theodore Roosevelt, the new Governor of New York, seems to appreciate the importance of canals as a means of transportation. He has appointed a commission of investigation of among other things of whether the present improvement plan, which has been suspended, of deepening the Oswego Erie Canal to nine feet, and the Champlain to seven feet, should be carried to completion, and the cost of the same; whether a barge canal should be constructed from Albany to Oswego, and the western section of the Erie closed; whether it is wiser to turn the canals over to the National Government, and to what extent the railways have taken the place of canals. We in this part of Canada are in better shape. We have no doubt about the feasibility or desirability of the completion of the Trent Waterway—we've got the waterway, now we want the water means. While York State is groping after information that is in a suspended state, we have it all crystallized in the little brochure entitled the "Trent Water Route," referred to in another column.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"Sir Charles Tupper," says the London Tiser, "bloweth where he listeth." But nobody listeth where he bloweth.

John Bull proposes spending one hundred and thirty millions on his navy. France will hardly keep level with him on the water when she is spending one hundred and seventy-five millions on her army.

Mr. Whitney and the Opposition can not succeed in raising a popular cry against a measure of increasing provincial revenue that taps the treasure box of the wealthy and spares the poor man's pocket. The broadest back can best bear the burden.

Mr. Theodore Ludgate in a private letter to a friend in Peterborough describes the fuss in Vancouver over the lease of Deadman's Island for lumber manufacturing purposes, as a tempest in a tea pot. He intimates that the drones of the city who use the place as a sort of pleasure resort are opposed to the lease of the island, but that the business men and labouring men, the real bone and sinew of the city, are in favour of it as a movement of progress and an important addition to the industrial and labour employing resources of Vancouver.

In thirteen years the annual value of our mineral products have advanced 270 per cent., and the beginning has hardly been made. Canada has a great future before her. It looks as if every foot of her soil, as well as water, is productive if rightly handled. Where agricultural products will not grow, forests will thrive, and underneath the bosom of our most rugged stretches the rocks are seamed with gold or with metals of some kind studded thickly. We have soil enough, adapted to profitable cultivation, to feed half the world. In as high a latitude as sixty-two degrees, no very far south of the Arctic circle, wheat can be ripened. Nature, in a moment of magnificent beneficence, has swept the isothermal lines in Canada so far north that in the latitude of fifty, on the coast, the fruits of Spain can be grown and wheat matured in the latitude of "Greenland's icy mountains." Canada is all right.

ONTARIO AND THE SENATE.

The Globe.

A Conservative contemporary thinks that the Ontario Legislature has no business meddling with Senate reform. Evidently the writer has not read Sir Charles Tupper's argument that Senate reform is a provincial question, as the Senate is the safeguard of Provincial rights and the keystone of the arch of Confederation.

Ontario is not one of the smaller Provinces, and is, therefore, not so much interested in Sir Charles' contention as some of the sister Provinces. But Ontario can speak with all the authority of experience on the efficacy of the Senate as a safeguard of Provincial rights. A very persistent campaign against the rights and territory and resources of Ontario was carried on from Ottawa some years ago. The very territory that the Tory papers are now shouting about, with its timber, pulpwood, gold, etc., was in danger at that time. Ontario would have had no opportunity to develop it or deal with it in any way if the Ottawa campaign had been successful. Sir Oliver Mowat, Mr. Hardy and their colleagues made a heroic fight for Ontario, and won victory after victory for its legislative rights and property. But who ever heard of the Senate interfering to protect our interests? To be fair, it had little or no power to protect us. It might have stopped the gerrymander which virtually disfranchised thousands of Ontario electors, but it assented to that piece of iniquity with cheerful alacrity. When the claim is made that the Senate is the protector of Provincial rights, Ontario can say and ought to say that the Senate has been utterly useless so far as its rights, property and interests are concerned. That is clearly a Provincial affair.

MR. FRANK DODGE

Says His Life was Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto Feb, 27.—Mr. Frank Dodge, of North Maupeberg, Ont., has been visiting here recently. He is a splendid specimen of Canadian manhood, standing more than six feet high "in his stockings" erect and muscular.

"I was a different man two years ago," said he to a friend to-day. The truth is I would have died of Kidney Complaint, if it hadn't been for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I had been treated by physicians and had taken various remedies without getting any better. I read of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and decided to try them. I did so, and was thoroughly cured in a couple of weeks.

The Maine Prohibition Vote.

Portland, Maine, March 9.—The decadence of the prohibitionist party was shown in yesterday's city election. In a total of 7,595 ballots in Portland, only 167 were cast for the prohibitionist candidates. This being less than one per cent. the prohibitionists will not be entitled to representation on the official ballot in the next election.

Lost flesh lately?
Does your brain tire?
Losing control over your nerves?
Are your muscles becoming exhausted?

You certainly know the remedy. It is nothing new; just the same remedy that has been curing these cases of thinness and paleness for twenty-five years. Scott's Emulsion. The cod-liver oil in it is the food that makes the flesh, and the hypophosphites give tone to the nerves.

NEWS IN BRIEF SPACE.

Telegraphic Briefs That Contain Much of the Day's News.

Shaftesbury Hall, Toronto, has been sold for $61,000 to Mr. William Davies of the pork packing firm.

In view of the recommendation of mercy by the jury, Judge Gregory has suspended sentence on Mrs. Cody at Albany.

Aide-de-Camp-General the Grand Duke Vladimir has prohibited the sale of brandy in the regiments of the Russian army.

Thousands of acres of fine clay for the manufacture of red brick have been discovered in southern Manitoba. It will revolutionize trade there.

Thomas P. Donaldson, the diver, who fractured his skull in a dive into the tank at Madison Square Garden on Wednesday, died at the New York Hospital early on Friday.

The Toronto Humane Society has passed a resolution asking all humane societies in Canada to co-operate in asking for the appointment of a humane commissioner at Ottawa.

There is an increase of $39,569 in the earnings of the Grand Trunk Railway for week ending March 7, compared with the same period last year. The figures for 1899 were $474,617 and for 1898, $945,048.

Robert N. Benedict, aged 17, one of the best known young men of Wilton, Conn., is dead as the result of blood poisoning, caused, according to the physicians, by a habit of frequently putting a lead pencil in his mouth.

Geo. Slack and Fred. Chambers were found guilty of a brutal assault by Magistrate Denison on Friday in Toronto upon Henry Aspdon and his daughter on Feb. 28, and were sentenced respectively to 12 and 10 years in the penitentiary.

McMaster University, Toronto, intend shortly to build an addition to the present premises. For some time the accommodation has been found to be all too meagre. The under-graduates have taken hold of the matter and have already subscribed $1,100 to this end.

George A. Eastman 85 years of age, is a barber in Detroit, Mich., though he is a Canadian by birth. He is also a member of the Socialistic Labor party. As such he has been nominated as Justice of the Supreme Court of Michigan. He frankly admits he is not a lawyer, but declares the constitution does not demand that a Supreme Justice should be trained in the law.

IN SPRING TIME.

Paine's Celery Compound

Is the Giver of Health and New Life to the Sick and Diseased.

Spring, with its bright sunshine, lengthening days, warm rains, and its promise of a new life in nature, is fast approaching, and will be hailed with true delight by the old and young who are enjoying full health and bodily activity.

To thousands the coming of spring means a fuller cup of agony and suffering; it is a time when the dark grave claims many victims. When men and women are burdened with death-dealing sicknesses such as kidney disease, liver complaint, blood troubles, rheumatism, neuralgia, and the terrible after effects of grippe spring has no charms for them. They have allowed themselves to sink into a condition of misery and helplessness during the winter that must quickly terminate life, unless that true health and life-giver, Paine's Celery Compound, be made use of without delay.

The nervous system, weak and unstrung, must be fortified; the blood, sluggish, impure and watery, must be made clean and fast flowing, and every organ of digestion must be toned up to true health pitch.

Nature's wonderfully successful medicine, Paine's Celery Compound, does this good work as no other remedy can do. It acts as a nerve and brain food, it gives life to stagnant blood, it banishes permanently kidney disease, liver complaint, rheumatism, dyspepsia and other troubles that make life a misery.

The thousands of thankful letters received from Canada's best people are the best and strongest proofs that Paine's Celery Compound cures. When your life is in danger do not be misled by common advertised medicines, as many of them are dangerous and unsafe. Ask for the kind that has cured your friends and neighbours—the kind that "makes people well."

SUFFERING AT DAWSON.

The U. S. Consul Gives a Hint That U. S. Relief for Its Sufferers Would Be Welcomed and Acceptable.

Washington, March 10.—The U.S. consul at Dawson, Mr. J. C. McCook, under date of Jan. 31, informs the Department of State concerning the condition of the people there as follows: "The situation as to persons who will be out of food in a couple of months is becoming very serious. Many hundreds will be so situated and will have to be helped out when navigation opens. Many have gone out over the ice and more are going out daily. Applicants are daily at this office for relief. The relief committee at this place is unable to extend any more aid, as all funds collected have been exhausted and they are some $2,000 in debt. I know it is not customary for any nation to provide for destitute citizens out of their own country, still I feel it is my duty to put this matter before you to take whatever action you may deem best."

The Medical Profession Recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. C. M. Harlan, writing to the American Journal of Health, Feb. 10th, says:—"Among the proprietary medicines deserving recognition is Dr Chase's Ointment, as a remedy for piles, Eczematic, skin eruptions of all kinds, for which it has been used with marked success and has effected remarkable cures in many obstinate cases which seem to baffle the skilful medical attendant."

In Peterborough.

Having decided to remove to Manitoba in the spring, I have decided to sell the following valuable properties at prices that should secure ready purchasers:

Parcel No. 1. A Brick Terrace of four houses, adjoining the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets, two storys, well built with good stone cellars full size of buildings. Each residence contains six rooms with summer kitchen. This property has always been continuously rented and pays an excellent rate of interest on the investment, and it is practically a new property, being only erected a few years, and is in good condition.

Parcel No. 2. Brick residence corner of Reid and Simcoe. Containing ten rooms. House in good condition with all modern improvements, bath, closets, heated with furnace and lighted with electricity.

Parcel No. 3. Brick dwelling corner Aberdeen and Benson streets, facing Dixon Park, containing seven rooms with summer kitchen. This property was erected last season for myself and occupied by myself. Has hard and soft water in kitchen and is a very comfortable residence. This lot is 108 feet square.

Parcel No. 4. Brick residence, corner Wolseley and Benson streets. Two storys, seven rooms with kitchen, pleasantly situated adjoining Dixon Park. Hard and soft water in kitchen. This lot is also 108 feet square and is a similar building to parcel No. 3.

Parties desiring a good paying investment or home will find any of these desirable purchases.

Particulars and terms, which are reasonable, made known on application to the undersigned.

YOU NEEDN'T SUFFER FROM THE GRIPPE.

For Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Always Prevent It.

Dodds's Dyspepsia Tablets Ensure Thorough Digestion, thus Converting the Food into Rich Blood—if the Blood is Rich You Can't Catch the Grippe.

The doctors have discovered that "the Grippe" attacks only those whose blood is thin and weak.

Persons whose blood is rich, pure and healthy never suffer from this modern plague.

With these facts in our possession, it is an easy matter to prevent an attack of the disease, or, if it has already attacked us, to drive it out of the system. All we have to do is to make our blood rich, pure and nourishing.

How can this be done, it may be asked.

Very easily. It can be done by making the digestion perfect in every detail. By doing this we ensure the conversion of the food we eat into the kind of blood that is needed.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets make the digestion perfect. They act on the food in the stomach, where digestion take place and whether the stomach be well or ill, weak or strong, Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, themselves digest the food.

Thus Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets ensure immunity from the Grippe by leaving no foothold in the system for it.

There is no experiment in using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They have been tested thousands of times and have always proved their worth. A trial will convince the most skeptical. And a trial costs very little, while it brings great results.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists, at 50 cents a box, six boxes $2.50; or are sent on receipt of price, by The Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

MR. SIFTON AT STRATFORD.

The Minister of the Interior Delivers One of the Best Expositions of the Government's Policy.

Stratford, March 11.—Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, last night delivered an address under the auspices of the Stratford Young Liberal Club that will rank with the very best expositions that have been made of the recent progress and brilliant prospects of the Canadian nation. Worth's Hall, the largest in the city, was crowded with representatives of all classes of citizens, including a great many ladies, and the able young Minister to whom is confided the administration of the vast northwest and the El Dorado of the Yukon was listened to with the keenest attention throughout his whole address. The chair was occupied by Mr. R. T. Harding, president of the Liberal Club. At the conclusion of the meeting a banquet was held in the Liberal Club rooms, at which nearly 100 were peesent.

A CARD.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a twenty five-cent bottle of Dr. Wills' English Pills, if, after using three-fourths of contents of bottle, they do not relieve Constipation and Headache. We also warrant that four bottles will permanently cure the most obstinate case of constiption. Satisfaction or no pay when Wills' English Pills are used.

THE LEGISLATURE

The Basis of Taxation of Trust Companies Changed.

SEVERAL SECOND READINGS.

Bills to Reduce Municipal Councils and Extend the Term—Also to Abolish Market Fees—Dr. Jessop of Lincoln Withdraws His San Jose Scale Bill—House Proceedings.

Toronto, March 11.—The House yesterday afternoon discussed two important municipal bills, both of which were sent to the committee. Mr. Pattullo's bill provides for a uniform number of councillors in towns of like size, and also in townships and villages, to be elected by general vote of the municipality and to retain office for two years. The mayors and reeves are also by the bill given two-year terms. The second bill, which proposes to exempt from payment of market fees all farmers' produce not hitherto exempted, was only allowed to pass the second reading after Mr. German, who introduced it, had explained that it was only intended to apply to markets where no conveniences had been provided for the farmers.

The Tax on Trust Companies.

A change has been made in the tax which the Government proposes to levy on trust companies. The original intention was that these companies should pay one-third of one per cent. on capital stock up to $300,000, and $65 for every $100,000 or fraction thereof in excess of that sum.

Last night Hon. Mr. Harcourt gave notice of the following resolution:

Every trust company which transacts business in the Province of Ontario shall pay a tax of $250 where the paid-up capital is $100,000 or less, and the sum of $65 on every additional $100,000 of paid-up capital.

Second Readings.

Mr. W. A. Kribs (South Waterloo) moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Registry Act by placing registry offices under control of county councils, which would pay the salary. On division the bill was lost.

Mr. A. Pattullo (North Oxford) moved the second reading of his bill respecting town councils. After discussion it was amended to make the proposed mayoral term of two years optional, and the bill was read a second time and referred to the municipal committee.

Mr. German (Welland) moved the second reading of a bill to amend the Municipal Act. Briefly, it is to exempt all farm produce from payment of market fees. A short discussion ended in the bill being read a second time and sent to the municipal committee.

Dr. Jessop (Lincoln) moved the second reading of his bill to amend the San Jose Scale Act. What he wants is that the county councils appoint the inspector instead of the Minister of Agriculture. After Mr. Dryden had defended his bill the order was discharged and the bill withdrawn.

Dr. Pyne (East Toronto) moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Voters' List Act. The object is to avoid, if it be the will of the council, having separate sittings of the court for revising voters' lists for each ward or sub-division, but that all be taken together. The second reading was carried and the bill referred to the municipal committee.

Mr. German's bill to amend the Judicature Act in respect to officers or clerks acting as examiners, was withdrawn after due explanation by the Attorney-General.

Two bills—by Mr. Macnish and Mr. McLaughlin—to technically amend the Assessment Act passed the second reading.

Mr. Stratton's bill respecting certain bridges declared to be bridges on county boundary lines was withdrawn.

Mr. Hill's bill to amend the Voters' List Act was read a second time, and the hon. member's bill to permit of only county constables acting as court house officials was withdrawn.

Bills Introduced.

Mr. Carscallen (E. Hamilton) introduced a bill to repeal section 411 of the Municipal Act, enabling councils to grant exemptions from taxation to manufacturers and others, and enables the municipality to provide out of the general funds of the municipality, for more for less than 40 per cent. of the cost of constructing granolithic, asphalt, cement or brick sidewalk, on an affirmative vote of three-fourths of the members of the council, and other purposes.

Mr. Carscallen introduced a bill to amend the Assessment Act, which amends sections respecting distress for taxes, so as to enable distress to be levied on default of payment of taxes on personalty.

Mr. Stratton introduced a bill to enables leases to be registered in brief, instead of being copied out in full on the register books. It is similar to that provision already contained in the Registry Act with respect to mortgages.

Col. Mutrie's amendment to the Municipal Drainage Act has for its object compelling of owners of the lands benefited by drainage works to clean out drains and keep same free from obstructions of weeds, by order of the council.

Mr. Hodgins has introduced an act respecting pasture lands and liens on stock placed thereon for unpaid pasture money. It gives a person allowing horses, cattle, sheep or other animals to be pastured on his lands a lien for the cost of such pasture, and provides for the sale of the animal to realize the amount of the lien.

ASSEMBLY NOTES.

Some property owners of the village of Exeter are asking relief from "unfair and burdensome taxation" levied by the Village Council for various purposes.

Petitions advocating the Hare-Spence system of voting were put in yesterday.

Another slight change in the revenue bill affects licenses in the city of London. The recent amendment showed that in cities where the population was above 20,000 and under 40,000 the increase in tax would be $130. Now this is raised to $200. In cities less than 20,000 the fee shall be $130.

In reply to an enquiry of Dr. Barr, Hon. Mr. Davis laid on the table yesterday a letter dated April 7, 1869, from J. C. Miller, then Commissioner of Crown Lands, stating that John Miller had discovered gold on west ½, lot 9, concession 9, Marmora, in November, 1867.

The 16th annual report of the inspector of legal offices was laid on the table by the Hon. Mr. Davis yesterday.

The Lieut.-Governor has approved of the following orders-in-council, which have been presented to the Legislature for ratification: Bruce House of Refuge, $4,000; Kent House of Refuge, $4,000; Norfolk House of Refuge, $4,000; Simcoe House of Refuge, $4,000, and Government aid to the Home of Friendless Women and Infants, Kingston. St. Luke's Hospital, Ottawa; Home for Incurables, Ottawa, and Cornwall General Hospital have also been placed on the list for Government aid.

The following Division Court appointments are announced: Lyman Linthorn of Oakwood, to be bailiff of the Sixth Division Court of Victoria; H. J. Patterson of Alexandria, to be bailiff of the Second Division Court, and C. P. Robertson of Maxville, to be bailiff of the 12th Division Court of the united counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

Sunday cars came up in the railway committee yesterday, when the bill to incorporate the Hamilton & Caledonia Railway was being discussed. Fourteen members voted for the privilege to run the cars on Sunday and seven opposed it.

A deputation from the Mutual Fire Underwriters' Association of Ontario waited upon the Provincial Cabinet yesterday afternoon to urge some changes in the insurance law.

STOP IT NOW!

Before it is too late, stop that succession of colds that means nothing more nor less than catarrh. Stop the suffering. Stop the disagreeable catarrhal discharges that are so humiliating to you and offensive to your friends. Don't let it run on until your condition causes you to be ostracized as if you were a leper. Don't neglect yourself until consumption makes its fatal appearance. You can be cured—not merely relieved, but absolutely and perfectly cured.

Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder

will restore you to complete, perfect health. It gives relief at once. It cures in an incredibly short time. Hundreds of cases of from 5 to 20 years' standing have been cured—cases that physicians had pronounced incurable. The catarrhal powder acts like magic, not only in catarrh, but in colds, sore throat, tonsilitis, hay fever, loss of smell, deafness and all similar diseases.

Mr. C. G. Archer, of Brewer, Maine, writes as follows:—"I have had catarrh for several years. Water would run from my eyes and nose for days at a time. About four months ago I was induced to try Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, and since using the wonderful remedy I have not had an attack. I would not be without it." At druggists.

Dr. Agnew's Cure or the Heart cures all cases of organic or sympathetic disease of the heart—relieves in 30 minutes. Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills are at once a mild cathartic, invigorator and system renovator. 200, for 40 doses. Dr. Agnew's Ointment relieves in a day and cures eczema, salt rheum and all diseases of the skin. Cures piles in 3 to 5 nights. 33c.

A carload of potatoes was shipped into Peterborough during the week from an outside point, as the price here had advanced to a dollar a bag.

Local farmers resented this outside interference, and this morning on the market there was much talk of "patronizing home industry." One farmer even went so far as to place a placard on his wagon load of potatoes asking the public to "patronize home industry." The motto lost considerable weight, however, as the placard was posted on a Woodstock wagon. The farmer didn't patronize home industry himself.

WEDDING BELLS.

The Bride and Groom Well Known in Peterborough.

A number of relatives and personal friends met at "Burnside," the residence of Mr. Geo. Roddick, township of Hamilton, on Wednesday evening last, March the 8th, the occasion being the marriage of Mr. Asa A. Burnham, son of Wm. Burnham, Esq., "Homewood," Cobourg Road, to Margaret, the fourth daughter of the host and hostess. The Rev. John Hay, B. A., Cobourg, performed the marriage ceremony. The bride was becomingly gowned in white organdie and lace and Miss Burnham, sister of the groom, who assisted the bride through the trying ordeal, wore a pink organdie. The groom was supported by Mr. Robert Roddick, jr., brother of the bride. Bridal presents were received from friends in Cobourg, Port Hope, Peterborough, London, Chatham and Toronto. Among the guests present was Mrs. Vernon, Peterborough, great aunt of the groom. The young couple will reside in the locality where they have lived all their lives.

Stock big enough to satisfy every demand—those who paper with modest economy, as well as those who prefer the tasteful novelty.—A. H. STRATTON & Co.

The Grafton & Co. kind of Spring Overcoats sells at $6.50, $7.95, $10.00, $13.00. Better Spring Overcoats are not sold anywhere at any price. Come and try one on and see how nicely it fits you. GRAFTON & CO., the well known Clothing Manufacturers, selling direct to their customers.

THE FREE BAND CONCERT.

The Rangers' Band Present a Splendid Programme Splendidly.

The second free concert given by the 57th Battalion Band, in the Market Hall, last night attracted a large audience, which was amply repaid for its presence. A most delightful programme was presented in a manner which it is not too high praise to say was artistic. While the audience represented varying degrees of musical culture, the appreciation of the music given was universal. On every side were to be heard hearty expressions of approval and remarks as to the wonderful improvement in the band. And this commendation was very thoroughly deserved. It is a great pleasure to note the splendid musical discipline Mr. Gliddon has established among the members of the band. He has brought them to know better where they are at, what they are doing and how to do it. The band is rapidly being reduced to one man, that is, to the point of playing as one man in altogether ensemble passages. The tone is wonderfully mellifed, there being a happy absence of bugle band effects. The intonation is good, the harmony excellent, the colouring delicate, the crescendi and diminuendi evenly progressive, and the attack prompt and certain. Altogether the band plays its music in a musicianly manner and evidently con amore, for only the love of music could account for the diligent practice and attention to the exacting, and, sometimes—to any but the heart musician—irritating requirements of capable and constructive training. It is not to be assumed that the Fifty-seventh band is perfect, but it is now a very fine musical organization, one of which the town may be proud, and what is better, it is evidently on the highway to a position of preeminence, which few bands of its size can dispute. Another pleasing fact is the evident one that the programmes presented by the band are not painfully rehearsed specialties, but that the musical capabilities of the organization have been broadened and developed on basic principles. Last night, by request, the popular descriptive idyl of Michaelis, "The Forge in the Forest," was performed, and though there was no opportunity for rehearsal before the concert, the selection was given in a way that represented a distinct improvement over its last public performance, an evidence that the membership of the band are able to apply their improved musical skill, taste and judgment without specific drill, a notable mark of good musicianship.

As to the programme. It was well chosen—not too heavy, not too light—a judicious combination in the way of style, of popularity and classical cream. The only notable number of the latter character was that musical gem, "La Favorita," and in this difficult number, with its involved time and other exacting requirements, the band did its best musical work. The waltz by Gung'l, "Mein Schonster Tag in Berlin"—"My Day-off in Berlin"—was another good selection well performed. "Plantation Echoes," while, of course, of lighter calibre, gave the band an opportunity of showing its beautiful harmony and its lately acquired facility of dropping sharply from forte to pianissimo. But the show piece of the evening was Godfrey's "Reminescences of all Nations," which included a dozen or so national airs of as many nations, and gave the band an excellent opportunity of exhibiting its versatility. The music was of all styles, modes and moods, and the several executive requirements received appropriate treatment. Beginning with the robust melody of "Hearts of Oak," the reminiscences slid sweetly into the teary pathos of Schubert's Serenade, followed by the warlike sweep of "Die Wacht am Rhein," and latter on the sprightly challenge of "The Marseillaise." Specially fine was the treatment of the beautiful "Austrian Hymn," and in this and Schubert's Serenade, the piano effects were simply beautiful. Another striking part of the suite was the rollicking Spanish Cachucha, as well as the weird and peculiar Turkish march. "Yankee Doodle," the borrowed national ditty of Uncle Sam, was conspicuous for its variations, those by the basses being particularly pleasing and somewhat suggestive of the rumble of the "expansion" earthquake in the Philippines. This beautiful number, (The Reminescences), the closing one of the programme, was grandly concluded by the tuneful thunder of "See the Conquering Hero Comes," that brought out the full strength of the band, but in a way not to destroy the musical quality of the big volume of harmonious sound. The improvement in the band, by the way, is greatly evident in the brasses. They are able to produce strong effects without degenerating into noise and the way in which they are softened and toned down is a peculiarly pleasing feature. The concert concluded, of course, with "God Save the Queen." This was, en passant, a new arrangement of the national anthem, as great an improvement over the ordinary setting as its performance was over the ordinary slipshod way of playing it. The concert was in every way a great success. Though the seating accommodation was limited and many in the rear of the hall were compelled to stand, and, though the small boy, present on his own responsibility, was largely represented, the order was excellent and the close attention paid to the music and the evident appreciation of it, must have been as flattering to the band as the hearty applauses with which they were favoured. At the conclusion of the concert the double-bass, which, by the way, is an important and in its present hands, a capable addition to the equipment of the band, entertained the boys to a petit souper. Not only is the work of the band greatly improved, but there is a gratifying increase in confidence esprit du corps and enthusiasm.

Colour-Sergt. Layfield and Sergt. Ringer, in uniform, performed the duties of ushers with military precision.

To last night's band concert everybody who was present will heartily cry "encore."

A NEGLECTED OPPORTUNITY.

Every Man has Just as Much Christianity as he Manifests When Tempted.

At Park street Baptist church last evening Rev. Mr. Cowsert gave another pointed address, from Acts 24:25. He commenced his address with the statement that 'Every man has just as much Christianity as he manifests when tempted or oppressed. Paul stood next to Christ in enduring sufferings for the Gospel; but through it all, he never lost an opportunity to testify to men concerning his Lord and Saviour. It was a passion with him to see men saved, and while here before the Roman Procurator, he preaches and reasons with his judge about righteousness, temperance and judgment

Paul was a "personal" preacher, and on this occasion the three points of his address were intensely so, as they bore directly on the personal character of Felix. Sometimes people objected to this kind of preaching, but John the Baptist, Stephen, Paul an Christ himself were of this style. If there were not more preachers of this kind to-day it was due to the fact that the people did not care to be reminded of their sinfulness. They quarreled with the mirror, as it were, because it revealed their ugliness. Paul did not flatter Felix, but reasoned with him on the lines of righteousness and of judgment to come.

The effect of Paul's preaching was to arouse the conscience of Felix. He had a conscience and may have been a conscientious sinner, just as Paul had persecuted the Christians conscientiously, thinking he was doing God a favour. While conscience was the highest exponent of good in us yet it was no safe guide to follow. Paul's pointed remarks on a judgment to come excited the fears of Felix and "he trembled." He was convinced of sinfulness and of the reality of the day of accounting unto God.

While conviction always preceded conversion, it was not in itself conversion. Felix had a covetous heart and thought that by detaining Paul he might get some of the collection for the poor saints Paul had mentioned in his address. The love of money prevented Felix laying hold of the opportunity of turning unto God and being cleansed of his sins. He waited a more convenient season and it never come. The best method Satan had of peopling hell was to get them to defer trusting in Christ.

Just before the address Mrs. Dingman, whose sweet singing has been so helpful in these meetings, sang as a solo, "Some Day We'll Understand."

The meetings will be continued next week.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.

They Still Continue in the Methodist Churches With Good Results.

The union evangelistic services conducted by the three Methodist pastors still continues with excellent results.

Last night a large audience assembled in George street lecture room and a most interesting service was held.

A sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Kilgour and the after meeting was conducted by Rev. S. J. Shorey.

During the meeting the front row of chairs was filled with those who have made a start in a religious life since the meetings began and several others were seeking the Saviour. The services will continue in George street church during next week and still larger results are expected.

THE TRENT VALLEY ROUTE.

THE WATERWAY OF CANADA.

A Comprehensive Treatment of the Merits and Feasibility of the Great Undertaking

The EXAMINER has received a copy of the complete and valuable pamphlet issued by the Trent Valley Association of Peterborough. It has been compiled by Mr. John Carnegie, and that gentleman's careful, methodical manner, and clear, business-like statement of facts are represented in the contents, which are a most valuable and exhaustive contribution to the statistical and argumentative literature in the interests of this great natural waterway. The temperate treatment of the subject, and the moderate tone employed are calculated to impress reflective minds with the advantage of the Trent waterway. Space to-day will not permit of an extended reference to the contents of this excellent pamphlet. It will will suffice for the present to point out that fourteen incontrovertible reasons are advanced in support of the merits, practicability and importance of the scheme in regard to the transportation problem. These reasons stated briefly as follows :—

1—Because the full development of the natural resources of our country require that the cost of transport between its different parts, and between them and the sea-board shall be reduced to and kept at the lowest possible point.

2—Because wherever available, waterways have invariably proved themselves the most economical means of transport for the bulkier and weightier articles of commerce, and consequently the best regulators of freight rates, and the only mode of transport which defies the machinations of combines.

3—Because the route by way of the Trent will be the shortest between the Great Lakes and tide-water.

4—Because the Trent route will afford the most economical route between the great lakes and Eastern Markets.

5—Because, when completed, this waterway will be a practical extension of the Harbour of Montreal, into and through the Midland district of the Province of Ontario; having a shore line of over 1,000 miles, and having within a ten mile reach of its wharves, an area of over six millions of acres, rich in forest, mineral and agricultural products.

6—Because the resources and products of the Midland-Ontario District are very largely of such a character, that the cheapest of cheap freights is a pre-requisite to their development.

7. Because the natural and economical development of the manufacturing and agricultural interests of the district and the harvesting of its forest and mineral products are either unnecessarily retarded or rendered impossible for want of cheaper means of transport.

8. Because in no other way can the Government of Canada, at so small a cost, do so much to promote both general and local interests as by the immediate completion of this waterway.

9. Because the surroundings and location of the Trent Route are such as to render it the all Canadian route par excellence between the great Lakes and the seaboard—whether that seaboard be at Montreal, St. John's or Halifax; because once on board of a Trent route craft, grain stands no risk of being transferred therefrom before reaching Montreal.

10. Because the size, and the relatively small capital required for, a Trent route plant will ensure to the St. Lawrence route at Montreal advantages which cannot economically accrue from the use of vessels adapted to a 14 foot navigation.

11. Because the Trent Route will, in fact, be the "poor-man's" route. On lines of deep and wide navigation the vessels used are of necessity more costly and beyond the ownership of men of moderate means. On a line of barge navigation such as that of the Trent anyone possessing a few thousand dollars of capital can engage in the business of transportation on its waters, and compete for the carrying trade tributary thereto.

12. Because by the Trent route, out of 1000 miles to be covered between Chicago or Fort William and Montreal, 450 miles is an inland, or perfectly protected by navigation, by the use of which the tempestuous navigation of Lakes Erie and Ontario are entirely avoided and the cost of insurance proportionately reduced.

13. Because the district through which this water-way passes, and to the further development of which its early completion is of such vital importance, already contains a population in excess of that of some of the Provinces of the Dominion that have and are contributing to the carrying out of undertakings which are of little direct or indirect benefit to them. The people of Midland-Ontario, have long enough been ground down by freight rates far in excess of those enjoyed by those at much greater distance from their common market. To them the building of railways and canals have thus far only meant increased taxation, and increased competition.

14. Because before this water route can be completed from end to end for traffic all the routes now under way will be required for the transportation of the rapidly growing trade of the West.

The reasons given above are buttressed by both statistical and argumentative support, not elaborate or verbose, but concise and to the point. They covers the ground so completely that any one reading the thirty pages of matter will be places in full possession of all the important points bearing upon the feasibility and desirability of the Trent waterway, and of its usefulness and, indeed, indispensable nature in relation to a complete national transportation scheme, capable of providing for the present great, and, prospectively, much greater, carrying trade of Canada. The present Government is in sympathy with the improvement and extension of our transportation routes, and the information contained in the pamphlet under reference, added to that which has been placed in the possession of the Government and the people, will tend to enlist interest in the Trent waterway enterprise, and disarm hostility in some quarters, which has hitherto been inexplicable. The pamphlet will have an excellent effect, and the Trent Valley Association deserves the thanks of this district, especially, and of the county at large, for so vigorously entering upon the work of advancing the interests and pushing forward the completion of the work. The first important step of the Association, is represented by this pamphlet, referred to and if it is followed up, as in all probability will be done, by equally energetic actions in other directions, will be certain to terminate in tangible results.

There are two thousand of these pamphlets printed and to be sent to boards of trade and prominent commercial men as a means of dispelling the ignorance that exists in relation to the scope and merits of the Trent waterway. Advance copies placed in the hands of the Montreal Chamber of Commerce will admirably prepare that body for intelligently entertaining the facts and arguments which an important deputation from Peterborough and this district, which will go Montreal at an early date, will seek to impress upon them.

VOCAL CULTURE.

The First Step Is Keeping the Mouth Shut, Asleep or Awake.

"Proper breathing is so essential in voice production that it must receive first attention, and the first requirement is to keep the mouth shut," writes Katharine E. Junkermann in The Woman's Home Companion.

"Of course no tone can be either strong or pure if the lungs are cramped so that the air cannot find room. In order to increase the size of the lung capacity raise the chest and keep the body well and strongly poised.

"So much harm has been done to voices by allowing the mouth to become the regular air passage that the need of care cannot be too frequently emphasized. Besides the injury done by the unwarmed air entering the lungs the mucous membrane is hardened by the saliva being dried up, and the muscles of the tongue and throat grow stiff and less responsive. It is comparatively easy to control one's breathing when awake, but when asleep the harm goes on. To remedy this involves a slight discomfort, but one can endure it patiently looking to the end. Cut court plaster into little strips about one-fourth of an inch in width and paste several across the lips, placing them up and down, with the lips held naturally. If one is tempted to give up rather than endure the discomfort this method involves, a walk through an ordinary day coach or a night made hideous by the presence of a snorer in a near berth will cause a solemn vow to be taken never to do likewise."

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicans had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents a bottle every bottle guaranteed.

Her Opinion.

"'Mandy," said Farmer Corntossel, who had been reading the back pages of a magazine, "ef a cannon ball goin at the rate of 60 miles an hour was shot from the back of a train goin 60 miles an hour, where would the cannon ball light?"

"I dunno exactly where 'twould light," she answered, "but I kin prophesy that it 'ud do a lot o' damage. It couldn't hit nowheres without hurtin a lot o' people that was standin around without anything better to do than speckle-ate on jes' sech doin's."—Washington Star.

SAID GRACE BY LOT.

A Small Boy's Solution of an Embarrassing Domestic Situation.

"My wife and I agree on everything but religion," said Smith the other day. "I don't mean to say that we quarrel over that, for we do not. My folks were strict Methodists, and I was brought up along the lines of that faith and have never felt like adopting a new one. On the other hand, my wife's folks were Baptists, and my wife was brought up clinging to that religious rock.

"When we were married, we agreed to allow each other's religious belief to continue as they had been, the result being that we have alternated our attendance between the two denominations. The other day while I was on my way home for the evening I chanced to meet my minister. I gave him a cordial invitation to go home with me and have dinner, an invitation that he accepted with pleasure.

"Now, it chanced that my wife's minister had been paying a late afternoon visit at my house, and my wife had asked him to stay and take dinner, when he would have a chance to meet me. He accepted, and when we arrived we found him in the drawing room with my wife. I saw at once that my wife was uneasy about something, but it didn't strike me what the matter was until we were taking our seats at the dinner table, and I noticed my wife biting her lips. Then it dawned upon me that she was unable to solve the problem of asking one of the ministers to say grace without offending the other.

"There was an awkward pause for a moment, and then my little boy, who is going on 6, grasped the situation and, half rising in his chair, he moved his finger rapidly around the table, reciting at the same time that childish jingle used by children in counting out and going like this:

"'Eny meme miny mo,
Catch a nigger by the toe.'

"He ended by pointing his finger at the minister sitting across the table and shouted, 'You're it!'

"The reverend gentleman accepted the decision and said grace, but it lacked the solemnity usually given to it."—Exchange.

THEY STILL TALK

Of Mr. Dean's Case in London, Ont.

After Three Years' Suffering From Pain in the Back he Was Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills—Other Remedies Failed Him.

London, Ont., March 10—Public interest in the case of Mr. Charles Dean has not yet died out by any means.

The "Dean Case" forms the principal topic of discussion throughout the city, having lost not a particle of its attractiveness since it was first made public some weeks ago.

It is not to be wondered at, indeed, that the case should secure such a firm hold on the public mind.

When we reflect on the details given to us, we cannot but wonder and talk about them.

Here was Mr. Dean stricken three years ago with terribly severe pains across the back. He used various remedies but none of them did him the slighest good.

We all know what an idea of suffering the expression, "pains in the back," conveys, and we can imagine what an eternity of misery Mr. Dean endured during the three years his enemy held him in its grip.

Having tried so many remedies and finding nothing but disappointment in any, it was natural that Mr. Dean should be sceptical when Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended to him.

We can imagine his surprise and delight when after a few days' use of Dodd's Kidney Pills he felt that he was getting better. Nor can we wonder that when Dodd's Kidney Pills had cured him completely he could not help telling his neighbours of the wonderful cure effected by this grand medicine.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists at 50c a box, six boxes, $2 50, or sent on receipt of price by The Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

COMES TO THE AID OF

Catarrh Sufferers

SUCCESS in life is almost impossible for a man with bad breath. Nobody wants to do business with him. Nobody wants to associate with him. He is handicapped everywhere. Offensive breath comes from Catarrh; sometimes from Catarrh of the Stomach, sometimes of the lungs, sometimes of the head, nose, and throat. It is from Catarrh somewhere, and Catarrh is another name for uncleanness.

Many men understand this, and make every effort to cure it, but it is beyond the reach of ordinary practice.

No self-respecting man can ignore Catarrh. If he has it in any form he makes constant effort to be rid of it.

There is something about the manner of life and the climate of Canada that seems to breed diseases of the mucous membrane. Medical science ordinarily doesn't try to cure Catarrh; it "relieves" it; but Dr. Chase has been curing Catarrh for over thirty years, and his name is blessed by thousands who have shaken off the grasp of this insidious disease.

Some women always spoil their husband's jokes.

A sick old person is harder to manage than a sick child.

When we tell a man a good story, we have noticed that it reminds him of a mighty poor one.

Stamped Cleopatra.

A Worcester man tells The Gazette of that city that when visiting the British museum some time ago he stuck a postage stamp on the mummy case of Cleopatra. "I was all alone," he says. "No one was looking, and I stood there gazing at the mummy case and thinking over the stories, when I put my hand in my pocket and felt the postage stamp. I could not help it. The thought of the mummy thousands of years old and the brand new stamp of the brand new country was too much. I hastily whispered in the ear of the effigy: 'Why is this stamp like Antony? Give it up? Because it's stuck on you!' slapped it on the case and started out to establish an alibi as quickly as possible."

Diminished With Age.

"Why, grandpa, you used to say that you killed six Indians with one shot. Then you cut it down to five; now you say it was four."

"Well, well, my child, I suppose that's because my memory's failin a little every year."

PERMANENT CURE OF SCROFULOUS SORES.

Mrs. W. Bennet, Crewson's Corners, Ont., had 3 running sores on the neck.
B.B.B. healed them up in 1894.
They have never broken out to this day.

THE story of Mrs. Bennet's cure of Scrofula, is simply another of those remarkable instances where Burdock Blood Bitters has not only been the means of giving relief for the time, but has made a cure, so effective and permanent that after the lapse of five years there has been no sign of the disease returning.

Scrofula is one of the hardest diseases to cure, and scrofulous sores the hardest to heal. It is so malignant and deep seated in its nature, that ordinary medicines and ordinary doctors' treatment are of little benefit.

MRS. W. BENNET.

Burdock Blood Bitters, though, even in these worst diseases, does not fail those who put their confidence in it, and those with ailments less malignant and less severe in their nature, need surely not hesitate to use B.B.B., as if it can conquer diseases of such a nature it can surely not fail to cure those of less severity.

This is the letter Mrs. W. Bennet wrote in the year 1894:

"After having used Burdock Blood Bitters for Scrofula in the blood, I feel it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by a skilled physician, but he failed to cure me. I had 3 running sores on my neck, which could not be healed until I tried B.B.B., which healed them completely, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole.

"As long as I live I shall speak of the virtues of B.B.B., and I feel grateful to Providence that such a medicine is provided for sufferers."

MRS. W. BENNET.

The following is the letter written July 1st, 1899:

"I have not had a sore or any signs of running from my neck since I wrote an account of my case in 1894.

"I have better health since than I had for ten years before it. Burdock Blood Bitters saved me from an early grave.

"When the doctor was attending me my friends and neighbors came looking for my death every day.

"If you doubt what I say write to my neighbor, Mrs. Morgan, or Mrs. John Cripps. She waited on me for two weeks, and see what she will say about my case. They have told the community I had risen from the grave.

"My case has been the means of selling hundreds of bottles of B.B.B. in the villages of Acton and Rockwood. I am yet sounding its name wherever I get the chance, and will so long as I live.

"Any one who wants to hear what B.B.B. has done for me, let them write to me and I will answer them.

"I thank God for such a medicine for the sick."

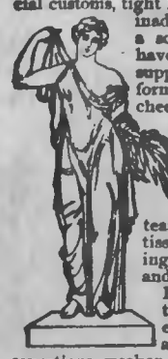
A perfect woman—perfect in form and in feature is a great rarity. Every woman realizes this as she stands before some beautiful piece of Greek sculpture. Social customs, tight lacing, improper food, inadequate clothing, and a score of other things have stolen the shape and suppleness of woman's form and robbed her cheeks of their roses and their roundness. For these things Nature avenges herself. Weakening drains establish themselves, tearing down the tissues and destroying the graceful lines and curves of the figure. Pains and aches help the wrinkles to come early. Displacements and bearing-down sensations weaken the entire system. Nervousness makes life almost unendurable. Mothers suffering in this manner impart their weaknesses to their children, and thus is kept up the endless chain of imperfect reproduction. A new order of things is being established, however. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the great non-alcoholic cure for women's diseases and weaknesses, is making hundreds of girls and women healthy. And it is also making the rising generation stronger and more perfect physically. Like produces like. A healthy mother has healthy children. "Favorite Prescription" makes healthy mothers.



Mrs. E. A. Bender, of Keene, Coshocton Co., Ohio, writes: "I never courted newspaper notoriety, yet I am not afraid to speak a good word for your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I suffered terribly with prolapsus and weakness. After using one bottle of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Pellets' I was a well woman. I have taken no medicine since and have had no symptoms of my former trouble."

A VICTIM OF TELEPATHY.

His Absurd Delusions Finally Banished by the Hypnotic Route.

There came to me late one night a stranger in wildest despair resolved to commit suicide that night if I could not help him, says Professor Munsterberg in The Atlantic. He had been a physician, but had given up his practice because his brother, on the other side of the ocean, hated him and had him under his telepathic influence, troubling him from over the sea with voices which mocked him and with impulses to foolish actions. He had not slept nor had he eaten anything for several days, and the only chance for life he saw was that a new hypnotic influence might overpower the mystical hypnotic forces.

I soon found the source of his trouble. In treating himself for a wound he had misused cocaine in an absurd way, and the hallucinations of voices were the chief symptom of his cocainism. These products of his poisoned brain had sometimes reference to his brother in Europe, and thus the telepathic system grew in him and permeated his whole life. I hypnotized him, and suggested to him with success to have sleep and food and a smaller dose of cocaine. Then I hypnotized him daily for six weeks. After ten days he gave up cocaine entirely, after three weeks the voices disappeared, and after that the other symptoms faded away. It was not, however, until the end that the telepathic system was exploded.

Even when the voices had gone he for awhile felt his movements controlled over the ocean, and after six weeks, when I had him quite well again, he laughed over his telepathic absurdities, but assured me that if these sensations came again he should be unable, even in full health, to resist the mystical interpretation, so vividly had he felt the distant influences.

A TRUE STATEMENT

By Foreman White, of the Hamilton Screw Works.

Hamilton, March 6.—If a vote of the people were to be taken to ascertain which is the most popular medicine on the market, Dodd's Kidney Pills would lead by a large majority.

One of the latest cures by that grand remedy is that of Foreman T. H. White, of the Screw Works here, who testifies that he was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills of Kidney Disease of eight years' standing, after other medicines had failed.

Mr. White says: "One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me, four boxes cured me. Publish this statement if you wish. It is true in every particular."

THE STORY OF A MODEL.

She Posed For One Picture and Lifted a Farm Mortgage.

Had it not been for a mortgage on a Missouri homestead the world would never have seen Astley D. M. Cooper's wonderful painting, "Trilby." There might have been a painting of that subject by the same artist, but it could never have been the masterpiece the present painting is. It was that mortgage that gave Mr. Cooper his beautiful model.

Some years ago this young woman was living the happy life of a country girl on her wealthy father's farm in western Missouri. She grew up wild and free, unrestrained in spirits and form, living very close to nature. No corsets ever encircled her waist and no tight shoes distorted her feet. She grew to womanhood an unfettered child of nature, beautiful in face and form. Then came misfortune for her father. The grasshoppers devastated his fields, and he was compelled to mortgage the homestead. The father sickened and died, leaving his wife and daughter without resources and with a mortgaged home. They went to Kansas City, where the mother secured employment as a cashier in a department store and the daughter as cloak model in the same establishment. Their common purpose was to save money enough to pay off the mortgage on the homestead. As they came and went to and from their work they attracted attention, and soon all eyes were upon them. The young woman soon became known as the "Living Venus," and as such was known to many people who knew nothing of her life.

At this time an artist friend, who lived in Kansas City, wrote to Mr. Cooper that he had seen the woman of goddesslike form who alone would serve for a model for a perfect Trilby, knowing that Cooper was searching for such a model. The artist went posthaste to Kansas City. He managed to secure an introduction to the beautiful girl, and with all possible tact suggested his purpose. She indignantly refused his offer, but Cooper was so impressed with her beauty that he would not be content with a refusal. He argued with the mother, persuaded her and promised a price that would raise the mortgage and endeavored to show the daughter that there need be no sacrifice of her maidenly modesty. He told her that her mother could go with her and be with her all the time she was posing. Finally she yielded. At Cooper's beautiful home in San Jose, Cal., during the following four months, she was the sole model and furnished the inspiration for this great picture. When the picture was completed, both mother and daughter returned to Kansas City, where the daughter was soon married.

THE BEST MAN.

How He Comes to Have a Part In the Marriage Ceremony.

Under the title "When a Maid's Married" Frederick Boyd Stevenson in The Woman's Home Companion traces the origin of some of our marriage customs back to the days of primitive man.

"While we smile at the wife stealing propensity of the savage or half savage nations we cherish as our dearest form a custom that had its direct origin in this very selfsame practice. The 'best man,' who plays so important a part in well regulated marriages that nowadays have any pretense at all to the fashionable, once on a time in Sweden occupied a position that was useful as well as ornamental. In the old days the Swedish groom found it desirable, in fact, to have several 'best men,' to defend him from the assaults of rivals and prevent them from carrying away his bride. The Scandinavian warrior of ancient times was far too lofty in his ideas to condescend to plead for a maiden's hand. So he patiently waited until some other man who was more gallant had obtained the fair one's consent. Then, when all the details had been nicely arranged, the proud warrior, with a body of well trained retainers, dashed down on the wedding party and, if strong enough, carried away the bride. The 'best men'—and it was very essential that they should be the best men in those days—therefore became necessary fixtures to the marriage ceremony, and they were so well esteemed and their popularity became so permanent that when the reason for their existence was removed they were still retained. Hence the custom is preserved in the 'best man' of today."

Curious Relic of Washington.

Mrs. Helen Struthers Dunn of Philadelphia is the owner of a curious old relic. There are scores of people in the United States who would give much money to own that piece of redwood which has been so carefully polished and set in gold. It came to Mrs. Dunn through her father, John Struthers, who gave the United States the marble sarcophagus in which Washington's body now rests. Mr. Struthers was well known as a dealer in marble. His offer of a marble sarcophagus was made to John Lawrence, the only surviving member of Washington's family, who replied that Mr. Struthers had tendered the gift with so much delicacy and tact that it could not be refused.

When the coffin containing Washington's remains was being removed to its new resting place in Mount Vernon, a piece of it was chipped off. From a small portion the breastpin was made. It is itself in the shape of a coffin—a grewsome suggestion for an ornament, but it has never been worn. It rests in its little case, side by side with the trowel which was used to cement the sarcophagus.—Boston Transcript.

THE LADY THE WINNER.

Amusing Occurrence In an Office Building Elevator In Chicago.

People who ride in "lifts" in this city acquire some queer experiences at times. The calling of the floors where passengers desire to debark or embark not infrequently produces some amusing situations. It all depends upon the style of the person making the announcement. Of course conductors are mute participants in the game. Here is one happening of yesterday which is certainly out of the usual run.

Half a dozen passengers entered an elevator in a big down town office building. Doctors office there almost to the exclusion of other professions. One boy with a package asked to be deposited at the second floor. A woman stood mute while a medical man thought he would leave at the fifth. The conductor turned an inquiring head and the remaining passengers with one voice chiming in full chorus shouted:

"Tenth."

"Seven up," murmured a gentle voice as the car reached the indicated floor.

Two men seeking the tenth floor glanced at each other with grins of appreciation as a stenographer, and a pretty one, by the way, entered the car. She seemed unconscious of having created more than passing interest, but the conductor was alive to the situation.

"The lady wins," he muttered to himself as he gave the lever a yank and the car shot upward again.—Chicago Chronicle.

Medical Treatment on Trial to Any Honest Man.

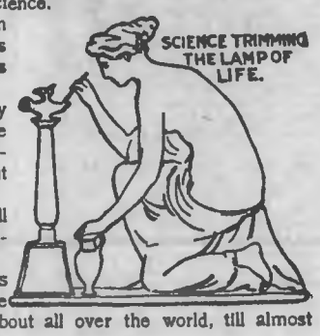
THE FOREMOST MEDICAL COMPANY IN THE WORLD IN THE CURE OF WEAK MEN MAKES THIS OFFER.

Health and Energy Assured; Happy Marriage, Good Temper, Long Life.

IN all the world no doctor or institution has treated and restored so many "weak men" as has the famed ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is due to the fact that the company controls some inventions and discoveries which have no equal in the whole realm of medical science.

So much deception has been practiced in advertising that this grand old company now makes this startling offer.



They will send their magically effective appliance and a whole month's course of restorative remedies, positively on trial without expense, to any honest man.

Not a dollar need be paid till results are known to and acknowledged by the patient.

The ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY'S appliance and remedies have been talked about and written about all over the world, till almost every man has heard of them.

THE ODORLESS CREMATORY CLOSET.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematory Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS.

Alliston, March1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory" Closets in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable. Yours respectfully,
JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 25th, 1898.

I have used it for sometime and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.
W. H. MORRISON

Medical Superintendent's Office, Sept. 30th, 1897
Asylum for the Insane, Hamilton.

Gentlemen: I had the opportunity of witnessing yesterday the operation of your Odorless Crematory Closet. It had a large accumulation of fecal matter in the pan when the fire was started, and inside of 20 minutes it was all reduced to ashes. There was no odor before or during the operation of consuming the fecal matter, as the ventilation by the flue seems to carry off all odor at once, before it has a chance to vitiate the surrounding atmosphere.
Yours truly. JAMES RUSSELL, M.D.

Elmbrook, Sept. 30th, 1897.

Dear Sirs—Having been present at a private test of your new patent closet yesterday afternoon, I beg to express my satisfaction with it in every way. Neither before, during or after the burning out of its contents did I detect the slightest unpleasant odor. I am satisfied it will be a boon to thousands in rural towns, villages and country homes. Yours truly,
M. J. MULLOCK.

A NEW INVENTION!

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which lights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. For correct and full information regarding the new invention and NEWCOMBE PIANOS, write to our Direct Representative. Easy Prices. Liberal Terms.

Coincidence.

"Somehow I'm awfully stupid tonight," remarked young Borum languidly the other evening.

"Indeed you are," retorted Miss Cutting, somewhat impulsively.

"Do you really mean that?" asked the young man in surprise.

"I merely indorsed your remarks. Didn't you just now assert that you were stupid?" she queried.

"Yes," he responded, "but I only said so without thinking."

"And up to the time you spoke of it," she replied, "I only thought so without saying it."—Pearson's Weekly.

ECZEMA ON HANDS

So Bad that Water Would Ooze Out and Drop on the Floor. Hands Full of Water Blisters. Doctor Could Not Relieve. First Application of CUTICURA Stopped Itching and Induced Sleep. Cured in One Month.

I had eczema on my hands so bad that when I shut them, the matter would ooze out and drop on the floor. My hands were full of water blisters of a white color. I was under the care of a doctor for about a month, but he did me no good. I was advised to try CUTICURA remedies, and did so, and it was wonderful what effect they had. The first application stopped that dreadful itching. I slept at once, was cured in four weeks. March 21, '98. M. A. COSGRIFF, Emerado, N. D.

BABY'S FACE MASS OF SORES

When my little sister was four months old her cheeks became red and inflamed. Small pimples broke out over her face and it was one mass of scabs, which almost closed her eyes and reached into the corners of her mouth. For several weeks a physician attended her, but she derived little or no benefit from his treatment. We bought a cake of CUTICURA SOAP and a box of CUTICURA (ointment). Her face healed, she grew healthy again. ROSA BURGER, Solomon, Kan.

THE CHEESEMAKERS ARE IN CONFERENCE.

MEET TO TALK CHEESE AND GET A LECTURE ON BUTTER.

Instructive Address by Prof Hart, of the Kingston Dairy School—Treatment of Milk in Butter Production.

The annual convention of the cheesemakers of the Peterborough District opened this morning in the council chamber. The President of the association, Mr. F. E. Kline, of Lakefield, presided, and introduced the first speaker, Prof. Hart, Superintendent of the Kingston Dairy School.

Prof. Hart opened his remarks by stating that the winter creamery business in Canada was of comparatively recent origin. In 1889 the speaker was sent by Prof. Robertson to Mount Elgin, Ontario, to make butter in the first winter creamery opened in Ontario. Since then the business has increased by leaps and bounds until at present Canada is exporting large quantities of butter to the British markets. During the season just closed about one-third more butter was than during the previous winter. Prices have been good, and this had a stimulating effect on the producers. Farmers are breeding better cattle, building better stable accommodation, and are feeding better rations for the production of winter milk. A great many now are having their cows "come in" in the fall. This means a more abundant flow of milk in the winter months, and when the cows go on pasture in the spring they give a fair yield of milk during the summer, and enjoy a well-earned rest when the work on the farm is most pressing. Milk from fresh cows contains larger globules of fat and more of the finer flavouring oils of the butter than milk from the stripper or farrow cows.

A creamery should be so managed that the work of churning should be finished before the milk commences to come in, in order not to keep the farmer waiting on his skim milk. So soon as sufficient milk is in the factory to run the separator, it should be started. If the operator should run out of milk before separating has been entirely finished, he should turn water into the machine, and close off part of the steam, so that the separated does not run to fast, till more milk comes in. Tests should be taken of the skim milk frequently throughout the run, and the skim milk should be tested every day in order not to leave more than the minimum amount of fat in it. The skim milk could not contain more than 1-10th of one per cent. butter fat. Special should be used.

Not long ago the speaker was asked to test a sample of skim milk in a creamery not 100 miles from Kingston. It contained ½ of one per cent of fat—five times as much as it should have shown.

It is such work as this on the part of creamery operators that discourages the winter dairying business and as long as such conditions exist, there will be work for the dairy schools.

At the Kingston Dairy school they are fitted for pasteurising either the whole milk or the cream, but he preferred to pasteurise the cream on account of the large expenditure of steam in heating the milk to 160 degrees or thereabout. When the farmers properly appreciate the value of skim milk to young calves, they will insist on having the skim milk pasteurized, and we must be prepared to meet their wishes.

Pasteurization was not advisable in the summer, as it drove off the delicate aroma given by fresh food. In the winter pasteurization abated the stable taints, etc., in milk, but this did not have so be combatted in summer.

The cream from milk would be better if if the milk was heated to 180 than if it was only 100.

In churning the cream should be fairly rich and diluted with water. This made it separate better and rise faster. It would not do to churn slowly, as when done rapidly it was far more compact. A box churn should be run at

ABOUT SIXTY REVOLUTIONS.

The cream should not be carried around with the churn. It should be allowed to drop. Churning should take between 45 minutes and an hour. Don't fill the churn too full. It is better to do two small churnings than one which is too large.

Winter dairying is a great help to the cheese business, as if too much cheese is sent to England the price will be lowered and then, again, milk which will make good butter will be unfit for cheese. Winter cheese is not needed on the English market.

In making butter in the winter we work it only once. Butter should not be chilled by being worked with very cold water. It should be allowed to cool. One working is enough, as too much water will remove some of the delicate flavouring oils. Butter should be salted in the churn and then left for two or three hours before being worked. Milk should be cooled down to 40 or 50 degrees and when about to ripen it the temperature should be raised to 60 or 65.

The mattes of colouring received considerable of the speaker's attention. He advised getting a colour card and exercising care to have every churning exactly the same shade.

An endeavour should be made to have the milk brought to the dairy three times a week. If the milk was only separated twice a week the flavour would go off and much of it become bitter.

At the close of Prof. Hart's address a large number of questions were asked, principally in connection wish pasteurization.

The afternoon session of the convention opened at 1 30 p. m. and was addressed on cheesemaking by Mr. Publow, also of the Kingston Dairy School.

DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN NORWOOD CITIZEN.

Mr. A. R. Anderson Passes Away After an Illness of Only a Few days.

It is our painful duty this week, says the Norwood Register, to record the death of another old resident, and one of our most popular and widely known citizens, in the person of Mr. A. R. Anderson, who died on Monday morning last, after a short illness of only five days of inflammation of the lungs.

Archibald Robt. Anderson was the second son of the late John and Isabella Anderson who emigrated to Canada from Perthshire, Scotland, in 1833, and settled on lot 5, in the 5th concession of Dummer, where the subject of this sketch was born on the 13th day of May 1838. He received his early educational training in the Norwood High school, and afterwards taught school for several years in his native township. About thirty years ago he came to reside in Norwood, and 23 years ago received the appointment of bailiff of the Second Division Court of this County, which position he occupied continuously up to the time of his death.

He was married on August 22nd, 1878, to Mary Amelia Ackerman, sister of our townsman, Mr. I. N. Ackerman, who together with a family of five, three boys and two girls, the eldest of whom is 16 and the youngest 4 years of age, are left to mourn the loss of a kind husband and a fond parent.

He was a public-spirited man and was ever ready to render assistance to further the best interests of the community. He was a member of the Board of Education for twelve years, and one of the most active members of the directorate of the Public Library and its President for two years.

He was a member of the Presbyterian church and took an active part in every branch of work, was chairman of the Board of Management for several yearr, a teacher in the Sunday school for considerable time and last fall was elected as elder. He was a staunch Conservative, and was also for many years a prominent member of the Orange Association, having served in the highest offices in the gift of the brethren, being a Past County Master.

No person will be missed more in the community than the deceased. His affable disposition made him a universal favourite with all who came in contact with him. Even in his official capacity as bailiff he was esteemed rather than feared, and in cases were extreme want existed he has been known to satisfy claims out of his own pocket rather than exercise his official power.

The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon to the Norwood Cemetery and was attended by people from all parts of the district. The members of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, of which society deceased was a member, attended in a body and marched ahead of the hearse, preceded by the band playing the Dead March in Saul, and the cortege which followed was perhaps the largest ever seen in this section, attesting in a measure the respect in which the deceased was held in the community.

The Rev. J. F. Somerville, pastor of the Presbyterian church, conducted the services and was assisted by the Rev. J. A. McCamus, pastor of the Methodist church.

The bearers were Messrs. W. E. Roxburgh and Thos. Rork representing the elders and managers of the Presbyterian church, and Messrs. John Finlay, Richard Nicol, W. H. Brethen and James Harper the A.O.U.W.

Several beautiful floral tributes in the shape of wreaths, pillows and emblems were sent by relatives and friends:—Mr. and Mrs Duncan Anderson, a wreath, composed of roses, lily of the valley, carnations, trimmed with maiden hair ferns and smilax. Elders and managers of the Presbyterian church, a pillow composed of calla lily, white roses, pink and white carnations, mignionette, trimmed with smilax and maiden hair ferns, bearing the inscription "At Rest," and tied with white silk ribbon. Curling Club, a curling stone made up of white hyacinths and carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Robertson, a wreath of lilies, carnations and primroses, trimmed with maiden hair ferns. Mrs. Somerville, a bouquet of daffodils, hyacinths, begonias and daisies. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Squire, a bouquet of a calla lily, white geranium, primroses, etc., trimmed with smilax. Mr. and Mrs. Roxburgh, a bouquet of mignionette, carnations, hyacinths, with maiden hair ferns.

Mr. Duncan Anderson, of Toronto, formerly Crown Lands Agent at Apsley, and Mr. John Anderson, of Douro, brothers of deceased, were present at the funeral. Among other relatives and friends present from outside places were: Prof. H B. Anderson, Trinity Medical College, Toronto, Mrs. Duncan Anderson, Toronto; Mrs. John Anderson, Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. John Rose, E. Hawthorne, Warden of the County, and Mrs. Hawthorne, Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Crowe, Douro; Mr. W. Reid, Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Ackerman, and Dr. A. Ross, Peterborough; Mr. S. Ackerman, Belleville, and Mr. John Kidd, Dummer.

A PROMINENT VANCOUVERITE.

Permanently Cured of Asthma. Clarke's Kola Compound Cures.

Mr. F. J. Painton, the well known proprietor of Painton's Music Store, Vancouver, B. C., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from asthma in its worst form for over four years, very often having had to sit up nearly all night. I had consulted physicians both in England and Canada without obtaining any permanent relief and tried many remedies with the same result. A friend who had been cured by Dr. Clarke's Compound advised me to try it. And three bottles have entirely cured me. It is now nearly two years since my recovery, and the asthma has not troubled me since. I feel very grateful to Dr. Clarke for introducing this wonderful remedy, suffering as I was, and do not know of a single case where the required number of bottles have been taken that it has failed to cure. See that you get Clarke's Free sample bottle sent to any person. Mention this paper. Address, The Griffiths & Macpherson, B. C., sole Canadian agents.

Will be given of the superiority of FEATHERBONE in its various uses and applications in the art of Dressmaking, especially as an aid towards the improvement of the form and fit of the waist, giving added beauty to the lines of the bodice and perfect smoothness to the cloth.

The use of FEATHERBONE has revolutionized the older methods of taying a waist as it is stitched in by machine, right through seam, bone and all becoming actually a part of the bodice, moulding it into a shape that it will retain until worn threadbare, giving to the form a graceful outline and a decided elegance to the figure.

The officers of the steamship Castilian are: Chief Officer, D. McAffrey; purser, John Stewart; surgeon, Dr. Neville; chief engineer, Daniel Golan; chief steward, Edwin Tartnell; stewardess, Miss Adams.

ACCOUNT OF THE WRECK.

Was Received at Yarmouth by Telephone From Tusket Wedge—Tugs Were Sent Out.

Yarmouth, N.S., March 13.—News of the stranding of the handsome new Allan Liner Castilian on Gannet ledge off the coast of Yarmouth, arrived in town yesterday by telephone from Tusket Wedge. Tugs were at once despatched to her assistance. In the afternoon Chief Officer McAffrey and Purser Stewart arrived here by team, having landed at Little River in a boat and driven from there to Tusket Wedge and thence to town. The Castilian left Portland, Me., at 1 p.m. on Saturday for Liverpool.

During the night the weather was hazy and they proceeded slowly and cautiously, carefully looking out for buoys, or other signs of land. Suddenly breakers were seen and at once she struck forward quite gently, the shock not being sufficient to awaken the passengers. It was 3.40 yesterday morning when she struck. There was no confusion, and all orders were obeyed with coolness and promptness. The engines were reversed, but the steamer held fast, swinging around till Gannet Rock itself loomed up astern. It was just about low tide when she went on, and it was found the engines would not take her off. It was decided to wait for daylight, and send ashore for assistance. The sea was comparatively smooth. The carpenter reported water in the two forward compartments and the boats were all got ready, but there seemed no immediate danger.

About 5 o'clock the chief officer and purser were despatched to convey the news to land. They proceeded in a boat to Little River, and were thence driven to Tusket Wedge, the nearest telephone office, where they communicated with William Law & Co., local agents of the Allan Line, and had tugs sent to the scene as quickly as possible. The weather, though thick, is not bad, and it is thought here that the steamer may be saved.

TUGS REACH YARMOUTH.

The Passengers Brought in From the Wreck Late on Sunday Night.

Tugs returned to Yarmouth late last night from the scene of the disaster, bring the 50 passengers who were on board the Castilian. Captain Barrett and his crew remained on the steamer.

The Castilian is reported to be lying easy, but that it is probable she cannot be saved from destruction. The ship lies in six fathoms of water and is badly bulged. Besides the water in the two forward compartments, there are six or seven feet in the engine rooms. The chances of saving the cargo are at present good. The weather, however, continues thick and a stiff breeze was raising a rough sea last night.

The Castilian was the first to be completed of three new steamers ordered by the Allan Line last year. She was launched on the Firth of Clyde in January. These steamers were specially designed to meet the modern requirements of the Canadian trade and to combine with high speed great carrying capacity and of the highest class of passenger accommodation. The Castilian was unsurpassed in the comfort of her accommodation for all classes.

The principal dimensions of the Castilian are: Length, 470 feet, breadth 58 feet nine inches, and depth moulded 36 feet. There are three complete steel decks, extending all fore and aft and over the upper deck a permanent shelter deck is built, with bridge above. The framing is on the deep frame system, with cellular double bottom, and the vessel is divided by steel bulkheads into nine compartments, which is above the ordinary requirements, and to give the minimum of broken stowage in holds the pillars were to a large extent dispensed with and girders under deck substituted. Part of the lower tween-decks is insulated to form refrigerating chambers for the carriage of perishable goods.

Captain Barret, master, was promoted from the Parisian, and is commodore of the Allan fleet. This was the first voyage of the Castilian, which is 8,800 tons register. She arrived on this side of the Atlantic nine days ago, touching at Halifax and going thence to Portland, where her cargo was loaded.

TO THE RESCUE.

Str. Ghent and Government Str. Aberdeen Away to Gannet Rock.

Halifax, March 13.—The steamer City of Ghent left here early this morning for the scene of the wreck. The news of the disaster created great excitement in Halifax and crowds awaited details around the hotels and newspaper offices. It is the general opinion here that the chances of pulling the steamer off the rocks or saving any considerable part of her cargo are extremely doubtful. The Castilian, which was worth about a million dollars, was not insured in regular companies, the Allans having a private insurance system.

The Government steamer Aberdeen was last night ordered away to Gannet Rock to assist at the wreck. The steamer Halifax, which arrived last night from Boston, reports that an exceptionally strong current was running into the Bay of Fundy last night. This undoubtedly had a great deal to do with the disaster to the Castilian.

A late special from Yarmouth says: The tug Wanda and steamer Latour have returned from the wreck with all the passengers and most of the crew of the wrecked steamer.

G. W. B. Moody, Lloyd's agent in Yarmouth, who went down with the tugs, expressed the opinion that the steamer will be beyond doubt a total wreck.

One by one the passengers began to appear after she struck and when they learned what had happened, the calmness of the officers and crew prevented alarm.

In the morning the boats were launched, not without great difficulty, and preparations were made to put the passengers into them, when the welcome sound of steam whistles was heard and two tugs and the steamer Latour came in sight. The sea, which had been calm the evening before, was now so high that the little steamers had the greatest difficulty in getting alongside. The Latour had her rail smashed in the attempt, but finally she got fast to the big steamer, and the passengers and their effects and most of the crew were got off.

The passengers were cared for at the Grand and other hotels and left on the D.A.R. train in the morning to take the steamer Vancouver for England.

ANARCHIST ARRESTED

In Connection With the Powder Explosion at Toulon.

FUNERAL OF MRS. J. R. BARBER

An Expedition to Be Sent to Finally Dispose of the Khalifa—A Port Arthur Capital Prisoner Attempts to Kill His Jailer—Mrs. Druce Again Refused Permission.

An Anarchist named Merubini Trehta has been arrested at Trieste in connection with the Toulon explosion.

William Cheney, aged 70 years, committed suicide by hanging in a bake-oven shed in the brickyards of the Brush Brick Company at Buffalo.

It is the common belief that the sentence of death upon Mrs. Place, now in Sing Sing Prison, New York, will be commuted to imprisonment for life.

New postoffices have been established in Ontario at Brennan, Nipissing, Elizabeth Bay, Algoma, Gallingertown (reopened), Stormont, Hungerford, Hastings.

The latest advices from the Soudan minimize the strength of the Khalifa's forces, though it has been practically decided to send an expedition to finally dispose of him.

Prevost, in jail at Port Arthur, under sentence of death, attacked the jailer with a slingshot. He is to hang on March 17, but he declares that the law will never take its course.

A Twickenham (London) fanatic vegetarian cut the throats of his wife, their two children and himself on Saturday because they had been medically ordered to eat meat. All are dead.

David Baird, an old man employed as night watchman at a T., H. & B. Railway crossing, Hamilton, was run down by the yard engine and instantly killed about 7.30 Saturday night.

The funeral of the late Mrs. John R. Barber at Georgetown on Saturday was probably the largest that ever took place in the County of Halton. All the Georgetown stores closed out of respect to her memory.

Justice Osler gave judgment on Saturday at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, that the petitioner must pay the cost of publishing the notice of trial in an election petition. The point arose out of the East Middlesex petition.

The Secretary of State for Home Affairs, Sir Matthew White Ridley, has refused the application of Mrs. Anna Maria Druce to open the Druce vault in Highgate cemetery. This decision means a further litigation.

The New River and Kanawha coal operators have effected a consolidation of 50 operators, representing an annual production in coal and coke of $4,000,000. The officers of the new company will be elected on March 21.

George P. Simpson, one of the best all-round Canadian cricketers, who played many international matches, is dead at San Francisco, Cal., of tuberculosis. He was 47 years of age and one of the best known residents of Galt, Ont.

Mr. W. W. Ogilvie, the big Montreal miller, said that if the proposed machinery tax law in that city became a fact he would move out bag and baggage and establish his mills in western Ontario or Manitoba. The Montreal mills employ over 300 hands.

The United States Department of State has received claims to the amount of $21,000,000 on account of the property destroyed in Cuba belonging to American citizens and also on account of injuries sustained by citizens for which pecuniary indemnity is sought. The peace treaty expressly provided that the United States and Spain each should assume liability for all such claims preferred by their respective citizens.

Fire and Explosion in Newmarket.

Newmarket, Ont., March 13.—At 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoon Mr. H. S. Cane, manager of the William Cane & Sons Mfg. Co., and his chief machinist, Mr. Charles Thompson, went up into their drying kiln to see after some repairs, Mr. Thompson carrying a light with him. On entering at the top of the kiln an explosion immediately took place, setting the superheated pail timber on fire. Mr. Thompson was very badly burned about the wrist and face, and jumped or fell to the ground, a distance of nearly 20 feet. Mr. Henry Cane was also burned, more particularly about the face. A fire alarm was sounded from the factory, and in five minutes the company's hose and that of the town were at work playing on the fire and surrounding buildings. The loss on building and contents will be $3,000; insured for $1,770.

Well Made and Makes Well

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared by experienced pharmacists of today, who have brought to the production of this great medicine the best results of medical research. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a modern medicine, containing just those vegetable ingredients which were seemingly intended by Nature herself for the alleviation of human ills. It purifies and enriches the blood, tones the stomach and digestive organs and creates an appetite; it absolutely cures all scrofula eruptions, boils, pimples, sores, salt rheum, and every form of skin disease; cures liver complaint, kidney troubles, strengthens and builds up the nervous system. It entirely overcomes that tired feeling, giving strength and energy in place of weakness and languor. It wards off malaria, typhoid fever, and by purifying the blood it keeps the whole system healthy.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Does the Star, asks the Montreal Herald, remember its prediction made after the elections of 1896, that the Liberal party's policy would reduce the wages of workingmen? What, then, has it to say about this paragraph taken from a Toronto paper last week: "In one sweep the Massey-Harris Company has added upwards of $1,000 a month to its pay roll. Notices have been posted up in the Massey-Harris factories here and at Brantford, notifying the workmen that every employe will receive a 10 per cent. increase in wages, dating from to-day. There are 700 hands employed at Brantford and 1,500 in Toronto. The steady advance of good times is responsible for the voluntary increase of wages.

MAKE SCHOOL HOMES ATTRACTIVE.

Plant Trees and Provide Play Grounds.

In the report of the Minister of Education for Ontario, regret is expressed that so little attention is paid to the improvement of school premises particularly in rural districts, where there is ample room for shade trees and flowers. It is advocated that school premises, where the land is available, should be greatly enlarged and ample room given to children to engage in such athletic sports, or the usual children's games, as would help to develop their physical strength and increase their interest in attending school.

THE CYCLE PATH BILL.

The cycle path bill now before the Legislature is one that will be watched with interest by all wheelmen. The main features of the bill are the appointment of a board of cycle path commissioners by counties. This board is to have power to license wheelmen and to charge a fee therefor. The money so raised is to be used for the construction and maintenance of paths. The main point in the bill is the limiting of the use of cycle paths to such wheelmen as obtain licenses. Bicyclists are not prevented from using the ordinary highway, but if they desire to use the cycle paths it is only fair that they should contribute towards their maintenance. The bill does not impose a tax on anyone. The license is not compulsory; no one is obliged to take it out. The proposed bill will act as a powerful incentive for the construction of paths all over the province. When every one who uses a path is compelled to contribute the charge will be very small, while the path itself will be of a very high standard. The bill is based on the law of the State of New York, as applied in Monroe county, where it works exceptionally well. Over 50 miles of cycle paths have been laid on the roads leading out of Rochester during the past two years. The bill is regarded as doubtless an eminently commendable one. It meets the views of a large majority of wheelmen and its passage by the Legislature may prove nothing short of a great public benefit.

M. P.'s LEG BROKEN.

Serious Accident to Mr. W. F. Maclean, M.P., on Sunday Afternoon.

Toronto, March 13.—Mr. W. F. Maclean, M.P., met with an accident while out riding yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. He was coming westward along Queen street, just east of the Kingston road, when his horse began to prance, having apparently been frightened by a trolley behind him coming in the same direction. The horse shied off to the car track and had almost got clear of the track when horse and rider were struck by the corner of the car. Mr. Maclean was hit on the leg, between the knee and thigh, and thrown to the block pavement. He was moved to the car and conveyed at once to his residence, corner Jarvis and Bloor streets. An examination showed that the large bone of the leg had been fractured about midway between the knee and thigh. The fracture was a simple one and was soon reduced by Drs. Riordan and Thorburn. The accident will confine Mr. Maclean to the house for a few weeks.

SOUTH PERTH RECOUNT.

Returning Officer Was Ill and Not Much Was Done on Saturday.

Stratford, March 13.—The recount of the ballots cast in the recent South Perth election was to have commenced here on Saturday morning at 10 before Judge Barron. Counsel were on hand, but Charles Whelihan of St. Mary's, son of the returning officer and election clerk, announced that his father was ill and could not therefore produce the ballots. Judge Barron thereupon issued an order directing the election clerk to produce the documents at 4.30 p.m., which was subsequently done. As the court adjourned at 6 o'clock, very little progress was made, and the case will be resumed to-day.

IS IT A TRIFLE?

THAT COMMON TROUBLE, ACID DYSPEPSIA OR SOUR STOMACH.

Now Recognized as a Cause of Serious Disease.

Acid dyspepsia, commonly called heartburn or sour stomach, is a form of indigestion resulting from fermentation of the food. The stomach being too weak to digest it, the food remains until fermentation begins, filling the stomach with gas, and a bitter, sour burning taste in the mouth is often present. This condition soon becomes chronic, and being an every day affair is given but little attention. Because dyspepsia is not immediately fatal, many people do nothing for the trouble.

Within a recent period a remedy has been discovered prepared solely to cure dyspepsia and stomach troubles. It is known as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and is becoming rapidly used and prescribed as a radical cure for every form of dyspepsia.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been placed before the public and are sold by all druggists for 50c per package. It is prepared by the F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., and while it promptly and effectually restores a vigorous digestion, at the same time is perfectly harmless and will not injure the most delicate stomach, but on the contrary by giving perfect digestion, strengthens the stomach, improves the appetite and makes life worth living.

MR. KIPLING SUFFERED PAIN.

Restless Saturday Night, But a Good Deal Better on Sunday.

New York, March 13.—Rudyard Kipling passed a restless night on Saturday on account of suffering a good deal of pain. Yesterday, however, he was a good deal better. As yet no one outside his attendants and his family has been permitted to see him. He is not yet in a condition to have friends admitted to his bedside. Last evening Mr. Doubleday reported Kipling's condition as satisfactory in the extreme, the physical suffering of the patient being due to the resolution going on in the lungs. His temperature is very little above the normal, and he is able to take a considerable amount of solid food.

Yesterday Mr. Kipling saw his two children for a short time. His little girl, Elsie, is now sufficiently recovered from her sickness to run about, although she has not yet been outside of the hotel.

The physicians have decided that within two weeks their patient will be well enough to remove to some pleasant spot, not yet decided upon, to convalesce.

LINEMAN DUNN

Of Dundas, Endorses Dodd's Kidney Pills for Rheumatism.

Dundas, Mar. 13.—"Gentlemen, I have been troubled with Rheumatism for a year past, and have used several so-called cures. None of them did me a particle of good, however, until I started on a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Since then my sufferings have been brief as my story is. Three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me completely, and you are welcome to make my statement public. William Dunn, Telephone Lineman."

Here is information, more precious than a gold mine to men who follow the same occupation as Mr. Dunn, and who are great sufferers from Rheumatism. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure them as they cured Mr. Dunn.

Verdict in the Geoghegan Case.

Hamilton, March 13.—It is understood that Rev. Thomas Geoghegan was informed Saturday afternoon by J. J. Mason, secretary of the diocese, of the verdict arrived at by the court triers in the charge of immorality against him. Bishop DuMoulin and Mr. Mason preferred to have nothing to say in the matter to the press representatives.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Nature is the mother, and habit is the stepmother.

The lack of money is the root of a great many evils.

The trouble with the bore is that he never troubles himself.

The unbidden guest affords his host great pleasure—when he goes.

A man is apt to have decided views when his wife decides them for him.

Men are seldom as good as they pretend to be or as bad as they are said to be.

No matter how much a man wants, he is compelled to put up with the little he gets.

Many a poor man would be glad of the opportunity to make an after dinner speech.

When a married man turns out bad, his mother says his wife didn't understand him and his wife says his mother spoiled him.

The woman who shows her teeth and smiles will attain her object much quicker than the one who shows her teeth and growls.—Chicago News.

RECENT INVENTIONS.

For use in discharging puncture closing compounds into bicycle tires a new receptacle is fitted with a sliding bottom, which is pushed in after the nozzle is attached to the valve, thus forcing the heavy liquid into the tire.

A new mousetrap is made from a corncob, having a hole drilled through the center, into which a bait holder extends to drop a spring bale over the entrance and catch the rodent as soon as he enters and touches the bait.

In a simple nut lock recently patented a spring steel coil is slipped over the end of the bolt after the nut is in place, one end of the coil overlapping the opposite end and causing it to grip the threads of the bolt to hold it in place.

Spectacles can be fitted with a new attachment to enable the wearer to see what is behind without turning around, a reflector being placed on the outer edge of each lens, with adjustable clamps, which allow them to be set at any angle.

The Medical Profession Recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. C. M. Harlan, writing to the American Journal of Health, Feb. 10th, says:—"Among the proprietary medicines deserving recognition is Dr Chase's Ointment, as a remedy for piles, Eczematic, skin eruptions of all kinds, for which it has been used with marked success and has effected remarkable cures in many obstinate cases which seem to baffle the skilful medical attendant."

Put Your Finger on Your Pulse

You feel the blood rushing along.

But what kind of blood? That is the question.

Is it pure blood or impure blood?

If the blood is impure then you are weak and languid; your appetite is poor and your digestion is weak. You cannot sleep well and the morning finds you unprepared for the work of the day. Your cheeks are pale and your complexion is sallow. You are troubled with pimples, boils, or some eruption of the skin. Why not purify your blood?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

will do it. Take it a few days and then put your finger on your pulse again. You can feel the difference. It is stronger and your circulation better. Send for our book on Impure Blood.

If you are bilious, take Ayer's Pills. They greatly aid the Sarsaparilla, They cure constipation also.

Write to our Doctors.

Write them freely all the particulars in your case. You will receive a prompt reply, without cost.

KAISER AND RHODES.

South African Magnate Talks to Kruger's Good Friend.

THE BRITISH PAPERS JUBILANT.

Belief Expressed That Reconciliation Between Britain and Germany Is Now Complete—Emperor Listens to the Story of Cape-to-Cairo Railway —The Queen at Nice— Cable News.

Berlin, March 13.—The Reichstag on Saturday adopted the colonial estimates, including those for the administration of New Guinea, which, in pursuance of a recent agreement arrived at with the New Guinea Company, becomes a German protectorate.

Mr. Cecil Rhodes was among those who listened to the debate, during which the question of his presence in Berlin was raised.

Dr. von Buckha, director of the Colonial Department, said the negotiations relative to the Rhodesian Railroad traversing German East Africa had not reached definite results, but, he added, permission would be granted under the fullest guarantee for German interests. Several members, including Herr Lieber, the Centrist leader, commented upon the "painful emotions" aroused by the presence in Berlin of the prime mover in an undertaking unfriendly to Germany.

Kaiser Received Rhodes.

Emperor William received Mr. Cecil Rhodes in audience at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening.

English Papers Jubilant.

London, March 13.—The English papers are jubilant at the prospects of the success of Cecil Rhodes' visit to Berlin and his audience with Emperor William, which, it is said, promises well for the Cape-to-Cairo railroad.

Complete Reconciliation.

Emperor William, it is announced this morning, will arrive at Cowes July 20 for a yachting week. The Daily Graphic, in commenting upon the announcement, says: "Coming immediately after the Emperor's reception of Mr. Cecil Rhodes, it marks the complete reconciliation of Great Britain and Germany."

Emperor Showed Great Interest.

The Berlin correspondent of The Daily Mail says: "I am informed that Emperor William displayed great interest in the conference with Mr. Cecil Rhodes, asking many questions as to the latter's schemes, without, however, going into details or revealing his own views. He also expressed the hope to see Mr. Rhodes again before he left Berlin."

RUSSIA AND FRANCE PROTEST

To English, American and German Consuls Against Extensions in China.

London, March 13.—A special despatch from Shanghai says that the Russian consul has joined with the French consul in a protest addressed to the English, American and German consuls against the extension of the trading settlements under their jurisdiction until the claims of Russian and French merchants for similar extensions shall have been satisfied.

The French and Russian ministers at Pekin on Saturday protested to the Tsung Li Yamen against concessions of land in Shanghai to American, English or other foreign communities which do not include concessions to French and Russian interests. The French Government maintained its claim that the ground occupied by English and American traders is outside the limits of the old concessions.

Italy Is Persistent.

Pekin, March 13.—The Italian minister here, Signor Martino, has addressed a note to the Foreign Office making a request to take back the Italian despatch asking for a concession, and notifying the Foreign Office to accept it as a demand, adding that he was willing to enter into friendly negotiations as to the details, but insisting upon an answer within four days. This note was couched in courteous terms, but the Chinese regard it in the nature of an ultimatum, to which they will probably yield.

Marchand Helped Kitchener.

Paris, March 13.—The Eclair published details supplied by the Duc de Castries concerning the Mahdist attack upon Major Marchand's mission at Fashoda, declaring that Marchand's fighting greatly assisted General Kitchener's advance to Omdurman. The reappearance of the Khalifa, the paper adds, proves that the Sirdar's reported victory was a gigantic bluff.

Mail advices from Abyssinia confirm the reported arrival of Major Marchand at a point 20 days' march from Adisbela, where he was met by a relief expedition.

THE POPE'S LATEST POEM.

Rome, March 13.—Pope Leo XIII., just before his illness, wrote some beautiful hexameters in Latin addressed to nuns, which, translated, read as follows:

The Maidens Consecrate.

Lo! Christ is nigh and His delight it is
To greet you as His spouses—sweetest name—
Who by a holy pact to Him are pledged.
Far from the clamor, He has given you,
Within the peaceful precincts of your cells,
To lead a blameless life. You blossom there
Like fragrant lilies in a garden close.
Let Satan spread his nets and baleful arts
And with his frown the timid mind o'erawe,
Jesus, Who ever guards, shall fly to aid
And make the weakest powerful in the fray.
Then shall He make your love more ardent glow
And shield you closer in His sacred heart,
Your souls with wond'rous sweetness gladdening.
And when at length your happy course is run
And to you faithful ones Death shows himself,
All teaming and with visage mild and kind,
Our Lord shall give you His supremest gift,
From your dread exile He shall lead you then
To the celestial shore and bid you there
Be ever blessed with the light divine.

A Danish Prince Born.

Copenhagen, March 13.—Princess Alexandrine, wife of Prince Christian, heir to the throne of Denmark, gave birth to a son on Saturday.

A Solemn Te Deum.

Rome, March 13.—A solemn Te Deum was celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday to commemorate the Pope's recovery and his coronation in the Sistine Chapel on March 3, 1878. Cardinal Rampolla, Papal Secretary of State, officiated in the presence of an immense congregation. Last evening the Piazza di San Petro was illuminated.

HER MAJESTY STARTS.

The Sea Was Calm—Several of the Royal Family Also Left for Paris—Reception at Boulogne.

London, March 13.—Queen Victoria started for the Continent on Saturday. The sea was calm.

The Princess of Wales, Princess Victoria of Wales and Prince Charles of Denmark also left England, by way of Dover and Calais, on their way to Paris, where they will spend two days. They will then go to Marseilles and embark on the royal yacht Osborne for a Mediterranean cruise.

Reception at Boulogne.

Boulogne-sur-Mer, March 13.—Immense crowds awaited the arrival in the harbor of the special steamer bearing the Queen, while the town and all the vessels in the port were decorated with bunting, and the route from the quay to the railway station was lined with troops. A brilliant gathering of military and naval officers and prominent civil officials boarded the steamer and were introduced to the Queen, who, speaking in French, cordially thanked them for the welcome extended to her. Several superb baskets of flowers and a number of engravings representing the last visit of Her Majesty to Boulogne in 1853 were presented to the royal visitor. As the Queen's special train drew out of the station an artillery salute was fired.

Arrival at Nice.

Nice, March 13.—Queen Victoria arrived by special train from Boulogne-sur-Mer yesterday afternoon. When passing through Toulon Her Majesty summoned the sub-prefect and expressed to him her sympathy with the families of the victims of the explosion of the naval power magazine at La Gaubran last Sunday morning, promising to send a donation to the relief of the unfortunate.

DRIVING OUT FILIPINOS.

After Extensive Preparations the Americans Began a General Advance on Insurgents on Sunday.

Manila, March 13.—Extensive preparations are being made for a general advance of the American forces. At daylight on Saturday the rebels were caught working on an enfilading trench at Caloocan and were shelled by a battery.

Desultory firing also took place at San Pedro Macati.

The last batch of Spanish soldiers, numbering 885 men, except a few who are in the hospitals, were embarked on board the transport Buenos Ayres on Saturday.

No Place for Women and Children.

Washington, March 13.—The War Department on Saturday received the following cablegram from Gen. Otis at Manila:

"Manila not safe place for officers' families. Great difficulty in caring for the men now here, and their safety one of the chief causes of anxiety. Officers' families should remain in the United States."

Under such conditions, the Secretary of War says that no more families of officers or enlisted men will be permitted to accompany troops.

Driving Out the Filipinos.

Manila, March 13.—(10.50 a.m.)—General Wheaton's newly-formed brigade advanced at 7 o'clock this morning. It is now moving on Pasig, meeting with slight resistance, as the rebels are in full retreat. A gunboat is clearing the jungle along the river banks, which have been carried as far as Guadaloupe. The purpose of the move is to clear the country to La Guna De Bay.

To Christianize Japan.

New York, March 13.—Despatches from Tokio received in this city yesterday bring the startling intelligence that the Japanese Government is discussing a plan to make Christianity the religion of the Empire. That such a move would really be startling may be appreciated with the assistance of statistics:

There are 44,000,000 persons in Japan. Only 200,000 of them are professing Christians. In other words, one native out of every 220 calls himself a Christian. The remaining 43,800,000 are divided between Buddhism and a cheerful agnosticism, which accords well with the Oriental temperament.

Two Fighting Monsters Launched.

Liverpool, March 13.—The British battleship Glory, 12,000 tons, was launched from Laird's shipyards at Birkenhead on Saturday morning. The Glory is designed to develop a speed of 18 knots.

The battleship Implacable was also successfully launched at Davenport in the presence of the Crown Prince of Siam and a large gathering of distinguished Britons. The Implacable is of 15,000 tons and 15,000 indicated horse-power, and will carry 16 guns.

The Queen of Belgium.

Brussels, March 13.—The following bulletin was issued last evening regarding the condition of Queen Henriette: "The Queen is progressing in her convalescence. She has refreshing sleep, and is regaining her strength."

HOTEL FIRE AT BELLEVILLE.

Several Narrow Escapes—How Two Domestics Were Rescued.

Belleville, Ont., March 13.—Saturday at 5.30 a.m. fire broke out in the second storey of the Albion Hotel, Front street. Mr. J. Harry McGuire, one of the proprietors, was awakened by smoke issuing from the room of his brother, John L. McGuire of Madoc, whom he rescued in an insensible condition. Two of the domestics in the third storey were saved by Messrs. James McGuire and Henry Johnston, who cut their hands to the bone in sliding down rope fire escapes with the girls in their arms. Several inmates lost all their clothing. The upper storeys are a wreck, and the lower flats badly damaged by water. Loss covered by insurance.

we have been studying paint—its best composition and its best application. We have only one aim. That is to make the best paint possible. The markets of the world are open to us. If all white lead or all zinc made the best paint it would be wise for us to make it so. But experience shows that a combination of these two substances makes far better paint than either one alone. Therefore, as we are neither white lead dealers, nor zinc dealers, we use enough of each to produce the best result, and with pure oil and the best drier, we make the paints that have made us.

A BIG AFFAIR.

Ladies' Auxiliary Bazaar to be Held April 6th and 7th.

The event of the season will be the bazaar under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. in the building on April 6th and 7th.

Arrangements have been in progress during the past few months and the ladies claim they have a genuine surprise and treat in store for the citizens. The details are too elaborate to describe fully here. Almost every room in the building will be decorated and made use of. The sections of the mart will contain articles of every kind.

The entertainment will be pleasing, and the "high tea" oreering and refreshing. The committee connected with the latter met on Saturday and reported great progress. With the co-operation which the ladies expect to receive from the citizens in general the affair will be a great success.

The good use made of the funds raised by the ladies in furnishing the new building, is a sufficient guarantee that the proceeds of the bazaar will be used in the best possible way to advance the interests of the young men's work in Peterborough.

PERSONAL

Mr. Lionel King returned to Toronto this morning after spending a few days in town.

Mr. G. L. Schafer of town, has severed his connection with the Bell Telephone Co., and bought out the Hicks House in Colborne.

Mr. K. Smith, game warden, Belleville, is now at Bancroft investigating charges against settlers suspected of slaughtering deer in "yards." Interesting developments are expected.

Mr. Archie Hagel, who for the last four years has been connected with Mr. A. Mercer's establishment, has left to take a position with Mr. Mercer in the Fit Reform Co'y at Montreal.

The Lindsay Post says:—Mr. T. H. Hamilton, of Peterborough, the well known traveller for oils, called on the local millmen and power users Saturday.

Mr. Harry Beale leaves to-day for Ottawa to represent Lansdowne Lodge at the Grand Lodge meeting of the Sons of England.

THE EXAMINER extends it cordial fraternal sympathy to Mr. W. F. McLean, M.P., of the Toronto World, on account of the serious accident that resulted in a fracture of his thigh, and will confine him to his room for weeks, and will prevent his attendance on his parliamentary duties, unless the session is unusually prolonged.

"Christian Manhood."

Rev. V. Cowsert was the speaker at the men's meeting at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday. His subject was "Christian Manhood." He said men by nature were creatures of imitation. They looked to one another as models. Nothing less should be copied than the man Christ Jesus. Christ not only came to be an example, but a saviour for men. Men should practice principal instead of policy. The life of Geo. Peabody and others were cited to prove that fortunes could be made on principle. Christ withdrew from danger when his principles were at stake. He faced danger when duty demanded it. Bonaparte's testimony to Christ was that He marshalled no armies, and yet "He overcame the world." He implanted never-dying principles in men's hearts. He does so still. Mr. Cowsert's address was listened to with marked attention.

SCARLET FEVER.

South Ward School Rooms Thoroughly Disinfected.

There are at present several, fortunately mild cases of scarlet fever in town, and of these some are in the South Ward. Some of the cases being those of school children, the Board of Health and school authorities have thought it wise to take every possible precaution against the possible spread of the disease. The rooms in the South Central School building have been disinfected in a most thorough manner under the superintendence of the medical health officer and inspector. Joyes' disinfecting fluid and the burning of sulphur, combined with a thorough scrubbing and cleaning, have been liberally employed, and now the rooms are in a perfectly sanitary condition, without the least possible danger of infection, of which, however, there was not previously anything alarming. At any time, but especially when there is danger from infection of any kind, parents should take especial pains to see that the bodily functions of their children are in a regular condition, and impress upon the youngsters the necessity of avoiding exposure to wet, etc., that will facilitate the taking of cold. The disposition of children, especially boys, is to discard outside wraps and coats as speedily as possible, but no child should be left to his or her judgment in such a matter. Neglect of care in this respect has already this spring brought on severe colds, and if, in this condition, an attack of contagious disease comes on, serious results are more certain to follow.

COLPORTAGE MISSION.

Mr. Gorge Buskin Paying his Annual Visit to Peterborough.

Mr. George Buskin of the Algoma and Northwest Colportage Mission, is making his annual visit to Peterborough in behalf of its sixteen years work in supplying Scriptures and scriptural literature, and conducting religious services among labourers in lumbering camps and on public works, and also among the Indians. Since 1878 he has operated there in such work over a large portion of the district. The work is not denominational, but for the cause of godliness, and is commended as such by those acquainted with the district and the work. During the past 15 years 17,000 Scriptures and scriptural books have been supplied there in eighteen languages by its agency, accompanied by prayer and Gospel services, also thirty-one various editions of scriptural publications have been printed by the mission for its work, in five languages. Four others are in progress of completion, one being a cheap household dictionary in Ojibway and English. Much is still left undone which would make for the general welfare. Heavy liabilities and very limited income hinders the progress of the work. The sum of $20 30 was contributed in Peterborough last year, which the missionary gratefully acknowledges and respectfully asks in Christ's name, renewed support from friends, and from all interested in the progress of the good cause.

BREACH OF PROMISE

A Well-Known Young Benedict May be Sued for $2 000.

Witnesses were examined last week before the Master-in-Chambers and evidence taken in connection with an interesting breach-of-promise case, which may come up at the next sitting of the court.

It is understood that the amount of damages claimed for injured affection is $2,000. The suit is brought by a young lady and the man in the case is a well-to-do young Benedict who has only been married a short time.

THE ARMOUR CASE.

It Will be Carried to the Supreme Court by the Canadian Government.

Mr. E. B. Edwards will be in Ottawa this week attending Supreme Court, where an appeal from Judge Burbidge's decision in the Armour case has been carried by the Dominion Government.

The case is that in which Judge Armour refused to accept the amount of damages awarded him by the Trent Valley Canal valuators in connection with the matter of a certain portion of his lands being expropriated for that waterway.

COLLAR BONE BROKEN

As the Result of an Attack by Hoodlums in the West End.

A resident of the West-End has been confined to his room for the past week as the result of a broken collar bone.

The accident occurred in a very peculiar way, as it seems that the aforesaid resident was quietly wending his way home to the family hearth when he was suddenly set upon by a gang of hoodlums and in the fracas his collar bone was broken. Suddenly his assailants discovered that he was not the man for whom they were lying in wait and after trying to explain matters escorted him home. The explanations, it seems, were sufficiently explicit convince the victim of the attack that it was unintentional and the matter has therefore been hushed up.

FLOUR IS DOWN.

Six Tons of it Precipitated into McAllister's Flume.

On Sunday morning the joist gave way beneath the flooring of the warehouse connected with the McAllister Milling Co'y's mill at Lakefield and six tons of flour were precipitated into the flume beneath.

Men were at work all day fishing out the bags.

A good deal of the flour will be saved as the water could not penetrate very deeply into the bags owing to an outside layer of paste being formed in each bag as soon as the water touched it.

BIG BUSINESS ENSURED.

The New Electric Light and Power Company Has Encouraging Prospects.

Mr. Culverwell is meeting with great success in Peterborough in his canvas of the manufactures in regard to supplying electric power generated at Burleigh Falls.

Last week he secured contracts, which will net the company which he represents about $5,000 a year. He has also been very successful in his canvas in regard to lighting contracts.

DEATH OF MR. JAS. KEARNEY, SR.

Impressive Funeral Service at St. Mary's Church, Young's Point.

The death of Mr. James Kearney, Sr., which took place at the residence of his son, Mr. P. A. Kearney, Young's Point, on Tuesday evening at 9 o'clock, removes from the ranks of our citizens one of the oldest residents of Young's Point, at the ripe old age of 85. He had been ailing from an attack of la grippe for about two months, and the week before his death he was stricken with paralysis. The deceased gentleman was born in Donegal, Ireland, and came to Canada in 1832 in the sailing ship "Mayflower."

He served as sergeant in the Mackenzie Rebellion in 1837, and was married in 1838 to Miss Honorah Young, who he survived 23 years.

Socially the distinguishing trait of the deceased was his unbounded hospitality, in which his wife was only second to himself. This feature made their home known to a wide circle of friends, and in distant parts, and they enjoyed the lasting esteem and regard of all with whom they associated.

To the family and friends it will be consoling to see how hearty were the tributes of honour to his memory by all creeds, and to reflect that in all his residence amongst us not a single blot or stain rested on his character.

He leaves a family of two sons and two daughters to mourn his loss—Mrs. L. G. Febert of Chemong Park, Mrs. W. F. Condon, of Saginaw, Michigan, and Messrs. P. A. and J. E. Kearney of Young's Point.

On Thursday morning last at eleven o'clock the largely attended funeral proceeded to St. Mary's church, where Rev. Father Fitzpatrick officiated at the solemn mass, the musical part of the programme being rendered with effect. After mass had been celebrated Rev. Father Fitzpatrick preached an eloquent and impressive sermon, after which the remains were conducted to the cemetery and there in the shadow of the church the deceased gentleman was laid to sleep his last long sleep by the side of his mother's and wife's grave. The pallbearers were Messrs E. Phelan, Peterborough, M. Blewett, C. Young, R. White, P. P. Young and W. McFarlane of Young's Point. Requiescat in Peace.

SELWYN GOOD TEMPLARS

Have an enjoyable and Profitable Winter and Are Looking Forward to Having a Successful Concert on Monday, March 20th.

This has certainly been an interesting winter for Selwyn Lodge, No. 50, I. O. G. T. The meetings have been made entertaining and as a consequence the membership has increased considerably and the attendance at the meeting has more than doubled. Besides the interest generated in the lodge itself, the proximity of Oak Leaf Lodge, Gordon Lodge and Union Lodge makes it possible to arrange an exchange of fraternal visits, which was done in the case of the two former Lodges. Selwyn Lodge entertained both Oak Leaf and Gordon Societies on Feb. 2nd, and returned the visit to Bridgenorth on Feb. 27th and to Gordon on March 7th. No visit has yet been arranged with Union Lodge, and owing to the lateness of the season it is improbable that such an exchange will be effected this winter.

A grand concert will be held on Monday evening, March 20th, in the Selwyn Temple, when it is expected that an enjoyable evening will be spent. An excellent programme has been prepared, talent having been secured from Peterborough, Zion, Bridgenorth and other places. The Templars have a good record in the matter of concerts and we expect another good one this time.

SOME TIMELY REMARKS ON SEASONABLE GAMES.

What is Going on in Local and Outside Hockey Arenas—Notes From the Curling Ice.

CURLIANA.

The big bonspiel of Thistles vs. Granites takes place to-morrow evening. The skating ice will be monopolized by the curlers, and a big night's fun is expected. Refreshments will be served.

The Granites have selected the following skips for their bonspiel with the Thistles, Judge Weller, Judge Edmison, G. E. Whiten, Dr. Boucher, E. B. Edwards and D. W. Dumble.

HOCKEY.

A game of hockey will be played to-morrow night from 7 to 8 o'clock between the young office boys and the counter hoppers. The teams will be composed as follows:

Counter Hoppers,		Office Boys,
W McGuire	goal	L Potvin
J Pollard	point	W Robinson
W Wareham	cover point	W Bullen
W O Brien	forwards	E Smith
F Tully		R Doucatel
B Buntin		H Waram
W Hagel		R McFaedden

Mr. R. M. Glover will referee the game.

At the rink on Saturday evening, a team representing the Ontario Bank, played a seven from the mechanical class of the Public Library. The bank men were beaten by a score of 15 goals to 4, but it is only fair to them to point out that they did not avail themselves of the services of Messrs Hollingshead, Belleghem or Crane. The teams were composed as follows:—

Ontario Bank,		Mechanicals,
O Dumble	goal	E Hall
V Ferguson	point	G Burnham
H Rush	cover point	R Collins
C Bell	forwards	F Burnham
G Bell		C Matthias
N Bell		A Stethem

Mr. Artie McClelland made a good referee but made none of his famous rushes.

A colts team came up from Norwood on Saturday evening for a game with the local Junior Colts.

The visitors were entirely outclassed, although they played seven men to Peterborough's six. The score when time was called stood 13—1 in favour of the local Colts, whose team was composed as follows: Goal, W Macdonald; point, Herbert Wood; cover point, H Armstrong; forwards, Harry McKee, R Armstrong and E Maybee. The defense of the local team was very strong and all lifted remarkably well in relieving the goal. The forward line played good combination and made some splendid rushes. Harry McKee was very much in evidence and did most of the scoring. Capt. Hollingshead acted as referee and watched the offsides very carefully. He was very impartial.

THE KENNEL.

Mr. H. W. Lacy, who judged the dogs in the recent Bench Show here, gives his opinion of the exhibits as follows in the Stockkeeper:

The first show held by the Peterborough Kennel Club took place Wednesday and Thursday, January 11 and 12. The entries numbered three short of the 200 mark and represented, barring a few spaniels and foxterriers of national celebrity, the best dogs in Canada, and several of the prominent kennel owners led their dogs into the ring.

The members of the Kennel Club were therefore very well satisfied with their initial effort.

Mr. H. W. Lacy judged all classes. Commencing his task about 11 30 a. m., he was able to finish up everything comfortably by 5.30 p. m. The rings were fairly well served and there was less delay than we expected.

Mr. Alfred Terrill acted as ring steward and worked long and well; indeed, on this gentleman's shoulders seemed to fall the brunt of the show, though he was aided materially by Dr. Poole, the superintendent and veterinarian. Mr. Elrio White, one of the committee, was also a busy man throughout the show. The other members of the committee were:—President, C. B. McAllister, who owns collies and is enthusiastic over the show, W. H. Moore, A. H. Stratton, R. Kerr, Dr. Burnham, Peter Campbell, W. J. Sims and Jas. Head. They rendered effective aid wherever necessary.

There appears to be a good deal of quiet enthusiasm for dogs in this section and in the Club, though they seem to take the show too seriously, and we should advise a getting together of the Club members and the visitors at the next show. That is the way the fancier spirit is spread. We must not look upon our shows as functions too solemn for jollity and camaraderie. The officials were courteous and we must thank Mr. Terrill for personal courtesies.

The quality in collies, spaniels and fox terriers was very good, and good individuals were shown in other breeds.

The collies were especially good and many good ones had to be content with letters. Among the visitors were President of the Canadian Kennel Club, John G. Kent, and the kennel world of Canada is to be congratulated on the active interest in the shows exhibited by Mr. Kent. There is a much more lively, healthy interest in shows developing than we have seen in Canada since 1891, and this year, we are told, shows will probably be held in Hamilton, Kingston, Belleville, London, Ottawa, Montreal, most of these forming circuit in the fall after Toronto. Other visitors were Messrs C Y Ford, of Kingston, C A Bowell, J Parker Thomas and H B Hungerford from Belleville; W P Fraser, A A Macdonald, H G Charlesworth, J T Reeve, Chas Lyndon and others from Toronto. From Montreal came Mr. Jos. Reid, owner of a crack collie bitch, and F. Stuart; H. L. Jeffrey came all the way from Stratford, and John Tulk from Hamilton. The intense cold, some degrees below zero, interfered with the attendance somewhat, and a ball kept most of the society people away the first night, but a good crowd was expected on Thursday, and we hope the crowd will come out whole at least.

The benching was the old style, neatly arranged in the new Market Hall; the ring was the largest ever seen at a dog show, covering a good part of the floor. The hall was heated by several wood stoves but the atmosphere was chilly, as well it might be with the mercury eleven degrees below zero.

The Toronto Globe sent our old friend Frank Nelson, the sporting editor, up to do the show, and this piece of enterprise was much appreciated, for Toronto is some 90 miles from Peterborough.

The large dogs were fairly well represented. Laddie the mastiff is a fair dog, requiring some wrinkle. St. Bernards turned out nicely. The Abbott has a splendid skull, is good all around in body, legs and coat, but is washy in colour; Lord Bate is nicely coloured; Plinlimmon is a little too bully in face and shows haw to much, still he is better all round than the Montreal winner, Diamond Bruce, who dipped in back for too much and parting his hair in the middle does not improve him. The bitches were poor, Empress of Windsor, was well ahead, but was out of coat and long in head, good body and bone. Great Danes were very poor and the judge was lenient in awarding a third, no stretch of imagination can make these dogs worthy to be exhibited, and the sooner their owner realises this the better the breed will be served. This is said in all kindness.

Two good greyhounds came forward, and Gem's Beauty's neat all round finish, and better front pulled her head of Gem II. Foxhounds were fairly good Hanks Dreadnaught by his better head, front and body beating H. Ringwood his sire. Ornament was a bit light to those, Nora won easily in bitches from a weed.

Beagles were not good; the winner, Sally, could be improved in head, but beat Bayview Music II. in type and body; Echo is light in body.

In the one setter class the Boston and Toronto winner Irish setter, Mellow II., is a bit flat in face, and did not move well behind, the stylish, good colored dog Jack winning justly in parts, good legs and body, fair head.

Spaniels were good and even. In dogs, the well known Black Knight, beautifully shown, easily won from Sambo, a bit undershot, and losing in body and bone; Park Crow, light in body, but good head; Tattoo is a bit long in the face. In bitches, a very pretty bitch, Meteor, scored over Capital Obcetta in head, front in body. Queen Quality made a good third. Park Crow won in puppies. In any other colour dogs, Otterburn Rufus had a tight squeeze from Mickey and Red Coat, the latter losing in head and body to the other. Otterburn Dollie won nicely in bitches from Pitti Sing, a nice headed one, slight in body; Judith is a bit coarser, with a black indistinct tan. A good field Spaniel was exhibited, and also the Clumber, Lord Chumley, was looking very well.

Fox terriers came out strong, several well known kennels sending good dogs. Norfolk Victorious, in open dogs, was just a bit lusty looking, but full of fire, and won comfortably from a good terrier in The Legnard Type, one of George Bell's funny named ones; he is a good, long headed terrier with good bone, front and body, but a bit on the slee Third is another big, nice headed dog. In bitches, Norfolk Polka won from Conny, who loses in head, body and bone, but is better in these respects than Elmwood Vassar; Beaut is short faced. A good puppy class came forward. Aldon Warden is unfurnished, but good stamp. In wires, Sapperton Turk beat Aldon Vixler in coat and body, and is better in head, the latter being down faced. In bitches, Aldon Sequel scored easily in spite of short coat; Otterburn Contralto, a smart one, a little plain in head, coming next; Silver Bee is a bit thick. Contralto easily won in puppies. In novices, both coats, The Legnard Type scored well; Elmwood Varsity, a bit shelly, and not so good in head, third. Sapperton Turk, reserve; the others were repeats. Norfolk Victorious won the special.

Dachshunds were fair, the winner, Spitz, repeating his Peterborough win; Sherwood Jet Black Crow losing in body and head; Otonabee Queen is too short faced and full in brow.

Collies were exceptionally good. In open dogs, Woodmansterne Conrad looked much better than at Montreal, and scored well, second going to a son of Benedick, Strafford Laddie, who beat the old boy in coat and hind parts; reserve to Coliander Bruce, who could be improved in head and front, but is a rare coated big one; Mountaineer Monarch was looking a bit light, but is full of quality; Clyde is better in head and bone, a good, handsome big one; Chummie is off in ear and not so good in head. Bitches had some pretty ones; and Logan's Apple Blossom, looking and showing better than at Montreal, had no difficulty in winning, beating her old opponent, Sweet Lassie; third going to Snow, a bitch not so good before the eye, but good in body and coat, where she beat Kit; another nice one, close up, was Bonaccord Bess. Novices were mostly repeats, and in puppies, Clyde was able to define his position in regard to Mountaineer Chief; Stratford Joe, a little heavy, third; Chummie, close up, beaten in ear, reserve. Bitch puppies were choice, but repetitions in winners.

Bull Terriers.—In open dogs Duke of Wentworth beat Newmarket Flyer in head and body; Bayview Bob was thick. In bitches had N. Lyren shown better she might have beaten Wentworth Thelma as she did at Montreal. Pearl of Rochester is light. There was only one pug, Otterburn Nora, a fair headed sort.

Irish terriers were poor, compared to those in the States though if a professional "got at" one or two of them they could be improved. We were pleased to see Dr. Niven successful in open class with Glenary Oonagh and hope he may return to the ranks. Carleton Kitty loses his head and coat; Naterack Buttons was out of coat needs more bone and less stop; Blackbrook Ben requires the tonsorial artist, good texture of coat. Novices, first Carleton Kitty; second, the fair headed Shela, third repetition and N. Buttons won in puppies. A good black and tan bitch was exhibited in Canadian Duchess who beats Julia in hind parts and back, both good heads and markings. Russian wolf hounds had the two cracks Koudar and Kyula, the former is rare shape, as hard as stone. Bully Girl was the only bull dog. Highland Fling beat Heel and toe in Scotties, better in body, coat and head. A nice Pomeranian and small Maltese turned up in miscellaneous dogs. The latter was put first. It was entered as a French poodle. In bitches the only entries were Rompaway, the yelept, and a liver-coloured dog, except a Spanish pointer. Perhaps he was—he was beaten.

Spent during 25 years on Catarrh Remedies and Specialists by a wealthy mill-owner of Port Essington, B.C. At last cured by Japanese Catarrh Cure.

Mr. Joseph Little, the well-known mill-owner of Port Essington, B. C., formerly of Vancouver, writes: "Japanese Catarrh Cure has completely cured me of catarrh, which had troubled me for twenty five years. I have at different times spent over one thousand dollars with different specialists in Toronto, Buffalo and San Francisco, besides trying all other remedies, but the result was only temporary relief. Hearing of the remarkable cure throughout the West by Japanese Catarrh Cure, I purchased six boxes while in Vancouver about two years ago and since completing this treatment have not felt the slightest symptoms of my former trouble. I feel that I cannot say too much in its favor; the first application gave great relief. We also keep a supply in the Mill for cuts, etc., and find it superior to any other remedy for healing."

If you have tried all other remedies without success, and are at all skeptical as to the merits of Japanese Catarrh Cure, enclose 6 cents in stamps and we will mail you free a trial quantity sufficient for nearly two weeks' treatment. Price, 50 cents, or six for $2.50, with guarantee to cure or money refunded. Sold by Ormond & Walsh, druggists, Peterborough, or by mail post-paid. Early Accidents

Cause Lifelong Suffering.
A Case that is Causing Talk.

When a lad about eight years of age I fell into a cellar a distance of ten feet, striking on my head, and causing concussion of the brain. I was taken to a London, Eng., Hospital, the first seven days not recovering consciousness. I am now 35 years old and from the time of my accident until I began taking Dr. Ward's Pills five months ago I had been subject to fainting spells, never being more than two weeks without an attack of fainting. As I grew older these spells became more frequent, lasted longer, and left me with less vitality. I was weak, had no strength or stamina, always very low-spirited and down-hearted; imagined that every thing and every person was going against me, and life only had a dark side for me. My appetite was poor most of the time, but I am now happy to say that, since taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills, I have only had one fainting spell, shortly after I began taking them, so I have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Ward's Pills cured me. Before taking these pills I always looked for a fainting spell not more than two weeks apart; now, I would be greatly surprised at a recurrence of these spells. Life is now bright—the constant, morbid, down-hearted feeling is gone, being replaced by a contented, hopeful feeling. I feel like working. My appetite is good, and in every respect I have experienced the health and strength restoring properties of Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. They certainly have proved a great blessing to me. Yours truly, (Signed), Thomas Stanton, Brighton, Ont.

Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. per box, 5 boxes for $2.00 at druggists, or mailed on receipt of price by The Doctor Ward Co., Limited, Toronto.

FOUGHT FOR THEIR LIVES.

Harrowing Battle With Fire by the Crew of the Str. Selkirk.

Vancouver, B. C., March 11.—The steamer Selkirk was saved from destruction by fire at Nanaimo Wednesday night by the Nanaimo fire brigade, and when the fire had been apparently extinguished, after doing some $50 worth of damage, the Fraser River freight only was discharged, and a cargo of dynamite and mixed merchandise taken on for Vancouver yesterday morning. When nearing Vancouver the fire, which had apparently been smouldering from Wednesday night, broke out afresh. With her cargo of explosives the steamer was in great danger. The flames were making tremendous headway, but Captain Blissett, realizing that the coolness of the men meant the saving of their lives as well as the vessel, ordered them all to him and spoke hasty, encouraging words, instructing them to be cool and fearless. The captain and crew then fought the flames silently and heroically, facing death in its most frightful form, to keep the fire from the dynamite. Just before Vancouver was reached the fire was under control, and the smoke-begrimed sailors laughed with the wharf hands over their struggle with the flames; but there was a hysterical ring in their laughter, which explained more plainly than words the horror of the half hour's struggle with the fire fiend.

A TRUE STATEMENT

By Foreman White, of the Hamilton Screw Works.

Hamilton, March 6.—If a vote of the people were to be taken to ascertain which is the most popular medicine on the market, Dodd's Kidney Pills would lead by a large majority.

One of the latest cures by that grand remedy is that of Foreman T. H. White, of the Screw Works here, who testifies that he was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills of Kidney Disease of eight years' standing, after other medicines had failed.

Mr. White says: "One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me, four boxes cured me. Publish this statement if you wish. It is true in every particular."

THAT NEW PAPER MILL.

$200,000 to Be Spent Near Ottawa and 300 Men Employed.

Ottawa, March 11.—Mr. J. L. Whitcomb of New York arrived at the Hotel Cecil yesterday. Mr. Whitcomb represents a syndicate of New York publishers, who are locating a large paper mill at Britannia. The new industry will be put in operation with all possible despatch, and will require an expenditure of $200,000. The works will employ about 300 men, and a great many of whom will have to be skilled workmen. The products will be all grades of book, letter, linen, news and other papers, and the company will make a specialty of the finer lines. In addition to these strawboard will be manufactured, which industry alone will be of great importance to the farmers of the neighborhood. Mr. Whitcomb went out to Britannia yesterday to look over the proposed site, and to examine the waterworks. It is rumored that electric power will be used.

Inimical Plants.

Two well known English plants, the thistle and the rape, are so inimical that if a field is infested with thistles, which come up year after year and ruin the crops, all you have to do is to sow it with rape. The thistles will be absolutely annihilated.

Ninety Per Cent.

Of the people are afflicted with some form of humor, and this causes a variety of diseases. The reason why Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail is found in the fact that it effectually expels the humor. Scrofula, salt rheum, boils and all eruptions are permanently cured by this great medicine.

Hood's are the best family cathartic and liver pills. Gentle, reliable, sure.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT.

Arrangements for the Brilliant Ceremony at First Official Appearance of Lord Minto.

Ottawa, March 11.—Preparations for the opening of Parliament next Thursday are about complete. The military pageant will be imposing, and the attendance will be large, owing to the fact that it will be Lord Minto's first official appearance at the opening ceremony. The officers of the headquarters staff will meet the Major-General commanding within the main entrance of the Parliament Buildings at 2.40 p.m. in review order. The Princess Louise Dragoon Guards will furnish an escort, to parade at Government House at 2.30 o'clock to accompany His Excellency to the Houses of Parliament and return. The 2nd Ottawa Field Battery will fire salutes of 19 guns from the garrison guns in Nepean Point battery, the first salute to be fired upon the arrival of His Excellency at the Houses of Parliament and the second upon His Excellency's departure therefrom. The Governor-General's Foot Guards will furnish a guard of honor, with band and colors, which will parade at the entrance to the Houses of Parliament at 2.45 o'clock p.m. and remain until dismissed.

To-day's Gazette contains the appointment of Hon. David Laird, Indian commissioner; Hon. James H. Ross of the Territorial Government, and Mr. J. J. MacKenna, as commissioners to negotiate a treaty with the Indians of the District of Athabasca and the adjacent countries. The commissioners will leave Edmonton about May 24, and will, if time permits, go as far north as Great Slave Lake. They will confer with the Indians and halfbreeds, and endeavor to come to terms with them. It is probable they will bring back with them a good deal of information about the country and its inhabitants.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents a bottle every bottle guaranteed.

Girl Stole $1,000 Ring.

Detroit, Mich., March 11.—A young woman whose parents reside in London, Ont., has been arrested here, charged with stealing a $1,000 diamond ring from a boarding house where she was residing. The girl's story is a pitiful one. To the police matron she confided her secret, and told her that she had taken the ring because she had to pay the doctor who performed an illegitimate operation upon her. Further questioning revealed the fact that the girl had sold this $1,000 ring for $10. The ring has been recovered, but the owner will not prosecute the young lady. The name of the girl has not been divulged. She is 20 years of age, and her sister resides in Detroit.

Is the Murderer Insane?

Ottawa, March 11.—Dr. Burgess, Montreal, and Dr. Phelan, Kingston, were here yesterday on their way to Port Arthur to examine into the mental condition of Prevost, awaiting execution there for murder. The question of the prisoner's sanity was raised at the trial, and the jury, on the information presented, concluded that he was sane at the time the murder was committed, two years ago. It is understood that new evidence bearing upon the question has been discovered. If Prevost is insane it would be contrary to all precedent to send him to the gallows. Much will depend on the report of the doctors.

Smallpox at Washington.

Washington, March 11.—Smallpox has been widely prevalent of late here and the health authorities are bending every effort to check what has threatened to assume the aspect of epidemic. There are 25 cases of the disease in the Smallpox Hospital to-day with an aggregate of 52 that have been reported to the health department since the outbreak.

Rev. A. Cunningham Dead.

Kincardine, March 11.—Rev. Andrew Cunningham, pastor of the Methodist Church here, died yesterday after a severe illness lasting seven months. He leaves a widow, daughter of the late Dr. Rice, superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada, three sons and two daughters. For 31 years deceased had been actively engaged in the ministry.

Four Surely Dead.

Creede, Col., March 11.—An explosion of several hundred pounds of powder occurred yesterday in tunnel No. 3 of the Commodore Mine, creating great havoc and killing at least four miners. It is believed that the dead number six, and that there are several seriously injured.

Pork Packing at Listowel.

Listowel, March 11.—The citizens of this town are to organize a pork packing establishment on the co-operative plan. The farmers of the district have been asked to attend a meeting to be held in the Town Hall on March 24 to discuss the question.

Died From Blood Poisoning.

Kingston, Ont., March 11.—Peter Johnson of Camden East, D.D.G.M. of Kingston District, A.O.U.W., died yesterday morning as a result of blood poisoning. He was about 65 years of age, a Scotchman, Conservative and Anglican.

Wheat Declined Over a Cent a Bushel at Chicago—Liverpool Also Easier—The Prices.

Liverpool, March 11.—Wheat futures manifested some buoyancy yesterday morning, but later eased off and closed unchanged to ¼d per cental below Thursday's final figures.

Chicago, March 11.—Yesterday May wheat declined 1¼c per bushel and closed at about the bottom figure for the session. The July option followed suit. Foreign liquidation, selling by shorts and the uncovering of stop loss orders on the way down brought about the reaction.

Three Years in Bed.

From Kidney Disease—Although a Man of Three-Score and Ten, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills gave him back perfect health.

This is to certify that I was sick in bed the most of the time for three years with kidney disease. I took several boxes of pills—different kinds—and a great many other kinds of patent medicines; besides that I was under treatment by four different doctors during the time and not able to work. I began to take Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and since that time have been working every day, although a man nearly 70 years of age. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me.

JAMES SIMPSON,
Newcombe Mills, Ont.

If the Kidneys are not in a perfectly clean and healthy condition, the blood becomes impregnated with impurities, and a decay of the Kidneys soon takes place. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Gravel, Stone in the Bladder, Inflammation of the Bladder, and a long list of Kidney diseases become seated, and sooner or later in so many instances end fatally. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure all Kidney troubles. Sold by all dealers, price 25 cents per box.

Can She Save Them?

Many a poor mother who feels that those she holds most precious are gradually slipping away from her over the terrible precipice of disease, would be thankful to know what Dr. Pierce's wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" has done to restore thousands of weak and wasted children to complete rounded, rosy, healthy, activity and life.

"My little girl had a severe attack of fever," writes Mrs. Wm. S. Vollmer, of Concord, Cabarrus Co., N. C., in a letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "I had two physicians for her. She had a very bad cough, raised a great deal, and had wasted to a mere skeleton; only her feet and ankles were swollen. I knew what Dr. Pierce's medicines had done for us before so I commenced giving her 'Golden Medical Discovery' and a 'Pellet' occasionally.

"In a few days I noticed the fever was less; her cough gradually grew better; expectoration grew less; in a few days she sat up in bed, and soon she could take a few steps. She kept on improving slowly and after a few weeks the swelling in feet and ankles went down, and she kept on step by step until she got well. This is more than two years ago.

"Last winter, Lula (my oldest daughter) had grippe very badly. Her physician was uneasy; he told me to be very careful or she would have pneumonia. She was left with an awful cough. I gave her 'Golden Medical Discovery' and it cured her cough. I will be pleased to have my letter published. If persons wishing to know more about the great benefits we have received from using Dr. Pierce's medicines will write, enclosing stamp, I will gladly answer."

If mothers will only write to Dr. Pierce concerning the ailments of their family he will send them sound and valuable advice in a plain sealed envelope, and without any charge whatever. His remarkably wide experience has qualified him to deal with diseases which baffle the local practitioner.

PEARY'S LAST BEAR.

Precautions Taken to Preserve Its Snow White Skin Unsoiled.

At the first glimpse of daylight on the morning of Sept. 4 the Hope got under way and steamed out for Cape York to land my faithful Eskimo assistants. As we steamed out through the western passage between Meteorite island and Akpudi we entered the fleet of countless bergs sweeping out of Melville bay, dazzling in their glittering brilliancy, and with the dancing whitecaps flashing between them in every direction.

Scarcely were we well within this arctic white squadron, threading our way between the stately cruisers, when one of my quick eyed Eskimos cried out, "Nannook-soah!" He had seen the bear for an instant far up on the top of a big berg, one of the tabular giants of Melville bay, peering over its precipitous face, but it had quickly disappeared. As we steamed slowly round the berg he came into view again, a beautiful white animal with contrasting black nose, moving leisurely along the surface of the iceberg. The captain and I both chanced a shot at him at long range, and the captain's bullet grazed his hind leg, making him whirl and snap savagely at the wound. Then he galloped awkwardly away and disappeared round a pinnacle of the berg. Circling the berg again, we discovered him in the water swimming vigorously, and several shots were fired at him, one of which took effect, and he apparently collapsed completely, yet a few moments later he was swimming off again, and it was only after I had a boat lowered that he was secured.

The fur of this animal was so spotlessly white and unstained that I gave orders not to have him lowered upon the deck, but kept him suspended from the tackle until, a few hours later, we reached Cape York, and mooring the Hope against the face of a glacier he was swung out on to the surface of the glacier, covered with newly fallen snow, and there skinned and the beautiful pelt rolled up and packed away still unsullied. This was our last bear.—Lieutenant Peary in St. Nicholas.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard st., Philadelphia, Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"it soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." So will everyone who tries Dr. King's New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50 cents and $1 at any Drug Store; every bottle guaranteed.

One on the Rector.

The little daughter of a local clergyman has reached the age where big words are apt to floor her and where she is very sensitive to the remarks of an older brother.

Not long ago she came running to her father.

"Papa, papa, George called me names."

"Why, what did Georgie say?"

"Oh," said the little girl, with a strong expression of disgust, "he said I practiced what I preached! I don't, do I?"

"Well, my child, I"—

"But I don't, do I, papa? I don't any more than you do, do I?"

And then the rector choked up. But he took a half hour from his sermon and explained the meaning of the obnoxious expression to the best of his ability.

"The Book of the Year."

"The book of the year!" That's easy enough.
No "godly" or "knighthood" contains the real stuff.
"Cyrano" or "Aylwin" can't fill up the lack—

ISOTHERMS.

Facts About Isothermic Maps That Are Rarely Learned at School.

Here are some definitions of isotherms that appear in American textbooks of geography:

"Those lines which are drawn through places with an equal average of temperature are called isotherms.

"Isotherms are lines connecting places having the same mean temperature for particular periods, as the whole of the year, the winter or summer months, etc.

"If upon a map all places having the same mean temperature are connected by lines, such lines are called isothermal lines or simple isotherms."

These definitions are part of the truth, but not the whole of it. It may not be a great calamity, but the fact is that most boys and girls leave school with a misconception as to what an isotherm is, and they rarely find out in later years.

They all know that two elements, latitude and altitude, are the main factors in determining the mean temperature of a place; that the farther a place is from the equator and the higher it stands above sea level the cooler its climate is. But they do not know that isothermic maps take into account only one of these elements, and that is latitude. They eliminate the influence of altitude. The isotherm passing over the top of Pike's peak does not show the mean temperature at the summit of the mountain, but what the mean temperature would be in that immediate neighborhood if the land, instead of rising high above the sea, stood at the level of Coney Island.

Do you see the reason for this? It may be easily explained. Most of the land does not rise so high above the sea that the temperature is greatly affected by altitude. To the majority of mankind latitude is a far more important climatic element than altitude. Now, the effects on temperature of both latitude and altitude cannot well be shown on one man, and isothermic maps were devised to show the effects of latitude and some other element, such as position near the sea or in the far interior.

An isothermic line, therefore, does not show the actual mean temperature of a place on it unless that place is at sea level. But it is easy to deduce from the isotherm the actual mean temperature of a place, if we know its elevation above the sea. How this is done is very clearly explained by Dr. H. R. Mill, the British geographer, as follows:

"The air grows cooler by 1 degree F. for every 270 feet of elevation above sea level, but isothermic lines show the sea level temperature. In using isothermic maps we must therefore remember that places 600 feet above the sea level have a temperature 2 degrees lower than the isotherms indicate; places 6,000 feet above the sea, 22 degrees lower; those 12,000 feet above the sea, 45 degrees lower, and the mountain slopes 18,000 feet above the sea no less than 66 degrees lower than the sea level temperature shown by the isotherms. This accounts for the fact that none of the important towns in the temperate zones is situated more than 2,000 feet above the sea, while in the tropics they are built at as great elevations as 8,000 or 10,000 feet."

Weather charts are an exception to this rule. They record the actual thermometrical readings at the points of observation.—New York Sun.

Toronto Feb. 27.—Mr. Frank Dodge, of North Maupeberg, Ont., has been visiting here recently. He is a splendid specimen of Canadian manhood, standing more than six feet high "in his stockings" erect and muscular.

"I was a different man two years ago," said he to a friend to-day. The truth is I would have died of Kidney Complaint, if it hadn't been for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I had been treated by physicians and had taken various remedies without getting any better. I read of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and decided to try them. I did so, and was thoroughly cured in a couple of weeks.

Sufferers are at liberty to correspond with the above address and will obtain full particulars regarding the great cure.

He says: My wife was most terribly afflicted with protruding piles, and contemplated a surgical operation. A friend of ours recommended the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a complete cure. We were so pleased with the ointment that I tried it myself, as I have been troubled with an unsightly skin affliction which covered the lower part of my face.

For 25 years I suffered untold agony, and was treated by the best medical skill in the United States. I consider Dr. Chase's Ointment worth its weight in gold for piles and skin disease.

THE FASHION PLATE.

The tunic, arching up toward the hips like the overskirt of the lavandiere, is a part of some of the cloth models lately received from Paris.

Polonaises or semblances of them produced by the arrangement of various dress trimmings are seen on very many of the imported gowns from Paris.

Accordion plaited materials are still in very great favor in the making of skirts, waists and overdresses of gowns designed for both women and children.

The prevailing feature of dress which can be made use of in renovating partly worn dresses is the addition of a guimpe of different material from the rest of the gown.

White cloth vests, revers and other accessories impart an appearance of daintiness and distinction to the tailor costumes they decorate. The gowns so finished this spring will be especially attractive.

French modistes scallop the fronts and lower edges of the chic little jackets, which meet at the top and have small scalloped revers, like those of regular tailor gowns. Others are filled out at the neck with a guimpe or pinafore.

Many rows of stitching in silk, simple traceries of soutache braid, strappings of cloth or velvet and numbers of small tailor buttons or somewhat larger sizes in gold or silver are ruling modes of finishing spring costumes for general wear.

Long, close fitting Newmarkets, that cover the wearer from neck to feet, will be very popular for useful wear during the spring for shopping and traveling. They are double breasted, with revers collar, and are cut without crossing seams on the hips.

The dress skirt bids fair to rival the bodice in excess of elaboration on its lower half, and the elegant simplicity which not long ago was conspicuous on woman's attire has now almost vanished and will be less and less in evidence as the warm days return.

THE ODORLESS
CREMATORY CLOSET.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematory Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS.

Allistou, March 1st, 1895.

I have had one of your "Crematory" Closets in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully,
JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 25th, 1895.

I have used it for sometime and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets.

I am, yours, etc.
W. H. MORRISON

Medical Superintendent's Office, Sept. 30th, 1897
Asylum for the Insane, Hamilton.

Gentlemen: I had the opportunity of witnessing yesterday the operation of your Odorless Crematory Closet. It had a large accumulation of fecal matter in the pan when the fire was started, and inside of 20 minutes it was all reduced to ashes. There was no odor before or during the operation of consuming the fecal matter, as the ventilation by the fire seems to carry off all odor at once, before it has a chance to vitiate the surrounding atmosphere.

Yours truly, JAMES RUSSELL, M.D.

Binbrook, Sept. 30th, 1895.

Dear Sirs—Having been present at a private test of your new patent closet yesterday afternoon, I beg to express my satisfaction with it in every way. Neither before, during or after the burning out of its contents did I detect the slightest unpleasant odor. I am satisfied it will be a boon to thousands in rural towns, villages and country homes.

Yours truly,
M. J. MULLOCK, M.D.

A NEW INVENTION!

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which lights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

DISTRICT CHEESEMEN IN CONVENTION.

MR. C. G. PUBLOW'S INTERESTING ADDRESS.

Cooling Rooms Must be Kept Cooler to Obtain Best Results—Mr. Wm. Clurton Gives a Few Words of Encouragement.

At the afternoon session of the Cheesemaker's convention on Saturday the first business taken up was that of the election of officers. Mr. F. E. Kline, the popular and painstaking President was again unanimously elected to that office and Mr. Geo. Gillespie was elected secretary-treasurer.

Those present at the convention were Messrs D Oakley, Hastings; J L Hatton, Warsaw; W Oakley, Hastings; J F Woodcock, Lasswade; S Lowry, Highland Grove; D J Cameron, Westwood; C Roberts, Burnley; J Tomlin, Alderville; P Spence, South Dummer; F E Kline, Lakefield; R Thurston, Dunsford; E Howson, Cavanville; A Wilson, Young's Point; D Wood, Fowler's Corners; Wm Wood, Peterborough; R English, Lakefield; J P Andrews, Keene; S S Spence, South Dummer; E Wood, Greystock; J A Wood, Fleetwood; J Biddell, Benefort; J Tomlin, Alderville; — Squires, Norwood; Geo Renwick, Villiers; P Rutherford, Bailieboro; T Borland, Keene; W Weir, Lang; H Crow and J Chittick, Peterborough; H Elliott, Fowler's Corners; J W Wood, Bonismore; T Graham, Warsaw; C D Moore, Peterborough; Wm. Thompson, Jermyn; J Bryan, Westwood; W Pavier Greystock; E E Kline, Lakefield.

Mr. Kline in a few opening remarks urged that if a good meaty cheese was to be produced good milk and a well regulated temperature in the curing room must be obtained. Many cheesemakers thought that when a cheese was put in the curing room they were through with it. In reality they were only half through with it. Too much importance could not be attached to the curing of the cheese. A sub-earth duct was no use unless a proper curing room was possessed.

MR. A. G. PUBLOW, of the Provincial Dairy School, Kingston was then introduced. He stated in opening that he would have been pleased to see some of the ladies present and also more of the patrons—they should be as much interested as the makers.

Last year he had spoken on the subject of making "Good cheese from good milk." He did not intend telling the makers this year how to make good cheese from bad milk, because it could not be done. He warned the makers against taking in any bad milk. When in Montreal recently he had observed that some of the cheese there from Peterborough was as fine as any he had ever put a trier in.

Before starting to make cheese in the spring the maker should be sure the factory was in good condition. The demand now was for cheese of close body and a sweet, nutty flavour. The first necessity was good milk. It should be of a quality which would not show much acid inside of three hours. Cheese could not be made from over-ripe milk. There was nothing more necessary in the manufacture of cheese than having milk at the right acidity when making. This lay with the patrons and they should be educated to send in the right kind of milk. If it came in over ripe the patrons must cool it. Soft, silky cheese could only result from a good, moist curd. Flavour was also a strong point and it could not be procured from over-ripe milk.

In colouring, the maker must be guided by the buyer.

Some makers used too much starter and the cheese was, consequently, of a bitter flavour.

A STARTER SHOULD BE USED

when the milk requires it. For instance when the milk comes in very sweet or very gassy, makers sometimes use the starter for the purpose of getting the milk ready for the rennet. Cheesemaking is a work of fermentation, and a starter will therefore flavour it. It requires a lot of skill to handle a starter successfully.

Rape, turnip or leek gave a poor flavour to the milk. The curd must be so well cooked before the acid is discernible that is not mussy, and should be discernible in two hours.

Dampness of the weather affected the cooking of the curd, and there were so many conditions to be taken into account that the speaker could not advise as to how high to cook it.

Equality in the size of curds was a necessity. If the sizes were different, the kinds of cheese were different and this would be shown up on the trier. The curds contained moisture according to its size, and fermentation was carried on in the same manner.

In fast working milk, it should be thickened as soon as possible with more rennet in order that the curd might be cut as soon as possible, and the moisture expelled before there was too much acid. In this case the curds should be cut very fine—almost as fine as wheat. The whey might also be drawn off and water run in. If the curd was being cooked at 100 the water should be about 10 degrees.

If the cheese was put into a curing room at a temperature of eighty degrees, it could not be sweet and nutty. An would not do, no matter how well the cheese was made. A lower temperature was necessary. If a cool curing room could be procured, then the cheese must be made to suit the higher temperature. This cheese would not, of course, be as silky or sweet as was desirable, but it would keep better.

In following one system in making cheese, every requirement of that system must be followed most minutely. One little deviation would often mean loss of a cent a pound.

If there was a sub earth duct in connection with the factory, the ventilation must be good. At the temperature of 65 degrees the lactic acid germ did the best work. When the temperature was higher, the conditions were more in favour of the filth germs, and the flavour would deteriorate.

A curing room built with six thicknesses of lumber with paper between, was perfection. In it the temperature could be kept at 65 degrees without ice.

The patrons should learn that they must take especial care of their milk when the weather changed.

Cheese made for cold storage should be made quite firm and less moist.

For the starter there should be a can that can be covered up. It should be and fit into a larger one of galvanized iron. The space between could be filled with water.

One per cent. of the starter should be put in the milk. The milk ought to be at 76 degrees, and then cooled down to 60. A starter should be propagated and not kept for more than two weeks. Only perfect milk should be used to make the starter, and the starter should never be used unless when absolutely necessary.

In closing Mr. Publow cautioned the makers against allowing the vats to become rusty.

Mr. Wm. Clurton was called upon for a few words. In opening, he stated that the Peterborough cheese stood as high as any in Canada, as evidenced by the number of buyers who attended the Board meetings. The speaker has always sympathized with the makers. He thought that they were asked to take too much risk for the remuneration which they received, (applause. It was not fair to pay the cheesemaker so small a wage, and then ask him to shoulder all the responsibility if anything went wrong with the cheese. Some buyers were inclined to in taking the cheese, particularly if the market had fallen after it had been purchased. After a make had been refused it was subjected to a very severe test. It had to lie in the factory for some time and then, after being sent to Montreal it would often remain in the hot freight sheds for several days before being shipped. All this had a bad effect on the cheese and the maker had to stand the brunt of it. In closing Mr. Clurton again referred to the matter of having cool curing rooms.

President Kline brought up the matter of the appointment of an instructor. He thought there would be no need of an inspector if every factory was equipped with a Babcock tester.

Mr. Publow thought that an instructor's time would be all taken up instructing without inspecting.

After considerable discussion it was decided by a large majority that it would be preferable to have a Government instructor rather than a local man.

Before the close of the convention votes of thanks were passed to Messrs. Hart and Publow for their instructive addresses, and to the council for allowing the cheesemakers to use the council chamber.

THE PRAYER MEETING AND ITS USES.

REV. J. R. BASTOW SPEAKS ON THIS SUBJECT.

A Timely Address on a Present-day Subject by the Pastor of the Murray Street Baptist Church.

The Rev. Mr. Bastow preached last Sunday morning a sermon on "The Prayer Meeting." One never remembers having heard a sermon upon the subject before nor can one recall having heard of a minister anywhere preaching upon this subject So the theme was of rare interest. We have often heard incidental remarks and exhortations upon the importance of attendance at prayer meetings; but the treatment of the subject yesterday was very fresh and inspiring. He gave first a description of the apostolic prayer meeting, then a brief history of the prayer meeting in the centuries since. Then he gave an account of the decline of denominations and churches that slighted the prayer meeting, and the growth and spiritual vitality of the denominations and churches that exalted the prayer meeting. Then followed some suggestions as to how to make the prayer meeting of interest and value.

The text was Acts 1:14, 2:1—"These all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication." "They were all with one accord in one place."

This is a model of apostolic prayer meetings. The one hundred and twenty disciples gathered in the upper room at Jerusalem, in compliance with the Divine command, to pray for the fulfilment of the promise that they should be endued with power from on high. They were all there. There was one aim and one action. They gave themselves to prayer.

THIS ONE THING

they did, and nothing is so well calculated to unite the hearts of Christian people as earnest, united prayer for one thing. As the result of their eight days' prayer meeting the meaning of the facts of Christ's life, death and resurrection was made known. The plan of salvation was revealed. Their own hearts were filled with love and zeal, and with power over men as never before, and three thousand were converted in a single day.

The week meetings usually held by the Christian church in the apostolic days were patterned after this model. Except the apostles and such eloquent persons as Apollos, of whom there were few in the primitive church, no one was allowed the right of exclusive speech in one meeting. One came with a Psalm, another a doctrine, another a prophecy, another a tongue, and another an interpretation of tongues. The Holy Spirit distributed widely as well as liberally these gifts upon the members of each church and they all contributed freely, of what had been given them, for the edification of each other. So that the in its best form resembles more nearly than anything now in existence the usual form of meetings in the primitive church. When the Roman hierarchy seized and held the Christian church the prayer meeting and the priesthood led and controlled the services. But the Reformation restored the prayer meeting to its former place of prominence and usefulness in the Christian church. While there was great preaching, the laity of the church rendered immense service in forwarding that great and grand movement through the social-devotional services of the church. A century later the churches degenerated into formalism and the prayer-meeting again disappeared, but it was once more restored to its place of power and usefulness by such evangelists as the Wesleys, Whitfield and Edwards, and from that time to this it has never disappeared in evangelical churches. It has passed through various vicissitudes, but at the present time there are very few evangelical churches that attempt to maintain their church life without the prayer meeting.

At the present time we observe that the individual churches and the denominations that ignore or slight the prayer meeting become cold and formal and stagnant in their religious life. But the denominations and churches that lay upon the prayer meeting have the largest degree of enjoyment and of progress.

CHURCH CHIMES.

In the evening the anthem in St. Paul's church was "I will feed my flock," the large choir giving it an excellent effect.

The solo, "A Contrite Heart," was well rendered in St. Andrew's church yesterday morning by Miss Falconer.

The chorus for the Easter concert of the George street church will meet for rehearsal to-morrow (Tuesday) evening in Mr. Walden's studio, at 8 o'clock sharp.

Last evening in St. Paul's church, Mr. Culnerwall sang the solo "Eternal Faith" in a manner which showed him to be the possessor of a well modulated and carefully cultivated voice, although he laboured under the great disadvantage of a heavy cold.

At St. Paul's Church yesterday morning Mr. James Dawson excelled himself in the singing of Gounod's, "Father in Heaven. This beautiful song was given in a comprehensive musicianly manner and reflected great credit on Mr. Dawson as a vocalist.

Very large congregations were present at the services yesterday in Bethany Tabernacle. In the evening the seating accommodation was insufficient and extra chairs had to be procured. The addresses were delivered by Pastor Fisher, Toronto, who will also speak at the special services during the week.

A large congregation was present at the evangelistic service in the George street Methodist church last evening. A very effective service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. S. J. Shorey. The anthem—"Sun of my Soul"—was excellently rendered by the choir. The solo passages, sung by Miss Clara Bellegham and Miss L. Pascoe, were very pleasing.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH NOTES.

The congregations at St. Luke's yesterday were good. In the evening the incumbent preached on "Temptation," the third of the course of Lenten Sunday evening sermons. Next Sunday the subject will be "The Building of Character."

The Men's Chapter of the Guild meet to-morrow evening at Mr. Henderson Nesbitt's house. All members of the congregation are invited to attend. The subject of the discussion will be "Labour and Capital."

The lecture in St. Luke's next Wednesday evening will be given by Rev. H. Symonds. Subject—"The Life of Bishop Harrington, the Martyr Missionary of Central Africa.

At the lecture on "Christian Unity" at Arthur last week there was a very large attendance, representative of many denominations. Amongst others, Rev. Father O'Leary attended. Father O'Leary held his own Friday evening service half an hour earlier in order to attend the lecture.

LECTURE TO MEN.

Rev. W. L. Armitage delivered a stirring address on "The Brotherhood of Man" yesterday afternoon at St. John's church. This is the great essential spirit of the day, inside the church and outside of it—the recognition of the fact that in the world wide family each man is a brother in virtue of a common parentage in the Eternal Father. A closer bond of brotherhood however unites us by our relationship to Jesus Christ—as members of Christ are we members one of another. In all relations of life should this spirit govern our actions. Men must not imbibe a spirit of discontent with their position in life, because of this equality. Employees must not envy employer, but each render the other that which is due. In social life should this spirit also prevail. It was the great feature of the life of our queen that she could go and sit by the bed of her poorest subject, and speak of the great eternal truths in which we have our comfort. The Brotherhood of Man could not be fostered by labour combinations, it could not be fostered by law. Law must be the consequence, not the source of this spirit. Only in a complete knowledge of Christ could we know and regard ourselves as brothers.

THE DOCTOR'S CONSOLATION.

Told Mr. Hill He was a Dying Man, but South American Nervine Cured When Hope was Abandoned.

Mr. W. J. Hill, a well-known man in Bracebridge, Ont., suffered for years from liver trouble, dyspepsia and nervous weakness. He says he tried nearly every remedy in the market which claimed to meet his case, without success. He was told by a physician that he was a dying man. He began taking South American Nervine, and found almost immediate benefit from its use. He continued using it, and to-day says he would stake his life on this great remedy as a cure for all like sufferers to himself. Sold by H. S. Macdonald and Ormond & Walsh.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY,

MARCH 14th and 15th.

A PRACTICAL ILLUSTRATION

Will be given of the superiority of FEATHERBONE in its various uses and applications in the art of Dressmaking, especially as an aid towards the improvement of the form and fit of the waist, giving added beauty to the lines of the bodice and perfect smoothness to the cloth.

The use of FEATHERBONE has revolutionized the older methods of taying a waist as it is stitched in by machine, right through seam, bone and all becoming actually a part of the bodice, moulding it into a shape that it will retain until worn threadbare, giving to the form a graceful outline and a decided elegance to the figure.

CORDING EFFECTS.

In Piping and Cable sizes ; the very newest and daintiest thing for Collars, Cuffs, Belts, Etc., made in contrasting silk or plaids will be the correct accompaniment of Cloth or Shirt Waists.

We invite the ladies of Peterborough to visit this Free Demonstration and inspect the Shirts, Waists, Cordings, Etc., on exhibition, when MRS. LOWE, of the Toronto Featherbone Parlours wil give Free Lessons in Featherboning and Cording. Remember all instruction absolutely without charge and you are not asked to buy anything.

Death of M. Secretan Who Floated the Copper Bubble in 1888—The Final Entombment of Prince Bismarck's Body—Radical and Irish Attack on the Naval Budget—Cable News.

London, March 14.—The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail says: The Chinese here report that Great Britain has seized the Miaotao Islands, opposite Port Arthur, in the strait of Pechili, north of Tongchaufu, in the northwest portion of the Shantung Peninsula.

GERMAN BUDGET WRANGLE.

A Belief That Dissolution Will Grow Out of It.

Berlin, March 14.—A number of leading members of the Reichstag of all parties last night were of the opinion that the Reichstag to-day will vote the budget committee's report by about 200 against 168, and they believe a dissolution will follow. The Centre, however, does not believe there will be a dissolution, but thinks it is a mere bluff upon the part of the Government.

The plans of Cecil Rhodes, the British South African magnate, who is in this city with the view of pressing upon the German Government the advisability of co-operating in the building of the Cape to Caire Railroad, which will pass through a portion of German African territory, will be submitted to colonial and commercial experts, on whose reports the Government will act.

Cecil Rhodes in Berlin.

Berlin, March 14.—Emperor William, it is said, has sent an aide-de-camp, inviting Mr. Cecil Rhodes to another audience.

The National Zeitung says: "Before he left England Mr. Rhodes had an audience with the Queen, and he was the bearer of her salutations to the Emperor."

A Great Schemer Dead.

Paris, March 14.—M. Secretan, founder of the Societe des Metaux, and chief agent in the great copper ring of 1888, died yesterday. M. Secretan, in February, 1888, formed a French syndicate to raise the price of copper, then very low, by a monopoly. The syndicate had everything its own way until March of the following year, when it came to grief through M. Secretan's wild speculation in copper, its collapse being followed by a widespread panic.

Bismarck to Be Entombed.

Berlin, March 14.—The body of the late Princess von Bismarck was transferred yesterday from Varzin to Friedrichsruhe and was placed next to the body of the late Chancellor in the Friedrichsruhe Castle.

On April 1 the final funeral ceremonies of both will be held, when it is expected that the town will be crowded with people from all over the Fatherland. The day has been selected because it is the anniversary of the birth of Prince Bismarck. The new mausoleum which has been built will be finished by that time.

LABOUCHERE AND DILLON.

Are "Agin the Government" on Proposed Naval Expenditure.

London, March 14.—During the discussion of the naval estimates in the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Henry Labouchere, Liberal member for Northampton, moved a reduction in the vote. He argued that the Government was "playing the game of beggar my neighbor" against the whole world, declared it "foolish swagger to boast ability to build more ships than any other country." Great Britain, he asserted, was not richer than the United States, nor than France and Russia combined.

Mr. John Dillon, Nationalist member for East Mayo, in supporting the reduction, said: "British statesmen who attempt to induce the United States to abandon their traditions by embarking in a wild career of naval competition with Europe, will bitterly regret it, for the day will come when England will be hard driven to maintain naval equality with the United States alone. The First Lord of the Admiralty (Mr. Goschen) is trying to compete with six powers."

Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, the Government leader, denied that either the First Lord of the Admiralty or the Government had any such insane idea. The First Lord of the Admiralty, he declared, had deliberately based his policy upon the accepted principle that Great Britain's navy should be equal to the force of any other two powers.

The House rejected the motion for a reduction in the estimates by 147 votes against 19.

Picquart Goes to the Civil Prison.

Paris, March 14.—Col. Picquart, in accordance with the decision of the criminal section of the Court of Cassation, has been handed over for trial to the civil authorities, and has been transferred from the Cherche Midi Military Prison to the civil prison of La Santo.

BRITAIN BACKS ITALY.

Mr. Morgan Said It Was a Mistake, But the Government Persists.

London, March 14.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. William Pritchard Morgan, Liberal member, who recently, on behalf of British and American syndicates, obtained what appears to be an immensely valuable concession in the Chinese Province of Szechuan, moved to adjourn, in order to call attention to the support given by the British minister at Pekin to Italy's demand for the lease of Sanmun Bay. He declared Great Britain, the United States and Japan needed expansion of trade, and it was a great mistake to support Italy, whose demand, he claimed, was another step towards the disintegration of China.

The Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, Right Hon. William St. John Broderick, defended the Government's action. In so doing, he said Italy had for many years been the friend and ally of Great Britain, and, so far as Great Britain was concerned, if by diplomacy Italy could persuade China to make concessions, Her Majesty's Government would welcome Italy's appearance in the far east as an ally of Great Britain. Continuing, Mr. Broderick said the policy of Her Majesty's Government was to safeguard British interests, and as long as these were not threatened not to stand in the way of friendly powers taking steps to safeguard their interests.

The motion to adjourn was eventually negatived without a division.

INSURGENTS WHIPPED.

The American Advance Began Disastrously for the Filipinos on Monday—Some Details of the Fight.

Manila, March 14.—At daylight yesterday Brigadier-General Wheaton's divisional brigade, consisting of the 20th U. S. Infantry, the 22nd Infantry, eight companies of the Washington Volunteers, seven companies of the Oregon Volunteers, three troops of the 4th U.S. Cavalry and a mounted battery of the 6th Artillery, was drawn up on a ridge behind San Pedro Macati, a mile south of the town. The advance was sounded at 6.30 a.m., the cavalry leading the column at a smart trot across the open to the right, eventually reaching a clump commanding the rear of Guadaloupe.

Supported by the Oregons, the advance force opened a heavy fire on the rebels. The response was feeble and desultory, apparently coming from handfuls of men in every covert.

While the right column was swinging towards the town of Pasig, the left advanced, pouring volleys into the bush.

Insurgents made a determined stand at Guadaloupe Church, but they were unable to withstand the assault.

At 7.30 a river gunboat started towards Pasig. The Filipinos were first encountered by this vessel in the jungle near Guadaloupe.

Steaming slowly, the gunboat poured a terrific fire from her Gatling guns into the brush. For all of an hour the whirring of the rapid fire guns alternated with the booming of the heavier pieces on board.

Shore Battery Took Part.

In the meanwhile Scott's battery ashore was shelling the trenches and driving the insurgents back. The artillery then advanced to the ridge of bamboo and drove a few of the Filipino sharpshooters away with volleys from their carbines. The artillery then advanced and met with little opposition. In the meantime the infantry had been sent forward in extended order, the Washington Regiment resting on the bank of the river, each regiment deploying on reaching its station and furnishing its own supports. The artillery moved to a ridge commanding Pasig and Pateros. By this time the insurgents were in full flight along a line over a mile long, and the firing was discontinued temporarily, in order to give the troops a rest before making the attack on Pasig. Their loss was believed to be severe, but only eight Americans were wounded. At this stage of the engagement it was raining heavily.

The Attack Resumed.

After a short rest General Wheaton resumed the attack on Pasig. At 11.30 a.m. the column came in contact with the insurgents, and a gunboat steamed to the firing line and cleared the jungle on both sides, while the battery took up a position on a bluff at the right. The first shot from the American field pieces, at 1,900 yards range, dislodged a gun at Pasig. A hot fire on the rebel position was maintained along the whole American line until 2.30 p.m., when preparations were made for the attack. At 3.30 p.m. a large body of the Filipinos was discovered working around our right flank, and the 20th Regiment was moved to a commanding ridge. The insurgents were met opposite Pateros, but they bolted. Thirty of them were killed; 16 were also taken prisoners. The Americans lost six men wounded.

Cavite Women Fought.

Tacoma, Wash., March 14.—Oriental papers brought by the steamship Victoria contain the following extract from The Republica Filipino, the insurgents' paper:

"Splendid demonstration of the Cavite women, without distinction of class or age, unanimously requested with enthusiasm to be permitted to take the place of men if the men perish in the struggle against the Americans for the defence of the independence of the Philippines. They say that irrespective of the weakness of their sex, the love of their country will make them strong and will animate to keen combat against the Americans."

A telegram published in The Republica says that a letter has been found in Baltimore offering $50,000 reward for the assassination of Aguinaldo.

SPANIARDS ARE VERY SORE.

Talk of Appealing to Powers in Philippine Prisoner Matter.

Madrid, March 14.—Gen. Rios, the Spanish commander in the Philippines, in an official despatch acquainting the Government of the fact that Major-General Otis has stopped the negotiations for the release of the Spanish prisoners in the hands of the rebels, says: "I protest in the name of humanity, and believe the time has arrived to appeal through the consuls to the good offices of the powers." The despatch says also: "I am told that the Filipinos are at war with the Americans, and that the prisoners cannot be ransomed for money, as that would improve the position of the insurgents. In view of my situation between the Americans and the Filipinos, I await the orders of the Government."

A copy of the despatch was sent immediately to Senor Silvela, the Premier, who had a long conference with Gen. Polavieja, Minister of War. Both admit the gravity of the situation, and the despatch will be submitted to the Cabinet Council to-day.

The plan of negotiating with Aguinaldo direct, without reference to Washington, has been abandoned.

Italy Recalls Her Minister.

Rome, March 14.—The Tribuna asserts that Italy has not delivered an ultimatum to China. On the contrary, the Italian Government has disavowed the action of Signor Martino regarding the Sanmun Bay affair and has recalled him, confiding Italy's interest to the British minister at Pekin, Sir Claude Macdonald, until the successor of Signor Martino arrives there.

Death of Sir Julius Vogel.

London, March 14.—Sir Julius Vogel, the colonial statesman, is dead. Sir Julius Vogel, K.C.M.G., who was created a knight in 1875, was born in London in 1835. He was Premier of New Zealand in 1866, 1878 and 1876. He was Colonial Treasurer of the new Government formed in 1884.

The Big Iron Pipe Trust.

Cleveland, O., March 14.—Col. Clarence Burke, one of the promoters of the cast-iron pipe trust, states that the big deal has been consummated, and that practically all the pipe foundries in the country are included in the combine, which has been incorporated with a capital of $30,00,0000.

Manitoba Draining Ontario.

Winnipeg, March 14.—Eight trains of settlers and their effects arrived from eastern Ontario on Sunday. The greater portion of the trains were taken up with settlers' effects, there only being about 200 settlers, while there were 100 cars of effects. These emigrants are of the very best class.

Weak and Run Down, With Heart and Kidneys in Bad Condition—Restored by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I was very much run down, having been sick for several months. I had been trying different remedies which did me no good. I would have severe spells of coughing that would leave me prostrate. I was told that my lungs were affected, and my heart and kidneys were in a bad condition. In fact, it seemed as though every organ was out of order. I felt that something must be done and my brother advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I procured a bottle and began taking it. Before it was half gone I felt that it was helping me. I continued its use and it has made me a new woman. I cannot praise it too highly." MRS. SUMMERVILLE, 217 Ossington Avenue, Toronto, Ontario. Get only Hood's, because

EDITORIAL NOTES.

To the injury of the Conservative party the "Old Tories" are about as scarce as the Mail's "new Liberals."

THE Motor Carriage Company of Toronto, with a capital of $250,000, has been incorporated to build horseless (electric) carriages. Hon. Senator Cox is one of the promoters.

THE Mail and Empire explains that the type machine made it refer to Mr. Tarte's "steals" instead of "deals." The organ of the machine, if it gives the operator sufficient latitude, might, in political matters, some fine day stumble by accident upon the truth or decent reference to political opponents.

FRANCE is on the down grade—extraordinary facilities for divorce have been granted. The Paris divorce courts gives one day to free divorces, and on one such day 249 marriages were annulled in four hours, a rate of one divorce and over a minute. When the marriage bond is thus relaxed other things are sure to become out of joint.

A BRANTFORD minister is booked to lecture in Guelph on "Handsome Women," and the Royal city's detractors are cruel enough to say the ladies of Guelph will not be able to take his remarks as personal; and the retort is made that the parson did not derive his inspiration on the subject from anything he saw in Brantford.

THE area and value of the C.P.R. lands sold last year nearly doubled. This satisfactory result is not unconnected with the steps taken by the Liberal Government to reduce freight rates on grain. The more cheaply the products of Northwest lands can be carried, the higher the value they will assume in the eyes of contemplating purchasers.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD'S remedy for the exodus to the United States was the N.P., but it failed to do the work. Liberalism was the needed treatment. There are, remarks the Brantford Expositor, no people going from Canada to the United States at present, but last year $2,225,000 worth of settlers' effects were brought into Canada from Uncle Sam's country.

THE extreme Prohibitionists are inclined to blame Sir Wilfrid Laurier for declining to regard the result of the plebiscite as a warrant for prohibitory legislation. While there is a difference of opinion as to the value of prohibitory legislation in the abstract, there can be no doubt that a law, chiefly of a sumptuary character, unsupported by an overwhelming preponderence of public opinion, cannot be effectively enforced. One would expect moderation from advocates of temperance, and one gets it from men whose opinion is founded on judgment, derived from a study of conditions, but those whose opinions have no other basis than sentiment are apt to run to extremes and take extravagant views.

Put Your Finger on Your Pulse

You feel the blood rushing along.

But what kind of blood? That is the question.

Is it pure blood or impure blood?

If the blood is impure then you are weak and languid; your appetite is poor and your digestion is weak. You cannot sleep well and the morning finds you unprepared for the work of the day. Your cheeks are pale and your complexion is sallow. You are troubled with pimples, boils, or some eruption of the skin. Why not purify your blood?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

will do it. Take it a few days and then put your finger on your pulse again. You can feel the difference. It is stronger and your circulation better. Send for our book on Impure Blood.

If you are bilious, take Ayer's Pills. They greatly aid the Sarsaparilla, They cure constipation also.

Write to our Doctors.

Write them freely all the particulars in your case. You will receive a prompt reply, without cost.

THE LEGISLATURE

Hon. Mr. Gibson's Witty Remark on the Ottawa Bill.

THE BINDER TWINE OUTPUT.

List of the Bills Which Were Read a Second Time on Monday - An Interesting Budget of Assembly Notes Gathered From Many Departments - The Agricultural College Report Satisfactory.

Toronto, March 14.—The day was a slow and dreary one in the Legislature yesterday. Many of the members were absent, including the Premier, who has attack of la grippe. As a consequence many of the second and all of the third readings set down were postponed.

The House went into committee with Mr. W. A. Charlton (South Norfolk) in the chair, when the following bills were advanced a stage:

To consolidate the debt of the town of Mattawa.

To incorporate the village of Sturgeon Point.

Respecting the town of Smith's Falls.

To incorporate the Bruce Mines & Algoma Railway Company.

To incorporate the Toronto Western General Hospital.

The committee passed Mr. Pardee's bill for the union of The Toronto General Trusts Company and The Trusts Corporation of Ontario under the name of The Toronto General Trusts Corporation.

The House, on resuming, read the following bills a second time:

Respecting the town of Orillia.

To consolidate the floating debt of the town of Brampton.

Relating to the Sault Ste. Marie & Hudson Bay Railway Company.

Respecting Victoria Hospital of the city of London.

To consolidate the debt of the town of Leamington.

To incorporate the Toronto, Lindsay & Pembroke Railway Company.

To amend the act incorporating the Smith's Falls, Rideau & Southern Railway Company.

To incorporate the Haliburton, Whitby & Mattawa Railway Company.

To incorporate the Thessalon & Grand Portage Railway Company.

On the second reading of Mr. Lumsden's bill respecting the city of Ottawa being called no one spoke either in its support or against it, which led Hon. Mr. Gibson playfully to remark there was a clause respecting Sunday cars in this bill, but all seemed to fight shy of it. (Laughter.)

Mr. Crawford's bill respecting the city of Toronto, as amended by the private bills committee, was read a second time without comment; so was Dr. Pyne's bill respecting the Incorporated Synod of the Diocese of Toronto, Mr Hill's bill to incorporate the town of York, and Hon. Mr. Davis' bill relating to the County of York.

Mr. Marter (North Toronto) asked: "What were the actual cash receipts from the sale of binder twine manufactured at the Central Prison for the 12 months ending Sept. 30, 1897?"

Hon. Mr. Davis, in reply, said the Government did not sell binder twine, but had an arrangement with the contractor.

Mr. Russell (East Hastings) moved the second reading of his bill respecting civil engineers.

Mr. Hoyle (North Ontario) having asked some questions respecting its provisions, Hon. Mr. Ross said the object of the bill was to improve the status of civil engineers and better equip them for their duties. He scarcely could go so far as Mr. Russell's bill went, but in the legal committee the rights of present engineers could be safeguarded.

Mr. Taylor's bill to amend the Assessment Act was read a second time. Its object is a simple one—that a summary of the assessment roll may be transmitted to the county clerk, instead of the roll itself.

Mr. Pattullo's bill to incorporate the Ontario Historical Society passed the second reading without comment.

ASSEMBLY NOTES.

The attendance of members at yesterday's session was very light, only 33 being present—18 Conservatives and 15 Liberals.

A petition signed by members of The Globe staff has been sent in praying for the adoption of the Hare-Spence system of voting.

Mr. Henry Totten of the License Department is confined to his house, suffering from inflammatory rheumatism. His illness may delay the debate on the license bill.

Mr. Darley, an employe at the Central Prison, has been appointed to superintend the manufacture of binder twine and cordage at the prison at a salary of $1,500 per annum. The salary is to be paid partly by the Government and partly by the contractors.

The Government has been interviewed by Mr. Stuart of the Perth Distillery, who protests against the revenue bill being unfair to the smaller concerns.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt was waited upon yesterday morning by a large deputation of life insurance men, who came to remark that no change was made in the tax on insurance people in the late amendment to the revenue bill. The deputation wanted the tax lowered the same as that in fire insurance companies.

The Department of Agriculture has received a letter from Mr. Peter Byrne, the Ontario agent at Liverpool, stating that owing to illness Mr. J. N. Wigle, representative of the Ontario Tobacco Growers' Association to England, had been forced to return home. English tobacco men like the Canadian product, but the manner in which it is packed will have to be improved. The letter says English manufacturers will use all the properly packed tobacco Ontario can send.

Hon. E. J. Davis, Provincial Secretary, put in a return to an order passed by the Legislative Assembly on Dec. 15, 1897, for correspondence in reference to the case of C. E. Grant of St. Thomas, charged with having obtained copies of the examination papers before the matriculation examination in 1896, which he admitted after a commission of inquiry had been held.

Chief Game Warden Tinsley has received a letter from Passenger Agent Ushler of the C.P.R., stating that in consequence of the exhibit made by the C.P.R. at the Sporting Exhibition at Madison Square Garden, New York, many American tourists had announced their intention of going into the Lake Temiscamingue district this summer.

Ontario Agricultural College.

Prof. Mills' report to the Minister of Agriculture of the College and Experimental Farm at Guelph is a very flattering one. The attendance of students during the past year surpassed any previous record—328 in the regular course and 110 in the dairy department. Of those in the regular course 87 per cent. are from Ontario, 7¼ per cent. from other provinces and 5¾ per cent. from other countries. The various professors, the experimentalist, farm superintendent, manager of poultry department and agriculturist, are all satisfactory.

Doctors now agree that consumption is curable.

Three things, if taken together, will cure nearly every case in the first stages; the majority of cases more advanced; and a few of those far advanced.

The first is, fresh air; the second, proper food; the third, Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil with hypophosphites.

To be cured, you must not lose in weight, and, if thin, you must gain. Nothing equals Scott's Emulsion to keep you in good flesh.

WILL TRY TO SAVE HER.

The Boston Towboat Company Will Endeavor to Save the Wrecked Castilian—Plucky Lady Passenger.

Boston, Mass., March 14.—The Allan Line Steamship Company has made arrangements with the Boston Towboat Company to save, if possible, the Castilian. To-day the tug Storm King and wrecking outfit, consisting of the wrecking lighter Ali, with three large steam pumps and boilers, divers, gang of wreckers, etc., will leave Boston for the scene of the wreck.

Str. Castilian to Be Abandoned.

Halifax, March 14.—Captain Barrett and the first and second officers remain on the wrecked Allan steamer Castilian at Gannet Rock; all the rest of the officers and crew are in Yarmouth. The steamer has not yet been abandoned, but must be, as she is now in hourly danger of breaking up.

The weather has been so rough that what was got off was only taken with great difficulty. There is no one on board now to attend to the live stock, and they have practically been abandoned. A tug remains by the steamer. No official explanation has yet been given as to the cause of the disaster.

Miss Hendrie Took Pictures.

The shipwrecked people are warmly praising the conduct of Miss Hendrie of Hamilton, Ont., who was the life of the first cabin party, by her merry, entertaining sociability. Miss Hendrie filled in part of the time by taking photographs of scenes on the steamer and of Gannet Rock. One of her pictures shows a group of passengers wearing life belts.

Passengers at Halifax.

Eleven saloon passengers of the wrecked Allan Liner arrived in Halifax last night. The remainder of the passengers, including all the second-class and steerage, will arrive to-night in ample time to catch the mail steamer Vancouver, sailing for Liverpool.

A Frightful Blunder.

Will often cause a horrible Burn, Scald, Cut or Bruise. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world, will kill the pain and promptly heal it. Cures Old Sores, Fever Sores, Ulcers, Boils, Felons, Corns, all Skin Eruptions. Best Pile cure on earth. Only 25 cents a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by all Druggists.

THE PERILS OF THE SEA.

Norwegian Steamer Foundered in the North Sea—Steamer Garnet Towed to Aberdeen.

Aberdeen, Scotland, March 14. — A steam trawler, which has just reached here, has landed two engineers and a seaman belonging to the Norwegian steamer Idraet, hailing from Stavanger, bound from the Tyne to Bergen, which foundered in the North Sea on March 10. Twelve other members of the crew of the Idraet are supposed to have perished. The Idraet was of 897 tons. The steamer Garnet has been towed in here in a sinking condition, having been in collision with an unknown vessel, which is believed to have foundered.

Ashore on Coffins Patches.

Key West, Fla., March 14.—The British steamer Plateau, Captain Allan, from Baltimore on March 3, for Havana, with a cargo of hay and railroad iron, went ashore on Friday last on Coffins Patches, 50 miles from here. Her cargo is being jettisoned.

Old England's Flag, vs. Dr. A. W. Chase

The virtues of Dr. Chase's remedies are known the world over and like old England's flag the sun on them never sets.

Dr. Chase's Ointment, Kidney-Liver Pills, Catarrh Cure, Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and Liver Cure enjoy the confidence of everybody. They have won their way into the public favor or merit. Their sterling qualities and high standing and purity have made them the household word all around the world. All dealers sell and recommend them.

THE ODORLESS CREMATORY CLOSET.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematory Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS.

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable. Yours respectfully,

JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 28th, 1898

I have used it for sometime [and] find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.

W. H. MORRISON

Medical Superintendent's Office, Sept. 30th, 1897 Asylum for the Insane, Hamilton.

Gentlemen: I had the opportunity of witnessing yesterday the operation of your Odorless Crematory Closet. It had a large accumulation of fecal matter in the pan when the fire was started, and inside of 20 minutes it was all reduced to ashes. There was no odor before or during the operation of consuming the fecal matter, as the ventilation by the flue seems to carry off all odor at once, before it has a chance to vitiate the surrounding atmosphere.

Yours truly. JAMES RUSSELL, M.D.

Binbrook, Sept. 30th, 1897.

Dear Sirs—Having been present at a private test of your new patent closet yesterday afternoon, I beg to express my satisfaction with it in every way. Neither before, during or after the burning out of its contents did I detect the slightest unpleasant odor. I am satisfied it will be a boon to thousands in rural towns, villages and country homes. Yours truly,

M. J. MULLOCK, M.D.

Our Farmers Require Health and Strength for Their Life Work.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Is the World's Best Spring Medicine.

It Restores All Sick and Physically Broken Down Farmers to Perfect Manhood and Strength.

The successful farmer must be a healthy man. The sick and physically broken down farmer cannot successfully compete with his vigourous, strong and hustling neighbour.

Farm work and the care of stock may be looked after by paid help, but the results are usually unsatisfactory. There are serious leaks and losses from work carelessly or half done; this is clearly seen when the harvest is gathered in.

Farming work when properly pursued is conducive to health, strength and robustness. Farmers, however, like men in other occupations, neglect the fundamental rules of health that their fathers so carefully observed in their time.

rural life"; he noted the causes, and his life work was devoted to the perfecting of his world-famed prescription, Paine's Celery Compound, which has proved of such inestimable value as a life saver. No class of men are more deeply indebted to Dr. Phelps than the farmers, because he has saved thousands of them from the grave.

The farmer who has tired, sickly feelings at times, pains in the back and side, who is restless, sleepless, despondent, dyspeptic, rheumatic or suffering from blood disease, should not fail to use Paine's Celery Compound. No other medicine so quickly reaches the root of trouble and danger.

The ailing man is soon made active, energetic, healthy and robust. The Worries and anxieties about riches and position, overwork, irregular dieting, exposure to sudden changes of weather, late hours, lack of sleep and proper rest, make wrecks of many farmers before they are middle-aged.

To-day the ordinary farmer's troubles may be enumerated as follows: dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuralgia, liver complaint, kidney disease and blood troubles; these are some of the commonest life destroyers.

Professor Edward E. Phelps, M.A., LL.D., America's greatest physician, was in his time esteemed the "farmer's friend." He closely and honestly studied the important subject of "constantly increasing sickness and mortality in shrunken tired nerves, the tissues and the muscles are all truly fed and nourished; the digestive organs are toned and work with perfect regularity, and the blood becomes fresh and pure.

In addition to all this grand work, Paine's Celery Compound bestows a long and happy life, keeping the user of the great medicine free from the aches and infirmities of advancing years.

Dear farmer friends, health and strength should be your portion. If you fully value life and its great work, and desire to extend your usefulness in your sphere of life, follow the example of the thousands who have banished disease by using Paine's Celery Compound, nature's life renewer.

"The Riddle of Existence."

THE EXAMINER has received a copy of a work by W. J. Fenton, Toronto, on the subject of "The Riddle of Existence Solved; or An Antidote to Infidelity." The object of the book is to offset Professor Goldwin Smith's fine-spun reasoning in his book—"Guesses at the Riddle of Existence." Mr. Fenton's book is in the right spirit in so much, as it exalts Divine Revelation and repels the doubt that super-refined criticism casts upon the truth that Revelation reveals. The book recognizes the Bible itself as its best vindication. The work must have a decided effect in promoting the study of the Bible. A portion of the book deals with Dr. Workman's teachings as to the vicarious character of the sacrifice of Christ and his denial of the plenary inspiration of the Old Testament. The book of Mr. Fenton is written in popular style and should be widely read, especially in an age when men, moved by vanity of freethoughtism, or made mad by much learning seek notoriety by attacking belief that the vast majority of Christians hold sacred. Published by Hunter, Rose & Co., Toronto. Price—paper 50c., cloth 75c.

DISAPPEARED AT NIGHT.

MISS JANE HALL, OF DOURO, LEAVES HER HOME.

Her Relatives Are Anxiously Enquiring Her Whereabouts—Had Only Her Nightgown on.

The family of Mr. James Hall, of Douro, are in great trepidation in consequence of the mysterious disappearance last night of a daughter, Miss Jane Hall.

It appears that Miss Hall left the house some time during the night after the family had retired and it is impossible to find any trace of her. The fact that she has been in a melancholy state of mind recently and left without other clothing than her nightgown gives rise to the most serious apprehensions.

Mr. John Hall, Lieutenant in the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, brother of the missing young lady, was in town this morning making enquiries about his sister.

VICTORIA PARK.

Victoria Park is one of the show places of Peterborough of which every citizen is proud; it is one of the most enjoyable resorts in the town, while, in its beauty and neatness and floral attire it is an invaluable object lesson and has no doubt had a popular stimulating influence upon the culture of flowers and attention to lawns. It has therefore had an educative effect which has largely aided in the beautifying of private grounds and plots which has developed so greatly of recent years. A large share of the credit for the beauty of Victoria Park is due to the Horticultural Society, which rescued it from its cow-pasture condition and, by patient and skilful work, have brought it to its present state of beauty. Considering the past relations of the Horticultural Society to the Park, it is plain that in the interests of its continued maintenance in its condition of excellence, past and present, the society, as they are willing and anxious to remain, should be its custodians. They know its needs and their tastes and associations with floriculture and horticulture specially fit them for the duty of caring for Victoria Park. The town council now propose, it is understood, withholding the usual grant to the society and assuming control of Victoria Park in connection with the other parks in town. This is, indeed a laudable ambition on the part of our aldermen, but judging from the manner in which the town has managed our parks in the past it is not likely to be attended with favourable results. Attention has only to be directed to Central Park, where the dead trees point their leafless limbs at the Brown memorial drinking fountain, perennially dry, having never been supplied with connection to make it available for public use, though the water mains being only half-a-dozen feet from it, water can be had gratis, for the taking. The aldermen have too much on their hands to devote the necessary attention to park maintenance. It is very gratifying to see them taking so much interest in the subject, but it is to be said that under the circumstances they are not so well qualified as the Horticultural Society to look after the Court House Park. They have too many other duties to spare the time which the care of the Victoria Park demands. They have not the training in park maintenance which brings the foresight that is indispensable. Even at this present time the society, if the funds had been assured, would have been making preparations in the way of plants and flowers, etc., for the summer's work. In any event the council should hesitate and consider the subject very maturely before they decide to take the management of Victoria Park out of the hands of the Horticultural Society. We believe that the people would prefer that it be left in their hands.

A BIG BURLEIGH FALLS POWER ENTERPRISE.

TO CONVERT HYDRAULIC ENERGY INTO ELECTRIC POWER AND LIGHT.

The Burleigh Falls-Lindsay-Peterborough Syndicate—Interesting Details as to their Big Power and Light Scheme.

Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell, of Toronto, the manager, and one of the members of the Burleigh Falls - Lindsay - Peterborough Electric Syndicate, is in town in the interests of the syndicate. The syndicate have, as is generally known, acquired the Burleigh Falls power, with a minimum capacity of 3,000 horse-power, and, taking into consideration the large reservoir in the vicinity, this will be increased to some 4,500 horse-power in the day time, the water being stored at night.

To a representative of the EXAMINER Mr. Culverwell stated that the syndicate purposes transmitting of this flow 1,500 h. p. for power and lighting purposes to Lindsay, leaving a balance of 3,000 h. p. available for use in Peterborough for power and light, and, it is to be hoped, railway purposes.

In connection with the development of this power, one of the leading authorities of the Dominion Government has said that hydraulically it is the cheapest developable power in the country. One of the leading Ontario Government authorities has said that Burleigh Falls has the most of any power of its size in the province, and the most eminent authority on transmission on the continent asserts that the electrical and hydraulic conditions represent development at Burleigh

AT LESS COST THAN ANY SIMILAR

electric enterprise known, in fact Mr. Culverwell holds in his hands authoritative estimates which show that the saving in hydraulic development at Burleigh Falls, as compared with other powers, will more than build the transmission lines to Lindsay and Peterborough.

Taking all these facts into consideration, it will readily seen that the Burleigh Falls-Lindsay-Peterborough Company will be in a position to furnish light and power at rates most satisfactory to manufacturers and to the company itself.

Mr. Culverwell states that he has already been assured of a large revenue from power and light in Peterboro and that the men of public spirit in Peterboro are giving him most encouraging support. In Lindsay he has already placed contracts representing $15,000, including the corporation lighting contract, and this figure can easily be increased to $20,000. It is hoped also that there will be collateral sources of revenue from this power—for electric railway purposes and development of the several mining and quarry properties in the vicinity. In fact Mr. Culverwell has already been consulted as to supplying power for operating lithographic and granite quarries and for copper mining operations in properties owned by Peterborough people, who seem to have good reason for feeling that the prospects for profitable development of their properties, with cheap power available are excellent.

In connection with the developing of

at points where cheap power can be had, the Toronto News says:—

The establishment at Niagara Falls of a branch of the great textile manufacturing firm of Alex Morton & Co., of Scotland, illustrates the value of cheap power to a community. Had it not been for the possibility of obtaining a plentiful supply of power at a low rate Niagara Falls would not have been selected as the location for this industry. Some town in the eastern States would probably have secured the establishment.

This instance provides a complete refutation to the contentions of those who argue that cheap power has nothing to do with the location of large industries, and proves conclusively that any centre possessing large quantities of power stands the first chance of securing large manufacturing concerns of this kind.

Lindsay and Peterborough should consider themselves entitled to congratulation up on the bright outlook for securing cheap power, something which according to the consensus of public opinion, both greatly need.

THE PUBLIC AND THE CATERPILLARS.

Remember, remember,
I pray you remember,
The curst caterpillar,
That from June to September
Devoured and destroyed
Every garden and lot;
I can see no good reason,
Why the pest of last season,
Or the bracelets that bring them
Should now be forgot.

Yours truly,
E. ELCOME.

[NOTE.—From the abundance of bracelets there is every reason to believe that unless heroic measures are taken, similar to or even more thorough than those of last year, we shall have this season a terrible plague of caterpillars. From now out every one that values our shade trees and fruit trees, should make it a matter of conscience to collect and destroy every caterpillar bracelet that can be found. One swallow doesn't make a summer, and one campaign against the caterpillar cannot be expected to destroy them; but their number and the extent of their ravages can be greatly lessened by a systematic and thorough as possible, destruction of bracelets.

CLEANSING BY THE BLOOD.

Rev. Mr. Cowsert gave an address on the above subject at the evangelistic services in Park street Baptist church last evening, taking for his text 1 John, 1—7.

There was no doctrine in the Word of God of greater importance than that of the blood, but while it was acceptable to God, it was hateful to the carnal mind, as it revealed how sinful sin was to require such a sacrifice to atone for it. Sin was a universal fact. All had sinned and come short of the glory of God. Everyone therefore needed cleansing. Here was where many erred, the trying to cover up their sinfulness by good deeds. When the Word of God most emphatically taught that such was alone possible by blood. Sin required a life to cancel it and nothing but a life could cancel it. Jesus by shedding His blood or pouring out His life, had made complete satisfaction and we, by depending upon its efficacy, could be cleansed from past, present and future sin and be assured of being delivered from its presence at the coming of our Lord.

During the service Mrs. Dingman sang two excellent solos. A large number remained at the after-meeting. Rev. Mr. Cowsert will preach this evening at 7.30.

ORIGIN OF WALTZING

THE DANCE AN EVOLUTION FROM A CHURCH CUSTOM.

Its Various Transformations Through Many Centuries Until It Assumed Its Present Characteristics In Germany In 1780.

The opinion most generally conceded is that France received the waltz from Germany toward the close of the eighteenth century, and among many beliefs this contains the most truth, but the justice of attributing to Germanic influence the renaissance of the waltz in France does not of necessity verify the statement that it had its origin in Germany.

Like everything else that touches humanity, where nothing is born spontaneously, but everything is the product of a series of successive evolutions, the waltz did not emanate in its present form from the brain of a dancing master. Long before 1780, the time when we find it first mentioned under this name, its graceful curves and cadences were displayed on the village greens as well as in the golden salons of palaces.

The waltz, like many other secular things, we find first in the church, where in the midst of barbaric disorder it serves to trace the union between ancient civilization and that of the middle ages. The sacred dance of the pagans is preserved to a certain point in Christian rites. It is transformed to a series of evolutions made to the sound of the tambourine. St. Isidore, archbishop of Seville, born about A. D. 580, was intrusted by the council of Toledo with the revision of the liturgy as it was then practiced in the Roman church, in which there was a tambourine dance. The council decided to adopt the Isidorian liturgy in all Spain, and it differed but little from that used in other countries at that time. This rite, celebrated before the eighth century, when the Moors first invaded Spain, was still celebrated by the Christians in the seven churches of Toledo, which the Moors abandoned after their capture of the city and was after that time called the Moorish rite.

This was known and employed in Provence and Italy. The tambourine in use in this religious dance was called by St. Isidore "moitie de symphonie" and evidently corresponded to the instrument which in the ancient sacred dances accompanied the flute, a sort of bagpipe invented two centuries B. C. And thus, as the religious dance of the middle ages is allied to the ancient sacred dance, so the waltz is an evolution of this religious dance.

In the eleventh century, when the Gregorian rite supplanted the Moorish rite, the dance disappeared from the church. It appeared very quickly in society under the name of carole, a word derived from the Latin caroler; afterward under that of basse dance, in which the grand prelates, kings and dignitaries did not disdain to join, composed of three parts, two very slow and one more lively.

The people—and at this time all who were not of the clergy or royalty were the people—used the latter part, called the tourdion, which, lighter and more lively, appealed to them, and little by little it became changed. In Italy it was first separated from the rest under the name of romanesca, and from there it passed to Provence and southern Germany, but in each of these countries it was diversified and developed according to the character of the people.

In Provence it soon became the gaillard, and this name indicates the character of the transformation.

Five hundred years later they danced the volte, which was in turn a transformation of the gaillard. The measure was ternary like the latter and might be designated technically thus: Two steps, a skip, feet together, pause. The man first faced the opposite couple, then skipped on the left foot, turning the left shoulder toward them. Repeating this four times, he again faced the other dancers. As for the lady, her movements were reduced to embracing as tightly as possible the neck of her cavalier.

As can be seen at once, this dance resembled the waltz in three ways—it was danced in three time, it was the first dance in which a turn was made and the first in which the dancer embraced his partner. The latter in fact, did not touch the ground. The cavalier held her suspended with his left arm as he executed the four movements described above.

At the court of Valois the volte was a favorite dance, especially with Catherine de' Medici, while Henry II was charmed with the psalm which Clement Marot set to an air of the volte, thinking perhaps that what came from the church should go back to the church. The volte, as did later the waltze, turned the heads of this court. The queen, Marguerite de Navarre, wife of Henry IV, was an admirable volteuse.

After the corrupt court of Valois had been dispersed by the league, and Henry III, the last of the great volteurs, had fallen under the knife of Jacques Clement, this dance disappeared forever from court, city and people. Though it greatly resembled the waltz, the latter did not descend from it directly, but was rather the younger sister of it.

In fact, the romanesca, transported, as we have said, to Provence and southern Germany, was developed in these countries very differently—in Provence into the gaillard and volte, while the Germans, more dreamy and slow, changed the romanesca into the german and waltz.

The volte succumbed while young to oblivion in the sixteenth century by very reason of its excess, but the german lived long and produced the waltz which reigns today.

About 1780 an incident occurred which tended to fix definitely the waltz among German customs in its present form and name, placing it in high society and making it known to foreigners. This was its introduction in an opera by Vincent Martin, "Una Cosa Vara," which in 1787 dethroned at Vienna the "Figaro" of Mozart. Four characters in this opera, Lubia, Vita, Chita and Lilla, dressed in black and rose color, danced on the stage the first waltz.

The favorable reception of the opera naturally drew the attention of society to the dance, and under the name of cosa vara it immediately became the fashion and shortly afterward assumed the name of waltz, by which it has been known ever since.

Thus from the tourdion of the aristocratic dance, transformed by the people, was born the romanesca, which became in France the gaillard and volte, and in Germany, through various stages, emerged at last into the waltz, and this last avatar of the old dance of the eleventh century seems to be installed definitely and to have fixed the fancy of the world.—Parisian.

HARRIET BEECHER STOWE.

She told the story, and the whole world wept
At wrongs and cruelties it had not known
But for this fearless woman's voice alone.
She spoke to consciences that long had slept;
Her message, freedom's clear reveille, swept
From heedless hovel to complacent throne.
Command and prophecy were in the tone,
And from its sheath the sword of justice leapt.
Around two peoples swelled a fiery wave,
But both came forth transfigured from the flame.
Blest be the hand that dared be strong to save
And blest be she who in our weakness came—Prophet and priestess! At one stroke she gave A race to freedom and herself to fame.
—Paul Laurence Dunbar in Century.

LIFE FROM THE OUTSIDE.

What Do Letters Reveal to the Postmen Who Deliver Them?

Did it ever occur to you how much more than the mere addresses on the letters he delivers the postman reads—how much of the seamy side of life he sees? The postman in our district, now, for example. There is, he says, a snug little house just round the corner where a young girl answers his ring. A year ago last summer when he rang one morning an elderly woman opened the door. Next day and irregularly twice or thrice a week for the next two months letters came to the young girl's mother addressed in a sprawling, girlish hand and postmarked with the name of a Pennsylvania mountain resort.

Then one morning the young girl herself opened the door again and looked disappointed when an advertising circular was all she received. The next morning, however, she dimpled and blushed when she saw her own name on an envelope which bore on one corner the name of a business firm. There were two stamps, and the postmark was Pittsburg. Every day after that a similar letter came, and at Christmas there was a small box that came registered. At Easter there was another box, and on a day in May—her birthday perhaps—another. All this time the letters came every day.

In July two days passed without a letter. Then the same writing appeared on an envelope with the name of an Atlantic City hotel on it. The girl went away to the springs again in August. Two Atlantic City letters arrived during her six weeks' absence. One came with the Pittsburg postmark the day after she returned.

Then for a month no letter came. She opened the door eagerly every time the postman rang, and sometimes her lip quivered a little when there was no letter for her. The Pittsburg postmark on a letter came then—a thin letter.

And just the day before Thanksgiving the postman handed her a thick, creamy, large envelope addressed in a strange hand. The postmark was Pittsburg. It looked like wedding cards. Perhaps it was. The postman couldn't read what the envelope contained of course, but he thought he read something in the girl's face. He's an imaginative fellow, our postman, and it seemed cruel to him that the large envelope with the wedding cards should come just the day before Thanksgiving.

How It Might Be Explained.

"There's no understanding some of these people!" exclaimed the manager as he sat in his office and thought over the happenings of the previous night. "Now, there was a fellow in the parquet last night who grumbled and growled and kicked almost from the moment he entered, and yet I saw him applauding most energetically when the curtain went down on the last act. How can you explain such inconsistency as that?"

"Perhaps it was not inconsistency at all," answered the visiting newspaper man. "Perhaps he was applauding because the curtain was going down on the last act."

How It Was Said.

"Yes, he made his first lucky strike in oats. He bought 30,000 dozen at a low figure, put them in cold storage and sold them at a profit of seventeen and quarters. That was the cornerstone of his enormous fortune."

"And the least said is, how shingle?"—Chicago Tribune.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

CURE BY MAKING RICH, RED BLOOD AND STRENGTHENING THE NERVES.

PALE AND SICKLY.

Mr. F. A. Hibbard of Sawyerville, Que., says:—"My Daughter Lena kept gradually failing in health for nearly two years. She was studying hard at school and this may have been the origin of the trouble. She lost flesh, was very pale, subject to headaches, and had a poor appetite. We became very much alarmed and doctored for some time, but with little or no benefit. Finally we read the testimonal of a young girl whose symptoms were similiar, who was cured by the use of Dr. William's Pink Pills. This decided us to give them a trial in my daughter's case, and the result was beyond our most sanguine expectations. Before more than a few boxes were used Lena was rapidly getting better and gained sixteen pounds in weight. She is now as healthy as any girl in Sawyerville, and I am quite willing this statement should be published, that our experience may prove an equal blessing to some other similar sufferer."

CONSUMPTION THREATENED.

Mr. James Grigg, West Devon, P. E. I., writes:—"I am glad to say that the last supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which I procured from you was very effective in restoring the health of my son Robert, who is now thirteen years of age. He was taken sick in the fall of 1897 with a severe pain in the right side and a bad cough. He lost his appetite and was running down very fast. The Doctor told me his trouble was turning to consumption. We had some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on hand and began to give them to him. They helped him almost at once. His cough became less frequent, the pain left him and his appetite returned. A second lot of pills completely restored his health and he now as well as ever and has been for the last three months. I think your valuable pills should be kept in every home, and I am sending you the price for a dozen boxes."

FEMALE TROUBLES.

Mrs. L. L. Legere, wife of the Roman Catholic choir master at Cocagne, N. B., says: "For about five or six years I have been a constant sufferer from female complaints. The misery I underwent can scarcely be imagined. Often I suffered so much that I could not leave my bed, and even when I was able to go about it seemed only to add to the torture I was constantly undergoing. I was treated by four different doctors, but to no avail. My husband finally persuaded me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after I had used six boxes I experinced a wonderful benefit. I continued using the pills until I had taken thirteen boxes, when my cure was complete. I attribute my restoration solely to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I gratefully recommend them to the thousands of women throughout the land who are suffering as I did.

The Way to be Well.

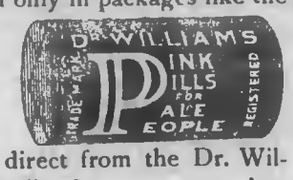
If you want to be well take care of your blood. When the blood is poor and watery, the whole system is weakened and falls an easy prey to disease. Pure blood and strong nerves is the secret of health and vigor.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People

surpass all other medicines in building up blood and strengthening the nerves. Through their action on the blood and nerves it is proved that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will CURE the following troubles:

Anaemia,	Partial Paralysis,
Chlorosis or Green Sickness.	Locomotor Ataxia,
Dizziness,	Chronic or Acute Rheumatism,
Palpitation of the Heart,	Sciatica,
Nervous Headache,	Neuralgia,
Loss of Appetite,	Chronic Erysipelas,
Indigestion and Dyspepsia,	Kidney Troubles,
After-Effects of LaGrippe,	St. Vitus' Dance,
Eruptions and Pimples,	Consumption of Bowels and Lungs,
Pale or Sallow Complexion,	Scrofula,
Swelling of Hands or Feet,	All Female Weakness,
General Debility.	Loss of Vital Forces,
Spiral Troubles,

But remember that you must get the genuine—substitutes are worse than useless, they are dangerous. The genuine are sold only in packages like the engraving on the right, bearing the full name Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.



Sold by all dealers or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50.

BILLOUSNESS and HEADACHE.

Mr. William Morrow, St Patrick, Ont., says:—"I suffered very much from billousness, and sick headache. For months my stomach seemed to be in an unsettled condition and often I would vomit my food almost as soon as I had taken it. On one occasion a doctor remained with me all night before he could stop the vomiting, but beyond stopping it temporarily I received no other benefit. Through a little book which came into my possession telling of the cures effected through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was induced to give them a trial, and to my joy they have removed all the disagreeable symptoms and made me a well man again."

DYSPEPSIA CURED.

Mrs. Caleb Dorey, of Hemford, N.S., says:—For a number of years I was the victim of a complication of diseases, which left me in a weak and miserable condition, and ultimately culminated in dyspepsia, from which I suffered much agony. I was extremely nervous, food distressed me, and at night I could obtain little sleep, and that was broken by disturbing dreams. After trying several remedies without any benefical results I was at last persuaded to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I am thankful to say, have fully restored my health. I used nine boxes in all, and not only did they relieve me of the horrors of dyspepsia, but in other respects I feel stronger and better than I have been for years before.

HEART WEAKNESS.

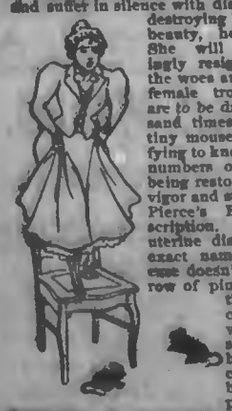
Mrs. Parker, wife of Rev. J. M. Parker, Baptist minister at the River Herbert, N. S., says that she has been a sufferer for years with heart trouble, and had tried many advertised remedies. She was also under the care of a physician, but finding herself no better she decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills without mentioning it to her friends. She was not taking them very long, however, when there was a decided improvement in her condition, and her friends began to inquire what she was taking. She was so encouraged that she persevered in the use of the pills, and has regained her health, and is able once more to assume the duties incumbent upon her. Having been so benefitted by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, she feels it her duty to recommend them to others.

KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Mrs. Jas. Gage, Brockdale Que., writes: "I have suffered very much from kidney trouble, and did not find any relief until I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have been of the greatest benefit to me, and I am sure others will find equally good results from their use."

DANGERS REAL AND FANCIED.

The average woman will scream with terror at the sight of an innocent little mouse, and then complacently sit down and suffer in silence with diseases that are destroying her youth, her beauty, her very life. She will uncomplainingly resign herself to the woes and miseries of female troubles, which are to be dreaded a thousand times more than a tiny mouse. It is gratifying to know that untold numbers of women are being restored to perfect vigor and strength by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures all uterine disorders. The exact name of the disease doesn't amount to a row of pins. If it is in the womanly organs, "Favorite Prescription" will hunt it out and cure it. It can be a drain, a pain, an inflammation, an irregularity or a weakness, and this medicine will act directly upon it, and restore the organs to perfectly healthy action. It prepares the girl to become a woman; the wife to become a mother, the middle-aged to pass the "turn of life" in safety. It is not a "cure-all" but a medicine for women only, and is the prescription of Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., the world-famed specialist in the treatment of disorders of women. Any reader of this paper may consult Dr. Pierce free by mail. Write him if your local physicians do not seem to understand your case.



Mr. W. J. Sharp, of this Dale Farm, Hemlock County, Pennsylvania, P.O. writes:—"Having had many years' experience in the use of your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and other medicines of your manufacture, I have no hesitation in saying that they are the best medicines for women's ailments I have ever used. I suffered for years from female weakness, and was under the treatment of a physician for a long time, but got no relief. I began your medicines and after using a few bottles I was entirely cured. I would recommend your medicines to any suffering woman. I have also used your 'Pleasant Pellets' and find them the best liver pills I have ever used. I have also used your 'Favorite Prescription' with my wife, and it has done her a great deal of good. She was troubled with leucorrhœa, and it cured her entirely. I have also used your 'Golden Medical Discovery' for blood disease, and it has done me a great deal of good

QUEER ANIMAL AGREEMENTS.

Unlike Creatures That Get Along Very Well In Common Quarters.

An intimate connection subsisting between different animals is known as commensalism, commensals being creatures which may be said to sit at the same table, but which do not prey upon one another. Of late years naturalists have become acquainted with numerous examples of this form of animal partnership. In one of the Chicken islands, off the New Zealand coast, a curious lizard known as the tuatara and certain species of the petrels were found inhabiting the same burrows, apparently on the best of terms. In rare cases the burrow, which consists of a passage two or three feet long, ending in a chamber a foot and a half long, one foot broad and six inches high, is the work of the bird. As a rule, however, the lizard is the excavator. Each builds its nest on opposite sides of the chamber, the lizard almost invariably choosing the left and the petrel the right side. The lizard feeds partly on worms and beetles and partly on the remnants of fishes brought to their common table by the petrel, both animals being thus benefited by the partnership. This is probably more than can be said of the prairie dog, whose underground home is frequently shared by the rattlesnake and the burrowing owl. These were at one time supposed to form a "happy family," but considerable doubt has been cast on the point by the discovery of young prairie dogs in the stomach of the rattlesnake, which seems to indicate that commensalism in this particular case has been a one sided affair so far as the benefits were concerned.

It is among marine animals, however, that the most striking examples of commensalism have been observed. A feeble fish called the remora owes its success in life to the powerful alliances it forms. One of its fins has been transformed into a sucker placed right on top of its head, by means of which it attaches itself firmly to any passing shark, whale or even ship, no doubt mistaking the latter for some huge sea monster. By these it is transported without any exertion on its own part over great distances, meanwhile picking up such food as may come in its way.

Several small fishes have been found, also, to habitually lodge in the mouth cavity of a Brazilian catfish, sharing such food as the latter succeeds in capturing. The enemies of the smaller fishes are so numerous that it is only by retreating to places inaccessible to their foes that they have a chance of survival. A favorite shelter for many small fishes is the round disk of the larger sea jellies, the stinging properties of which probably cause them to be avoided by the other denizens of the deep. As many as 20 fishes have been counted swimming within the fringed margin of one of these pulsating umbrellas. The sea cucumbers are another lowly group of marine forms which afford shelter to fishes.

Other instances might be given, such as that of the little pea crab, found in mussels and other bivalve shells, which in return for the protection given them by the molluskan shell gives its host a share of the food it captures.

MR. FRANK DODGE

Says His Life was Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto Feb, 27.—Mr. Frank Dodge, of North Maupsberg, Ont., has been visiting here recently. He is a splendid specimen of Canadian manhood, standing more than six feet high "in his stockings" erect and muscular.

"I was a different man two years ago," said he to a friend to day. The truth is I would have died of Kidney Complaint, if it hadn't been for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I had been treated by physicians and had taken various remedies without getting any better. I read of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and decided to try them. I did so, and was thoroughly cured in a couple of weeks.

Scientific Breadmaking.

The following conversation, in which a young lady attending a science school tells how bread is made, is a striking commentary upon a correspondence which has recently appeared in the columns of The St. James Gazette on the subject of British cooks.

"Bread!" she exclaims. "Well, I should say I can make bread. We studied that in our first year. You see, the yeast ferments, and the gas thus formed permeates everywhere, and transforms the plastic material into a clearly obvious atomic structure, and then"—

"But what is the plastic material you speak of?"

"Oh, that is commonly called the sponge."

"But how do you make the sponge?"

"Why, you don't make it—the cook always attends to that. Then we test the sponge with the thermometer and hydrometer and a lot of other instruments, the names of which I don't remember, and then hand it back to the cook, and I don't know what she does with it then, but when it comes on the table it is just splendid."—St. James Gazette.

They Don't Want to Fight.

Savannah, Ga., March 13.—The soldiers of the Sixth Immunes, recently from Porto Rico, which will be mustered out next Wednesday, have decided that they do not want to go to the Philippines or elsewhere in the regular army. Upon inquiry among them it was ascertained that not half a dozen of them will reenlist in the regular army. The members of the Third Connecticut feel about the same way.

His Neck Was Broken.

Ingersoll, March 13.—William O'Neill, caretaker of Victoria Park, bought a load of hay on Friday. He got on the load with the farmer, and on reaching home he slid off, expecting to light on a post, then to get down quite easily and safely, but immediately he reached the post his feet touched the bevelled part, and, like a shot, he was thrown in such a manner as to break his neck and cause almost instantaneous death.

Fell Under a Train.

Woodstock, March 13.—David McGachie, a young man, was nearly killed at the G.T.R. diamond at Anderson's factory on Saturday night. He missed the train at Ingersoll, and attempted to get home on a freight train. At the crossing he slipped off the bumpers and a wheel passed over his right arm near the shoulder. The young man's chances for life cannot be determined as yet.

Will Live in Canada Now.

North Sydney, C.B., March 13.—H. M. Whitney, the coal magnate and millionaire president of the Dominion Coal Company, who resides in Boston, has just purchased the Brookvale property near here and will erect a $50,000 residence thereon.

Owen Sound's Chair Factory Bylaw.

Owen Sound, Ont., March 13.—The bylaw to loan the chair factory $15,000 to rebuild their chair factory, which was destroyed by fire, was carried by a majority of 749. Only 49 votes were recorded against the bylaw.

Editor Loomis May Die.

Mountain Grove, Mo., March 13.—Eight brick business buildings, with contents, were destroyed by fire on Saturday. Walter H. Loomis, editor of The Advertiser, fell from the roof of his two-storey building, sustaining injuries which may prove fatal. Loss to stocks of goods will aggregate $100,000; loss to buildings, $50,000.

U. S. Losses in the Spanish War.

Washington, D.C., March 13.—Adjutant-General Corbin has issued a statement giving the number of deaths of soldiers enlisted for the Spanish war, and the causes thereof, from May 1, 1898, to Feb. 28, 1899. It shows: Killed in action, 329; died of wounds, 125; died of disease, 5,277. Total, 5,731.

Cuba Is Improving.

Washington, March 13.—The following has been received from General Ludlow at Havana: "The Havana deaths for February, 1899, are 51 per cent. less than that of February, 1898."

YET ANOTHER WRECK.

British Steamer Oswestry Stranded in Dunlough Bay.

Crook Haven, Ireland, March 13.—The British steamer Oswestry, Capt. Wilson, from Norfolk, W.Va., Feb. 22, via Newport News, for Manchester, stranded in the fog at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in Dunlough Bay. Part of her crew reached the shore, but others were missing for several hours, and there was the greatest anxiety as to their fate. Eventually the missing men reached Crook Haven, many having had miraculous escapes. The local people displayed great bravery in saving life. The Oswestry's cargo is washing ashore, and the vessel is a total wreck. If the weather freshens she will probably soon break up.

Gaspesia Under Way.

Halifax, N.S., March 13.—A Meat Cove special says: A strange steamer, supposed to be a Newfoundland sealer, approached the steamer Gaspesia yesterday afternoon and started east, the Gaspesia steaming in her wake. The weather thickened shortly after they started off together, and they were hidden from view. The strange steamer had no difficulty in making her way through the ice.

Ship Abandoned, Crew Saved.

London, March 13.—The British barque Siddartha, Capt. Gerard, from Jacksonville Jan. 1 for Liverpool, was abandoned on Feb. 22. Her crew were saved by the Danish barque Verdando, Capt. Nielson, from Paramaribo Jan. 15 for Amsterdam, which has arrived and landed them at Ymuiden.

The Fate of Poor Fido.

"Madam," said the conductor as he punched the ticket of a Titusville lady, "I am very sorry, but you can't have your dog in this car. It's against the rules."

"I shall hold him in my lap all the way," she replied, "and he will not disturb any one."

"That makes no difference," said the conductor. "I couldn't allow my own dog here. Dogs must ride in the baggage car. I'll fasten him all right for you"—

"Don't you touch my dog, sir!" exclaimed the young woman excitedly. "I will trust him to no one." And with indignant tread she marched to the baggage car, tied her dog and returned. As the train was approaching Mayville and the conductor came along she asked him, "Will you tell me if my dog is all right?"

"I am very sorry," said the conductor politely, "but you tied him to a trunk, and he was thrown off with it at Corry."—Titusville Courier.

A NEW INVENTION!

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which lights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. OUR COLUMN OF SPORTS.

SOME TIMELY REMARKS ON SEASONABLE GAMES.

What is Going on in Local and Outside Hockey Arenas—Notes From the Curling Ice.

HOCKEY.

The Lindsay Post speaks as follows of Friday's game there: "Although only one day's notice was given 350 people turned out last night to see one of the first teams in the Jr. O. H. A. series defeated by Lindsay II's. The visitors were assisted by several of the Peterborough Business College players.

The game was started at 8.25 and finished at 9 50, scarcely any time being lost. This fact, together with the satisfaction given by both teams confers credit on Referee Herb Knowlson. After seven minutes of rough scrimmaging, Whitcroft scored for Peterborough, and was followed five minutes later by Watt. But the Lindsay boys as usual got down to work, and the first half ended 3—4 in favour of Peterborough. Whitcroft got three minutes on the fence for cross-checking Paton.

The second half opened with some good play on the part of Watt, Whitcroft and Morgan, the latter scoring in two minutes. Shannon and Tate did some very fancy work in scrimmages and aided by Paton and Johnston made some remarkably fast rushes. There was a noticeable amount of bunched play throughout the game, caused principally on Lindsay's side by Taylor and Johnston playing out of their places. Johnston is swift but plays all by himself. Shannon and Paton were always in their places and played a game beyond reproof.

The defence on both sides was good. King of Peterborough, at cover, stopped a man occasionally, and Sheridan, though light, played a good game. Both goal tenders had their hands full and did yeoman work, keeping down what otherwise would have been a large score, Game ended 8—6.

Peterborough — J Comstock, goal; J Sheridan, point; H King, cover point; Whitecroft, Morgan, Walsh, Watt, forwards.

Lindsay—Burke, goal; Knight, point; Donaldson, cover point; Shannon, Taylor, Johnston, Paton, forwards.

Referee—H Knowlson.

Goal umpires—E Dillon and A S Parkin.

CURLIANA.

The Thistles had a great time of it last evening, all the rinks being occupied. The results were as appended:

RINK NO. 1.

Dr Maher,	C LeBrun,
W J Thompson,	Alf Terrill,
J S Knapman,	T Ferguson,
W G Ferguson, sk..15	D Davidson, sk.....15

RINK NO. 2.

W J McCallum,	R Waddell,
Geo Kerr,	Geo Edmison,
S Ray,	T Rutherford,
D Belleghem, sk....15	A McNeil, sk.....15

RINK NO. 3.

R Kerr,	W G Morrow,
S Boucher,	L M Hayes,
W L Allen,	Geo Giroux,
Judge Weller, sk...19	G E Whiten, sk.....11

An odd coincidence exists in the fact that the scores on Rinks Nos. 1 and 2 were ties, each of the four rinks scoring 15 points in a 16 end game.

There is a possibility of a couple of Colt rinks going to Belleville for a friendly game if the temperature drops below freezing point towards the end of the week.

The ice is in grand shape for the big twelve rink bonspeil to-night. The following skips will compete:

Thistles — Messrs. Ray, Rutherford, Connal, Belleghem, Davidson and Ferguson.

Granites—Messrs. Whiten, Edwards, Dumble, Dr. Boucher, Weller and Edmison.

The draw will be made at the rink to-night and the games commence at 7 30.

LACROSSE.

The prospects of Provincial lacrosse, nominally the Canadian Lacrosse Association, never appeared brighter. Secretary W. S. A. Hartley is kept on the jump these days doling out information to the new clubs desirous of entering the championship lists, and the old clubs, already on the alert for location in favoured districts, and in reply to a hundred and one enquiries concerning the approaching annual convention, which, in view of the early date, all goes to show the healthy spirit of reviving interest in the national game outside the major league.

"More lacrosse, better lacrosse, and consequently greater interest will characterize the season of 1899 than in many previous years," is what Secretary Hartley said.

In the East Mr. R. Stuart of Perth is meeting with success in an endeavour to organize Almonte, Smith Falls, Carleton Place, Ottawa II and Perth into an Eastern District in the Intermediate Series. District Secretary C. D. Macdonald writes from Madoc, that the Marmora, Tweed, Belleville and Stirling teams will have fast twelves in the fields this season. Tweed is anxious to secure President Johnnie Behan's Kingston Lacrosse Club in the Quinte district. Lacrosse will be the game in Central Ontario next summer.

The old Port Hope Ontarios, since the loss of Dougherty, Jennings, Louis White, Pete White and Tobin, have never been in the first fight, but next summer may see a first class twelve representing the Ontarios. A healthy rivalry engendered by hockey talk is again commencing to assert itself in Port Hope and Peterborough and is likely to break out in a pronounced manner in lacrosse. Crowhurst, Coleman, Totten and others good men are yet available in Port Hope.

Mr. W. H. Hall's proposed new Eastern and Western divisions of the senior clubs, has kept a lot of the first class intermediate clubs guessing until the final passing on the matter by the incoming Judicial Committee. Markham and Orillia will play senior this year and Peterborough, is almost sure to follow. Secretary W. A. Bernhardt has informed the association that the junior champions may attempt the senior series this year. Acton is a new club this year, and Mr. D. Darroch of Collingwood is in communication with the C. L. A. anent the reorganization of the Comet Lacrosse Club. Mr. Jerry Cousby has the Owen Sound end in hand. Wiarton was practically out of lacrosse last summer, but may come in again. Listowel is another town anxious to try the game again. Good grounds and a live sporting population should ensure the success of such a venture. Woodstock, in days gone by the most enthusiastic lacrosse centre in Western Ontario, has yet a fondness for the game, and may be another new comer this season. The re-entry of the Brampton Excelsiors is welcomed on all sides. The ex-champions will be a strong aggregation without a doubt.

Councillor W. H. Thompson is locking the ground over in Stratford. The Classic City sports want a first class senior twelve or none at all. It is almost a certainty that Stratford will see nothing but junior lacrosse this summer. Orangeville, Seaforth and St. Catharines will all be in the C. L. A. again. Georgetown may lose a big part of last season's team and drop out. The local Tecumseh-Elms will decide on a season's programme at Thursday night's annual meeting of the club. With the Indians, it is invariably a case of to be or not to be.

THE WHEEL.

The Globe says:—The provisions of Mr. Stratton's bill respecting cycle paths are meeting with general approval among those who have considered it carefully, the Wheelmen's Association being active supporters of the measure. The enthusiasm among wheelmen is not confined to the city organizations alone, but the country clubs are taking the matter up with vigor. As it is impossible to supply everyone interested with copies of the bill the Central Association has prepared a synopsis of the bill, from which the following extracts are taken:—

Sec. 1—Short title.

Sec. 2—Interpretation.

Sec. 3—Provides for the appointment of a board of five members by the County Court Judge. The services of the board are given gratuitously. There will be no difficulty in getting public-spirited citizens who are willing to act.

Sec. 4.—The board upon organization provides a license to be used, a record to be kept. This record should be of value in tracing stolen wheels.

Sec. 5.—License is incident to the bicycle—not to the rider, and must not be transferred from one wheel to another.

Sec. 6.—Cycle paths are for the exclusive use of wheelmen, except that pedestrians may use them where necessary. Cyclists must have a license on their wheels before they use the paths. This is the main point in the bill. They may use the road if they like, but if they use the paths they should pay.

Sec. 7.—The Municipal Treasurer is to be the custodian of all moneys collected; they are to be deposited with him once a month, and he pays money out of this fund on the order of the chairman of the board.

Sec. 8.—This provides that the moneys are to be devoted to the construction of cycle paths.

Sec. 9.—The object of this section is to bring all paths within the protection already afforded by the municipal act to paths set apart by bylaw.

Sec. 10.—Provides the penalty for riding on cycle paths without a license, and excepts from the operation of the bill persons residing in an outside county.

Sec. 11—Regulates the organization of the board, appointment of secretary, etc.

Sec. 12—Duties and remuneration of secretary.

Sec. 13—Provides for two or more counties uniting for the purposes of this act.

A FEW ARGUMENTS.

The arguments in favour of the bill are summed up as follows:

This cycle path bill is based on the law of the State of New York, as applied in Monroe county, where it works exceptionally well. Over 50 miles of cycle paths have been laid on the roads leading out of Rochester during the past two years.

During the past four years in the vicinity of Toronto wheelmen have built from private subscriptions seven or eight miles of path on roads which are otherwise almost impassable, and even this has conferred a great boon to wheelmen, but the proportion of those who use the path to those who have subscribed is about as 10 to 1.

It will be noticed this bill doesnot seek to impose a tax upon anyone. This license referred to is not compulsory, but there is nothing out of the way in saying to a man if you take advantage of these paths which others pay for you must contribute, but if you want to use the roads you are welcome to do so.

The working out of the measure does not cost the Government a cent, and almost every dollar collected is to be spent on building cycle paths.

A HAMILTON CASE.

Grocer S. Ross Makes a Very Startling Statement.

He Would Have Been a Cripple all His Life Had Dodd's Kidney Pills Not Cured Him—Fell on an Icy Walk and Injured His Kidneys.

Hamilton, March 13.—I do confidently believe I would have been a cripple for life if I had not used Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Such was the startling statement made by Mr. S. Ross, 76 Merrick street, to several friends and acquaintances a few days ago.

Mr. Ross is one of our shrewdest and most progressive business men. He conducts a flourishing grocery business at the address given.

"Why do you make such an assertion as that?" asked one of his hearers.

"Well, you all know of my severe fall on an icy sidewalk three years ago. The doctors said my kidneys were injured severely. I suffered the most agonizing pains in my back and loins. The doctors couldn't help me. Neither did any of the medicines I took, till I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills, the best health restorers ever sold. Three boxes of them set me on my feet, made me sound and well in every respect. Dodd's Kidney Pills are truly worth their weight in gold."

Mr. Ross expressed the same emphatic conviction held by every one else who has ever used Dodd's Kidney Pills for any form of Kidney Trouble.

Dodd's Kidney Pills act so rapidly, so strongly and yet so gently, on the Kidneys, restoring them to their natural health and strength in such a short space of time that those who use them are surprised at the result. And there is only one result, no matter how severe the disease may be, no matter how long it may have lasted.

Dodd's Kidney Pills positively cure all forms of Kidney Disease. Including Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Gout, Rheumatism, Female Troubles, Dropsy, Impure Blood, Nervousness, etc.

A GENEROUS RESPONSE

An appeal was recently made by Mr. Aubrey White, assistant Commissioner of Crown Lands, to some of the lumbermen of Ontario for financial assistance towards that sustenance of that deserving institution, the Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto. The response was most generous, and showed in no slight degree, the liberality of the lumbermen. Upwards of $1,000 was donated, the following firms contributing; Arthur Hill, Saginaw, Mich., $100; Mossom Boyd, Bobcaygeon, $100; L. P. Graves, Holland & Emery Lumber Co., Buffalo, $100; David Gilmour, the Gilmour Co. Trenton, $100, W. J. Shepherd, Georgian Bay Lumber Co., Waubaushene, $100; J. J. C. Thompson, R. Thompson & Son, Hamilton, $100; Gillies Bros., Braeside, $50; F. H. Clergue, Sault St. Marie Pulp & Paper Co., $50; Alexander Fraser, Westmeath, $50; Chas. Beck, Penetang, $25; Wm. Thompson, Longford Mills, $25 Imperial Lumber Co., Toronto, $25; E. W. Rathburn, the Rathburn Co., Deseronto, $25; Wm. Mackey, Ottawa, $20; A. McPherson, Longford Mills, $10; C. McCool, Geneva Lake, $5.

A CARD.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a twenty five-cent bottle of Dr. Wills' English Pills, if, after using three-fourths of contents of bottle, they do not relieve Constipation and Headache. We also warrant that four bottles will permanently cure the most obstinate case of constiptiion. Satisfaction or no pay when Wills' English Pills are used.

ANGLO-AMERICAN RELATIONS.

Mr. Joseph H. Choate, the United States Ambassador in London, Makes His First Public Speech—"Almost One People, Let Our Voices Be Lifted Together"—Cable News.

London, March 16.—A representative of a large number of Finnish Lutherans is negotiating with the high commissioner. The arrangements may result in the immigration into Canada of several thousand of these Finns. The arbitrary suppression of the ancient right of Finland by the Czar's Government is the cause of this movement, the people being greatly stirred up by the high-handed action of the Russians.

MR. JOSEPH CHOATE.

First Public Appearance of the New United States Ambassador in London Circles.

London, March 16.—Mr. Joseph H. Choate, the United States ambassador to the Court of St. James, made his first public appearance in England at the banquet of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the United Kingdom, which was held at the Metropole Hotel last evening. There was a brilliant and distinguished gathering, about 250 persons having been invited to meet the ambassador, including the Lord Chief Justice of England, Baron Russell of Killowen; the Hon. Sir Henry Stafford Northcote, the president of the association; the Prime Minister, the Marquis of Salisbury; the Earl of Jersey, the Earl of Dartmouth, Lord Reay, Rear-Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, the Right Hon. C. T. Ritchie, Mr. James R. Carter, second secretary of the United States embassy, and many members of Parliament.

Mr. Choate, who, on arriving, was heartily welcomed by the chairman and officials of the association, sat in the place of honor, at the right of the chairman.

In response to the toast of "Our Guest," with which his name had been coupled, Mr. Choate made an eloquent speech, covering the full range of subjects of the open door, the Venezuelan question, England and Russia, and the reaching-out of Uncle Sam. In concluding he said:

"Gentlemen, we are almost one people. What I say is, let our voices always be lifted together for the cause of human progress and the advance of civilization, and my word for it, law, order, peace and freedom, which are the nurses of commerce the world over, will prevail, and the cause of humanity will be advanced." (Cheers.)

THE FILIPINO DEAD.

A British Officer States He Saw Them Buried in Heaps.

London, March 16.—The Daily Graphic publishes this morning a letter from a British naval officer in Manila, under date of Feb. 7, describing the beginning of the fighting between the Americans and Filipinos, which he says was due to an attempt on the part of the latter to rush an American post. "The British officers," he continues, "were not allowed to land until the day following the battle, and were even then prohibited from going to the front, but on yesterday's battlefield I saw Filipino prisoners burying heaps of their dead.

"It cannot for a moment be doubted that the Americans fought with great gallantry and pluck, while the rebels, who were armed with Mausers and Remingtons, maintained a stubborn defence. Their dead bodies testify to this. It is also clear that the Filipinos were astounded and demoralized by the American tactics and the vigorous pursuit the Americans kept up throughout the day, instead of following, as the Filipinos expected, the Spanish custom of midday rest."

Petroleum Bill Thrown Out.

London, March 16.—In the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Harold James Reckitt, Liberal, moved the second reading of the bill raising the flash-point of petroleum from 73 to 100. In so doing he said that it would not add appreciably to the cost, as a New York firm (the Standard Oil octopus) offered to supply oil at 100 flash-point at one-half a cent per gallon dearer than the present price.

After some further discussion the petroleum bill was rejected by a vote of 24 to 159.

To Connect Liverpool and Manchester.

London, March 16.—The Lord Mayors at Manchester and Liverpool are taking active part in a scheme which proposes to link the two cities by a single-rail electric railroad, over which trains shall make the journey in 18 minutes at a speed of 90 miles an hour. This scheme is due to F. B. Behr, who ran an experimental line of this nature at the Brussels Exhibition last year. He has undertaken that in a couple of years the means of communication between Manchester and Liverpool shall beat the world's record for rapidity and safety.

Bulgaria's Passengers at Hamburg.

Hamburg, March 16.—The Hamburg-American Line steamer Ascania, Captain Schmidt, arrived here yesterday from St. Thomas, via St. Michael's, and landed the passengers of the steamer Bulgaria of the same line, which arrived at St. Michael's on Feb. 24, after being adrift at sea and disabled from Feb. 5. The Bulgaria sailed from New York with 41 passengers on board.

Will There Be a Change?

Toronto, March 16.—Next week the Crown will move for change of venue in the Ponton case, leaving the place of trial at the option of the court, but it is said Cobourg will be the scene of the new trial. The Napanee disturbance will, it is thought, furnish sufficient reason for the change.

Burglars Got $2,000.

Halifax, N.S., March 16.—The general store of David Jenkins, Sheet Harbor, was cracked last night and $2,000 in cash, cheques, notes and goods carried away by the thieves.

GAS MACHINE EXPLODED.

The East Side and Front of a Zurich, Ont., Store Blown Out.

Zunich, Ont., March 16.—An acetylene gas machine exploded at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Merner Bros.' general store, completely demolishing the building. The force was so great as to blow out the east side and front, also wrecking a number of buildings on the opposite side of the street and shattering windows two blocks distant. The shock was felt for three miles. Fire started, but was soon extinguished. No one was killed, although all the clerks and others were in the store, and a number on the street at the time. How they all escaped is a miracle. The loss on stock is estimated at about $1,000.

GIGANTIC BICYCLE TRUST.

Ten of the Leading Makers Said to Be in the Combination.

New York, March 16.—The Herald will to-day print the following:

Makers of bicycles have arranged the details for the formation of a trade combination that will involve capital to the amount of $50,000,000. It is understood that ten of the leading makers of wheels have entered the combination and that several others will probably be persuaded to add their signatures to the agreement.

Barns and Stables Gone.

Kerwood, Ont., March 16.—The barns and stabling of John Morgan & Son were struck by lightning about 5 o'clock yesterday morning and entirely consumed. The manager was feeding the stock at the time and succeeded in saving the stock and most of the implements. Small insurance on buildings, none on contents. Mr. Morgan is an extensive breeder of shorthorn cattle.

READY FOR OPENING.

Lord Minto to Meet Parliament for the First Time.

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE

What the Governor-General May Say to the Senators and Commoners—The Plebiscite—A Redistribution Bill Likely to Be Introduced—Mover and Seconder of the Address in Reply.

Ottawa, March 16.—Everything is in readiness for the opening of Parliament to-day, and the function promises to be one of the most notable in the history of such events. Lord Minto's first appearance in the Parliament Buildings with such a ceremony will attract society to the hill in larger numbers than ever before, and there promises to be a great crush in the Senate Chamber. The journey of the Governor-General from Rideau Hall to the Parliament Buildings will be attended by every circumstance of pomp that precedent suggests. He will be escorted by the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards, and will be received with military honors upon his arrival by the Governor-General's Foot Guards. Meanwhile cannon will boom from Nepean Point.

The Speech From the Throne.

As this is the first occasion that Lord Minto has met the Canadian Parliament, he naturally and very properly will refer in the speech from the throne to the pleasure it gives him to open Parliament at a period in the history of Canada when the country is enjoying such a high degre of prosperity as is evidenced by the expansion of trade and commerce and the flourishing condition of the revenue. He will refer, no doubt, to the increased number of immigrants that is being attracted, and, what will perhaps be equally gratifying, will mention the fact that the exodus, which was at one time so regrettable, has practically ceased. The negotiations at Washington will likely form a paragraph in the speech, and regret will be expressed that very great delay arose owing to the unfortunate illness and subsequent death of two of the most distinguished members of the commission. The fact will be stated that some progress has been made, and the hope will no doubt be expressed that at the appointed time the commission will be reassembled under such auspices as will insure satisfactory results.

The Plebiscite.

Allusion will no doubt be made to the vote taken in the plebiscite, and the announcement will be made that the papers relating to it will be laid on the table at an early day. An important paragraph in the speech will probably refer to the reduction of the rate of postage to one penny between Canada and the motherland and 37 other different parts of the Empire, and the hope will be expressed that this reduction will be the means of drawing closer the relations between the mother country and the rest of the Empire. Attention will also be drawn to the reduction of the domestic rate, and it will no doubt be stated that although this departure will necessarily involve a temporary loss of revenue, the hope will be confidently indulged that the development of trade and the increase in the interchange of correspondence will contribute in a comparatively short time to the restoration of the revenue. The mining development of Canada will likely claim a place in the speech. Reference will probably be made to the extent and value of the deposits of the precious metals, gold and other valuable minerals in the Yukon and other parts of Canada. It will, no doubt, be pointed out that while the expense of administering the affairs of the Yukon have been very large, the returns have proved sufficient to meet it. This statement will no doubt be gratifying to Parliament and to the country.

It is expected that some reference will be made to a measure for the better arrangement of the electoral districts throughout the Dominion. The speech will no doubt conclude with the usual paragraph about the estimates for the year, which will be as moderate as possible, in view of the increased obligation of the public service. Of course, the speech from the throne does not foreshadow all the measures to be introduced by the Government, and it is certain that other measures in course of preparation will be brought down.

Six New Members.

There are six new members to be introduced, and two of these, Mr. Bell of Prince Edward Island and Mr. Martineau, will move and second the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

The new members are: Mr. John H. Bell who succeeds the late Mr. Yeo as member for East Prince; Robert Holmes, who succeeds the late Hon. M. C. Cameron as member for West Huron; Thomas George Johnson, who will sit for West Lambton in the room and stead of the present Judge Lister; Leighton Goldie McCarthy, nephew of the late D'Alton McCarthy, whom he succeeds as M.P. for North Simcoe; Joseph Edmund Mercel, elected to succeed the late Mr. Dupont as member for Bagot, and Pierre Raymond Martineau, elected M.P. for Montmagny upon the elevation of Mr. Choquette to the bench.

There are still three vacancies in the House, all caused by death. The vacancies are: Lewis, Winnipeg and Brockville, caused by the death of Dr. Guay, Mr. Jameson and Hon. John F. Wood, and a tribute will no doubt be paid to the memory of these gentlemen by the members of the House.

FACTS ABOUT HEALTH

It is Easy to Keep Well if We Know How—Some of the Conditions Necessary to Perfect Health.

The importance of maintaining good health is easily understood, and it is really a simple matter if we take a correct view of the conditions required. In perfect health the stomach promptly digests food, and thus prepares nourishment. The blood is employed to carry this nourishment to the organs, nerves, muscles and tissues which need it. The first great essential for good health, therefore, is pure, rich blood. Now it is certainly a fact that no medicine has such a record of cures as Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is literally true that there are hundreds of people alive and well today who would have been in their graves had they not taken Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is depended upon as a family medicine and general regulator of the system by tens of thousands of people. This is because Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood pure. This is the secret of its great success. Keep your system in good health by keeping your blood pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla, which absolutely cures when other medicines fail to do any good whatever.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1899.

A COMMERCIAL AGENCY IN LONDON.

The question of establishing a permanent commercial agency in London (Eng.), for the purpose of advancing Canadian interests on the home market, had frequently been discussed in the press of the Dominion, and every month seems to emphasize the urgent need for such an organization. One correspondent writes: "Since greater publicity has been given in the press here and in Canada to the commercial side of the work of the Government office in London, I learn that it has grown so rapidly that the clerks complain of getting time for nothing but answering commercial enquiries, either verbally or by letter. It begins to look as if the time had come for the establishment of a city branch, with a separate staff of clerks devoted entirely to the commercial side. It is necessary to lay stress upon the fact, however, that the post of superintendent would be one that would require exceptional qualifications, and in the selection of a man for which too great discrimination could not be exercised."

THE DUTY ON COTTON FABRICS.

The Toronto Globe calls attention to the agitation which has been going on for some time against the high protective duties on cotton fabrics, and the resultant injustice to manufacturers of underwear, shirts and collars, who are compelled to pay the high prices, which undue protection enables the mill owners to charge for what is the raw material of their product. The contention is that the duties on cotton should be greatly lowered in the interests of the consumers of Canada generally. The industry of manufacturing cotton is concentrated, and consequintly can bring its influence to bear on Parliament quickly. The other industries, though in the aggregate far more important, are scattered over hundreds of establishments, some of them of a very modest character, and there is, therefore, great danger of their being neglected. But Parliament might do worse than take a special interest in these diffused industries, which help to spread wealth and population, and so to counteract the tendency to concentration and congestion.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier's reply to the Prohibitionists is," says the Canada Farmers' Sun, "what was fully expected. An attempt to enforce prohibitory legislation in the face of the plebiscite vote would have been likely to result disastrously to the temperance cause. Parliamentary action can hardly be expected until public opinion is further advanced."

The Examiner wishes to compliment Mr. Wm. Kerr, Cobourg, on his appointment as Senator to fill the Ontario vacancy. Mr. Kerr is well qualified for the position. His parliamentary experience extended from 1872 to 1878, during which time he represented West Northumberald in the Dominion Parliament. He is still in active life, being 68 years of age, and is in every way fitted to add materially to the vitality and vigour of the Senate.

The Review has issued its dictum. "The Hardy Government," it says, "is discredited; it is weak, it is bungling and it is doomed." The Ontario Government will show its obtuseness if it does not immediately accept the sentence of doom. But the Opposition journals and politicians have doomed the Government so often and the people have been so lacking in duty as to decline to give effect to the sentence that the Government has got accustomed to the situation and fails to becomingly tremble in its boots, surrender and give over its place to the Opposition. The substantial majority of eleven on the first division doesn't look very much like "tottering."

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The return match of Millbrook vs. Keene was played here on Wednesday night. The game had been looked forward to with some degree of interest by the local lovers of the sport, particularly as Keene had never been able to lower the standard of Millbrook Club and as our boys were practising hard expecting to play them to a standstill. The puck was faced at 7.40 and was instantly pushed into Keene territory and after a few seconds of close checking the rubber found its way through the rods. The spectators' hopes went down and the boys' blood went up and they played to win. Walsh, in centre, by lively spurts, found time to spoil the lifting of the Millbrook defense. By a series of brilliant passing and faultless combination with McCarthy, McIntyre scored. Keene scored goal after goal. Fred Walsh on cover point played a strong game and promises well. His close checks completely demoralized the Millbrook forwards, who seldom got by him. Baker at cover and C. Fife at point played a strong, clean game, relieving promptly and cleanly. Stewart Fife in goal was asked to stop but few shots, but sustained his old time reputation when called on. It is useless to try to discriminate the better playing of the boys, as they all played to win and played fast and clean. McIntyre's shooting was unusually sure and swift, often striking the goal keeper's skate or stick, but carrying it through. The spectators are gaining confidence in our boys and do not fail to mark the improvement they are undergoing. The score was 14 to 4 in favour of Keene.

The Hardwares of Peterborough ran up against our junior team Thursday and went down by a score of 10 to 6. Who's next?

The Lakefield correspondent allows his imagination to carry him so far as to write that Lakefield defeated Keene 5 goals to 4. Keene scored 8 goals, but were allowed 4. Lakefield scored 4 and were allowed 4. The correspondent has slightly mixed things. How would Lakefield like to play our junior seven?

Two rinks from here drove over to Norwood on Saturday afternoon and played a friendly game, which resulted in defeat for Keene Club by two shots. The score was remarkably (alternate) one-sided.

A friendly rivalry sprang up between the two rinks which played in the Campbellford bonspiel, on account of one ("the old hands") losing and the other ("the colts") winning. Hence the former challenged the latter to play a friendly game on home ice, the losers to provide an oyster supper. The contest took place on Monday night, amidst the greatest enthusiasm, and although the "old hands" played a steady, strong game, yet the "Colts" went them better, as the following will show:—

HAVELOCK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. Job Coon has his grocery store fitted up with acetylene gas, which is a decided improvement.

Large crowds gather at the skating rink these nights to enjoy themselves on the ice, as they expect the ice will soon be a thing of the past.

Mr. Thompson who has the new store in town, seems to be doing a rushing business these days.

We noticed Wm. Coulter, of Toronto Junction in town this week.

The contractors who are to build Mr. Coulter's two houses north of the school house, have commenced work.

A petition is going around to have the council submit a bylaw to the people in regard to building a new town hall. We cannot vote on it too soon.

FRIGHTFULLY MANGLED.

Brakeman William Sadler Struck by an Express Train at Niagara.

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 16.—William Sadler, brakeman on the Grand Trunk, while standing on the main line track at the west end of the Grand Trunk yards in conversation with his fireman, was struck by the eastbound No. 6 G.T.R. express at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and pitched headlong some 30 feet against a boxcar standing on the next track. The injured man was rendered unconscious, having received a fractured skull, both legs and left arm broken, a large gash on the side of the head and left eye almost knocked out. Sadler was about to leave on a freight train for Toronto. He was about 45 years of age, his home being at the Sarnia Tunnel, where he has a wife and two children.

Hon. J. F. Wood's Obsequies.

Toronto, March 16.—Rev. J. H. McGillivray, pastor of Bonar Presbyterian Church, delivered a short, but impressive, funeral service over the remains of the late Hon. J. F. Wood, M.P., yesterday morning in the undertaking establishment of H. Stone & Son, after which the funeral took place to the Union Depot. Many of deceased's old friends and admirers followed the remains to the station. The body was placed on board the G.T.R. train for Brockville, together with the numerous floral offerings, including a wreath from the Toronto Conservative Association.

No Rate War on the Tapis.

Montreal, March 16.—There is not the slightest probability of another rate war being precipitated as the result of the action of the C.P.R. in meeting the reduced rates of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railways to the Pacific. "The rumor that another slashing of rates is on the tapis is absolutely without foundation in fact, so far as I am aware." Such were the remarks of a prominent official of the C.P.R. yesterday.

A Minor Victory.

Surveying a field of battle, the Duke of Wellington could detect almost at a glance the weak points in the disposition of the forces, and when the weakness was on his own side he promptly and resolutely caused it to be made strong. An English magazine tells this story of him which ought to be true:

One day, when some small visitors happened to be in the nursery at Strathfieldsage, he walked up to the top of the house and found the youngsters at tea. He gazed grimly around as if the room were a field of battle and noticed that there was no jam on the table.

Without a word he rang the bell violently. A footman appeared and stood petrified.

"Have the goodness to understand," said the duke in a voice of thunder, "that when children are invited to my house to tea they are to have jam."

Then he departed, and before he was out of earshot a shout went up that must have reminded him of Waterloo.

Hood's Sarsaparilla never disappoints. It may be taken for impure and impoverished blood with perfect confidence that it will cure.

JAMES BEATY, Q.C., DEAD.

Toronto Lawyer Active in Public Life—His Career.

Toronto, March 16.—Yesterday afternoon ex-Mayor James Beaty died at the residence of his son-in-law, A. J. Russell Snow, 286 Sherbourne street. His end had been expected for several weeks, in fact, ever since he was stricken with apoplexy, on Feb. 10. The immediate relatives were present when he died.

James Beaty, Q.C., was the son of the late John Beaty, who emigrated to Upper Canada from Caven, Ireland, in 1848, with Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of George Stewart, of Bundoran, Ireland. Born at Ashdale Farm, Halton, Ont., Nov. 10, 1831, he was educated by private tuition, and at the Palermo Grammar School; studied law under the late Sir Adam Wilson and Dr. L. W. Smith, and was called to the bar in 1855. Entering into partnership with Sir Adam Wilson and the late Mr. C. S. Patterson, afterwards a Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, he had followed the practice of his profession in Toronto, and was the head of the firm of Beaty, Snow & Smith. In 1872 he received the degree of B.C.L. from Trinity University, and that of D.C.L. in 1875. He was created a Q.C. by the Earl of Dufferin in 1872.

Mr. Beaty sat in the Toronto City Council as an alderman in 1877, and while there introduced and carried the "Beaty bylaw," under which the executive committee of the Council was constituted. He was elected Mayor of the city in 1879 (having been defeated in 1878). He first proposed that the city be given a charter, but his proposal was defeated.

A Conservative in politics, he was returned in that interest to the House of Commons for West Toronto, August, 1880, and continued to sit in Parliament, 1887. He was throughout a supporter of Sir John Macdonald and the National Policy. He was the author of brochures dealing with civic relief and reform. Mr. Beaty claimed to be only a Christian, taking no creed but the Bible. He married November, 1858, his cousin, Miss Frances Beaty.

The Funeral Arrangements.

The funeral, which takes place tomorrow from the residence of Mr. Snow, will be of a public character. The arrangements will be as simple as possible, in deference to the family's wish.

The body will be in state from 10 a.m. to-day till 3 p.m. to-morrow, when all the friends of the deceased may have an opportunity of paying their last respects.

The services at the house will be conducted by the pastor of the Disciples' Church, of which the deceased was a member. At 3.30 p.m. Friday the funeral cortege will proceed to the Necropolis.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption, and that no medicine could cure her. Her Druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six now bottles, found herself sound and well and does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Sold by all Druggists, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00

CHANGE IN BUSINESS.

VALUABLE

Residential Properties FOR SALE

In Peterborough.

Having decided to remove to Manitoba in the spring, I have decided to sell the following valuable properties at prices that should secure ready purchasers:

Parcel No. 1. A Brick Terrace of four houses, adjoining the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets, two storys, well built with good stone cellars full size of buildings. Each residence contains six rooms with summer kitchen. This property has always been continuously rented and pays an excellent rate of interest on the investment, and it is practically a new property, being only erected a few years, and is in good condition.

Parcel No. 2. Brick residence corner of Reid and Simcoe. Containing ten rooms. House in good condition with all modern improvements, bath, closets, heated with furnace and lighted with electricity.

Parcel No. 3. Brick dwelling corner Aberdeen and Benson streets, facing Dixon Park, containg seven rooms with summer kitchen. This property was erected last season for myself and occupied by myself. Has hard and soft water in kitchen and is a very comfortable residence. This lot is 103 feet square.

Parcel No. 4. Brick residence, corner Wolseley and Benson streets. Two storeys, seven rooms with kitchen, pleasantly situated adjoining Dixon Park. Hard and soft water in kitchen. This lot is also 103 feet square and is a similar building to parcel No. 3.

Parties desiring a good paying investment or one will find any of these desirable purchases. Particulars and terms, which are reasonable, made known on application to the undersigned.

THE ODORLESS

CREMATORY CLOSET.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematory Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS.

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable. Yours respectfully,

James Conway.

Sheddon, February 28th, 1898.

I have used it for sometime and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.

W. H. Morrison

Medical Superintendent's Office, Sept. 30th, 1897
Asylum for the Insane, Hamilton.

Gentlemen: I had the opportunity of witnessing yesterday the operation of your Odorless Crematory Closet. It had a large accumulation of fecal matter in the pan when the fire was started, and inside of 20 minutes it was all reduced to ashes. There was no odor before or during the operation of consuming the fecal matter, as the ventilation by the flue seems to carry off all odor at once, before it has a chance to vitiate the surrounding atmosphere.

Yours truly, James Russell, M.D.

Bisbrook, Sept. 30th, 1897.

Dear Sirs—Having been present at a private test of your new patent closet yesterday afternoon, I beg to express my satisfaction with it in every way. Neither before, during or after the burning out of its contents did I detect the slightest unpleasant odor. I am satisfied it will be a boon to thousands in rural towns, villages and country homes. Yours truly,

M. J. Mullock, M.D.

ADVERTISING IN THE EXAMINER PAYS

Did you ever See a Snow Storm in Summer?

We never did; but we have seen the clothing at this time of the year so covered with dandruff that it looked as if it had been out in a regular snow-storm.

No need of this snowstorm.

As the summer sun would melt the falling snow so will

Ayer's Hair Vigor

melt these flakes of dandruff in the scalp. It goes further than this: it prevents their formation.

It has still other properties: it will restore color to gray hair in just ten times out of every ten cases.

And it does even more: it feeds and nourishes the roots of the hair. Thin hair becomes thick hair; and short hair becomes long hair.

We have a book on the Hair and Scalp. It is yours, for the asking.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write the doctor about it. Probably there is some difficulty with your general system which may be easily removed. Address,

A Heavy Debate in the Legislature on Wednesday on the Question of Workmen's Compensation — Hon. Mr. Hardy Suggests a Possible Scheme of Compensation to Workmen - Majority 11.

Toronto, March 16.—Mr. Crawford's bill proposing radical changes in the Workmen's Compensation Act was under discussion in the Legislature yesterday. It was taken up at an early hour in the afternoon, and the debate lasted until considerably after midnight, when an amendment by Mr. Auld to the motion for the second reading of the bill was carried by a vote of 46 to 35. Mr. Hardy contributed an important speech to the debate and outlined a possible scheme by which payment to workmen for injuries might be effected without injustice to any interest. He was careful to say, however, that it was not a suggestion to which the Government was committed or in regard to which they gave a pledge of any sort. To-day the probability is that the Senate resolution will be moved by Hon. Mr. Hardy.

Chain Ferry Bridge Again.

Mr. Crawford (West Toronto) moved that the bill respecting the Queen's Wharf ferry in the city of Toronto be again referred to the private bills committee for further consideration and report. After a discussion in which both Government and Opposition resented recent allusions to them as the tools of corporations, the motion was carried.

Local Courts Act.

After a discussion, Mr. Hoyle (North Ontario) withdrew his bill to amend the Local Court Act. The object is to prevent the appointment of a second judge for the County of Ontario in place of the late Judge Dartnell.

Compensation for Injuries.

Mr. Crawford (West Toronto) moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Workmen's Compensation for Injuries Act. He said the bill had been termed drastic, revolutionary and too far-reaching in its effects. The principle of the bill had been endorsed by enactment or referendum in every country in Europe. What had proved beneficial there could not be injurious here. Ontario was to the front in social legislation. England—that stronghold of individualism—had embodied its principle in legislation in 1897. The principle of compulsory insurance or compensation was the keynote or basis of the present bill, which was largely based on the English bill. He did not claim perfection for the bill, but he believed it would work most beneficially. Responsibility of compensation was placed upon employers. Safeguards were in the bill to prevent it working injuriously to either employer or workman.

Lessons From Britain.

Hon. Mr. Davis said that no labor organizations had asked for this legislation. He read an extract from The Illustrated London News that the act had resulted in the dismissal of large numbers of men who suffered from physical defects. This is a point that should be well considered here. Workmen a little deaf or defective in sight may lose their employment. Perhaps municipalities instead of being relieved of charitable aid might have an increase of such cases.

The Miners' Federation in Edinburgh testified that the act had proved more contentious, fruitful in litigation and harmful in creating bad feeling between employers and workmen than any passed in the last generation. These were the words of workmen, and he gave others of similar import from English sources. Since Mr. Crawford introduced his bill the Government had been favored with the opinion of several representative bodies. The Board of Trade of Toronto found in the bill several defects. The Manufacturers' Association indicated desirable changes and modified their hostile opinion after having been interviewed by a number of insurance men. Employers at Peterboro considered the bill very objectionable, not only to themselves, but to their workmen. There was a fear that by the operation of the bill single men would be preferred to married men, and also danger of a cut in wages. It seemed reasonable that a bill making such great alterations should not be proceeded with until the views of workingmen were known. In conclusion, Hon. Mr. Davis suggested that as Prof. Mavor, a man who had the confidence of workingmen and was well versed in labor topics, would spend three or four months in England this summer, it might be desirable that he should investigate the working of the English act.

Mr. Whitney said he was favorably impressed with the objects of the bill and was prepared to vote for its second reading. This was not to say that he favored every detail of it. It was significant that the only people who had objected to this bill were manufacturers. It was not the compensation clauses that pleased him most, but the affirmative proposition that the litigation arising out of accidents must be settled by the county judge—not may be, as proposed in the bill of the Government.

Mr. Hardy's Speech.

Hon. Mr. Hardy combatted the views of the leader of the Opposition that because workingmen had not objected to the bill, therefore they must favor it. Where was the zeal and activity they usually showed in labor questions? Germany had been cited in support of this Ontario bill, but the German bill is an insurance bill, managed by the State. Experienced labor leaders in England, such as Mr. Pickard, M.P., and Mr. Burt, M.P., had presided over meetings against the English act. This should be a warning to us. The scope of this bill is not so much for the benefit of the workmen as to promote the business of insurance.

A Suggested Scheme.

He did not wish to be assumed as speaking on behalf of the Government or pledging himself to a particular line of action in any way, but if he were sketching at first impressions some sort of machinery by which workingmen who meet with accident should receive pay here is what he would suggest: For every dollar of wages the workingman received let him pay half a cent, or a cent, or whatever might be necessary. In some particularly dangerous occupations the contribution might be larger. Let the fund to be raised be managed by two steady, independent men, one to be selected from the Government side and the other from the Opposition side. Let great care be taken to see that these men were not mere partisans, but possessed ability, and were competent to handle such a fund. As their adviser or referee in involved legal questions these men might have a judge, ex-judge or some barrister not in active practice, someone who would never be suspected of doing anything improper or wrong. In case of accident such tribunal could inquire whether anyone was to blame or whether the occurrence was an accident pure and simple. If they found there was negligence on the part of the employer, then the employer must foot the bill. If there had been willful misconduct, apart from mere negligence, or if there had been such gross and willful negligence of an extreme character as to disentitle the man, that could be taken into account either in depriving him entirely, or, it might be, depriving him partially. Let the office be established in some central place, away from all political influences. It seemed to him that in the way outlined they would have a sort of a commission that would be productive of the happiest results. Employers and employes alike would contribute in proportion to their means, and in that way a heavy burden would be inflicted upon no one, and it would be certain that every workingman would be compensated for every physical injury inflicted. (Loud applause.)

Mr. Hardy then pointed out that the insurance companies took great interest in this bill, but that was part of their business. He himself, however, could not accept such a bill, unendorsed by any workingman living. The object of the Opposition introducing the bill was, if we don't carry it we can put the Ministry in the position that they voted against it. It was a political move.

Mr. Carscallen remarked that the Provincial Secretary had said manufacturers were liable to be wiped out by the conditions of the bill, whereas the Attorney-General had stated that the principle of the bill had been approved of by the manufacturers. As a matter of fact all there was in the bill was protection for workingmen and workingwomen of the country. The rest of the bill was a matter of details. The employer had machinery and works, at which the employe was compelled by circumstances to work, whether such machinery was kept in proper condition or not. The bill would compel the employer to keep his machinery properly and minimize the liability of accident, as well as protecting the employe.

Mr. James Conmee (West Algoma) said he could not entirely approve the bill before the House. Some of its provisions were good, but he disapproved of the county judge being the arbiter in compensation cases. The bill also did not provide for a fund for compensation. It would not give, he claimed, the relief that was claimed for it. He thought the bill premature and incomplete.

Mr. W. A. Kribs (South Waterloo) suggested that the bill could be better discussed in committee, where representatives of labor could be heard.

Moved an Amendment.

Mr. J. A. Auld (South Essex) moved an amendment that the bill be not read a second time, but that consideration be deferred till inquiry be made as to the operation of similar legislation in Great Britain.

Mr. W. H. Hoyle (North Ontario) was in accord with the principles of the bill, but disapproved of some of its provisions. He wished the bill to be amended in committee.

Mr. A. Miscampbell (East Simcoe) could not understand the strenuous opposition of the Government to the bill. He was not in full accord with all its provisions. He would like to see it modified in committee.

Mr. Graham (Brockville) said members on both sides of the House were all agreed in respect to compensation for injuries, but he thought Mr. Crawford's bill did not provide the best means for securing the compensation. The House should not pass on this question without further consideration.

Mr. Foy (South Toronto) wished the bill to be read a second time, and then sent to committee. The bill had been introduced some weeks ago, and the discussion had been postponed for the convenience of the Government, which now wished to negative it.

Mr. Stratton (West Peterboro) disclaimed any connection with the memorial against the bill, which had emanated from his constituency. Not a single provision of the bill had been discussed by members of the Opposition. They had only endorsed its principles, which all on the Ministerial side also did. He thought it sensible and business-like that the bill should be delayed.

Col. Matheson (South Lanark) maintained the bill was mutually for the interests of employers and workmen.

Mr. A. Lumsden (Ottawa), as a large employer of labor, wanted further discussion on the question—the leaders of labor, as well as the employers of labor.

Mr. Barr (Dufferin) wished the bill committed.

Mr. Crawford said, having listened to the criticisms, he was not ashamed of his bill.

Hon. Mr. Gibson, while endorsing the principle of the bill, objected to its second reading. He reiterated its introduction was the result of the determination on the part of the insurance companies to have it in their interest.

The Attorney-General closed the debate, emphasizing that every member on the Opposition side of the House had apologized for the bill.

A SAFE MAKER'S SUFFERING.

Diabetes is one of the great scourges of the present day.

All the various remedies heretofore tried have failed to cure it.

Anyone suffering from it was practically doomed to death.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

have changed all that.

They cure diabetes—cure when all else fails.

Mr. Jesse Knowles, an employee of Goldie & McCullough Co., Safe Manufacturers, Galt, Ont., tells how Doan's Kidney Pills cured him of Diabetes: "For one year past I have had severe pain in the small of my back, with rheumatic pains in both the arms. Sometimes my back felt as if it was being torn open. I was exceedingly dizzy at times and always drowsy.

The urine was orange colored with a brown sediment, and very frequent in passing, and also very great in quantity. I am sure that I had diabetes for I had every symptom of it.

I have taken 3 boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. Everything is changed now. The pain, the stupid, tired feelings have vanished and I must say that the Doan's Kidney Pills were the medicine that has effected this remarkable cure.

Three Years in Bed.

From Kidney Disease—Although a Man of Three-Score and Ten, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills gave him back perfect health.

This is to certify that I was sick in bed the most of the time for three years with kidney disease. I took several boxes of pills—different kinds—and a great many other kinds of patent medicines; besides that I was under treatment by four different doctors during the time and not able to work. I began to take Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and since that time have been working every day, although a man nearly 70 years of age. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me.

JAMES SIMPSON,
Newcombe Mills, Ont.

If the Kidneys are not in a perfectly clean and healthy condition, the blood becomes impregnated with impurities, and a decay of the Kidneys soon takes place. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Gravel, Stone in the Bladder, Inflammation of the Bladder, and a long list of Kidney diseases become seated, and sooner or later in so many instances end fatally. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure all Kidney troubles. Sold by all dealers, price 25 cents per box.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

A Permanent Secretary Engaged—The Employment Bureau Revived.

A permanent Secretary has been secured by the Young Women's Christian Association in the person of Miss Lewis, formerly teacher in the Public Schools.

Miss Lewis possesses the necessary qualifications to make a most efficient Secretary. She will be at the rooms permanently and ready to look after all matters that may demand her attention. Her presence will be much appreciated in connection with the revived employment bureau of the Association—the scope of which has been extended, present arrangements providing for finding employment for not only domestic servants, but for all other occupations engaged in by young women.

A cordial invitation is given to young women to call at the Association rooms for consultation and to give opinions in regard to what classes can be formed to be of the most general benefit.

It is perhaps not generally known that there is a "guest chamber" at the Association building—that is a room reserved for the accommodation of girls who arrive in town without means and who may need temporary lodgings. The fee paid is only nominal, and if not paid at the time, it can be paid when employment or means of payment is obtained.

THE HOPE OF RESURRECTION.

The Soul Saved and the Body Redeemed From Corruption.

The theme of Mr. Cowsert's address in Park street Baptist church last evening was "The Hope of Resurrection." The text was John xi., 24, 25.

The hope of the believer in Christ was that not only would the soul be saved, but that the body also would be redeemed from corruption. God had redeemed the body as well as the soul, and the full fruition of the plan of salvation would be at the coming of Jesus, when immortal soul and immortal body would be re-united and spend eternity in the fellowship of God. This hope had been the comfort of God's people in all ages, and the theme of the preaching of the Lord Jesus and the apostles. This was the hope which was offered to every sinner, that by resting on the atonement of Jesus and receiving Him into their hearts by faith, the would be raised incorruptible.

Just before the address Mrs. Dingman sang a sweet Gospel solo. When Mr. Cowsert had finished speaking three young men were immersed by the pastor, as a testimony that they, by faith, were united to Christ in death, burial and resurrection. Several decided for Christ at the after-meeting.

Mr. Cowsert will give a special address to young men this evening at 7.30.

THE MARKET TOLLS.

Mr. C. LeBrun Purchases Them for the Year.

This morning the annual sale of the market tolls took place in the council chamber, which was crowded to the doors.

The bidders were Messrs. C. LeBrun, R. H. Green and Jas. McIlmoyle. Mr. LeBrun opened with a bid of $900, Mr. McIlmoyle offered $50 more, and the bids advanced to $1,650, as follows:—

C. LeBrun—$900, $950, $1,000, $1,100, $1,200, $1,300, $1,400, $1,500, $1,600, $1,650.

Jas. McIlmoyle—$950, $950, $1,250, $1,550, $1,610.

R. H. Green—$1,650, $1,150, $1,350, $1,450.

When Mr. LeBrun advanced to $1,650 the other buyers dropped out. A reserve bid had been placed in the hands of the auctioneer by the Market Committee, but although the figure was higher than that offered, it was decided to allow the tolls to go at the bid, and Mr. LeBrun accordingly secured the market for the year.

Last year the tolls sold to Mr. J. D. Beptie for $2,610.

SIGNS OF SPRING AND EASTER.

Some Surprising Spring Specialties for Men, Young Men and Boys at H. LeBrun & Co.'s.

The approach of Spring and Easter bring into play thoughts of new clothing. The early spring holidays, beginning with Good Friday, remind gentlemen that their shabby winter attire must be changed for new spring styles. The question is—"Where to get suited?" Visit Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co., you are at headquarters, where you have your pick from a heaping stock, and where price and style are of equal importance. Men's and young men's nobby spring overcoats, made to order on the premises, are awaiting your inspection, with a $18 price ticket, the best overcoat value in town. Stylish Suit made to order in faultless fashion from $13 to $18. These prices should come home to you. But LeBrun and Co's "Bargain Counter" runs all round the store. Low prices and good qualities are not neglected in ready-made clothing, in which you are certain of finding what you want at a lower price than similar clothing is sold elsewhere. New Spring Tweed Suits $4, $5 and $6, well worth your critical eyes. New Spring Overcoat at $5, $6, $7 and $8, are rare makes. If they do not look the same at home as they did in the store, return them. Spring Suits for boys, bright new suits that wear long, fit neat, and look better than the general run. Mothers when out shopping should call in and see these nobby little rigs for boys in neat patterns from $1 up. We give Trading Stamps equal to five per cent. on all purchases, to encourage the cash system.—H. LeBrun & Co.

PETERBOROUGH PRESBYTERY

The Quarterly Meeting Held in Port Hope on Tuesday Last.

The Peterborough Presbytery met in quarterly session at Port Hope on Tuesday those present being, Rev. John Hay, Cobourg, Moderator; Rev. Wm. Bennet, Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. J. G. Potter, Peterborough; Rev. Mr. Duncan, Colborne; Rev. A. K. McLeod, Brighton; Rev. C. S. Lord, Grafton; Rev. D. P. Oswald, Janetville; Rev. A. Laird, Port Hope; Rev. W. Johnston, Millbrook; Rev. A. C. Reeves, Lakefield; Rev. R Laird, Campbellford; Rev. Bryce Jones, Bocaygeon; Rev. J. W. McIntosh, Centreville; A Pringle, Port Hope; R. Robertson, Baltimore; A. W. McNaughton, Port Hope; W. Fowler, Peterborough and John Hay Dunsford.

Rev. A. McLeod was elected moderator for the ensuing six months.

A petition was granted for Bobcaygeon for separation from the Presbytery of Peterborough in order to unite with the Presbytery of Lindsay.

Reports were handed in by the standing committee. That of Home Missions showed progress. The Augmentation report showed an advance on the money of last year. Other interesting reports were presented.

The following delegates were chosen for the Assembly, which meets in Hamilton in June next: Rev. Jas. Ross, Roseneath; Rev D A Thompson, Hastings; and Rev. John Hay, of Cobourg. These were chosen by rotation. Those elected by ballot were: Revs A C Reeves, J G Potter and C S Lord. Elders chosen were: Messrs Wm Butler, Hastings; Thos. Spears, Cobourg; G M Roger, Peterborough; Jas Craik, Port Hope; Wm Fowler, Peterborough; C T O'Brien, Campbellford; R Macklem, Brighton.

The resignation of pastor in charge, Rev. Mr. Tanner, of Omemee and Mount Pleasant, owing to a failure in his eyesight, was received. Notice of resignation was given, and an adjourned meeting will be held in St. Andrew's church here on the 28th at 2 p.m., to consider the matter.

Consideration of the remits of Assembly was deferred until meeting of Presbytery in connection with Synod meeting.

The next regular meeting of the Presbytery will be held at St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, on the first Tuesday in July.

TRADING STAMPS.

(Toronto Star.)

In giving trading stamps merchants are simply giving their customers a discount for cash, the stamps being used as they are most convenient. In giving the stamps, however, the merchant knows he is giving something that is going to induce the customer to come back, as the stamps have really no value until the book is filled. The result is that those who collect Trading Stamps are the best cash customers the merchant can have. They are not dealing with one merchant to-day and another to-morrow. They are satisfied and pleased to know their continuous case trade is appreciated as it should be by the merchant giving stamps. Some say the merchants should give the premiums themselves. No merchants could afford to keep the same large and extensive variety of goods as the Trading Stamp people do nor could he afford under any other system to give goods of such high value.

This is an age of competition and while other systems are proving failures, the Trading Stamps are growing in poularity every day.

THE NEW COVERT TOP COAT.

For Spring Wear has got the call again this season. It is a modified type of the real Covert Coat, which is short and boxy. The leading features is that it is not so short as the real Covert, and is much less boxy. In length it ranges from 34 to 35 inches for a man of average height. It must look broad, with well-rounded shoulders, a bottom fullness, the greater part of which will be placed at the sides. Well vented side-seams, collar of the material, shorter than the Chesterfield but broader and squarer in effect.

The material will be Covert coatings in neat drab shades, Venetians and Rainproof Cloth of pleasing mixtures. A range of new patterns in Soverign Trousers ($5.00) to select from.

NICHOLAS FARRAR AND THE PRAYER BOOK.

THE FIFTH OF THE SERIES OF LENTEN ADDRESSES.

Rev. A. J. Reid, of Uxbridge, Speaks in Reference to the Period Following the Reformation.

The fifth in the series of historical lectures was delivered in St. John's last evening, by Rev. A. J. Reid, of Uxbridge his subject being "Nicholas Ferrar and his Times." The lecturer said he was about to discuss a period and a man. Before speaking of the history of the man he would discuss the period to which he belonged and a most interesting epoch it was—that following the Reformation.

The English Reformation was, as already learned, no one act and was the work of no one man, but consisted in a succession of steps, prepared for by centuries, and extending itself over a period of more than fifty years.

There resulted from this great change a shock to the whole system, similar to that produced by an operation on the body of a sick man and the following time was one of some unrest and unsettlement. It was only in the latter years of Elizabeth that the church and people settled down to a permanent form. But this settling process was disturbed by many exiles, who had fled from Mary's persecution, returning full of Calvinistic and Puritan views, which they had imbibed on the continent.

This fact, together with the popular feeling stirred up by the atrocities of Mary's reign, and also by the Spanish invasion, gave the Church a temporary which was gradually counteracted by the learned scholars and saintly men who flourished in the 17th century. The Church of England had now gained her true position. Without giving up her share in the past heritage of the Church Catholic, she had begun in the Reformation to refer her teaching back to the text of the Scriptures. In her Prayer Book she was careful not to commit herself to a single word which went beyond the language of the Scriptures. It had been in the truest sense a reformation, not a revolution, or even a rebuilding, and from it there issued the Church of England, neither Papal nor Puritan, but Catholic and reformed.

Among the saints and scholars who adorned the 17th century were Hooker, the Church's great exponent and champion; Jeremy Taylor, the devotional writer; William Laud, the rigid disciplinarian, but the bold and conscientious reformer of ecclesiastical irregularities, and perhaps as the brightest jewel Lancelot Andrews, the saintly bishop, who while a courtier lived a life of singular religious beauty and detachment from the world. A strong High Churchman himself, he did not force his views on others, but attracted them by his gentle saintliness. There were many other men of similar gifts, such as the poet George Herbert and Nicholas Farrar, of whom he was to speak.

Born in 1593, he developed remarkable religious gifts in youth, which was probably largely owing to the religious fervour of his parents. His father was a of the time, and one of the directors of the Virginia Company, which was then employed in the settlement of Virginia.

In his youth Nicholas Ferrar had a remarkable religious experience, in which he had consecrated himself, as a child, to the service of the Lord, and prayed that His fear and love might never depart from his mind. He entered Cambridge during his 13th year, when he made striking progress in secular learning as well as in religion. After being elected fellow of his college he went abroad for five years, first making a vow that "if the Lord God will bring me home again in safety, in His holy sanctuary will I serve Him, and shall account the lowest place in His home more honourable than the greatest crown in the world."

He studied chiefly geometry and medicine in Germany and Italy and on his arrival home he was offered a professorship in geometry, which he refused on account of his vow. He entered for a time the service of the Virginia Company, and the lecturer here pointed out in what a distinctly religious fashion the settlement of Virginia was undertaken.

His father then died, and Ferrar prepared for a life of retirement. From his own early training and the influence of such men as Andrews and Herbert, he had caught the devotional spirit to which he proceeded to give EXPRESSION IN LIFE.

He purchased an estate in a sequestered part of the country called Little Gidding, where religion had declined to such an extent that the little church was used as a hay barn. On arrival the family would not enter their dwelling until the church was cleared out and prayer offered.

The lecturer then described the life of prayer and usefulness which the family adopted. In the old mansion the duties of the household, 30 in number, were so regulated that

The voice of praise was never silent,
Nor died the sound of praise away.

The house became a centre for instruction and the relief and care of the poor for the whole countryside and 100 children were regularly taught. Bookbinding and other arts were skilfully practised and a gift of one of their books to King Charles caused this monarch to pay a personal visit to the house.

Nicholas Ferrar had now taken Deacon's orders, but his excessive humility would not allow him to proceed higher.

The church, like many churches of the time, was carefully tended and beautifully adorned, but while an earnest churchman, Ferrar was a strong anti-Romanist. He died, as he had lived, quietly and severely, at the very hour of one o'clock in the morning, when it had been his lifelong practice to rise for prayer and devotion, after a life of forty-four years. Several biographers have appeared of late years, and an interesting picture of the household is given in the well known story "John Inglesant" by J. H. Shorthouse to which the speaker referred his hearers.

TRENT VALLEY PEAT CO.

The Manufacture of the New Fuel will be Commenced in a Couple of Weeks —The Business Promises to Assume Large Proportions.

Lindsay Post.

In a recent issue we noted the formation of the Trent Valley Peat Fuel Co., with very strong financial backing, comprising some of the leading capitalists of the Province, the object being to convert the immense deposits of peat stored in bogs along the line of the Trent Valley Canal into a substitute for coal. For years the quality of the peat has been known to a few, but the deposits have not been developed owing to the lack of a practicable and cheap method for converting the peat into a marketable article.

The machine needed was invented last year by a Toronto man, and fuel manufactured by it has been subjected to the severest tests for use in the household, in every line of industry, and on railways, and the results have been in every case satisfactory. Peat fuel will in a few years displace coal in the province of Ontario to a great extent.

Mr. J. W. Sims, of Kirkfield, formerly superintendent of the Balsam lake section of the Trent Canal for Onderdonk, is business manager for the new fuel company. He was in town last Saturday on his way east, and said he would have four machines at work a few miles from Kirkfield in about two weeks. The necessary buildings and shelters are being erected, and it is proposed at the outset to employ about 70 men in two gangs, so as to keep the machines at work day and night. The new industry promises to be of more practical utility to the north country than all the mines ever prospected, or opened throughout its length and breadth.

Davidson v. Cochrane.—Judgment on appeal by Hugh D, Cochrane, an infant, from an order of a Divisional Court (18 C. L. T., Occ. No. 220) affirming an order of Boyd C. (ib. 183) dismissing an appeal from an order of the local Judge at Peterborough directing that garnishees shall pay the judgment creditor the moneys due from them to the judgment debtor, and barring the claim of the appellant to such moneys. The judgment debtor was the mother of the appellant; the moneys in question were in the Canadian Bank of Commerce to the credit of a savings bank account kept in the name of the mother; an entry of the assignment of the moneys to the infant was made in the savings bank book, but the account was still allowed to stand in the name of the mother. No notice of the assignment was given to the infant or to the bank. The mother intended the money to be her son's and to be given or sent to him on his next birthday, when he would be of age. It was held below that there was no completed gift. Held that the transfer was incomplete and did not take effect. Appeal dismissed. No costs allowed to the respondent, the appeal having been launched without leave, and this not having been brought to the notice of the court. Clute, Q.C., and Poussette, Q. C., for the appellant. R. R. Hall, Peterborough, and Medd for the judgment creditor.

R. C. K. Mann, the novelist, died at Luneville, France, on Tuesday.

The death is announced of Heymann Steinthal, the German philologist, in Berlin. He was born in 1825 and was a pupil of Humboldt.

Sergeant Seymour of the Toronto police force has been committeed for trial on a charge of criminally assaulting a young deaf mute girl in the cells about three weeks ago.

Herr Ludwig Bamberger, a former member of the Reichstag and the author of a number of works on history and political economy, is dead at Berlin. He was born in 1828, and was at one time one of the leaders of the National Liberal party and an adversary of the late Prince Bismarck.

A TRUE STATEMENT

By Foreman White, of the Hamilton Screw Works.

Hamilton, March 6.—If a vote of the people were to be taken to ascertain which is the most popular medicine on the market, Dodd's Kidney Pills would lead by a large majority.

One of the latest cures by that grand remedy is that of Foreman T. H. White, of the Screw Works here, who testifies that he was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills of Kidney Disease of eight years' standing, after other medicines had failed.

Mr. White says: "One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me, four boxes cured me. Publish this statement if you wish. It is true in every particular."

MARKET REPORTS.

A Turn in Wheat—Chicago Fell a Cent and Then Recovered—Course of Old Country Markets.

Liverpool, March 15.—Wheat futures were very heavy yesterday, closing ¾d to 1 1-8d per cental below Monday's final figures.

Chicago, March 15.—Wheat futures opened weak yesterday morning, and declined to a point nearly a cent below Monday's final figures. Later there was some buying on talk of crop damage and drought in California and the May option recovered, closing nearly half a cent above Tuesday's close. The July option made a net gain of ⅛c for the day.

To Patrol Behring Sea.

Washington, March 15.—Arrangements are now being perfected at the Treasury Department to restore the patrol of Behring Sea by four ships of the revenue cutter service. The vessels to be assigned to this duty are the Rush, the Corwin, the Perry and the Grant, all of which are now on the Pacific coast. The fleet will sail north about May 1, and remain on duty until Sept. 15

Fortier Will Remove From Montreal.

Montreal, March 15.—Montreal is about to lose an important industry. Mr. J. M. Forsier has decided to remove his large cigar factory from this city to St. Therese. That municipality has made Mr. Fortier the offer of $47,000 bonus, and he has decided to accept it. Mr. Fortier's factory in this city employs in the neighborhood of 300 hands.

No Exemption for Them.

Toronto, March 15.—A special meeting of the Baptist ministers was held yesterday afternoon to discuss the tax exemption question. The following resolution, moved by Prof. Farmer, and seconded by Rev. Dr. Thomas, was passed on a vote of 13 to 5:

"That we are in favor of the steady progress of the Government towards the abolition of ecclesiastical and other similar exemptions."

Ready for the Opening.

Ottawa, March 15.—Arrangements are now complete for the opening of Parliament on Thursday. The Speakers of both Houses are on hand, giving necessary directions. Levis and Winnipeg are the only seats vacant in the Commons, but there are several vacancies in the Upper House. The seating arrangements for the new members have been fixed.

New Scheme for Delivering Beer.

St. Louis, Mo., March 15.—A company with a capital of $300,000 has been organized in the city to operate a new brewery on the co-operative plan. Deliveries will be made by refrigerator cars on the trolley lines, thus dispensing with heavy hauling wagons.

Walker's Loss $4,000.

Windsor, Ont., March 15.—By the wreck of the Castilian, the new Allan Liner, which ran on a rock near Yarmouth, N.S., the Walkers of Walkerville, will lose about $4,000. They had 40 head of Durham cattle on board. The cattle were thoroughbreds and had been shipped for sale in the English markets.

Mr. Galt Sustained by Council.

Ottawa, March 15.—The row at the City Hall was settled at a formal meeting of the Council yesterday morning by giving one year's salary to Assistant Engineer Perreault, who will resign, and Engineer Kerr of Toronto, who is now in the main drainage, gets the assistant engineership.

Brantford Pork Packing Factory.

Brantford, March 15.—The Brantford co-operative pork packing factory has now been fairly launched. Thousands of dollars have been subscribed by citizens and farmers of the district. Another meeting of those interested will be held on Saturday.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease, is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells of how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

Too Much of It.

A high army officer whose fad was ventilation was one day making an inspection of a frontier post which was much in need of repair. In some places the roof showed the blue sky overhead and the walls were ornamented with gaps.

The brigadier general was escorted through the building by the colonel in charge, a sergeant going on before, as is the custom, to warn the men to stand at attention in honor of the general.

As they proceeded the general asked: "And how is the ventilation, colonel?"

Before the colonel could reply the old sergeant, with a familiarity born of long service, said:

"Sure, general, and the ventilation is bad, sorr, verra bad, sorr. The place is all full of holes, sorr."

MR. M. MILLER, BENSFORT, ONT.

Says Laxa-Liver Pills made a new man of him.

Cured him of Indigestion and Pains in the Back.

We don't make absurd or extravagant claims for Laxa-Liver Pills.

Tell you in a plain, simple way what they will do, and prove what we say by the testimony of those who have used them. We say they cure dyspepsia, indigestion and all stomach disorders, and renew the health and strength.

Mr. Melville Miller, Bensfort, Ont., corroborates this in the following statements: "I have used two bottles of Laxa-Liver Pills and I must say they made a new man out of me, after taking them for three weeks. My trouble was indigestion, heart fluttering and pains in my back. Laxa-Liver Pills have completely cured me and I think they are the best medicine in the world to set a man up."

If you take a Laxa-Liver Pill before retiring, 'twill work while you sleep, without a gripe or pain, and make you feel better in the morning.

These pills never sicken or weaken, and leave no bad after-effects of any kind.

Newfoundland Tangles.

St. John's, Nfld., March 15.—The breach in the Government ranks is now past healing, and a temporary coalition between Sir Robert Bond and Sir James Winter is practically settled. It is stated on good authority that they met on Saturday night and discussed the position and outlined roughly a plan for the session. The position now is: Bond and Winter combined, 19 Morine, 13; absent, 3; vacant, 1. Meanwhile, men of this city who subscribed to the Government's party fund so largely last election are with Sir James Winter, and hail the possible coalition between Winter and Bond with pleasure.

Baby Eczema and Scald Head.

Infants and young children are peculiarly subject to this disorder, and if not promptly arrested it will eventually become chronic. Dr. Chase made a special study of eczema and disease of the skin and we can confidently recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to cure all forms of eczema. The first application soothes the irritation and puts the little sufferer to rest.

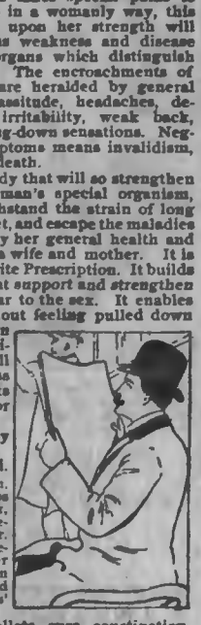
Weary Woman Stands Up.—The hard-worked saleslady—the tired shopper, the worn-out mother with babe in arms—they one and all stand up. Man, chivalrous man, sits down. This is the daily spectacle in modern street cars. Any competent physician will tell you that woman is peculiarly unfitted to bear the strain of long hours upon her feet. Unless she takes special pains to build herself up in a womanly way, this unusual demand upon her strength will result in a serious weakness and disease of the delicate organs which distinguish her from man. The encroachments of these maladies are heralded by general weakness and lassitude, headaches, despondency and irritability, weak back, pains and dragging-down sensations. Neglect of these symptoms means invalidism, insanity or early death.

There is a remedy that will so strengthen and build up woman's special organism, that she may withstand the strain of long hours upon her feet, and escape the maladies that would destroy her general health and her capability as a wife and mother. It is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It builds up the muscles that support and strengthen the organs peculiar to the sex. It enables her to stand without feeling pulled down and without pain or extreme weariness. It cures all womanly weakness and disease. It fits her not only for work, but for healthy, happy wifehood and motherhood.



Mrs. Claus Nelson, of Pico Heights, Los Angeles, Cal., Box 31, writes: "I had female trouble, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, together with the advice given in his book, cured me of five years' sickness."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation.

JAMES COULDN'T IMAGINE.

A Story That a New York Clubwoman Tells About Herself.

Here is a good story which a clubwoman tells about herself.

"At one time," she says, "we had a colored butler who staid with us for years, and who admired my husband immensely. He thought that Dr. H. was a marvel of manly beauty, as well as the embodiment of all the virtues, domestic, professional and otherwise. Of course I quite agreed with the butler on this point, but the fact is I sometimes pined to have him pass his enthusiastic compliments around to the family and not bestow them all on the doctor. So one morning, when Dr. H. had just left the breakfast table and was even then to be seen, an imposing picture, as he stood on the front steps drawing on his gloves, I remarked to James:

"'Dr. H. is a handsome man, isn't he?'

"'Yes, ma'am. 'Deed an he is, ma'am!' with gratifying enthusiasm.

"Then, hoping to get a rise from James, I added with an absentminded air, as if I scarcely knew what I said, but was just uttering my inmost thoughts:

"'How in the world do you suppose that such a handsome man as Dr. H. ever happened to marry such a homely woman as I am?'

"Well, James just stopped short and rolled his eyes and shook his head as if he gave it up. Then he ejaculated:

"'Heaven knows, ma'am!'"—New York Sun.

Almost in Despair.

"My wife suffered with pain and distress from an affection of the throat caused by impure blood. She was almost in despair of ever obtaining a cure, but finally procured a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after taking six bottles of this medicine she was completely cured." John Weckmar, Galt, Ontario.

That distress after eating is prevented by one or two of Hood's Pills. They don't gripe.

Now It Is a Salt Trust.

New York, March 15.—It was reported yesterday that the evaporated salt interests of this State are being brought together under the title of the National Salt Company. It will have an authorized capital of $12,000,000, of which $5,000,000 is non-cumulative 7 per cent. preferred stock, and the remaining $7,000,000 common.

Alimentary Value of Fish.

The alimentary value of fish is indisputable. It is wholesome and nutritious and in its wide range of quality and flavor affords gratification to the coarsest as well as the most refined palate. Moreover, in primary cost it is the cheapest of flesh foods and should, therefore, be the universal ailment, everywhere a staple dish upon the family board. To most, however, it is substantially a luxury. In many localities it is not obtainable fresh, and so falls into public disfavor. But even where presented in acceptable condition the accommodation is usually affected with difficulty and expense, involving a corresponding limitation of sale.

Thus it is that the consumer is dissatisfied, the dealer is not content, and the producer, the poor fisherman, rightly bewails his lot, for he profits least. It can be truthfully said that there is no branch of civilized effort wherein the producer receives so small a proportion of the ultimate or consumer's price as does the toiler of the sea for the unchanged product of his labor. —A. H. Gouraud in North American Review.

Mrs. Leonard Wood, wife of the military governor of Santiago, is organizing there a branch of the Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Mrs. Benjamin Harrison will accompany her husband when the ex-president goes abroad this spring in the interest of the Venezuelan commission.

"Eldress Dorothy" Durgin, the head of the Shaker community near Concord, N. H., who died recently, had been the head of the settlement for nearly 50 years.

Mrs. J. H. R. Bond of Chicago was one of the first nurses sent out by the British government on active duty, and has many medals given to her for heroic service on the field of battle.

Mrs. Ann Taylor of Philadelphia, who has just died at the age of 101 years, was the daughter of Jacob Ludwick who fought under Washington in the Revolutionary war. Her husband was one of the defenders of Baltimore in the war of 1812.

Lady Randolph Churchill, who was Miss Jerome of New York, is about to start a quarterly magazine in London, which will be something like the yellow book, enlarged and amplified with particularly fine illustrations and binding. Each number is to cost a guinea.

Mrs. White, wife of the American embassador at Berlin, temporarily laid aside her mourning, according to custom, the other day to attend a court reception by the emperor and empress of Germany. Mrs. White is in mourning for her mother, wife of President McGill of Swarthmore college, who died last year.

Mrs. McCumber, wife of the senator elect, was formerly a resident of Fargo, where she was employed as assistant manager of the Western Union telegraph office. While still Miss Jennie Schorning, she was transferred from Fargo to the Wahpeton office, where Attorney McCumber wooed and won her, and she is now the mother of two children.

A tea cloth said to be highly prized by Lady Curzon has the names of all her titled London acquaintances embroidered upon it. It is, of course, of the finest linen, but is perfectly plain, with a deep hemstitched border. Her friends have written their names diagonally across the border, and these she has had embroidered in white cotton.

Miss Reed, daughter of the speaker, is during her frequent visits to the capitol a constant visitor at the sessions of the house over which her father presides. She always sits in the front row of the members' private gallery, and when adjournment time arrives is joined by Mr. Reed, who accompanies her to the family apartments in the Shoreham.

MR. FRANK DODGE

Says His Life was Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto Feb. 27.—Mr. Frank Dodge, of North Maupeberg, Ont., has been visiting here recently. He is a splendid specimen of Canadian manhood, standing more than six feet high "in his stockings" erect and muscular.

"I was a different man two years ago," said he to a friend to day. The truth is I would have died of Kidney Complaint, if it hadn't been for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I had been treated by physicians and had taken various remedies without getting any better. I read of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and decided to try them. I did so, and was thoroughly cured in a couple of weeks.

A Reminiscence of Marie Antoinette.

Old Jean (who was a child then) had no idea who she (the queen of France) was, as she was always spoken of as Veuve Capet and her daughter as Citoyenne Marie. On entering her room he looked up and saw a pale, cold, stern looking woman with snow white hair, standing bolt upright, facing the three men and boy as they came in. Some childish instinct made the boy reverently bend his head to her and if he dared he would have doffed his cap and bent his knee.

Constantly he carried the pitcher to her, and one day, when his uncle was more drunk than usual, he slipped three primroses, which he had in his hot little hand, into hers. The queen took them, hid them in her dress and burst into tears. The child was frightened at her hysterical sobs. Loud and fierce was the roar of laughter from the ribald guards on hearing Veuve Capet cry. She had not shed a tear since her boy had been taken from her, but the flowers had opened the floodgates.—"Foreign Courts and Foreign Homes."

An Improbable Hope.

In looking into the future we find ourselves staring at a blank wall, for, with the exception of the phonograph and the typewriter, no recent advance has been made in lessening literary work. The ideal method of composition would be the use of some machine into which the operator could talk and have his spoken word reproduced at once on paper as the written word, but unfortunately, like printing photographs in colors, each succeeding advance and discovery in the world of invention seems to make this hope more and more improbable. The insurmountable difficulty lies in the fact that there is no connection between the sound of a word and its appearance on paper. We will never reach this ideal state.—J. Howe Adams in North American Review.

The English Language.

"Mamma, if I had a hat before I had this one, it's all right to say that's the hat I had had, isn't it?"

"Certainly, Johnny."

"And if that hat once had a hole in it and I had it mended I could say it had had a hole in it, couldn't I?"

"Yes, there would be nothing incorrect in that."

"Then it'd be good English to say that the hat I had had had had a hole in it, wouldn't it?"—Trained Motherhood.

IN THE TWILIGHT OF LOVE.

If years ago you told me, dear,
That on a day our dreams would fade,
To these halt hearted fancies drear,
I should have grieved and felt dismayed.

But yet so softly has the rain
Of dead years' ashes settled on
Each glowing passion that the pain
Was smothered ere all light had gone.

Ah, be it thus with love's decease!
Its day is done; its shrine too high
To brave time's destined tragedies.
Let us steal down ere night comes by.
—Thomas Walsh in Bookman.

William Black's Characters.

Sir Wemyss Reid notes that William Black seldom allowed himself to be drawn into conversation about his work. One of Reid's recollections runs thus: "One day, in the faroff past, I was walking along the sea front with Black, at Brighton, when he said abruptly and with reference to nothing that had been passing between us: 'We are not all engaged in running away with other men's wives. There are some of us who are not the victims of mental disease or moral deformity. I do not even know that anybody of my acquaintance has committed a murder or a forgery. Yet people are angry with me because I do not make my characters in my books odious in this fashion. I prefer to write about sane people and honest people, and I imagine that they are, after all, in a majority in the world.'"

Some Went to Glory.

I once asked a district nurse, says a writer in The Cornhill Magazine, how the various sick cases had been going on during my absence from the parish. At once the look which I knew so well crossed her face, but her natural professional pride strove for the mastery with the due unctuousness which she considered necessary for the occasion. At last she evolved the following strange mixture. "Middling well, sir; some of 'em's gone straight to glory, but I am glad to say others are nicely on the mend."

Starting Him Right.

"Ah!" sighed the sentimental youth. "Would that I might install a sentiment in your loyal heart"—

"Sir," interrupted the practical maid, "I'd have you understand that my heart is no installment concern."—Chicago News.

NOT THE ONLY ONE.

Spencers In That Locality Were as Thick as Blackberries.

A half yearly meeting of the directors who manage the Northampton private asylum had just broken up, and Lord Spencer, a member of that body, desiring to reach Althorp Park somewhat more quickly than customarily, determined to return home by a route which intersects the grounds of the asylum and which is rarely used save as a summer parade for the unfortunate lunatics. Arrived at the gate which separates the asylum from the outer world, Lord Spencer, much to his annoyance and disgust, found it securely locked. A keeper, however, happening to come in sight just at that moment Lord Spencer lost no time in explaining to him the nature of his wishes.

The man surlily replied that his orders were to the effect that no one should pass through that gate except due notice were given to him to the contrary by the authorities, and that, being a married man with a wife and a large family, he failed to understand what special advantage was to be gained by transgressing the rules and thus placing his situation in jeopardy. Observing that the fellow was growing obdurate, Lord Spencer thought it best to reveal his name and rank, imagining that a knowledge of the same would recall the man to his senses. Nothing of the sort happened, however.

The stolid features of the keeper simply relaxed into a broad grin, and as he turned to depart he gently explained that Lord Spencers in that particular locality were as plentiful as blackberries in the autumn time. Explanations and expostulations were useless, the discomfited earl being forced to return the way he had come.—Wit and Wisdom.

Delayed Too Long.

"I think I'll get my wife a cookbook," said the young man.

"How long have you been married?" asked the experienced one.

"Six months."

"Too late! You ought to have bought it the first week. She will take it now as an indication that you no longer love her."—Indianapolis Journal.

A NEW INVENTION!

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier o the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which lights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. THE McALL MISSION LECTURE CRITICISED.

The Condition of Religion in France Dealt With.

The Catholic Record, of London, Ont., has the following in reference to the subject specified below:

"Our attention has been directed to the synopsis of an address delivered by Rev. H. Symonds on the condition of France and the missionary work of Dr. McColl, as reported in the Peterborough Review of the 21st ult.

"The speaker referred to the scepticism prevalent in France, and the wonderful spread of the Reformation in that country until the Huguenots were nearly "obliterated," leaving us to understand that the obliteration was effected by ruthless prosecution by the Catholic Church.

"Careful readers of history know that such statements are misrepresentations of the facts. It is true that three, and even two centuries ago, there was a very prevalent opinion among both Catholics and Protestants that their respective religions should be propagated by force, and there were frequent prosecutions for conscience sake, but the Catholic Church never gave her sanction to the principle of persecution, and when such persecution occurred in Catholic countries, it was the result of political exigencies and influences. In France there was a religious war carried on with varying bitterness from 1550 to 1570, because the Huguenots entertained the design to overthow the legitimate succession to the throne, and the regrettable dissensions were afterwards renewed, with occasional intermissions, until 1685, the period designated by Mr. Symonds, when the Huguenots were finally obliterated by expulsion from the country. During these troublesome times there were lamentable excesses on both sides, the details of which need not be mentioned here.

"Mr. Symonds next spoke of the prevalence of scepticism and infidelity in France. 'Thousands in Paris alone,' he says, 'have no religion.' This is unfortunately true, but the Catholic Church is not responsible for this state of affairs, but the worldly-mindedness of those who neglect the precepts of religion.

"Even from an early date evil influences have been at work, not only in France, but in every Christian country, to counteract the ordinances of faith, and in France there has always been an undercurrent antagonistic to the Catholic Church. The Church does not coerce man's free will, and thus Arianism was prevalent in the south of France for centuries. The Albigensian heresy was received with favour during the middle ages, and the principles of Voltaire found quick root in the soil in the latter part of the last century. These principles have not yet been rooted out, but infidelity has its home chiefly in the cities where worldliness prevails. In the rural districts religion has a vigorous growth, as Mr. Symonds himself acknowledges, saying: 'In the rural districts there is a deep religious spirit.' Any visitor to France may witness the fervour of that spirit in the devotion of the people as they assist at Mass on Sundays and holy days; and this may be seen even in the cities, where both standards are erected—that of Christ and that of the enemy of our salvation—and where there is a perpetual conflict between religion and unbelief.

"Here we must remark that though there is so much practical unbelief in France, Protestantism has no foothold, as out of the whole 40,000,000 of population of the country, including the large cities, where there are many foreign Protestants, the total number of Protestants is less than 560,000, though there is complete religious liberty, and Protestant ministers are in receipt of larger salaries from the Government than Catholic priests, so that they may be able to support their families.

"It is not true, as Mr. Symonds says, that "there are now large defections from the Church of Rome, many of the clergy becoming Protestants." There is no such movement, and though it has been asserted before that this the case, those who have made these statements have refrained from giving localities and figures to show that there have been such defections, for the reasons that they are only imaginary. As there are fully 40,000 priests in France, there is no obligation for us to enquire where these defections are to be found until they are localized by those who allege them. The Catholic sentiment in France is known to be growing stronger from day to day, and one of the best evidences of this is the fact of the growing influence of religion in the Chamber of Deputies, which though it was decidedly irreligious a quarter of a century ago, is now as decidedly Catholic in its prevailing sentiment.

"Mr. Symonds also boasts of the great progress of the McColl Protestant missions throughout France. This is also to a great extent an exaggeration. In Paris, where there is a great and a cosmopolitan population, it is no wonder that Protestant hospitals, homes for children, and schools should be at work on a pretty extended scale, and the same may be true of other large cities, but there is no serious defection from the Catholic Church, and the boasted work done in the way of Protestant missions falls far short of that unostentatiously done by the Christian Brothers in educating youth, and in conducting Industrial schools, and by the Sisters of Charity in charitable works of every kind.

"Mr. Symonds boasts that Dr. McCall has received from the President of France the cross of the legion of honour on account of his humanitarian work. Possibly this may be the case. We will make enquiries into the matter in due time, meanwhile we would remind that gentleman that not a year passes during which such honours as this are not paid to humble Sisters who have distinguished themselves by their deeds of charity either on the battlefield or in the hospitals by performing heroic works of mercy, though these ladies are of such a retiring a disposition that they would prefer to do their work in secret without attracting the notice of the high civil authorities. If one Protestant gentleman has received such an acknowledgment from the President of the French Republic it does not prove that his work surpasses that of the scores of nuns who have, without seeking it, received similar recognition."

LETTER FROM NORWOOD.

DEAR SIR.—In all justice to Norwood Colts Hockey team, I would like the report of their match with the Peterborough Colts (junior) rechanged. The score given in your paper was not 13 to 1, but 10 to 1, taking the referee's word, who announced the above score at the end of the game. Also the report stated that Norwood played 7 men to the Colts' 6. This is again false for below are the names of those playing on the Norwood team: Goal, J. Kellat; point, H. Nichol; cover, A. Kemp; forwards, J. Morrow, B. Hampton, B. Howson. As regards the difference in the size and weight of the players I need not say anything but that the Norwood boys were surprised to face such a strong team. Hoping the Peterborough Colts all luck in all their matches and also fairplay to the Norwood Colts, I remain

Yours truly,
D. PETTIGREW.

CURLING.

If the weather holds there is no reason why the curlers should not have another bonspell before the close of the season. Tuesday night's fun has done a lot to promote the interest in the game. Let the Granites take the initiative in the next match. It will not take long to arrange the details.

A challenge match takes place at the rink to-night. Neither of the skips have handled a stone for the last ten years, and a good deal of amusement is expected.

A match is "on" between the two Colt rinks.

THE WHEEL.

Mr. Geo. A. Kingston, of Good Roads fame discusses Mr. Stratton's cycle bill as follows in the Globe:—

In view of the very large number of people who will be more or less concerned, should the proposed cycle path bill become law, I deem it important that the promoters of this legislation should state to the public very fully and frankly the purpose and scope of the proposed measure. The idea of the bill is to raise money by means of a license for the purpose of assisting the cycle path movement, which has been carried on in Toronto, and a few other places in the Province in a small way during the past three or four years.

In its terms, the bill is drawn with the idea of enabling each and every county in the province to take advantage of the law should the wheelmen in the respective localities so desire, but it is based distinctly on the principle of local option, and the law will be a dead letter in each county, until a board for such county is organized.

It is not expected, should the bill become law, that for the first year at all events any place other than Toronto, and possibly also Hamilton, London and Ottawa, will organise boards, and the promoter would be perfectly agreeable to have the bill narrowed in its scope, so as to apply only to these places, and the vicinity surrounding them, but it was thought better to so frame the measure that other places might take it up, if they saw fit to do so, after finding that it works in York County.

It is not sought to compel every wheelman to buy a license, or "side path number," as it is known in New York State, but only persons desirious of using the cycle paths will be called upon to pay, and we seek to impose the penalty under the law only in the event of anyone insisting on using the paths and at the same time refusing to pay for his license.

The Boards of Commissioners give their time and service entirely free, so that practically all the money collected would be devoted to the construction of cycle paths.

I have before me the report of the Side Path Commissioner for Monroe County (Rochester) for the year 1898. (The legislation we seek here came into force in Rochester and vicinity about one year ago. The law was passed by the State Legislature, but was limited in its application to Monroe County.) It appears that they have there a 25-cent license, and last year they realised from the proceeds of these licenses over $8,000 for the purpose of improving and extending their existing system of sidepaths.

The following portion of the report is well worth noting, as it expresses the "raison d'etre" applicable equally to Toronto as well as Rochester: "The paths are and will continue to be of great benefit to Rochester and the adjoining towns. They allow a traffic to Rochester at seasons of the year when the roads are impassable, furnish a good walk to residents of the localities through which they run, allow children in the country to attend school in the city, and furnish a net work of communication which we believe is an object lesson of what good roads might do for this country."

I read also from the report of the committee appointed to deal with the report of the said Board of Side Path Commissioners for Monroe County: "The side path movement as shown by the support given the Side Path Commission last year, is a popular one. Nearly 31,000 of the inhabitants of this county registered and bought tags. The number of wheels using the 130 miles of path in this country demonstrate that the gentlemen who have taken the initiative in building paths, and have devoted a large share of their time and thought to please this army of people are worthy of the thanks and appreciation of every rider of the wheel."

The Globe in this morning's issue deals with the question at considerable length, and passes criticism on the details of the bill. I do not claim that the bill as at present drawn is perfect in all its details, but we hope what imperfections there are will be cured in the Municipal Committee. The sum and substance, however of the Globe's objection to the proposed bill is that it will be prejudicial to the interests of the movement for better roads. In answer to this, the Legislature has already recognized the wisdom of this cycle path movement in an act which is familiarly known as the Stratton Act of 1897, now embodied in the R.S.O., 1897, Chap 223, section 640, subsection 1, whereby, amongst other things, it is enacted that the municipality shall have the right of setting apart a portion of the highway for the purpose of a bicycle path, and at the same time it is made an offence to drive horses or heavy vehicles over paths built under the provision of this act, and already several fines have been imposed for infractions of that law.

Even if the present bill becomes law, as I trust it will, it cannot be expected that but a small percentage of the total road mileage of this country would be covered for some time to come. Work would only for some time at least be carried on near the larger centres of population, and it is now and has long since been my opinion, and this is borne out by the view expressed by the gentlemen from Rochester, that instead of this movement being detrimental to the cause of good roads, it will afford the best sort of object lesson to show what good roads would do for this country.

I think the opinion is becoming fairly general that the quickest way of bringing about a consummation of the good roads movement is for the Government to enforce the use of the four-inch tire on all heavy vehicles, but I doubt if any Government can afford to take the responsibility of antagonizing such a large section of the farmer community as would be incident to the enforcing of a measure of this kind. This whole question of good roads must resolve itself into a matter of education, and I do not know anything which the bicyclists of this country could do by the way of promoting this education better than to engage in the cycle path movement.

Yours truly,
GEO. A. KINGSTON.
Toronto, March 15, 1899.

FALL WHEAT.

Prominent farmers in Smith and North Monaghan report the winter wheat a practical failure. Though the crop promised well in the fall the hard winter and lack of snow has resulted in a disastrous freezing, the wheat being pretty generally frozen down close to the crown, a condition from which it is not expected to recover. Other parts of the country report similar conditions, so that the outlook for a good crop of winter wheat is not by any means promising.

Business Announcement

On or about Jan. 1st we made an announcement of a sale of our entire Fur stock preparatory to leaving Peterborough.

We had in sight at that time offers for the purchase of our business, en bloc, after stock was reduced; but not having come to a satisfactory agreement we have decided to remain in Peterborough permanently.

* * *

This explanation to the public is made as we believe they are entitled to it. We have always made it a point to live up to our advertisements in every respect and in this case fully intended to do so had it been at all possible.

DYSPEPSIA AND CONSTIPATION.

Where One is Found the Other is Usually Present.

Their Dangerous Results—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a Sure and Thorough Cure—How They Act—Promptly Positively, Perfectly and Permanently.

In nine cases of Dyspepsia out of every ten, the trouble is aggravated by Constipation, and it cannot justly be claimed that the first-named has been cured till the Constipation has been banished also.

The dangerous results that attend the presence of a mass or partly-digested decaying food in the stomach, and a mass of fecal refuse in the bowels, can easily be imagined.

The urgent need is for a medicine that will immediately digest the food in the stomach, make that organ do its own work clean out the bowels, and cause them to do that work themselves, promptly, regularly and thoroughly.

Such a medicine is Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, which are a perfect, digestive. They moisten the hard, dry mass of food in the stomach, and reduce it to a thin milk like liquid, which is then passed out of the stomach.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets act also on the glands and coatings of the stomach, stimulating the former to secrete a full supply of gastric juice, and strengthening the latter.

Thus, while the stomach is unable to digest the food, Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets do that work and restore strength, when it is able to do its own duty.

The small, brown tablets act on the bowels, clearing out of them all accumulated matter, and giving them strength to promptly and regularly perform their functions.

The small tablets act also on the liver, regulating the secretion and flow of bile, and by this means, preventing and curing Billiousness.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure all Stomach Troubles, promptly, positively, perfectly and permanently.

Don't Neglect a Cold in the Head.

JAPANESE CATARRH CURE
Cures in a Single Night.

Catarrh of the head usually starts with a cold in the head, and if left unchecked in this climate rarely gets well itself. Another cold is usually added, and before it gets well incipient catarrh sets in, and as each fresh cold is contracted the disease gradually becomes worse, until hearing, sense of taste and smell are gone, and finally incurable lung trouble is the result. If you have a cold in the head don't neglect it. Japanese Catarrh Cure relieves a cold in the head in a few minutes, and will cure in a single night. Mr. Alex. McRae, the well known tailor of New Westminster, B. C., writes: "I was for some weeks suffering from a cold in the head, which was apparently developing into catarrh. I purchased a box of Japanese Catarrh Cure, and in less than two days the trouble entirely disappeared. I can highly recommend it; the first application relieved."

Sold by Ormond & Walsh, druggists, Peterborough. Price 50 cents. Six boxes, guaranteed to cure, for $2.50. A free sample sent to any sufferer from catarrh. Enclose 3 cents in stamps. Address, The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., 121 Church street, Toronto.

BRILLIANT OPENING.

Splendid Ceremonial Accompanied Lord Minto's Debut.

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE

The Subjects Mentioned by His Excellency in His First Deliverance—The Recently Deceased Members—The House Adjourns as a Tribute of Respect—New Liberal Members Introduced.

Ottawa, March 17.—Since Confederation there has not been a more brilliant ceremony than that attending the opening of Parliament yesterday. Not even in the days of the Dufferins or the Aberdeens, notable for splendid functions of state, has a finer show been made, nor have the social features of an opening day been excelled. Viewed from every possible standpoint, Lord Minto's first official appearance on Parliament Hill was a success. The crowd that received him outside the Parliament Buildings was numbered by thousands.

The crush in the Senate Chamber was tremendous. Every inch of space upon the floor and in the galleries was occupied, mostly by ladies. Society never made a braver show, or brought together a more representative assemblage. The ladies of the land were represented, from Victoria to Halifax, by the wives, daughters and friends of the Senators and members.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon His Excellency the Governor-General proceeded to the Chamber of the Senate in the Parliament Buildings, and the members of the Senate being present, and the members of the House of Commons having been summoned to the bar of the Senate, His Excellency was pleased to open the fourth session of the eighth Parliament of Canada with the following speech:

The Speech From the Throne.

Honorable gentlemen of the Senate, gentlemen of the House of Commons:

In meeting you for the first time since entering within my duties as the representative of Her Majesty in this Dominion, it affords me great pleasure to be able to congratulate you on the large degree of prosperity which the people of Canada at present enjoy, as evidenced by the expansion of trade and commerce, the flourishing condition of the public revenues, and the increased number of immigrants who have become permanent settlers amongst us. To these evidences may be added another which is even more gratifying, the almost total cessation of the considerable exodus of our population, which at one time was a regrettable feature of our affairs.

The negotiations which were set on foot during the recess between Her Majesty's Government and that of the United States in reference to the settlement of certain questions in dispute between Canada and the latter country were, I grieve to say, greatly delayed by the illness and subsequent death of two of the most eminent members of the commission appointed for that purpose. Considerable progress had been made on several of the subjects submitted, but a serious disagreement arose between Her Majesty's commissioners and the commissioners of the United States on the question of the delimitation of the boundary between Canada and Alaska, and the question was referred by the commissioners to their respective Governments, the commission being adjourned to the second day of August next, in the hope that in the meantime the difficulty might be overcome.

In compliance with the act passed last session a plebiscite was held on the question of prohibition. The official figures of the vote will be placed before you.

I observe with pleasure that the mother country, Canada and other British possessions have recently adopted a penny postage letter rate. The satisfaction with which this action has been received by the Canadian people is a further proof of the general desire existing amongst our people for closer relations with the mother country and the rest of the Empire.

I am also glad to be able to state that the satisfactory condition of the finances of the country permitted a reduction, on the first of January last, of the Canadian domestic letter rate from three to two cents, and although such reduction involves a temporary loss of revenue, it is, nevertheless, confidently expected that the cheapened rate will prove of such service in the promotion of trade and in the general interchange of correspondence that within a reasonable time the revenue of the Postoffice Department will be restored to its former figure.

Much information has been obtained since you last met relative to the extent and value of the deposits of gold and valuable minerals in the Yukon and other parts of Canada. The returns from the Yukon have so far been sufficient to meet the heavy expenditure it was found necessary to incur for the purpose of preserving law and order, and it has been thought expedient in the public interest to authorize the construction of a line of telegraph for the purpose of maintaining speedy communication with the people of these distant territories.

A measure will be submitted to you for the better arrangement of the electoral districts throughout the Dominion, as also several enactments of less importance.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The public accounts will be laid before you, and also the estimates for the coming year. They have been prepared with a due regard to efficiency and economy, and the responsibility arising from the rapid progress of the country.

Honorable gentlemen of the Senate, gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I am confident that the important subjects I have mentioned to you will receive your serious consideration; and that it will be your earnest endeavor to promote the public interests and prosperity of Canada.

The Formal Business.

On the return of the Commons to their Chamber, Mr. Speaker made the usual announcements with respect to vacancies, issue of warrants and election of members during the recess. He also said that he had forwarded to Mrs. Gladstone the resolution of condolence with her on the death of her illustrious husband, adopted last session, and read the reply he had received in which Mrs. Gladstone expressed herself as being deeply touched at this tribute to the memory of her lamented husband.

Mr. Speaker also stated that he had received from Mr. Guite, M.P. for Bonaventure, a letter dated 15th December, in which he resigned his seat. The resignation was attested to by two members and signed by Mr. Guite, but he had neglected to affix his seal as required by subsection 2 of section 5, chapter 13 revised statutes. Mr. Speaker, in a letter to Mr. Guite, dated 29th December, pointed out that the resignation was not made in the form required, and there the correspondence appears to have ended.

New Members Introduced.

The following new members were introduced and took their seats:

Robert Holmes (West Huron) by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. W. Paterson.

P. R. Martineau (Montmagny) by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. J. I. Tarte.

T. G. Johnson (West Lambton) by Hon. William Mulock and Mr. J. Fraser.

Leighton McCarthy (North Simcoe) by Mr. William Stubbs and Rev. Dr., Douglas.

J. T. Bell (East Prince) by Sir Louis Davies and Mr. McClellan.

J. E. Marcil (Bagot) by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. J. I. Tarte.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier introduced the usual bill respecting the oaths of office.

Mr. Speaker stated that during the visit to the Senate His Excellency had been pleased to deliver a most gracious speech and "for greater accuracy" he had secured a copy.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved, seconded by Sir Richard Cartwright, that the address in reply to the speech from the throne be taken with consideration on Monday. Carried.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved, seconded by Sir Richard Cartwright, that the usual select standing committees be appointed. Carried.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved, seconded by Sir Richard Cartwright, the appointment of the debates committee and explained that the members, were the same as last year, with the exception of Mr. Champagne being named on the committee in place of Mr. Choquette.

Respect for the Dead.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier then moved that this House at its adjournment stand adjourned until Monday next. The right hon. gentleman said the House would understand by simply looking at the wreath they observed on a desk on the other side. Almost within the last few hours death had removed from amongst them one of the most respected and one of the most estimable members of that House in the person of Mr. Wood, late member for Brockville. He was greatly respected by his friends and much loved by his opponents. His judicial mind, his character had left a feeling of bereavement. On that side of the House they had also lost a great friend in the late Dr. Guay. The right hon. gentleman also made graceful allusion to the late Mr. Jameson of Winnipeg.

Sir Charles' Tribute.

Sir Charles Tupper thanked the leader of the House for the very courteous manner in which he accepted the suggestion that the House should adjourn in consequence of the death of one of his (Sir Charles') former colleagues and a gentleman who, as the leader of the Government stated, had occupied a very high position in the House in the estimation of members on both sides. Sir Charles then paid high tributes to the memories of the late Mr. Wood and Mr. Jameson of Winnipeg.

The motion carried, and the House immediately adjourned.

THE SENATE.

As is usual in the Senate on opening day the only business was the introduction of new Senators; and Messrs. Yeo and Carmichael were introduced yesterday and took their seats.

COLBORNE ON FIRE.

A Whole Block Burned Down on Thursday and Friday Morning.

Colborne, Ont., March 17.—Another disastrous fire is raging. About 11 o'clock last night smoke was discovered coming out of Thomas Brown's dry goods store. It was found that the entire store was on fire. The fire is spreading throughout the Snetsinger Block, burning out The Enterprise printing office, George Hawkins' boot and shoe store, the Bell Telephone office and the Opera House. Attempts are being made to keep the fire out of the Simmons block, on the east side, and Clark's block, wherein is the Standard Bank. Present indications are that the fire will not spread beyond the one block. The property is said to be insured.

Killed by a Falling Tree.

Glencoe, March 17.—As Daniel Taylor, reeve of Mosa, was working in the woods on Saturday, a tree he was felling became lodged on another one. The top of the falling tree was broken off and thrown back, striking Mr. Taylor on the top of the head. The injured man was taken home and Dr. McKillop summoned, but he never regained consciousness, passing away on Wednesday.

The Antarctic Explorers.

Wilmington, N.Y., March 17.—The Antarctic exploring expedition steamer Southern Cross has arrived at Port Chalmers, N.Z., after landing Borchgrevink and his party at Cape Adair, Victoria Island. She represents that all the explorers were in good health when landed.

C. P. R. Improvements.

Montreal, March 17.—The Canadian Pacific will this year lay a double track from Montreal Junction to St. Anne, a distance of 14 miles, and this will give the company a double line all the way from Windsor Station to the Ottawa River, and later to the junction of the Ottawa branch with the main line. New stations are also to be built at Joliette, Que., and at Woodstock, Ont., while a fine new bridge will be built over the Grand River at Galt, Ont., and the grade reduced at that place, so as to permit the running of heavier trains. Ballasting will also be carried on at different places.

Mayor of Napanee Unseated.

Toronto, March 17.—The master-in-chambers delivered judgment yesterday unseating Mayor T. D. Pruyn of Napanee, and ordering a new election, the costs of the application going to Thomas Smith, the relator. The court found that the Mayor lacked property qualification, that upon which he made declaration being owned by his wife, and encumbered to nearly full value.

Talmage's Resignation Accepted.

Washington, March 17.—The resignation of Rev. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was accepted last night at a sparsely-attended meeting of the congregation. No action was taken towards determining his successor.

FRIDAY, MARCH 17, 1899.

THE ONE GREAT QUESTION.

Let the Conservative press rail as it will at Mr. Tarte, to that gentleman's statesman-like grasp of the transportation question, and his earnest advocacy of its improvement as the key to the development of the resources of the country, and the ultimate realization of the greatness of which its natural conditions make it capable, is due the prominence given in the public mind to the problem of transportation. On Thursday the Globe printed a series of interviews with prominent financial and commercial gentlemen of Toronto, to elicit opinions as to the best use to make of the Dominion surplus of four or five millions, which Mr. Fielding will be able to announce in Parliament this session. It is significant that of the nine or ten gentlemen met, eight came out flat-footed in favour of devoting the surplus to the improvement of transportation as the most important factor in the development of the resources and the advancement of the prosperity of the country. We have the material at the Canadian end, and the market at the British end, but means to get at the materials and convert them into comercial factors and to get them to market as involved in the solution of the transportation problem. Politicians potter with details. Statesmen grasp great principles and elaborate comprehensive schemes. In this manner so far has the Government attacked the transportation question. Their work has been practical; it is big with great results, and their policy for the future will be aggressive as it should be, and will bring out the sympathy and co-operation of every broad-minded citizen, who desires the promotion of the interests of this country.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The trend of the Opposition's objections to the Harcourt revenue bill is in the direction of relieving incorporated wealth of the duty of paying their share of the support of public services. Conservatiyeism is ever on the side of the "combine," whatever form it may take.

The Mail and Empire defends Conservative ex-ministers for refusing to pay for the Sir John Thompson funeral wreath, on the ground that the charge was excessive. In their official capacity, and when the country had to pay the shot and the Conservative party got a "rake-off," the ex-ministers did not consider excessive charges a justification for withholding payment.

The Brockville Times, Conservative, in urging enterprise upon local capitalists in regard to the establishment of new industries, says: "It is the country's growing time and we should grow with it." It is gall and wormwood to a Conservative journals to admit that the country can prosper under a Liberal Government, but the evidences of prosperity are thrust so persistently in their faces that the most hide-bound is forced to acknowledge it.

"Ald. Spence says he believes the Prohibitionists will not accept the Government's refusal to introduce a prohibitory law. It is difficult, then, to see," says the Toronto Star, "what they will do about it, except, perhaps, to bring the subject up in Parliament and be overwhelmingly defeated. The Prohibitionists cannot join with the Opposition to defeat the Government, for the Opposition is itself opposed to prohibition, and the only recourse is to establish a third party. The history of third parties in this country has not been encouraging to the idea of starting another one, so the wise thing for the Prohibitionists seems to be to accept the situation and resume an educational campaign.

CENSUS-TAKING.

Montreal Witness.

Preparations have commenced for the taking of the regular decennial census of the United States in the year 1900. Ex-Governor Merriam, of Minnesota, has been appointed chief director of the work, and has notified the host of applicants for employment that no appointments will be made until men have been found whose fitness has been ascertained. He has also decided that the chief clerk of each branch of the census shall be a trained statistician and that all the clerks, enumerators and compilers must pass an examination to prove their competency before being employed. He wants to have the work done thoroughly, accurately and within the shortest possible time. By this decision Mr. Merriam shows that he has a correct idea of what should be the first requirement in those engaged in the work of collecting statistics. It is to be hoped that this plan will be adopted in Canada when our next census shall be taken in the year 1901. It might indeed be well if other government departments should take a leaf out or Mr. Merriam's book. It might, for instance, protect the Postmaster-General against the general pressure which is just now insisting on his making some very grotesque appointments and thus defrauding at once the public and the trained men of the department of their obvious rights. Since Confederation the census has been taken three times—that is, every tenth year beginning with 1871. The figures presented, however, were never considered reliable. In some respects they were glaringly inaccurate, and the last census, that of 1891, was notoriously "cooked" to serve political purposes. The ridicule aroused by the returns of industrial and manufacturing establishments, in which every cobbler's bench and seamstress' sewing machine was set down as a manufactory, will not have been forgotten. The object, of course, was to show what wonderful effect the National Policy had had in stimulating the industrial enterprise of the country. Better and saner methods should be employed in the taking of the census of 1901, even though it should rob the present government of increases to which its era is justly entitled. Even when the greatest care is exercised statistics are difficult to handle. Absolute accuracy is, perhaps, impossible in all the branches, but an honest determination to get the facts, and the facts only, will go far to produce the desired result. In view of the vast strides in our material prosperity during the current decade, plain to everybody who has given attention to the published returns of railway, shipping and other of the more important branches of business, there should be no necessity, political or otherwise, to make things appear better than they really are. That the census of 1901 will show an enormous general advance and improvement there can be no doubt. But in any case, let us have the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE YUKON.

Globe.

In the Yukon totally new conditions confronted the Government. The remoteness and inaccessibility of the country rendered the solution of the problems to be handled exceedingly difficult. To preserve law and order there, to make life and property safe, were the first duties of a Government. They are the test of British civilization, and we think that it can be said with all modesty that the Yukon can be submitted to this test without any fear of the verdict. A recent paragraph in the newspapers said that a Col. Reicherbeck, a citizen of the United States, had recently returned to Vancouver from the Yukon, and in speaking of the work done by the Northwest Mounted Police, said that "anyone in the Canadian Yukon is as safe as any resident in Victoria, Vancouver or Rossland." That should be a matter of pride to us all. It was secured at great expense. To send a body of men into such a country and maintain them where even the coarsest foods were worth their weight in gold was a task of no common difficulty. By the policy adopted, however, the country has been made to pay for its own government. It cost $647,000 to administer the country last year, but there was a revenue from it of $1,530,000 to meet this and more than meet it. This was derived from royalty, customs, fees, etc., and in addition there is the reservation of alternate sections from which the Federal treasury will yet be benefited to the extent, it may be, of millions of dollars. Does anyone believe that if Sir Charles and his associates had had the handling of this affair they would have been able to show a similar balance sheet in our favour? Certainly they never did anything while in power to justify such a good opinion of them.

FLOODS ON THE GRAND.

Brantford Having Its Annual Experience With Raging Waters—People Driven From Home.

Brantford, March 17.—The Grand River is on its annual rampage. At noon yesterday the water began to rise very rapidly and by 5 o'clock had risen four feet higher than it was in the morning. All dwellings in the flats are submerged in about four feet of water and the occupants have moved out. The T., H. & B. station is surrounded with two feet of water, and freight cars are standing in four feet of water. A number of people went to the T., H. & B. to view the flood and while doing so the water rose so rapidly they were practically surrounded, and had to get assistance to return. Great fears are entertained that the water may back up and get into the Waterous Engine Works, and the Massey-Harris Company works, and the Cockshutt Plow Company works.

The Speed River Also.

Hespeler, March 17.—The waters of the River Speed have been flowing over the A. W. Brodie dam in torrents all day, and last night it was found a large hole had been washed out. It is feared that the river may break up before morning and carry the large dam with it. The Grand Trunk Company thought it advisable to put a nightwatchman at their bridge to guard all night trains.

A GEORGIA LYNCHING.

Nine Negroes Shot by Mob and Four Killed—Uprising Feared.

Palmette, Ga., March 17.—A mob of masked men stormed the little house doing service as a gaol here at an early hour yesterday morning, and shot down nine negroes. Four were killed outright, and the other five are badly wounded. The negroes have been held for the burning of the town, three fires since January 1st having almost entirely destroyed it. An outbreak on the part of the negroes in this vicinity is feared. There are many threats to avenge the shooting of the members of their race. Troops have arrived from Atlanta, and the town is quieting down.

A Reward Offered.

Atlanta, Ga., March 17.—Governor Chandler yesterday issued a proclamation offering a reward of $500 "for the apprehension and delivery of the first member of the mob and a further reward of $100 for each additional person implicated" in the killing of the four negroes at Palmette yesterday morning.

The Governor said: "I regard the outrage as simply inexcusable. The men had been arrested, as I am informed, and as there was proof at hand to convict them, the law was amply able to punish them."

MR. FRANK DODGE

Says His Life was Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto Feb. 27.—Mr. Frank Dodge, of North Maupsberg, Ont., has been visiting here recently. He is a splendid specimen of Canadian manhood, standing more than six feet high "in his stockings" erect and muscular.

"I was a different man two years ago," said he to a friend to-day. The truth is I would have died of Kidney Complaint, if it hadn't been for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I had been treated by physicians and had taken various remedies without getting any better. I read of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and decided to try them. I did so, and was thoroughly cured in a couple of weeks.

VALUABLE

Residential Properties FOR SALE

In Peterborough.

Having decided to remove to Manitoba in the spring, I have decided to sell the following valuable properties at prices that should secure ready purchasers:

Parcel No. 1. A Brick Terrace of four houses, adjoining the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets, two storys, well built with good stone cellars full size of buildings. Each residence contains six rooms with summer kitchen. This property has always been continuously rented and pays an excellent rate of interest on the investment, and it is practically a new property, being only erected a few years, and is in good condition.

Parcel No. 2. Brick residence corner of Reid and Simcoe. Containing ten rooms. House in good condition with all modern improvements, bath, closets, heated with furnace and lighted with electricity.

Parcel No. 3. Brick dwelling corner Aberdeen and Benson streets, facing Dixon Park, containg seven rooms with summer kitchen. This property was erected last season for myself and occupied by myself. Has hard and soft water in kitchen and is a very comfortable residence. This lot is 100 feet square.

Parcel No. 4. Brick residence, corner Wolseley and Benson streets. Two storeys, seven rooms with kitchen, pleasantly situated adjoining Dixon Park. Hard and soft water in kitchen. This lot is also 100 feet square and is a similar building to parcel No. 3.

Parties desiring a good paying investment or one will find any of these desirable purchases.

Particulars and terms, which are reasonable, made known on application to the undersigned.

THE ODORLESS CREMATORY CLOSET.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematory Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS.

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am on e it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours, respectfully,
James Conway.

Shedden, February 28th, 1898

I have used it for sometime and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets.

I am, yours, etc.
W. H. Morrison.

Medical Superintendent's Office, Sept. 30th, 1897
Asylum for the Insane, Hamilton.

Gentlemen: I had the opportunity of witnessing yesterday the operation of your Odorless Crematory Closet. It had a large accumulation of fecal matter in the pan when the fire was started, and in side of 20 minutes it was all reduced to ashes. There was no odor before or during the operation of consuming the fecal matter, as the ventilation by the flue seems to carry off all odor at once before it has a chance to vitiate the surrounding atmosphere.

Yours truly. James Russell, M.D.

Binbrook, Sept. 30th, 1897.

Dear Sirs—Having been present at a private test of your new patent closet yesterday afternoon, I beg to express my satisfaction with it in every way. Neither before, during or after the burning out of its contents did I detect the slightest unpleasant odor. I am satisfied it will be a boon to thousands in rural towns, villages and country homes. Yours truly,

M. J. Mullock, M.D.

"THE SLATER SHOE"

Resting the Feet.

A hard mattress rests the sleeper more than a downy feather bed, because it does not press so many parts of the body at once, relieving certain bumps while the others are being lain upon.

No two pairs of shoes are exactly alike on the inside, and changing them once per day eases different portions of the feet by throwing the weight upon other parts. This gives a surprising restfulness to the feet, as well as to the shoe, which also gets tired, just as a razor does.

Leathers should always be chosen according to the condition of the feet, as they differ materially in effect and purpose.

On every pair of "Slater Shoes" there is a tag, which tells the exact leather used, giving its peculiarities and the wear it is adapted to.

You can thus buy "Slater Shoes" intelligently and know that they're Goodyear Welted, if you see that they're stamped on the sole with the name and price—$3.00, $4.00, or $5.00.

Address, DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

FOR SENATE REFORM.

Mr. Hardy's Resolution Debated In the House.

THE PREMIER'S GREAT SPEECH.

Mr. Whitney Moves an Amendment Which Eulogizes the Senate—Hon. Mr. Ross Replies Mr. Carscallen Still Had the Floor at Adjournment—The Debate Continued Until Midnight.

Toronto, March 17.—The fact that great public interest is taken in the question of Senate reform was shown by the crowd that occupied the galleries of the Legislature yesterday, when the Premier moved the resolution of which he gave notice some days ago. Mr. Hardy's address in support of the resolution was worthy of the importance of the subject and the seriousness of the occasion. It was logical and convincing, and supported by an invincible array of facts. Mr. Whitney spoke at some length, twitting the Government with being the mouthpiece of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He moved an amendment expressing approval of the action of the Senate in regard to the Yukon and Drummond County bills. Hon. George W. Ross talked for two hours at night, his speech being listened to with delight by crowded galleries. The Minister of Education was in his happiest form, and his deliverance was, as usual, eloquent and witty and scathing in its arraignment of the case advanced by the Opposition side. Mr. Carscallen followed, but had not concluded when the House adjourned at midnight.

Senate Reform.

The Attorney-General moved:

That in the opinion of this House, the provisions of the British North America Act respecting the constitution and powers of the Senate of Canada are at variance with the well understood principles of responsible government and should be brought more into harmony with those principles by an amendment of the said act substantially providing that if the House of Commons passes any bill and the Senate reject such bill and fails to pass it, or passes it with any amendment or amendments to which the House of Commons shall not agree and to which amendment or amendments the Senate adheres, the Governor-General may, by message upon the advice of his Council, convene a joint sitting of the two Houses, at which the questions in controversy and the final passage of such bill shall be decided by a joint vote of the two Houses without debate.

Further, that it is the opinion of this House that the British North America Act should be so amended as to provide that Senators should be appointed or chosen for a limited term of years only and not for life, as at present.

The Premier's Speech.

The Attorney-General said he would not go into details as to the reform of the Senate, leaving these to be worked out by the Imperial Parliament. The present appointive system had broken down; it had lost the confidence of the country; the Senate had ceased to be a useful body; it had become an obstruction. The question now was how best to bring the Senate into harmony with the constitution. Canada is eminently a democratic country. Its main principle may be summed up in Government by the people and for the people. This feeling has grown from year to year. It prevails largely, and is of the opinion that an appointive Senate without responsibility is not in the democratic groove. Hence there must be an alteration or modification of the present constitution of the Senate. The question has been asked why this Senate reform should be made a provincial question. Is it not solely a Dominion concern? He answered no; it is a provincial question. The Senate was specially created to preserve and protect provincial interests, rights and liberties. No act passed by the Commons, however important, can have the slightest force until it receives the sanction of the Senate. They may nullify any legislation which they disprove, and no power can touch or call them to account. There was practically a deadlock at the will of the Senate. This deadlock was not unforeseen. It was predicted that the Senate of Canada might become a partisan body. Everything predicted had come true, proof of which was seen in the legislation of the last two years. The speaker continued: "I say nothing personally against the members of the Senate. They are all honorable men! But think of the anomaly—a legislative body, under a republican form of Government, that is responsible to no human tribunal, that cannot be controlled by any authority, that can flout at popular opinion, that can be reactionary, that cannot be called to account, indifferent to argument, not amenable to reason, that can defy the stoutest demands made in the name of justice—consider such a body, and answer. Can you bring it into harmony with public opinion? I say it is an anomaly on responsible government. The Senate has absolute power of rejection of any measure that may be sent up to it. It has the greatest power of ancient or modern times. There is no such body in existence elsewhere than in Canada. Hence I repeat, reform or abolition.

Mr. Whitney's Speech.

Mr. Whitney followed the Premier and remarked the importance of the resolution, the serious and far-reaching proposition which the Premier had made to Ontario. Did he think the Legislature would follow him blindly when dealing with a subject of such magnitude by a few namby-pamby sentences expressing dislike for the Senate of Canada? Where did Mr. Hardy get his idea? The Premier neither affirmed nor denied that Hon. Mr. Tarte, through his mouthpiece, Sir Wilfrid Laurier (uproar), chose to say the Senate should be destroyed. He then read quotations from Hon. George Brown touching upon the Senate, one of which was "the Senate should be an independent body to check hasty and party legislation," and he agreed that the Senate had come to be an obstruction, but to whom?—to those who wish to exploit the treasury of the Dominion of Canada. Once admitting the necessity of the second chamber, it must be insisted upon that the second be different from the first. The consistent observer would agree that the strongest safeguard and strongest protection to the people is a nominated second chamber. If improper legislation was passed in the Commons it was the duty of the Senate to reject it. Then if those who had passed it were not satisfied they could go to the country to see if they were right. Senators as individuals were as liable to err as any other legislators. The Senate reformers failed to show where the Senate had stopped any legislation that should not have been stopped. The Yukon bill and the Drummond Railway deals were taken up by the speaker, who said the Senate of Canada showed reason when it rejected those two bills and not five men within his hearing believed in their soul otherwise. After dealing with the Australian system, he said the Senate question was not before the people at all at the last elections. Mr. Whitney continued his speech at the evening session. He maintained that the Liberal party never had been constructive, but always destructive, and this revolutionary proposal showed it. He then moved, as an amendment:

"That this House desires to express its hearty appreciation of the great public services rendered by the Senate of Canada in reference to the Yukon bill and the Drummond Counties Railway bill."

Concluding Speeches.

Hon. Mr. Ross, Minister of Education, made a speech of two hours, and at a quarter past 11 Mr. Carscallen began his reply. At 12 o'clock, while still speaking, he moved the adjournment of the House.

Mr. Speaker then said: This House stands adjourned till 3 o'clock this afternoon.

ASSEMBLY NOTES.

Premier Hardy has been elected chairman of the municipal committee of the House.

The private bills committee refuses Port Arthur leave to run Sunday cars.

The new chain ferry bill for Toronto has been passed by the private bills committee.

New Senators.

Ottawa, March 16.—The Senatorial vacancy for New Brunswick, due to the death of Hon. Michael Adams, has been filled by the appointment of Mr. Peter McSweeney of Moncton, N.B., a prominent lumberman, who has been active in public matters for many years.

Mr. William Kerr of Cobourg, ex-M.P., and a lawyer, has been appointed to the Ontario vacancy. He is 63 years of age.

The Mixing of Wheat.

Winnipeg, March 16.—The Grain Exchange yesterday passed a resolution condemning the mixing of grain at Fort William as injurious to the reputation of Manitoba wheat abroad. They ask the Dominion Government to enact such legislation as will secure this.

The Manitoba Legislature will adjourn till Monday after the reading of the speech to-day.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption, and that no medicine could save her. Her Druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six now bottles, found herself sound and well and does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Sold by all Druggists, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00

WRITES A LETTER ON DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Sufferers are at liberty to correspond with the above address and will obtain full particulars regarding the great cure.

He says: My wife was most terribly afflicted with protruding piles, and contemplated a surgical operation. A friend of ours recommended the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a complete cure. We were so pleased with the ointment that I tried it myself, as I have been troubled with an unsightly skin affliction which covered the lower part of my face.

For 25 years I suffered untold agony, and was treated by the best medical skill in the United States. I consider Dr. Chase's Ointment worth its weight in gold for piles and skin disease.

Ontario East Orangemen.

Port Hope, March 16.—Grand Master Albert Bradley of Hazeldean presided at the fortieth annual meeting of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East, which opened here yesterday. The attendance of delegates was large. After the opening ceremonies the Grand Master delivered his annual address. Bro. F. M. Clarke, Grand Secretary, Belleville, reported that during the year three new lodges had been instituted and one resuscitated, while two had become dormant. There are 24 County Orange Lodges, with 81 District Lodges and 382 Primary Lodges, 12,171 members, and lodge property valued at $142,969. The visiting brethren were extended a welcome by the Mayor on behalf of the town.

Must Have British Skippers.

Vancouver, B.C., March 16.—There promises to be some lively times on the Yukon River this year when the ice breaks up and navigation is resumed. Many of the boats running to Dawson have been manned by Americans, but in future those plying in Canadian waters will have to have a British skipper and British engineers, so says Inspector Russell. Last season he gave warning to all vessels plying in Canadian waters that they must carry British officers and he now intends to see that the law is carried out, or boats will be tied up.

Old England's Flag, vs. Dr. A. W. Chase'

The virtues of Dr. Chase's remedies are known the world over and like old England's flag the sun on them never sets.

Dr. Chase's Ointment, Kidney-Liver Pills, Catarrh Cure, Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and Liver Cure enjoy the confidence of everybody. They have won their way into the public favor or merit. Their sterling qualities and high standing and purity have made them the household word all around the world. All dealers sell and recommend them.

MANY YEARS A DYSPEPTIC.

Mrs. Joseph Tennier, Hopetown, Que., could get no relief until she tried Laxa-Liver Pills, which cured her.

Another sufferer freed from Dyspepsia by Laxa-Liver Pills.

Another one who tried all sorts of remedies and doctors' treatment without avail, and who had to come to Laxa-Liver Pills at last for a cure.

Mrs. JOSEPH TENNIER, Hopetown, Que., recently wrote as follows: "For several years I had been troubled with dyspepsia and sick headache, and could get nothing to do me any good, until I tried Laxa-Liver Pills. I had taken many remedies and was attended by different doctors without being cured, and had given up all hope of ever getting well, when a friend advised me to take Laxa-Liver Pills. I have used in all seven bottles, and they have made a complete cure. I have told hundreds of people that Laxa-Liver Pills are the best medicine in the world." Price 25c.

ADVERTISING IN THE EXAMINER PAYS

THREE ESSENTIALS.

Three things are urgently needed just now by Men, Young Men and Boys in order to appear properly dressed at this season of the year.

Thanks to Gough Bros. it is no longer an expensive matter to dress yourself or your boys in the present fashion.

The barriers between stylishness and expensiveness have been wholly burned away by the Wonderful Cheap Men's modern rules of merchandising.

The FIRST Essential is a New Spring Suit. For Men, we give you a thousand choice patterns to pick from, in Sacks or Cutaways, starting at $3 90. For Boys, a selection incomparable in make, finish and price, starting at $1.50 for a strong Navy Serge Suit.

The SECOND Essential is a New Spring Top Coat. There are men who would hardly believe that Spring Coats of so high a character could be found, ready made, at $5.50, $7, $9, and $10. But they are a remarkable dressy line—good in quality, well fitting and finished in a superior manner.

The THIRD Essential is a New Spring Hat. Our Hat story is short but important. It tells of the tremendous strides made in our Hat selling. The New Spring Styles in Stiffs and Softs are Wilkinson's and Wakefield's British makes. Men's Fedoras at 95c. and up. Men's Derbys in smartest shapes at $1.60. Colours black, brown, tan and gray. Golf and Varsity Caps and handsome shapes in Tweeds and Serges are again popular.

All Three Essentials at this Big Store, with Spring Boots and Shoes a good Fourth and New Spring Shirts and Neckwear good Fifths.

LOCAL NEWS

10 a. m. Probabilities.

Easterly winds, fair with light local snow falls and a little higher temperature. Saturday unsettled and milder with occasional rain.

A Large Cut.

The men employed by the Rathbun Company in the lumbering camps of Stanhope and McClintock townships, have put in a busy winter. The season has been favourable for lumbering, an abundance of snow having fallen in that region to make good sleighing, and it will be some time before it melts away, as it is reported to be four feet deep. The Rathbun Company will bring down the lakes and rivers this season a heavy flostage of logs.

Bailiff's Sale.

The balance of the goods in the Grand Central Hotel, Peterborough, will be sold by auction on Saturday next, the 18th of March, 1899, consisting of the contents of four bedrooms, sample rooms and a complete set of bar room furniture, cash register, call bell register, mirrors, one mirror 6½ x 10 feet, together with other sundries in the hotel and on the premises too numerous to be specified. Sale at one o'clock p.m. Terms cash. THOS. LEPLANTE. Dated 13th March, 1899. 3d

Fishing for Bass.

Eight Indians from the Indian village in the township of Alnwick, spent the greater part of last week catching bass through the ice on Mud lake, a small sheet of water alongside the Trent river, about two and a half miles east of Trent Bridge. They used live minnows for bait, and succeeded in pulling out twenty-five fine fish in a day. They returned home with their catch and said they would resume business next week.—Exchange.

A Lively Run on Fresh Trout for This Week.

By special arrangement with the catchers I am prepared to make a special run on fresh trout for this week and have dropped the price from 10c to 7c per lb. until Saturday night. A large quantity just received and fresh shipments during the week. This is the biggest and best chance yet. 50c Oysters at 35 and 40c. California Naval Oranges, Bananas and Lemons also at reduced prices to beat the Trading Stamps. Also all kinds of Sea and Fresh Water Fish, the cheapest in town.
FRANK D. LEPLANTE.

TO DRESS BOYS TASTEFULLY in comparatively an easy task for mothers who come to this store. The variety of styles so comprehensive that trading with us becomes a pleasure instead of task. In Fancy Pleated Suits for instance, prices range from $1.60 to $6.00, and every suit is well made from reliable cloth, or it would not be here. CRAFTON & CO., well known Clothing Manufacturers.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. Patrick Donoghue at the Advanced Age of 73 Years.

The death occurred last evening of Maria Fair, wife of Mr. Patrick Donoghue, at the age of 73 years.

The deceased suffered from an attack of grip, which developed into pneumonia and after a short illness of only two weeks duration she passed away to rest. She was born in the North of Inland, and on coming to Canada was for some years a resident of Gananoque, but had been living in Peterborough for the past twenty five years. Six children survive, viz—Thomas, of Gananoque; Daniel, John, Mrs. Jeremiah Carew, Mrs. Charles Dunn and Mrs. Jas. Griffin, of town.

The funeral will take place from the Murray street Separate School at nine o'clock to-morrow morning, to St. Peter's Cathedral.

PERSONAL

Mr. Ignatius Stewart, junior editor of the Bobcaygeon Independent, was in town yesterday.

Mr. Wm. Hamilton, of the G.T.R., who has been visiting at his home in Lakefield, was in town yesterday.

Miss Aggie Cahill has been appointed local manager of the Peterborough branch of the Dominion Trading Stamp Company. Miss Cahill's personal popularity and her fitness for the position will add to the popularity of the Company in Peterborough. Miss Cahill redeemed the first book of trading stamps representing cash purchase of $100, on Thursday, for a lady in Ashburnham.

Mr. W. J. Green, secretary of Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, I.O.O.F., to-day received a telegram announcing the serious and expected fatal illness at West Penn. Hospital, Pittsburg, Pa., of Mr. Louis E. Gillespie, a former employe of the Canadian General Electric Company, and a member of Peterborough Lodge. His parents reside near Bethany. Mr. Gillies of the Electric Works is a brother-in-law. Mr. Green is in communication with the Oddfellow brethren of Pittsburg, and Mr. Gillespie's parents.

SIGNS OF SPRING AND EASTER.

Some Surprising Spring Specialties for Men, Young Men and Boys at H. LeBrun & Co.'s.

The approach of Spring and Easter bring into play thoughts of new clothing. The early spring holidays, beginning with Good Friday, remind gentlemen that their shabby winter attire must be changed for new spring styles. The question is—"Where to get suited?" Visit Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co., and you are at headquarters, where you have your pick from a heaping stock, and where price and style are of equal importance. Men's and young men's nobby spring overcoats, made to order on the premises, are awaiting your inspection, with a $13 price ticket, the best overcoat value in town. Stylish Suits made to order in faultless fashion from $12 to $18. These prices should come home to you. But LeBrun and Co's "Bargain Counter" runs all round the store. Low prices and good qualities are not neglected in ready-made clothing, in which you are certain of finding what you want at a lower price than similiar clothing is sold elsewhere. New Spring Tweed Suits $4, $5 and $6, well worth your critical eyes. New Spring Overcoat at $5, $6, $7 and $9, are rare makes. If they do not look the same at home as they did in the store, return them. Spring Suits for boys, bright new suits that wear long, fit neat, and look better than the general run. Mothers when out shopping should call in and see these nobby little rigs for boys in neat patterns from $1 up. We give Trading Stamps equal to five per cent. on all purchases, to encourage the cash system.—H. LeBrun & Co.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

As the good old song says, "St. Patrick was a gentleman." He was not only a gentleman but a Christian gentleman, and in addition to that, a saint—in his own right, one may say, for he was a pioneer and the first to carry the tidings of the blessed Gospel of Christ to the then pagan Irish. It is no wonder that the Irish remember him for they have well remembered the religious lessons he taught them. There is no more devoted practisers in the world of the religion which St. Patrick, under God, introduced into Ireland than Ireland's sons and daughters. The name of St. Patrick is woven inextricably into the life of the Irish and no son or daughter of the Green Isle is worthy of the name of Irishman or Irishwoman whose heart does not beat faster and whose memory does not glow with refreshed recollections of the old land, as the anniversary of St. Patrick comes round. And with reason, for Ireland's Patron Saint is worthy of the country and its people, and the country and its people are worthy of such a tutelar saint. Patriotism is one of the noblest virtues. No man is worthy of having a country if he does not give it his best affection and does not take a pride in its history and well being. One can therefore sympathise deeply with the enthusiasm with which Irishmen, though separated by a thousand leagues of green sea from the Green Isle, hail the advent of the natal day of the saint who is Ireland, inasmuch as, if St. Patrick and his works had not been, there would be no Ireland for its sons to love and revere.

The day was celebrated in Peterborough religiously, as is becoming. St. Peter's Cathedral was St. Patrick's Cathedral for three hours this morning. There were large congregations at the three masses celebrated there in honour of God and the day—at 7 o'clock, 8 o'clock and at 10 o'clock. At the first two celebrations the musical part of the service was contributed by the Convent pupils, under the direction of Sister St. Mary, who, in addition to the patriotic Irish songs, rendered in the sweet, fresh voices of the children, performed in splendid style on the organ a number of dear Irish airs. At the high mass at 10 o'clock Rev. Father O'Sullivan preached the sermon, which involved an eloquent sketch of the life, and an eloquent tribute to the holy labours of St. Patrick.

To-night the more secular celebration of the day will consist of an elaborate entertainment and concert at the Opera House.

A DELIGHTFUL EVENING

Enjoyed by the Young Men's Guild and Choir of St. Andrew's.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Tully contributed delightfully to the enjoyment of the Young Men's Guild and Choir of St. Andrew's, whom they entertained at their residence, McDonel street. Over fifty ladies and gentlemen, including the pastor and Mrs. Potter, availed themselves of the graceful and liberal hospitality of their host and hostess, who successfully employed every exertion to contribute to the pleasure and enjoyment of their guests.

In addition to the excellent refreshments provided by the hosts, there was the usual social entertainment, brightened, as was to be expected from the composition of the company, by abundant music furnished by the members of the choir. Altogether a very pleasant evening, indeed, was passed and the well pleased guests desire to add to their personal acknowledgements a public expression of their appreciation of the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Tully.

THE GOVERNMENT ENDORSED.

Premier Laurier's Method of Conducting Public Affairs Approved by the Y.M.C.A.

The second season of the Y.M.C.A. Debating Club closed last evening. In all sixteen sessions have have been held with a weekly average attendance of seventeen. The interest has surpassed the previous year and the results have been highly satisfactory.

Great prominence has been given, in the various papers, lectures and debates which have composed the season's programme, to Canada and a development of national sentiment. Another pleasing feature has been the number of young men connected with the club who have made their first public speech this season.

The success of the club has been largely due to its efficient officers—Mr. W. Hill, president; Mr. Fred. Ray, vice-president, and Mr. G. S. Bell, secretary.

The debate last evening was a lively one, the subject being: "Resolved, that the Laurier Government merits the support of the people."

Both sides were ably supported—Messrs. F. D. Kerr and A. E. Dixon in favour of the Government, and W. H. Hill and Fred. Ray against.

The arguments were carefully and ably summed up by a committee composed of Messrs. J. W. Bennet, J. Simpson and W. Allison. Decision was in favour of the affirmative.

Mr. Williamson occupied the "speaker's" chair.

THE NEW COVERT TOP COAT.

For Spring Wear has got the call again this season. It is a modified type of the real Covert Coat, which is short and boxy. The leading features is that it is not so short as the real Covert, and is much less boxy. In length it ranges from 34 to 35 inches for a man of average height. It must look broad, with well-rounded shoulders, a bottom fullness, the greater part of which will be placed at the sides. Well vented side-seams, collar of the material, shorter than the Chesterfield but broader and squarer in effect.

The material will be Covert coatings in neat drab shades, Venetians and Rainproof Cloth of pleasing mixtures.

A range of new patterns in Soverign Trousers ($5.00) to select from.

THE GRAND LODGE OF THE SONS OF ENGLAND.

THE REPORTS SHOW GRATIFYING PROGRESS.

Increase in Membership and Financial Income—Other Matters of Society Interest.

Ottawa, March 14.—Ottawa has given its welcome to the Sons of England Grand Lodge, and in a manner that impressed the visitors most favourably. Shortly after the opening ceremonies and the formal presentation of credentials and Grand Officers' reports a delegation of the local lodge officers, headed by Ald. S. Davis, arrived and presented an address of welcome on behalf of the lodges of the District of Ottawa and Hull. The address expressed the hope that the members of the Grand Lodge would carry away the kindliest recollection of their sojourn in Ottawa.

When the Grand President had expressed the appreciation of himself and the delegates of the cordial welcome accorded them, a civic deputation, consisting of his Worship Mayor Payment, Ald. Séno, Gauthier, Desjardins, Fripp, Black and Davis, was announced. The fact that his Worship and several of the Aldermen were French Canadians but added interest to and enthusiasm to the reception of the city fathers. This feeling found expression in several outbursts of cheering when Payment, having read the formal address of welcome, proceeded to say how much pleasure and gratification it afforded him, a Frenchman, to extend a most cordial welcome to the representatives of the Sons of England.

The reports of the Grand President and Grand Secretary are as follows:

GRAND PRESIDENT'S REPORT.

In his report the Grand President refers to the efforts of the Executive during the past year to strengthen the weaker lodges, and states that "the year has been full of encouragement and the financial position of the society very much improved." Two matters of considerable importance to the Order which are dealt with at length are Dominion incorporation and Quebec registration. Referring to the former, he spoke of his visit to Ottawa during the session, and noted that though the time for making application for private bills had expired through the courtesy of the Private Bills Committee they were allowed the privilege of applying. Mr. Bertram, the member for Centre Toronto, introduced the bill. The Grand President referred to severe handling by the Committee on Banking and Commerce. As far as the House of Commons was concerned, after a very hard struggle they succeeded in carrying the bill through. "It was then sent on to the Senate, and, much to our surprise, the bill was thrown out, so that our efforts were, to a certain extent, unsuccessful. The chief, and I may say the only cause, of its rejection was the feeling that our rates were not high enough, that if we were prepared to increase our rates according to a scale prepared by the Inspector of Insurance, then they were willing to pass the bill. This we felt we could not do without the sanction of this Supreme body." As for renewing the application, the Grand President recommended that in view of the fact that the Government has signified its intention to introduce legislation during the coming session affecting friendly societies, further action should be deferred until after the next meeting of Parliament.

The rejection of the application for a Dominion charter necessitated immediate action to obtain from Quebec Government a certificate of registration to enable the order to carry on business in that Province. P.S.G.P. Bro. Cumberland went to Quebec, and was successful in obtaining the necessary certificate, after complying with the conditions of the act, depositing with the Provincial Treasurer a deposit receipt of $5,000. The Quebec Government has arranged with the bankers of the order that the interest on the $5,000 shall be placed to its credit every year, so that it is not losing any interest by the transaction.

GRAND SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The report of Grand Secretary J. W. Carter stated that the number of members initiated during the year was 1,703, as follows: Two lodges in Newfoundland, 79; seven lodges in Nova Scotia, 93; four lodges in New Brunswick, 23; eighteen lodges in the Province of Quebec, 142; one lodge in Prince Edward Island, 8; ten lodges in Manitoba, 147; two lodges in Assiniboia, 9; two lodges in Alberta, 34; seven lodges in British Columbia, 79, and 149 lodges in Ontario, 1,088. The amount of cash received by subordinate lodges during the year was $84 831.59, an increase of $3,009.84 over 1897; paid for sick benefits, $32,830.93, a decrease of $433 19 from last report; paid for medical services, $15,976.-63, an increase of $909.86; cost of management, $19,732.10, a decrease of $3,009.56 from last report; cash to credit of subordinate lodges in bank and other securities, $65,316 28, an increase of $9,025.71; cash in hands of lodge Treasurers to meet current expenses for the December quarter, $7,-277.15; total cash to the credit of subordinate lodges, after deducting $4,600.41 liabilities, is $68,456.95, an increase of $7,590 51.

A matter in regard to which Grand Lodge is being asked to legislate is the rearrangement of the rates paid for participation in the sick fund and in the funeral and beneficiary departments. The Grand Secretary made a strong plea for definite action in regard to this, urging that the grouping of ages is inconsistent. He contended that the time has arrived when the ages of members should be re-adjusted, that the classification of ages should be yearly, in place of groups of years.

In the funeral benefit department the amount received from assessments was $10,978 62, an increase of $2,128 over last year; registration fees for the first quarter of 1898, $41.50; total, $11,020.12, an increase of $1,249.87 over the year 1897. The funeral claims for 95 members were $9 200, an increase of 28 members and $2,650 over the previous year; 75 members' wives, or 12 more than 1897, $3 475, an increase of $525; 37 members' children, $547.50, the same amount as the previous year. Total payments, $13,122.50, an increase of $3,175 over last report, or $2,202 more than the income.

A letter from Mr. J. Howard Hunter was cited, to the effect that granting of funeral benefits for members' wives and children was in the power of the society.

BENEFICIARY DEPARTMENT.

During the year 177 new members joined the beneficiary department, four members increased their policies. Of these 40 certificates were for $2 000, three at $1,500, 127 at $1,000, seven at $500, and two certificates increased to $2 000, two certificates, $500, representing $218,000 for the year. During the year 20 members died. Twenty six claims have been paid as follows:—One at $2,000, four disabilities at $600 and twenty-two at $1,000. The death rate was 3 41 per thousand, and the average age of deceased members 55 years and 16 days.

The Grand Secretary concluded as follows:—Of the subjects to be brought before this supreme body for consideration, none is more important than the beneficiary. That the time has arrived for a re-adjustment of the ages and a reasonable increase of the rates all will admit. A continuation of the present system of the grouping of ages should no longer be allowed, and while it may not be possible to include the present membership in any future legislation, still it must be apparent that the present system must be changed so as to meet with the approval of those in Government authority. I would not for a moment desire to unsettle the minds of our members by stating that our beneficiary funds are not in a satisfactory condition. The balance to the credit of this department is proof that (since the changing of the assessment as death to the regular monthly payments) marked advance has been made in the right direction, but this improvement is not sufficient to give such solidity and satisfaction to those insured as we desire. With a readjustment of the ages for all new members and and an increase in the scale of payments much better results will be realized."

YESTERDAY'S SESSION.

The first business before the delegates yesterday was the election of officers, the results of which were as follows:

Grand President—Dr C R Hodgetts, of Toronto.

Grand Vice-President—Fred Cook, Ottawa.

Grand Secretary—J W Carter, Toronto.

Grand Treasurer—B Hinchcliffe, Toronto.

Grand Auditors—Harry Furzel, George Clay, Toronto.

Trustees—T Elliott, Brantford; C Bizall, Lindsay; T A Ferguson, Toronto.

Representative to Official Organ Committee, Frank Vipond, Toronto.

Committee on General Purposes:—J Aldridge, G Clatworthy, Cumberland, T Ferguson, H Furze, Hancock, J W London, R Patching, J C Swait, A Tattersall, S McRonson, J Boxall, Barlow, T Elliott, G C Folkes, W Gibson, J Jones, Dr Marr, E J Reynolds, W R Stroud, F Vipond.

At a meeting of the General Purposes Committee held immediately after the declaration of the vote in Grand Lodge, R Patching and Frank Vipond were elected chairman and secretary respectively.

Beneficiary Board:—T Cannon, J Aldridge, G Clatworthy, J C Swait, T Ferguson, W Randall, F Parkham, I H Cromp, G Sturdey, J Jones, Wm Crane, J W Carter, G Smithers, G H Hatt, T Down.

The most important amendment to the constitution adopted to-day by Grand Lodge was that seeking a readjustment of the beneficiary rates. Under the existing constitution the same rate is paid at eighteen years as at thirty, and the accent beyond thirty is by five year periods. The amendment, which was adopted, slightly increases the rates, which will be graded on a year by year basis. The increase will not effect present policyholders, an amendment to make the change retroactive being defeated.

The clause on the papers having for its object the reduction of the minimum rate of the dues of members whose payments had aggregated $100 was rejected.

Grand Lodge removed all doubt on a vexed point by legislation enacting that stepchildren or adopted children shall not be eligible for funeral benefits. The limit of age of admission to the beneficiary department remains at forty-five years, the proposal to extend it to fifty being thrown out. Grand Lodge also refused to reduce the fee paid to the medical examiner.

The next place of meeting is at Windsor.

THE McALL MISSION MATTER.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

SIR.—Will you allow me space to make one or two uncontroversial remarks regarding the editorial that appeared in the EXAMINER last night, copied from the Catholic Record.

My address at the McAll meeting occupied nearly an hour in delivery and was from a page or two of notes. I did not condense the report for the papers, nor did I see it until the following Thursday or Friday on my return from a lecturing trip from the West. Everyone knows it is impossible to give in half a column an exact or complete representation of an address that would fill three or four columns.

Had I prepared the report myself, I should not have said that "many of the clergy in France are turning from the mother church to Protestantism." So far as my memory serves me, in my address I described certain facts reported in reliable newspapers, such as the London Times, which pointed to a movement in the Roman church in some respects similar to those that preceded the Reformation. This movement has its manifestations in Spain, Italy, Hungary, France and other countries. In France within a very short period a number of priests left the church and others who were not prepared to take such an extremely serious step were in sympathy with the movement. If the reporter of my address in the necessary work of condensation unduly emphasized one part of this description, he balanced matters by altogether omitting other parts of it.

The writer of the article in the "Record," however, should be careful not to commit himself to such sweeping assertions as that those "who have made these statements have refrained from giving localities and figures to show that there have been such defections." He will find my authority in the November number of the "Sunday at Home." The copy used by me was borrowed from Toronto, but if any of your readers would care to have the extracts I will gladly publish them, and if disproved withdraw them. I may add that a very moderate and reputable English Church paper, "Church Bells," gives similar accounts of this French movement.

May we not conclude from the fact that two books by American priests, on different subjects, have been placed on the Index within, I think, the the last twelve months, and from the serious searchings of heart occasioned by the publication of the life of Father Hecker, that there are signs of a growing discontent with some of the doctrines of the Church. I take no pleasure in noting these facts, but when, in reply to my contention, it is positively stated that "there is no such movement," I feel bound to vindicate my veracity and give a reason for my opinions.

With regard to the obliteration of the Huguenots, I am glad to agree with the Record, that politics entered largely into the persecutions of the 16th and 17th centuries. I have no manner of sympathy with the way in which some Protestant histories of the Reformation, or of the middle ages are written. But I have read some Roman histories equally one-sided. Nevertheless my critic is somewhat careless in his treatment of this question. He first of all draws an inference from something I am reported to have said. Then he describes this inference as a "statement" and finally stigmatizes it as a "misrepresentation."

Whether or not the Catholic Church gave her sanction to the principle of persecution I cannot say, because I do not know what would constitute such sanction. But history records that "the Pope celebrated the event of St. Bartholomew's Day (when 30,000 people were massacred) by a procession to the church of St. Louis, a grand Te Deum, the striking of a medal, and the proclamation of a year of Jubilee." (Chambers' Encyclopedia, vol. 1, page 765)

It was far from my intention to imply, nor is there anything in the Review's report of my address to indicate it, that because Dr. McAll was decorated by the President of France, with the cross of the legion of honour, therefore there are not many Roman Catholics who are worthy to receive a similar distinction.

I do not need to be told that such exist in Paris. I have only to look over my church fence to see an institution full of devoted women, who always cordially welcome me to minister at the bedside of Protestants, and whose patients never speak other than warmly of the tender care received at their hands.

I cannot help thinking, sir, that the writer in the "Record" has attempted to read between the lines of the short report of my address, and has ascribed to me a temper and a spirit which I most earnestly disavow. For much, very much, in the Roman Church I have the highest admiration. I think that our divided Protestantism has much to learn from that Church. Against what need to be, and, I fear, still is in some quarters, a common method of controversy, viz., vile abuse of the Margaret Sheppard style, I have publicly protested, as many of your readers will remember.

On the other hand, fundamentally, I am a Protestant. On the great questions between Protestantism and Roman Catholicism I have strong convictions and, therefore, consented to speak for the McAll Mission.

Let me ask my readers, both Roman Catholic and Protestant, to consider these two weighty extracts from a Roman Catholic book:

"Soon after 1850 several of the most intelligent men in France, struck by the arrested increase of their own population and by the telling statistics from further Britain, foretold the coming preponderance of the English race. They did not foretell what none could foresee, the still more sudden growth of Prussia, or that these most important countries of the globe would at the end of the century be those that chiefly belonged to the conquests of the Reformation, so that in religion, as in so many other things, the products of these centuries has favoured the new elements; and the centre of gravity, moving from the Mediterranean nations to the Oceanic, from the Latin to the Teuton, has also passed from the Catholic to the Protestant."

On the other hand this concerning Protestantism: "We take it for a transitory scheme, whose breaking up is to make room in due time for another and far more perfect state of the church." (From Lord Acton's "The Study of History," pp. 23, 24 and 86)

I believe both these statements or opinions to be true, and therefore I am a Protestant, yet discontented with the present state of Protestantism and looking forward to and working for Christian Unity.

INCALCULABLE GOOD,

AN EXPRESSION OF FAITH.

Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have done me an incalculable amount of good. I think they are the best, surest and quickest acting cure for nervousness, unhealthy action of the heart, insomnia or sleeplessness, anemia or impoverished blood, loss of appetite, general debility and ill-health. For nine years, before I commenced taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills, my heart was weak and in an unhealthy state. Its action was so much impaired that I could not walk across the street without suffering great distress, my heart fluttering and beating so rapidly that I could scarcely breathe, causing faintness, loss of strength, and leaving my nerves all unstrung. My sleep was very much disturbed, I had no appetite and there was little strength or vitality in my blood; I was always excessively nervous.

I have now taken three boxes of Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills and since taking them I have not been away from my business an hour. Before taking these pills it was a frequent occurrence for me to be away from business. As a result of taking Dr. Ward's Pills my heart is perfectly healthy and strong and gives me no distress or trouble whatever. They removed all nerve trouble, made my nerves strong and gave me healthy sleep. These pills also made my blood rich and strong and gave me a healthy appetite. Dr. Ward's Pills have given me perfect health, restoring my lost strength, in place of continual ill-health, weakness, heart trouble and nervousness. In justice I cannot speak too highly of this wonderful medicine. Signed, Miss N. Millward, Walton St., Port Hope, Ont.

Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. per box, 5 boxes for $2.50 at druggists, or mailed on receipt of price by THE DOCTOR WARD CO. Limited, 71 Victoria Street, Toronto. Book of information free.

A DINNER COSTING $10,000.

The Repast Was the First of Expensive Entertainments In New York.

Writing of the lavish expenditures of New Yorkers, Eurette Van Vorst recalls in The Ladies' Home Journal a dinner given in 1884 by a man of wealth which cost $10,000 and which astonished his most extravagant associates as it was the most expensive feast given up to that time.

"Delmonico, the helpful resource of both those who know and those who do not know how to spend their money, was at a loss to know how to dispose of this then fabulous amount upon a single meal. There were 72 guests, and they were entertained in the large ballroom which in Delmonico's Fourteenth street establishment saw so many social triumphs. The house had been Mr Moses Grinnell's and ever bore the imprint of a gentleman's residence even when transformed into a public place of entertainment.

"The table occupied the whole length and breadth of the room. The waiters had barely space to move about it. It was a long, oval table, round which a massive wreath of exquisite flowers was laid, guarding a miniature lake 30 feet long. The water, by mechanical contrivance, undulated gently, and on its breast floated four living swans, a golden network keeping them in place."

A TRUE STATEMENT

By Foreman White, of the Hamilton Screw Works.

Hamilton, March 6.—If a vote of the people were to be taken to ascertain which is the most popular medicine on the market, Dodd's Kidney Pills would lead by a large majority.

One of the latest cures by that grand remedy is that of Foreman T. H. White, of the Screw Works here, who testifies that he was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills of Kidney Disease of eight years' standing, after other medicines had failed.

Mr. White says: "One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me, four boxes cured me. Publish this statement if you wish. It is true in every particular."

Wax Battleships.

Comparatively few know that by the English admiralty's orders perfect models are made in paraffin wax of every new battleship before it is laid down, and these models are tested in a tank at Haslar. The models are from 12 feet to 24 feet long, and the tank is 400 feet long and 20 feet wide. The models are made of wax, because it is a material which does not absorb water or change its weight, so alterations can be easily made; also the material can be melted up and used again.

Our naval authorities also have models of all their hulls constructed, but these are much more elaborate, being formed of white pine and fitted with rudders, false keels, propeller shafts and all other necessary parts.—New York World.

AN ARTFUL GAME.

A Clever Swindle Which Was Successfully Worked in Paris.

Swindling is as monotonous as ethics or mathematics, and the various ways and means resorted to in the last decade of the nineteenth century for obtaining possession of other people's money were matters of common knowledge in the Egypt of Rameses the Great. But the Parisian police now affirm that a new departure has been made on the banks of the Seine. And this is how it was worked:

An office was hired in a good business street by the inventor of the trick, who assumed the title of somebody and company, chemical agents. Being convinced advocates of women's rights, they employed some members of the fair sex, who dressed in the height of fashion, used the most fashionable perfumes and then visited singly the best apothecaries' shop. One of these fair, false emissaries would stop her cab at the chemists, come in and, taking out her purse, ask for another bottle of Dr. Beaumont's elixir. "Dr. Beaumont's what?" said the young man behind the counter. "The elixir. Don't you know?" "No; I am afraid I never heard of it." "Oh, how tiresome, and my poor rheumatic husband will be so disappointed! Are you sure it was not here that our servant bought it before?" "No, madame; it was not here. Where is it sold wholesale?" "It is sold wholesale, I think"— And here the lady showed the ticket on the bottle. "It costs 8 francs."

That same day the chemist bought the elixir wholesale, laying in a fair stock of it, and meanwhile many of the confreres were doing likewise. But, as nobody called any more on the obliging chemists to buy the elixir, one of the curious confraternity analyzed this specific which was supposed to relieve rheumatics. He found that it was at least perfectly harmless, consisting of water colored by coffee grounds. The police were then let loose upon the ladies and the chemical agents, but they had all moved on, leaving no address. They are said to have netted about 10,000 francs by the trick.—London Telegraph.

"Oh, $1,500,000!" said one.

"Two millions!" cried another.

"Six million, three hundred thousand!" was the estimate of a third.

"I give it up," remarked the fourth listener.

An Effective Retort.

The late Rev. Patrick Watson, vicar of Earlsfield, a great authority on the Holy Land, was a stickler for accuracy. A NATURAL SOLDIER.

Lieutenant Colonel Forrest, to Whom War Meant Killing.

Soldier by nature, from earliest boyhood at home on horseback, with firm, erect and easy seat, rode at the head of the column an ideal of the beau sabreur. From beneath the wide and slightly upturned brim of the soft felt hat, which bore no tawdry plumes, the large, deep-set blue eyes were peering with more than usual alertness. The look of kindliness which came in moments of repose or gentler mood was gone, and something hard and almost savage had replaced it. The broad, high forehead, the shaggy brows, prominent cheek bones and bold assertive nose told not only the story of his Gaelic origin, but the bulldog tenacity of the man.

About the ears and neck heavy half curling tufts of deep black hair hung so stiffly and stubbornly that they were scarcely swayed by the strong, cold wind which swept the snowflakes in miniature clouds from the tree tops and sent them scurrying to the ground. The dark mustache and heavy short chin beard were gray with frozen moisture of the expired air. The massive, firm set jaw told of the strength of will which mastered all. The compressed lip and deep flush of the face bespoke the bloody business of the hour. Six feet and two inches in stature, broad shouldered and of athletic frame, well might one say there was in him

A combination and a form indeed
Where every god did seem to set his seal
To give the world assurance of a man.

A plain caped overcoat of coarse, heavy homemade gray, close buttoned to the throat, reached amply beyond the knees. About the waist, and buckled on the outside for quick and ready use, there was a broad black belt in which two "navy sixes" showed and from which hung that famous saber, heavy and long and, against all military rules, ground to a razor edge, and swinging from the right side of the cavalier. No regulation saber or school drilled swordsman, this left handed scion of the American pioneer, but in all our war there was none other that did such bloody work. To his crude and earnest mind "war means fighting and fighting means killing." He could cut or thrust deeper with a sharp than with a dull sword, and if in the melee he should happen to hit one of his own, it was all intended for the good of the cause.—"Lieutenant Colonel Forrest at Fort Donelson," by John A. Wyeth, M. D., in Harper's Magazine.

Old People's Health.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS THE REMEDY TO KEEP PEOPLE PAST MID-LIFE STRONG AND VIGOROUS.

Any person advanced in years who is troubled with palpitation or any heart weakness, nervousness, sleeplessness, impaired memory, lack of energy and vitality, will find nothing equal to Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for restoring the health and strength and keeping the energy and activity unimpaired.

Mrs. C. H. Dobson, a fine old lady living on Steadman Street, Moncton, N. B., made the following statement:

"I am 70 years of age, and do not like to exert myself very much, but it is a pleasure to tell how much I value those wonderful Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I have been troubled for some time with a pain in my left side and a fluttering around my heart, which weakened me so that I was scarcely able to move.

"The least excitement would jar my nerves, and my heart would almost leap into my throat. My appetite was poor and I was very miserable indeed.

"I took Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and got great relief and am still continuing their use. They have allayed the fluttering sensation around my heart, improved my appetite very much, and I do not hesitate to recommend them as an excellent remedy for all heart and nerve troubles."

Baby Eczema and Scald Head.

Infants and young children are peculiarly subject to this disorder, and if not promptly arrested it will eventually become chronic. Dr. Chase made a special study of eczema and disease of the skin and we can confidently recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to cure all forms of eczema. The first application soothes the irritation and puts the little sufferer to rest.

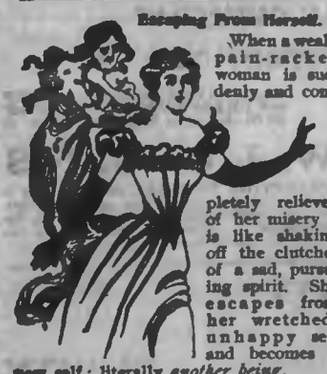
Escaping From Herself.



When a weak, pain-racked woman is suddenly and completely relieved of her misery it is like shaking off the clutches of a sad, pursuing spirit. She escapes from her wretched, unhappy self and becomes a new self; literally another being.

"My wife is up and walks about a mile every pleasant day; she feels like another person," writes H. Todd Hugueley, Esq., of Mount Jackson, Marion Co., Ind., in a letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y. "When I first saw your book referring to the cure of consumption I thought I would try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription,' as the doctors had given her up, and so I thought it could do no harm if it did no good.

"When I try to describe the results I fail to do so in words. We shall never forget to thank God for giving us this means of relief. I know if my wife had not taken Dr. Pierce's medicines she would now have been in her grave. You can ask any one who is afflicted thus to write to me for more particulars."

This only serves to show that what ordinary physicians of merely local and limited practice will often fail to accomplish, may become entirely possible to a thoroughly scientific and radical treatment, based upon a life-long and world-wide experience with the severest and most obstinate forms of so-called incurable diseases. Do not despair, but write to Dr. Pierce. He will send you the most authoritative advice in a plain sealed envelope free of charge. His splendid thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent paper-bound for 21 one-cent stamps to pay the bare cost of customs and mailing, or in heavy, handsome cloth binding, for 50 stamps. A whole medical library in one 1000-page volume.

DICKENS AND FROEBEL.

What the Novelist Did For Childhood—His Work For Education.

Froebel and Dickens, it is claimed, are the best interpreters of Christ's ideals of childhood. The philosophy of Froebel and the stories of Dickens are in perfect harmony. The two great reformers protested vigorously against the interference of intermeddling adults with the full development of the individuality of the child. They recognized the divinity in each child so fully that they objected to all "stamping and molding" processes by which its selfhood was dwarfed or warped. Other educators and reformers had considered the problems of human evolution from the standpoint of the adult and had asked, "What can we do to fit the child for its work?" Froebel and Dickens asked, "How can we help the child to grow by its own self activity?" They were the great apostles of childhood. They began the struggle for the freedom of childhood from the restrictive interference of adulthood.

Dickens is commonly regarded merely as an educational critic. This is a narrow and unfair view. He was a great critic. He aroused the indignation of the civilized world against those who treated childhood inhumanly, and the hatred of adult tyranny which he awakened developed a loving sympathy for children. But he could not have so clearly exposed the wrong in education without having a definite conception of the right. He was the greatest destructive educational critic, but he was also a most advanced, positive, constructive educator. There is no great ideal of the "new education" which is not revealed by Dickens in his novels or his miscellaneous writings.

Dickens was the first Englishman of note to advocate the kindergarten. In July, 1855, he published an article of 11 columns in Household Words, which would take a leading place if compared with the papers read at a meeting of the International Kindergarten union today.—James L. Hughes in Century.

FAMOUS SHEEP DOGS.

THESE CANINE WONDERS CAME FROM NEW ZEALAND.

A Batch of Stories, Illustrating the Rare Intelligence and Faithfulness of the Animals. Told by an Old Time Colorado Sheep Man.

"The most celebrated breed of shepherd dog ever known in the west," said Jud Bristol, the old time sheep man of Fort Collins, Colo., "were those bred from a pair of New Zealand dogs brought to Colorado in 1875. I had several of their pups on my ranges and could fill a volume with instances of their rare intelligence and faithfulness.

"I remember one pup in particular. He was only six months old when he was sent out one day to work on the range. At night, when the herd was brought up to the corrals, we saw at once that a part of the herd was missing. There were 1,600 head in the bunch when they went out in the morning, but when we put them through the shoot we found that 200 were missing. The pup was also missing.

"Well, all hands turned out for the search. We hunted all the night and all of the next day, and did not find the lost sheep until along toward night. But there they were, all herded in a little draw, about five miles from home, and there was the faithful dog standing guard. The wolves were very plentiful in those days, and the dog had actually hidden the sheep from the animals in the draw. The poor fellow was nearly famished, as he had been for 36 hours without food or water. From that day he became a hero, but was so badly affected by hunger, exposure and thirst and subsequent overfeeding and petting that he died not long afterward.

"This same pup's mother was an especially fine animal. One night the herder brought in his flocks and hurried to his cabin to cook himself some supper, for he was more than usually hungry. But he missed the dog, which usually followed him to the cabin of an evening to have her supper. The herder thought rather strange of it, but made no search for the dog that night. But when he went down to the corrals the next morning he found the gate open and the faithful dog standing guard over the flocks. The herder, in his haste the night before, had forgotten to close the gate, and the dog, more faithful than her master, had remained at her post all night, though suffering from hunger and thirst.

"On another occasion this same dog was left to watch a flock of sheep near the herder's cabin while the herder got his supper. After the herder had eaten his supper he went out to where the sheep were and told the dog to put the sheep in the corral. This she refused to do, and although she had had no supper she started off over the prairie as fast as she could go. The herder put the sheep in the corral and went to bed. About midnight he was awakened by the loud barking of a dog down by the corrals. He got up, dressed himself and went down to the corrals, and there found the dog with a band of about 50 sheep, which had strayed off during the previous day without the herder's knowledge; but the poor dog knew it, and also knew that they ought to be corralled, and she did it.

"Another good story of this same dog: One day she was sent out with a new herder to an outlying ranch some 15 miles distant. That night she came home, and by her actions told us that there was something wrong at the ranch. Well, we mounted our broncbos and went over to the ranch, and very soon found out what the matter was. The new herder was simply a tramp, who as soon as he had got a good feed had lit out and left the sheep uncared for save by his more faithful companion, the dog.

"One time we had a tenderfoot come to work for us, and the boys had filled him so full of hair raising stories that he never went out on the range without expecting to be either eaten by bears or scalped by Indians. One day he came running to the house, all out of breath, declaring that he had seen a bear. We laughed at him and sent him back to the range.

"A few days afterward he came in again, more scared than ever, and said it was a bear that time sure. Well, we took our guns and a foxhound and went out, and, sure enough, over on a hill we saw a large black animal. It wasn't a bear, but we couldn't make out exactly what it was. We sent the hound and the shepherd dog that was tending the herd out on its trail, while we followed on foot. The dogs chased the animal over he hill out of sight. Soon the shepherd dog came trotting leisurely back and took her place with the herd again. Over in a gulch we found the hound standing over a dead animal, which upon examination we found to be a big black Mexican sheep. Now, that shepherd dog, as soon as she found it was nothing but a sheep, had given up the chase and returned to her flock. She knew it was not game and of no account, while the hound had followed the trail and killed the sheep."—Denver Post.

Women's Worst Enemy

Some hesitate before giving an answer, but those who know best will immediately say HEADACHE.

Thousands of women live in misery day after day, and week after week, suffering untold agony from these dreadful headaches. Husbands are disheartened, children neglected, and happy homes ruined. Most women strive to bear in patience the suffering which they consider part of life without looking into the cause or searching for relief. Food cannot digest without the bile which the liver supplies and hence the necessity of keeping the liver in good working order. To cure the headaches you must cure the liver and thus remove the cause of disease.

Dr. Chase spent years of his life in perfecting a medicine which acts directly on the kidneys and liver. Thousands of grateful women have testified during the past ten years to the effectiveness of this remedy for sick headaches. Many a home has been restored to happiness as a result.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the greatest discovery of this great scientist, are put up to sell at 25 doses for 25c. All dealers.

Bridging Bering Sea.

Professor W. J. McGee declares that two slow but interesting changes are taking place in Bering sea. The immense quantity of debris that is borne down the Yukon river from its sources and sides is being deposited in the sea beyond the mouth of that mighty stream, and its weight causes the bed of the sea to subside. A corresponding rise in the earth's crust is produced along the chain of the Aleutian islands. Now, not only are the islands themselves increasing in size in consequence of being lifted up out of the water, but new islands are being formed in the gaps between the others. In some instances the new islands are the result of the rise and in others they are the product of volcanic action. Most of the Alentians are of volcanic origin, and they mark the position of a fold in the earth's crust that is predisposed to eruption. In time, Professor McGee says, there is likely to be a natural bridge from America to Asia along this route, but he admits that nobody now living is going to see it.—New York Tribune.

A NEW INVENTION!

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which lights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. IS THE YOUNG MAN SAFE?

Rev. Mr. Cowsert gave an earnest address to young men in Park street Baptist church last evening, from the text II. Sam., 18, 32, 33.

Absalom's sun went down in the noontime of life, in a cloud of arrogance, lust and deceit. He died a most tragic death, suspended between the two worlds, as though unfit for either. The same tragedy is still being enacted—young men are destroying themselves by sinful habits.

The text suggested the inquiry as to the safety of young men, and the first question was: Is the young man safe who persistently disobeys his parents? The answer must be an emphatic "No!" The first step towards eternal misery was the sin of disobedience to parental authority. Many a young man who refused to remain at home an evening with his mother had ended up in a room much smaller than the smallest in his home. The attitude of a young man towards his parents was an indication of the young man's future.

The young man who violates the Lord's Day cannot be said to be safe for he sins against both physical and spiritual interests. It was a two-edged sword, for it would not only take him out of good company, but also lead him among the evil. No young man was safe who associated with evil companions. A person could not remain pure and company with the impure. The hospitals, jails and insane asylums were filled to-day with those who, through bad company, were led astray. Idleness was also a menace to the safety of young men. It was said that an idle brain was the devil's workshop. No one could be absolutely idle. If we were not doing good we were doing evil.

A young man was not safe who cultivated extravagant habits. Hoarding money and loving it was objectionable, but young men should be taught the value of a dollar. Men were in prison to-day who never intended to be dishonest, but by living beyond their means had used money not their own, and were punished.

The use of tobacco, generally, and cigarette smoking in particular, was a danger to the safety of young men. Parents were greatly to blame, often setting an unwholesome example. He had known young men who had undermined their constitutions by the cigarette habit, and who had died of consumption.

The young man who tipples was certainly in great danger. No one ever started with the intention of being a drunkard. The drink habit was of such a nature, however, that it weakens the will power, and while for a time men could be moderate, they eventually become slaves to the appetite. It was the first glass that was deadly, not the last, and to tipple was slow suicide.

The young man who throws off the influences of home was certainly in great peril. Young men reared in Christian homes, and blessed with godly parents, often chafed under the righteous restraints, and who, when they had opportunity, cut loose often, like Absalom, met an untimely death.

The only safe place for young men was under the cleansing blood of Jesus and upheld by His power. Christ, himself a young man, knew the peculiar temptations young men were subject to, and he was able and willing to save.

Mrs. Diagman sang in sweet voice, "Can a Boy Forget his Mother?" just before the address.

HOCKEY.

The Lindsay Colts play to-night in the Charlotte street Rink at 7.30. The match should be a good one.

Last night a team from the Ontario Bank completely annihilated a seven which was made up of the best men from the other banks in the town. At the start it appeared as if the teams were evenly matched, but when the Ontario's struck their gate it proved a winner, and the way they kept shots raining in on Harry Thompson in their opponent's goal made that young man giddier than if he had been with John on a busy day. Belleghem, of course, did most of the work on the forward line although he was ably assisted by his confreres who passed to him from every corner of the rink. Hollingshead, naturally, was almost impregnable at point and was successful in warding off almost every charge made on his goal. Only three times was he passed, and each time the combination team scored a goal. The final score was announced as 15 to 3 in favour of the Ontarios, but the fact of it was that General Manager McGill's boys scored so fast that the referee couldn't keep track of the goals. The teams were composed as follows:

Ontario.		Combination.
Ferguson	goal	Thompson (Tor)
Hollingshead	point	Houston (Com)
Rush	cover point	Pousette (Tor)
G Bell, Belleghem, Gladman, N Bell	forwards	Campbell (Com), Skill (Mon), Milburn (Mon), Dunlop (Com)

Harold Armstrong made a capital referee.

Teams from St. Luke's and the Y. M. C. A. played a draw game at the rink last night.

IS IT A TRIFLE?

THAT COMMON TROUBLE, ACID DYSPEPSIA OR SOUR STOMACH.

Now Recognised as a Cause of Serious Disease.

Acid dyspepsia, commonly called heartburn or sour stomach, is a form of indigestion resulting from fermentation of the food. The stomach being too weak to digest it, the food remains until fermentation begins, filling the stomach with gas, and a bitter, sour burning taste in the mouth is often present. This condition soon becomes chronic, and being an every day affair is given but little attention. Because dyspepsia is not immediately fatal, many people do nothing for the trouble.

Within a recent period a remedy has been discovered prepared solely to cure dyspepsia and stomach troubles. It is known as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and is becoming rapidly used and prescribed as a radical cure for every form of dyspepsia.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been placed before the public and are sold by all druggists for 50c per package. It is prepared by the F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., and while it promptly and effectually restores a vigorous digestion, at the same time is perfectly harmless and will not injure the most delicate stomach, but on the contrary by giving perfect digestion, strengthens the stomach, improves the appetite and makes life worth living.

THE DOMINION SENATE—WHAT SHALL BE DONE WITH IT?

To the Editor of The Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Were I Premier, and could do as I wished in reference to the said Senate, I would issue a proclamation to all the provinces of the Dominion, requiring each county in each province to elect delegates, from one or more, to meet at the capital of each said province and there nominate two candidates for the Dominion Senate for the term of eight years. Nomination the first Wednesday of September, 1899, and election the first Wednesday of November, 1899. At the end of four years from the date of nomination repeat the same, thus sending to the Senate two new members direct from the people every four years, and no more appointments from the present date. The above would give us four members for each province, which I think would be sufficient, as the States only have two. We would then have a Senate directly representing the people.

Yours truly,
ONE OF THE PEOPLE.

Recent Scientific Research

Has, it seems, resulted in a sure cure for catarrh, a most offensive and insidious disease, until lately considered incurable. This remedy is called Catarrhozone and is simply inhaled, being carried by the air directly to the diseased parts of the throat or nasal passages, thus superseding former disgusting and useless snuffs and ointments. Catarrh, bronchitis, irritable throat, &c., yield to Catarrhozone every time. Write for a free sample of Catarrhozone to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

German Army Compromise Bill Passes the Reichstag.

AMERICANS TAKE CAITAI.

Lord Herschell's Successor Is Baron Russell of Killowen—He Will Be on Both the Anglo-American and the Venezuelan Commissions—Denmark Wants a Piece of China—Cable News.

Berlin, March 17.—When the army bill was taken up in the Reichstag yesterday Dr. Lieber, the Centrist leader, moved the acceptance of the committee's proposal to reduce the peace effective by 7,000 men, adding that the House declared its willingness, in the event of the figure granted by the committee proving inadequate, to enter into fresh negotiations with the Government.

The Imperial Chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe, said the Federal Government accepted Dr. Lieber's motion with the reservation that, in conformity with the readiness expressed by the Reichstag to enter into fresh negotiations, the Government would introduce fresh proposals before the expiration of the agreed term.

The bill was then adopted by a vote of 222 to 139.

CAITAI ALSO TAKEN.

Strongly Fortified Village Captured by United States Troops.

Manila, March 17.—The insurgents at the outposts, and in the trenches beyond Caloocan, fired several volleys last night upon the Montana and Kansas volunteers. H. Y. Beecher, of Company "A," of the Montana Regiment, was killed in the engagement.

A battalion of the 20th Regular Infantry routed a small band of Filipinos on the Laguna road, and some sharpshooters who were firing from a house over which a French flag was flying were dislodged. A gunboat entered the lake, and silenced a one-gun battery in the foothills.

The strongly fortified village of Caitai, northwest of Pasig, was captured yesterday after a desperate fight, by the 20th Regular Infantry. The Americans lost 17 wounded, while the rebels' loss was heavy.

BISMARCK WAS ENTOMBED.

The Emperor William Attends the Final Function and Was Cordial.

Friedrichsruhe, March 17.—Emperor William arrived here at 11.25 yesterday morning in order to attend the interment of the remains of Prince and Princess Bismarck in the new mausoleum. On the Emperor's arrival the cortege started for the mausoleum. The procession passed between the ranks of fifteen hundred torch bearers, a military band playing a funeral march. The mausoleum was reached at noon. After the coffins had been borne into the mausoleum the Emperor, Prince Bismarck and the Imperial suite entered, the doors were closed, and a guard of honor fired a volley at 12.15 p.m. at the conclusion of the service. The Emperor and the Bismarck family then returned to the castle, where lunch was served. His Majesty and his suite departed at 1 o'clock, and were accompanied to the Imperial saloon carriage by the family. The Emperor was cordial in his demeanor throughout the ceremonies.

A HOTEL HOLOCAUST.

An Awful Calamity by Fire in New York City.

A SCORE LOST—MANY INJURED.

The Windsor, One of New York's Fashionable Hotels, Burned to the Ground—Wealthy Women Dash Themselves to Pieces on the Street Rather Than Be Burned With Fire.

New York, March 18.—Flames, which originated from the igniting of a lace curtain, burst forth from the second floor of the Windsor Hotel, at 47th street and Fifth avenue, shortly after 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon, just as the St. Patrick's Day parade was passing the building, and in a few moments they had leaped to the roof and enveloped the entire Fifth avenue and 47th street fronts of the hotel.

Ten minutes later the flames were roaring through the interior of the hotel, and all means of escape by way of stairways and elevators was cut off, and there was the wildest scene of excitement within and without the building.

In Ruins in Two Hours.

The flames could not be checked and in two hours from the time that the fire broke out the entire structure was in ruins and the streets on three sides of the building were filled with debris from falling walls and tall chimneys, while the streams of water being poured upon the interior of the ruins had no other effect than to fill the air with clouds of scalding steam, making it impossible for anyone to approach near enough to search for missing bodies.

The fire was the most spectacular affair of the kind that could be imagined. When it broke out Fifth avenue was crowded with people watching the St. Patrick's Day parade, and every window in the front of the hotel facing Fifth avenue was filled with spectators, watching the marching men and floats in the street. As soon as the flames were discovered shooting from the windows, that part of the St. Patrick's Day procession which was near the building came to a halt, and in a few minutes the parade was disbanded, for the police came rushing towards the fire from every direction, and, as far as they were able, drove the people from the streets. One alarm after another was turned in and the first of the fire engines was not long in appearing upon the scene, and they caused a wild scramble among the paraders and spectators as they rushed along the street and got into position for service.

Terrible Loss of Life.

Hundreds of guests and employes were in the hotel when the fire broke out, and for many of them escape with safety was impossible. Probably from ten to 15 lives were lost within a half hour and 30 or 40 other persons were injured in jumping from windows and in rushing through the roaring flames in the corridors and on the stairways. Many who were injured died later at nearby residences and at hospitals, and others who made wild leaps to the stone sidewalk were so badly injured that they are still hovering between life and death.

It may be 24 hours or more before the complete list of fatalities may become known, and it will be longer than that before it can be ascertained definitely how many charred bodies are in the mass of fallen masonry that marks the spot where the hotel stood.

Many Were Not Guests.

In addition to the regular guests of the hotel, the windows were crowded by a large number of spectators, residents of this city, who had congregated there to witness the parade.

Soon after the first alarm was given people in the lower floors of the hotel, those who had easy access to the street and the bar, commenced to pour out of the building in great numbers, but it very soon became apparent that a great majority of the occupants of the hotel were either panic stricken or were unable to make their way to the ground floor.

Leaped to Instant Death.

Several occupants of the hotel appeared at the windows of the sixth and seventh storeys, and even on the roof and made their leaps to the streets from those points. Very few of them escaped either instant death or injuries which resulted in their death a short time later. Meantime the entire building was being enveloped in flames, which shot out from every window and formed a picture which struck terror to all those who were witnessing it.

Within 40 or 45 minutes after the fire first broke out the walls on the Fifth avenue side showed every indication of falling, and presently, with an awful crash, they struck the asphalt covering of the street in front of the hotel, and caused the hundreds of people who were standing there to scatter in every direction. This weakened the walls on the 46th and 47th street sides, and they followed a moment later. When the walls fell the bricks and mortar and twisted girders and corrugated iron filled the streets on three sides of the hotel. The door steps and iron fences in front of the houses on the opposite side of the street from the hotel were wrecked by the falling walls, and the amount of debris piled in the streets was so great that travel will be impeded for several days.

Forty-One People Missing.

A careful list of missing, revised at 12.30 a.m., shows 41 persons unaccounted for.

Funeral of Hon. J. F. Wood.

Brockville, Ont., March 18.—The funeral of the late Hon. John F. Wood took place here at 2.30 yesterday afternoon, and was the largest ever seen here. At his late residence hundreds of friends and admirers viewed the remains. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. The Conservative members of the House of Commons sent a beautiful wreath, and the Conservative Association of Brockville a magnificent anchor.

The procession left his late residence at 2.30 p.m. The pallbearers were: Sir C. H. Tupper, Hon. Col. Prior, Hon. Clarke Wallace, Hon. John Haggart, Hon. W. B. Ives, Mr. George Taylor. Sir Henry Joly, Controller of Inland Revenue, and William Paterson, Controller of Customs, represented the Government.

NORWEGIANS ARE WRATHY.

Refused to Dine With the Crown Prince of Sweden.

London, March 17. — Sixty Leftist members of the Storthing, the Executive Assembly of Norway, have declined an invitation to dine with the Swedish Crown Prince Gustaf, who is acting as regent of Sweden and Norway during the absence of King Oscar II., who is in southern France seeking to recuperate his health.

Rothschild's Hard Luck.

London, March 17.—Mr. Leopold de Rothschild, who recently broke his nose by striking the branch of a tree while riding to hounds near Windsor, met with a still more serious accident while riding to the same hounds yesterday. He was thrown from his horse into a ditch, fracturing his collar bone and one of his ribs.

Thanked Admiral Canevaro.

London, March 17.—A despatch to The Chronicle from Rome says that Lord Salisbury, through Sir Philip Currie, the British ambassador, has thanked Admiral Canevaro, Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs, for Italy's prompt and loyal action in the Martino incident.

A Wealthy Beggar Dead.

New York, March 18.—Mrs. Henrietta Schmidt, a professional beggar, was found dead yesterday. The police found her bank book on the Williamsburg Savings Bank, which shows she had at least $20,000 in that institution.

Another Operation.

Paris, March 18.—The Rome correspondent of The Figaro says the Pope's physicians have decided upon another operation.

France's Marine Minister Admits in the Chamber of Deputies That at the Recent Crisis Time Not One of France's Naval Bases Was Able to Fulfill Its Functions—Cable News.

Madrid, March 18.—The Queen Regent has signed the treaty of peace between Spain and the United States.

The signed treaty of peace will be forwarded to the French ambassador at Washington, M. Jules Cambon, for exchange with the one signed by President McKinley. No decree on the subject will be published in The Official Gazette.

Announced at Washington.

Washington, March 18.—The first news of the signature of the peace treaty by the Queen Regent of Spain was conveyed to Secretary Hay and the officials of the Administration through the bulletin of the Associated Press. Official news of the action at Madrid was not conveyed to the State Department before the close of the department for the day. M. Cambon, the French ambassador, called at the department about ten minutes to 4 o'clock, and, in the absence of Secretary Hay, called upon Assistant Secretary Hill. He told the latter that he believed the treaty had been signed.

Relations Will Be Resumed.

London, March 18.—The Madrid correspondent of The Standard, after referring to the ratification by the Queen Regent of the treaty of peace between Spain and the United States, says:

"Official relations between the two Governments will now be promptly renewed. It is rumored that the minister to the United States will be Senor Don J. Brunetti, Duke d'Arcos, former Spanish minister to Mexico, whose wife is an American."

LOCKROY, THE UNREADY.

French Minister of Marine Makes a Startling Confession in the Chamber of Deputies on Friday.

Paris, March 18.—In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, during the debate on the naval estimates, M. Lockroy, Minister of Marine, sketched the Government program and gave a curious insight into the unpreparedness of the navy during the recent Anglo-French crisis.

The Minister of Marine revealed a number of startling facts relating to the condition of the French arsenals at the critical juncture in the relations between France and Great Britain some months ago. He quoted from the much-talked-of letter written by General de Bordes last year, declaring that "not one of our naval bases is able to fulfill the functions for which it was established, or capable of making a defence to save the honor of French arms."

"To-day, however," the Minister declared, "our coast defences are so much improved that we can speak of the conditions of nine months ago as of the distant past. The difficulty at that time was an almost absolute lack of men. At our principal ports only one-third of the batteries could be manned on the first day of the mobilization, and most of the shells had no fuses."

Will Not Suppress the Truth.

M. Lockroy declared that he would never hold back the truth from the Chamber. "These facts," he continued, "have been obtained after painful inquiries, but there are men behind the guns everywhere now."

France, he went on to assert, must prepare for the future as well as the present, and all her financial resources should be economically employed to this end. He spoke in high terms of the personnel of the French navy, praising the courage and loyalty of the men and advocating the German system of forbidding all foreigners on warships.

M. Louis Jourdan, Republican member for Florac, followed with an excited protest to the effect that somebody ought to be made responsible for a "state of things which brought the country within a hair's breadth of a conflict."

The Submarine Boat.

M. Lockroy spoke with the greatest satisfaction regarding the experiments that have proved the submarine boat Gustave Zede capable of real service. He said the boat's new apparatus enabled it to perceive enemies, and to strike them with accurate aim, "thus," declared the Minister, "France possesses a new destructive engine of terrible power."

Princess Kaiulani Dead.

Honolulu, March 10, via San Francisco, March 18.—Princess Kaiulani died March 6 of inflammatory rheumatism, contracted several weeks ago, while on a visit to the Island of Hawaii. She was the daughter of Princess Miriam Likelike, a member of the Hawaiian royal family, and A. S. Cleghorn, an Englishman. Kaiulani was born in 1875. In 1891 she was proclaimed heir-apparent by Lilliuokalani, who was on the throne of Hawaii.

The funeral of the dead Princess will occur on Sunday, March 12, from the old native church, and will be under the direction of the Government. The ceremonies will be on a scale befitting the rank of the young Princess. Bishop Willis of the Church of England will conduct the funeral services.

The People's Faith

Firmly Grounded Upon Real Merit—They Know Hood's Sarsaparilla Absolutely and Permanently Cures When All Others Fail.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is not merely a simple preparation of Sarsaparilla, Dock, Stillingia and a little Iodide of Potassium.

Besides these excellent alteratives, it also contains those great anti-bilious and liver remedies, Mandrake and Dandelion. It also contains those great kidney remedies, Uva Ursi, Juniper Berries, and Pipsissewa.

Nor are these all. Other very valuable curative agents are harmoniously combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla and it is carefully prepared under the personal supervision of a regularly educated pharmacist.

Knowing these facts, is the abiding faith the people have in Hood's Sarsaparilla a matter of surprise? You can see why Hood's Sarsaparilla cures, when other medicines totally, absolutely fail.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

TIME and again attention has been called to the deplorable ignorance shown by first-rate English journals regarding the colonies. Recently the London Daily Telegraph, referring to the death of a man, stated that he was "born 39 years ago in the town of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, of Scottish parents." A Canadian school boy, ten years old, who would make such a blunder, deserves to be soundly birched. This ignorance of the simplest rudiments of geography is a relic of the days when British indifference to the Colonies was practically regarded as a virtue.

THE Review seems to think that the fact of a delayed account appearing in the public accounts is an evidence that there is something crooked—something to conceal. It is nothing of the kind. The public accounts come for investigation before the Public Accounts Committee when necessary explanations are made. Such things as delayed accounts occur almost every day in private business. In adjusting accounts between two persons, often one person fails to send in account in time and it appears in next year's account for that reason. There must be some difficulty in finding fault when such transparently explainable and in effect harmless matters, are seized upon to make so great an ado about.

LINDSAY CHEESE BOARD.

The Cheese Factory People Have Their Interests Looked After—Good Speeches.

(Lindsay Watchman.)

The Victoria County Cheese Board held its annual meeting in Lindsay on Tuesday, at 1.30. President Robertson took the chair and in his introductory remarks it came out that in three years the cheese out-put of this county had nearly doubled, running from 10,467 boxes in 1895 to 19,266 in 1897. In 1898 the number fell back to 19,093, on account of the Valentia factory being burned, and the fact that Lemoindale, Ingoldsby and Sutton did not board all their cheese. The quality of the product has been good, but may be better. Mr. Watkins, for whom Mr. Whitton bought last year, recently told the president that Victoria county made a good article. More buyers will be on hand this year. The idea of weekly sales did not commend itself to the president because the goods would not be ripe enough, and the expense at so frequent journeys would be too great for salesmen and buyers.

Secretary Shine read his report and it was adopted, as also was Treasurer Sandford's, which showed a balance on hand of $44.58.

ABOUT THAT SURPLUS.

An interesting debate took place on how the surplus should be used. Some favoured applying it on the instructor's salary for next year. Mr. Geo. Lytle spoke strongly in favor of offering substantial prizes for cheese and creamery butter at the fall fair. It would stimulate makers to do their best, and be of advantage to the dairy interests of the country. We defeated Peterborough in their own fair last year and won at least the two first prizes. Mr. Calvert favored the idea. The president suggested that $10 be set aside for that purpose. Mr. Lytle thought $25. It was compromised at $15, and decided that Messrs Thurston, Calvert, Jordan and Lytle should be a committee to meet the directors of the fair, and ask them to supplement the sum offered by the board. Mr. T. Parkin wanted to know where the instruction slip had gone. Many patrons and salesmen do not know what the rules of the board are. The president produced a copy and read its contents. It was ordered that 100 be printed and distributed.

There was a complaint that outside factories were at a disadvantage in the matter of inspection, since they are docked for being so far away, and yet have to send their cheese to some central place for inspection. The opinion expressed by Mr. Warren prevailed that the whole board should be a unit, work for the common interest, and stand by the weaker and more distant factories. Mr. John Graham had wanted to weigh cheese at Fenelon Falls, instead of Lindsay, but had not been allowed to. Mr. Calvert thought that if buyers were not satisfied with the weight marked on the boxes, they should pay for weighing.

ELECTIONS.

Despite President Robertson's protests that four years in office was long enough for any man he was unanimously voted to the chair for another term. The same fate befel Secretary Shine and Treasurer Sandford. Mr. Jordan was elected 1st vice and Mr. Calvert 2nd. Messrs. Haight and Brown were made arbitrators. Mr. Reid thought arbitrators would have little weight with buyers, but Mr. Carlow instanced a case where buyers had objected to cheese when the market dropped, and he had sent 600 boxes to Montreal to be tested by the government inspector, who pronounced them o.k., and the buyers had to take them.

TURNED DOWN THE ASSOCIATION.

Mr. T. B. Carlow who represented the Eastern Dairymen's Association, was on hand to see if the board intended employing an instructor, recommended by that body. He was heard and said: Mr. Kerr, your instructor last year has been given a position buying. Peterborough has not decided on employing other than a local instructor. The association wants to help the boards and is anxious that the record of Canadian cheese at Chicago shall be sustained at Paris next year. We extend the same help to you as we have hitherto, and expect the same from you. We have named a man for Peterborough and Lindsay in Mr. Kerr's place and want to know whether you will accept him. He is Mr. R. W. Ward, a competent man, who will keep you in the way of making No. 1 cheese.

The President—I have a piece of cheese in my house made by Mr. Ward a year ago last August, and as good as if made six months ago. The appointment of the association has an advantage over any local man, because in case of a charge against a patron the government is behind the official, and the work of convicting the guilty is easier than if we had to take it up as a board single-handed. The government also pays part of the instructor's salary if appointed by the association.

Mr. Warren—The work of a local man is very difficult, for a charge stirs up a good deal of local friction and censure of the instructor. A man coming from a distance has no such trouble. Makers do not take so kindly to a local man either.

Mr. G. Lytle—After what the Association has done by way of stirring up the dairy industry in this country we should take their suggestion. Last year we threshed it out for five hours, but now we ought to accept the Association's man at once. We must keep up our record and we must make a better one, for our competitors in the English market have reached our standard and we must go a step higher. There is cheese selling in England now at 80 shillings while ours brings 60. We must put an end to that. This country has too many culls. There are too many cull horses and cows and other products. We must make everything first class and not be satisfied till we have it. The Association's instructor will help us in every way and I hope he will be appointed.

Mr. W. Jordan—Our makers some highly recommended and are capable men. Employing an instructor burdens the people too much. Mr. Kerr came out to our factory last year and looked around, but left the maker to make tests. Another time he just said it was not right and went away. A local man with the Babcock tester can do all we want done.

A motion was made by Mr. Jordon and seconded by Mr. John Graham, that the matter be laid over till the first sale day. Messrs. O'Brien and Reid moved in amendment that the instructor proposed by the Association be employed to-day. Three men voted each way and the president refused to give the casting ballot on such a vote. The meeting began to break up and amid confusion their were calls for another vote or the chairman's ballot, neither of which were received and Mr. Carlow was compelled to say that the Association must count out the Victoria Board.

Some cough mixtures smother the cough. But the next breeze fans it into life again.

Better put the cough out.

That is, better go deeper and smother the fires of inflammation. Troches cannot do this. Neither can plain cod-liver oil.

But Scott's Emulsion can. The glycerine soothes and makes comfortable; the hypophosphites give power and stability to the nerves; and the oil feeds and strengthens the weakened tissues.

It Gives New True Life!

Paine's Celery Compound Endorsed by Physicians as the Best Spring Medicine.

The records and history of medicine point to Paine's Celery Compound as the most successful remedy ever given to sick and suffering humanity. It is endorsed by the medical faculty because they know its formula and have confidence in its life-giving virtues.

Paine's Celery Compound works glorious and marvellous cures. This is the secret of its success, and accounts for its world-wide and enormous sales.

It is in the spring time—this very month when men and women are weak, nervous, rheumatic, neuralgic, dyspeptic, have head ache, kidney and liver troubles, and blood that is sluggish and impure, that the great medicine should be used to restore nervous energy, rich blood, healthy digestion, natural appetite and sweet refreshing sleep.

The winter has been a time wherein men and women have stored ill-health instead of keeping the body sound, clean and full of true life. The nerves, blood and digestive organs must be fed, nourished and cleansed by Paine's Celery Compound if true and lasting health is looked for.

At this time we honestly urge the use of the medicine that has restored thousands to full and robust health after medical skill and ordinary medicines failed. One bottle of Paine's Celery Compound will convince you that you have found a true friend and helper.

EX-MAYOR BEATY AT REST.

Funeral at Toronto of a Man Who Held Everybody's Respect.

Toronto, March 18.—The funeral of ex-Mayor James Beaty, Q.C., took place from the residence of his son-in-law yesterday. Among those present were: Sir William Howland, Hon. J. C. Aikins, Hon. Richard Harcourt, Hon. John Dryden, Senator Merner, ex-Mayors Kennedy, Boswell and E. F. Clarke, the Mayor and City Council, John Small, ex-M.P., Dickson Patterson, Rev. Dr. Parker, Rev. Dr. Milligan, Rev. Dr. C. E. Thomson, Dr. Richardson, H. Cameron, M.D., R. S. Baird, Major Macdonald, Emerson Coatsworth and a host of other prominent people both from the city and from a distance.

On the casket, which was borne by City Treasurer Coady, John K. Macdonald, Manager Confederation Life; S. B. Jackson, registrar; M. J. C. Hamilton, a former partner; Charles Winstanley, ex-Ald. Crocker, Isaac Gilmore and Charles Lindsay, was a pillow of flowers sent by the employes and students of the law firm of which the deceased was a member and many other floral tributes from friends and acquaintances.

The service, which was conducted at the house, was a simple one, Dr. H. T. Wood reading from I. Cor., xv, II. Thess., iv, and Rev., vii, portions of Scripture which some nine months ago the deceased had selected to be read at the funeral of his wife. After the scriptures had been read Mr. George J. Barclay addressed the gathering.

The remains were then taken to the Necropolis and laid away in the family burial plot.

THE ODORLESS

CREMATORY CLOSET.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematory Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS.

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable. Yours respectfully,

JAMES CONWAY.

Shedden, February 28th, 1898.

I have used it for sometime and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.

W. H. MORRISON

Medical Superintendent's Office, Sept. 30th, 1897
Asylum for the Insane, Hamilton.

Gentlemen: I had the opportunity of witnessing yesterday the operation of your Odorless Crematory Closet. It had a large accumulation of fecal matter in the pan when the fire was started, and inside of 20 minutes it was all reduced to ashes. There was no odor before or during the operation of consuming the fecal matter, as the ventilation by the flue seems to carry off all odor as soon, before it has a chance to vitiate the surrounding atmosphere.

Yours truly, JAMES RUSSELL, M.D.

Binbrook, Sept. 30th, 1897.

Dear Sirs—Having been present at a private test of your new patent closet yesterday afternoon, I beg to express my satisfaction with it in every way. Neither before, during or after the burning out of its contents did I detect the slightest unpleasant odor. I am satisfied it will be a boon to thousands in rural towns, villages and country homes. Yours truly,

M. J. MULLOCK, M.D.

A NEW INVENTION!

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which lights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

MISERIES OF NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA.

Are Many and Severe, But Very Easily Cured.

Caused by Weak, Watery Blood, on Which the Nerves are Fed—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Cure the Disease and Prevent its Return.

Can't you sleep?

Does noise annoy you?

Are you low-spirited, discouraged, seeing no use in living?

Are you "cross," irritable and gloomy?

Have you a desire to avoid company; do you worry over little troubles and difficulties; are you tired and worn out most of the time; do you feel stiff and sore all over the body when you get out of bed in the morning.

Do you have gloomy forebodings, worryings over the future of your children or dreading your own early death, for instance?

This is a truly miserable condition of affairs, and leads positively to much more painful and dangerous ailments.

Do you understand just what the trouble is? One doctor may have told you one thing, another, something else; they may have given you medicine, which did you no good.

Still your trouble is easy to reach, easy to recognize, easy to cure.

You have Nervous Dyspepsia.

That means that your food does not digest properly, and that your nerves are fed on impure, weak blood, made from this improperly digested food.

The remedy lies in securing prompt, thorough, perfect digestion. Then the blood will be rich, strong and nourishing, then the nerves will be fed on food that give them strength and vigor to do their duty properly.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, insure perfect digestion, because they digest the food themselves, allowing the stomach to rest and recuperate. They tone the digestive organs, and bring about perfect action.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets positively and permanently cure Nervous Dyspepsia, and all other diseases of the digestive organs. They cost only fifty cents a box.

Have You Been Sick?

Perhaps you have had the grippe or a hard cold. You may be recovering from malaria or a slow fever; or possibly some of the children are just getting over the measles or whooping cough.

Are you recovering as fast as you should? Has not your old trouble left your blood full of impurities? And isn't this the reason you keep so poorly? Don't delay recovery longer but

Take

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It will remove all impurities from your blood. It is also a tonic of immense value. Give nature a little help at this time. Aid her by removing all the products of disease from your blood.

THE LURID TALE FALSE.

The Story That Canadian and American Miners Had Fought a Battle With Fatal Results.

Toronto, March 18.—The New York World of yesterday printed a startling story to the effect that Canadian and United States miners had met in deadly conflict north of the Atlin district in British Columbia, on ground that was disputed territory. It was reported that one American and three Canadians had been killed. A C.P.R. press report from Vancouver says the story has no foundation. Carl Hummerfelt, a passenger by the steamer Tees, who brought the story down, says he was not within 15 miles of the scene of the reported fight, but he heard the yarn from another man, who himself only heard the rumor from a third person. No one who witnessed any fight can be traced, and there is the peculiar fact that no other passenger on the Tees knows anything about it.

MR. W. DUNN'S CASE

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cure Another Dundas Man.

He Was Afflicted With Rheumatism For Six Years—All Efforts Failed to Relieve or Cure Till he took Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Dundas, March 17.—"Gentlemen," remarked Mr. William Dunn, a well-known telephone lineman to a group of his fellow-workmen, "Gentlemen, I have suffered untold agony from Rheumatism during the past twelve months. A person who has not felt the pangs of this painful malady cannot conceive the torture it inflicts upon its victims. I could get nothing to give me relief, although I doctored constantly, and took various remedies.

"Then I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and almost immediately a decided change for the better took place. I used, altogether, three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and am happy to say I am thoroughly cured. You may talk of doctors and their medicines, but give me Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Mr. Dunn's remarks are in a line with the publicly expressed assertions of thousands of other grateful men and women, who have been cured of rheumatism by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Rheumatism is caused by Uric Acid in the blood.

Uric Acid is left in the blood by diseased kidneys, which are unable to filter it out.

The only way to cure Rheumatism, is to remove the Uric Acid. The only way this can be done is by the Kidneys. The kidneys cannot do it unless they are strong and healthy—make them do their work properly by making them able to do it.

There can be no Uric Acid in your blood if you use Dodd's Kidney Pills. That is a fact that cannot be disputed. It follows, then, that you cannot possibly have Rheumatism if you use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Try them and be convinced.

A Potlach Custom.

Vancouver, B.C., March 16.—At a big potlach at Fort Rupert last week a peculiar specimen of Indian custom was witnessed. An Indian girl lay in a hut in the last stages of consumption, while outside the door, in full view of the dying girl, her coffin was being made ready for her. Inside the hut sat many women, tearing their hair, scratching their cheeks till blood flowed, and wailing.

THE LEGISLATURE

A Busy Day for Ontario Legislators on Friday.

CYCLE PATH BILL DEBATE HELD

Mr. Pattullo's Bill Against Exemptions Unsanctioned by the People Read a Second Time—Mr. Conmee's Bill Respecting Municipalities and Electric and Gas Works Sent to Municipal Committee.

Toronto, March 18.—The Legislative Assembly yesterday put through a lot of business, including several final readings. Among the bills handled were Mr. Pattullo's municipal exemptions bill, Mr. Stratton's cycle path bill, Mr. Conmee's bill respecting municipalities and gas and electric works.

Mr. James Stratton (West Peterboro), chairman of the printing committee, in presenting their final report, pointed out that a considerable saving might be effected if the annual report were more "boiled down."

Mr. Pattullo's bill to amend the Municipal Act respecting tax exemptions was read a second time. The bill is aimed against indirect forms of aid by municipalities without submission of the same to the ratepayers. At present large powers are in the hands of a few councillors at their own sweet will. This power he would transfer to the people.

Mr. Stratton moved the second reading of his bill respecting cycle paths and cycle path commissioners. He enlarged on the benefits this legislation would confer on wheelmen, whilst not imposing any tax on the public. The licenses were not compulsory and the small fee charged would be spent on building cycle paths. He denied the allegation that it would injure the good roads movement. Discussion on the bill was allowed to stand.

Mr. James Conmee (West Algoma) moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Municipal Act. The bill, he explained, is to adjust differences that may arise in respect to contracts for lighting between companies and municipal corporations; as to the expiry of these contracts and the terms on which new contracts should been entered into.

After some slight discussion the bill was relegated to the municipal committee.

A large number of private bills received their third reading, and others were advanced a stage.

In reply to Mr. Wardell (North Wentworth), Hon. Mr. Dryden said that W. H. Orr, superintendent of fruit spraying, is not paid a salary, but receives $5 a day when working in his allotted sphere.

Orders of the House were granted Mr. Carscallen (East Hamilton) for returns of moneys on deposit in or subject to the control and distribution of the Supreme Court, and as to the investments of the same by the court.

Mr. Barr (Dufferin) obtained an order of the House for a return showing all temporary employes in the service of the Ontario Government in this city, the amount paid to each, and the time they were employed.

After brief discussion the following bills were withdrawn: To amend the Registry Act, Mr. Brown; to amend the Municipal Act, Mr. Carnegie.

The Speaker ruled that Mr. Little's bill to prevent the growth and cultivation of the barberry shrub was out of order.

Mr. Wardell's bill to amend the Ontario Elections Act, to make the provincial law similar to that of the Dominion, was, after discussion, allowed to stand.

The Police Commissioners bill, introduced by Mr. Wardell, regarding salaries in small cities, was defeated. Mr. Hardy favored the system of police commissioners granting certain licenses, but said a check was necessary in some regard and would have to be made.

ASSEMBLY NOTES.

The Ministers and members nearly all wore a bunch of shamrock in honor of Ireland's patron saint yesterday.

Three Years in Bed.

From Kidney Disease—Although a Man of Three-Score and Ten, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills gave him back perfect health.

This is to certify that I was sick in bed the most of the time for three years with kidney disease. I took several boxes of pills—different kinds—and a great many other kinds of patent medicines; besides that I was under treatment by four different doctors during the time and not able to work. I began to take Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and since that time have been working every day, although a man nearly 70 years of age. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me.

JAMES SIMPSON,
Newcombe Mills, Ont.

If the Kidneys are not in a perfectly clean and healthy condition, the blood becomes impregnated with impurities, and a decay of the Kidneys soon takes place. Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Gravel, Stone in the Bladder, Inflammation of the Bladder, and a long list of Kidney diseases become seated, and sooner or later in so many instances end fatally. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure all Kidney troubles. Sold by all dealers, price 25 cents per box.

Dr. J. H. McCullough, Owen Sound, has been appointed a member of the Provincial Board of Health, the vacancy being caused by the death of Dr. Rae of the same town.

E. A. Macdonald's bill to determine how many passengers shall occupy a street car was rejected in the private bills committee yesterday.

The greatness of New Ontario was brought before the Government again yesterday afternoon by a big deputation, asking $3,000 a mile bonus for 20 miles of the Thunder Bay, Nepigon & St. Joe Railway. Premier Hardy said that due consideration would be given the views laid before the Government.

The whole question of granting bonuses was threshed out again in the private bills committee yesterday, but an application of Seaforth was passed, allowing the town to lend $10,000 to the Van Edmond woollen mills, $17,000 to the Bell Foundry and $90,000 to the Case Pork Packing establishment. The committee assented to Sarnia borrowing on new debentures such amounts as may be requisite to meet portions of the outstanding debenture debt of $253,000.

Six Doctors Have Quit.

St. Catharines, March 18.—The medical staff of the hospital, comprising Drs. Armour, Leitch, King, Merritt, Sheahan and Smith, have handed in their resignations to the board of trustees, and they have been accepted. Dr. Jory is temporarily in charge until the matter in dispute can be arranged, or a new staff procured. The trouble arose over the efforts of the medical gentlemen to have certain regulations made as to the interior management of the institution, which the board of trustees would not comply with.

Climax at Any Moment.

Washington, March 18.—Advices have been received from Manila which indicate that the climax may occur at any hour. The officials here are very well pleased with the condition of affairs, but will not at present discuss details of the despatches. The indications are that hostilities may end within a very short time. President McKinley has been advised.

To Squeeze Yankee Farmers.

Chicago, March 18.—As a consequence of the increase in the price of steel and the consolidation of large steel and iron industries, the plow manufacturers of the United States are forming a combination. A stock company, capitalized at $60,000,000 under the laws of New Jersey, will shortly be incorporated.

The Water Has Receded.

Brantford, March 18.—The water in the Grand River, which threatened a disastrous flood to the southern portion of the town, receded during the night, and yesterday the water was three feet lower. For the present all danger has passed.

You'd Never Die

If your heart never stopped beating. You would never be sick if your heart was always able to carry rich, healthy blood in sufficient quantity to every organ and tissue of your body.

When your heart, through weakness or the strain due to worry and overwork, is unable to supply the necessary amount of rich, healthy blood, every part of your body begins to show signs of weakness and disease.

STILL SHOWS INCREASE.

The Dominion Trade Returns for the Past Eight Months.

Ottawa, March 18.—The trade returns for the Dominion for the eight months ending February 28 last show an increase in the aggregate trade of the country of $11,641,441, as compared with the same period of last year. The aggregate trade of the current fiscal year is $215,070,642, as against $203,431,201 for 1897-98. The increase is made up entirely from imports, there being a decrease in the exports of $4,951,564 and an increase in the imports of $16,592,005. The duty increased by $2,277,013, or from $14,150,115 in 1897-98 to $16,427,128 in 1898-99.

A dinner was given by the Speaker of the House of Commons and Lady Edgar last night.

Halifax Theatre Burned.

Halifax, March 16.—The Lyceum Theatre building, originally known as the Halifax Temperance Hall, which for years was the principal theatre in this city, was completely destroyed by fire last night. It was built 60 years ago at a cost of $25,000 or $30,000, and was improved by the Young Men's Liberal Association, who have owned it for some years.

Killed by Lightning.

Thamesville, Ont., March 16.—During a thunderstorm, which passed over this place yesterday afternoon about 1.30, Simon Johnston, a farmer, living about three miles out, was struck and killed by lightning when crossing the field from one barn to another. His cap and left shoe were torn to pieces. The deceased leaves a widow and several children.

Jenner as an Eater.

The late Dr. Jenner, the famous English physician, was a great tea drinker and very abstemious, never taking any stimulant except a measured glass of brandy when he had indigestion. Once for that cause he lived on stewed chops and rice for luncheon and dinner, with tea, for a couple of years; but ordinarily he was a great feeder.

"I recollect," says his friend, Dr. Cooper Bentham, "on one occasion Reynolds came to see him. Jenner was at dinner. He had soup, fish, the greater part of a chicken, and he was in the middle of a huge rice pudding when Reynolds entered and asked him how he was. Jenner drew a pitiful sigh and replied, 'I am not at all well—no appetite.'"

Jenner was no smoker and had no hobby or recreative resource outside his profession of any kind. He invariably refused society invitations, and, says Dr Bentham, "his power of commanding sleep was marvelous."

MR. FRANK DODGE

Says His Life was Saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto Feb. 27.—Mr. Frank Dodge, of North Maupsberg, Ont., has been visiting here recently. He is a splendid specimen of Canadian manhood, standing more than six feet high "in his stockings" erect and muscular.

"I was a different man two years ago," said he to a friend to-day. The truth is I would have died of Kidney Complaint, if it hadn't been for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I had been treated by physicians and had taken various remedies without getting any better. I read of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and decided to try them. I did so, and was thoroughly cured in a couple of weeks.

DON'T WAIT TILL WARM WEATHER

For your cough to go. Have it cured now by Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Many people are waiting till the warm weather comes for their cough to go.

Perhaps it won't leave then—got too tight a grip on the system.

Better have it checked now by using a bottle or two of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which is a positive cure for the worst kinds of Coughs and Colds.

Miss Bertha Snider, Glenfield, Ont., writes: "For a long time I was not able to work on account of a cough and sore throat which weakened me frightfully. I got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and it did me so much good that I got another which completely cured me."

There are so many spurious "Pine" preparations on the market that it would be well to always ask for Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and refuse anything else. Price 50c. and 25c. at all dealers.

THREE ESSENTIALS.

Three things are urgently needed just now by Men, Young Men and Boys in order to appear properly dressed at this season of the year.

Thanks to Gough Bros. it is no longer an expensive matter to dress yourself or your boys in the present fashion.

The barriers between stylishness and expensiveness have been wholly burned away by the Wonderful Cheap Men's modern rules of merchandising.

The FIRST Essential is a New Spring Suit. For Men, we give you a thousand choice patterns to pick from, in Sacks or Cutaways, starting at $8.90. For Boys, a selection incomparable in make, finish and price, starting at $1.80 for a strong Navy Serge Suit.

The SECOND Essential is a New Spring Top Coat. There are men who would hardly believe that Spring Coats of so high a character could be found, ready made, at $5.50, $7, $9, and $10. But they are a remarkable dressy line—good in quality, well fitting and finished in a superior manner.

The THIRD Essential is a New Spring Hat. Our Hat story is short but important. It tells of the tremendous strides made in our Hat selling. The New Spring Styles in Stiffs and Softs are Wilkinson's and Wakefield's British makes. Men's Fedoras at 95c. and up. Men's Derbys in smartest shapes at $1.60. Colours black, brown, tan and gray. Golf and Varsity Caps and handsome shapes in Tweeds and Serges are again popular.

All Three Essentials at this Big Store, with Spring Boots and Shoes a good Fourth and New Spring Shirts and Neckwear good Fifths.

DIED IN GREAT AGONY.

The Youngest Daughter of Mr. John Drew Poisoned With Rough on Rats.

Friday morning, between 10 and 11 o'clock, Maude Drew, aged 16 months, youngest daughter of Mr. John Drew, 390 Sherbrooke street, met a sad death by eating "Rough on Rats."

It appears that the young child with her sister Mamie, had been playing upstairs in the home of Mrs. Octave Trombly, who lived next door, and during the morning Mamie had found a package of the Rough on Rats on a shelf, which Mrs. Philip Taylor had left with Mrs. Trombley the day previous, as she understood she was pestered with rats. Mamie Drew took the parcel upstairs, and here both children were playing with it.

Shortly afterwards Mrs. Drew, who was in the house at the time, heard a sound upstairs, as if some one was choking, and on going up was horrified to find her baby suffering in great agony. Mrs. Drew did everything in her power to relieve the little one, and Drs. Greer and Pigeon were called in, but the child continued to grow worse until death ended its sufferings at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The funeral will take place at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon to the Little Lake Cemetery.

THREE SMALL URCHINS.

Who Had Been on a Tour East—All Under 12 Years of Age.

As the afternoon west-bound C. P. R. express was nearing Peterborough yesterday the brakesman came through a tourist car carefully scanning the berths, which were fastened up to the top of the car, as is usual in the day time. Fixing his eyes on one he undid the fastening, and pulling it down yanked two small boys out. Another berth was examined and a third youth of tender years released.

None of the trio were over 12 years of age, but they were knowing for their years, and carried the dirt of many summers on their faces. They acknowledged having boarded the train near Havelock, and stated that they belonged to Toronto and had been on a tour east, how far they didn't mention. The discovery, they took as a matter of course, and nonchalantly seated themselves in the car freely answering the questions with which the passengers plied them. As the train stopped at the depot they made a dash out the door and disappeared in a twinkling.

PERSONAL

Mr. Geo. Gumpricht has returned from Lindsay.

Mrs. H. V. Oke has gone to Toronto to visit her sisters.

Mr. Ernie Goldsmith is spending a few days in town.

Mr. D. H. Moore was in Lindsay yesterday on Crown Lands business.

Miss Tucker of Reid street, who has been ill for some time, is convalescing.

Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell, of Holy Trinity church choir, Toronto, will sing at Evensong in All Saints to-morrow.

Mr. Robt. Kerr has been in Toronto for the last few days completing the spring purchasing for the firm of Richard Hall & Son.

Rev. Mr. Cowsert, who has been conducting evangelistic services in the Park street Baptist church, returned to Belleville this morning.

Rev. Prof. Wolverton, son-in-law of Mr. Geo. Matthews, passed through on Thursday on his return to Ottawa from Winnipeg.

His Worship Mayor Davis left this afternoon for New York, where he will join Mrs. Davis on a trip to Atlantic City. He will be absent about two weeks.

Mr. Lem. Falcher returned yesterday after an absence of several months in New York. He made great efforts to arrange a match for the hockey boys in New York, but the Montreal Victorias had the call through being there before.

Mr. McHarrie, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, returned to Peterborough yesterday from Toronto, where he has been for the past fortnight receiving medical treatment. He is, it is a pleasure to say, greatly improved in health.

The many friends of Mrs. Geo. A. Cox will be pleased to learn that her condition is considerably improved to-day. Mrs. Cox left Toronto about three weeks ago, with her daughter and daughters-in-law, for a short stay in Atlantic City. While in New York she took seriously ill. Senator Cox has been with her constantly for the past fortnight. A despatch to-day says she is much improved and her convalescence assured.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY ENTERTAINMENT.

A GREAT SUCCESS IN EVERY WAY.

A Very Large Attendance—An Excellent Bill of Fare Presented in a Very Commendable Manner—A Varied and Delightful Entertainment.

The members of the Catholic Literary Association is an energetic and ambitious organization, and their ambition to present a St. Patrick's day entertainment worthy of the day and of the immense audience that assembled in the opera house last night, was thoroughly realized. Seldom indeed has a larger audience filled the opera house—it could hardly do so without the enlargement of the building. All classes of the public were represented and the patronage of the clergy was also extended. The Cathedral clergy were present, and in addition Rev. Father Phelan, of Lindsay, and Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Young's Point.

The entertainment consisted primarily of the presentation of a comedy drama—"Daddy's Darling"—in four acts, containing fourteen characters, and the manner in which so large an undertaking was successfully carried out, and the great labour involved in securing this result, is a tribute both to the histrionic skill and the zeal of the members in advancing the interests of the association and worthily honouring the natal day of Ireland's patron saint. For an amateur performance the play was excellently put on. All the characters in the rather complex caste performed their parts satisfactorily. There were no dreary waits. The entertainment was continuous bright and charming specialities being introduced between the acts. The play was excellently staged, and Miss Lillie Simons, the star and heroine of the play, is entitled to great credit for the smooth manner in which the play was put on. The piece was brightened with the songs, most of them of a patriotic character, assigned to the performers. These were contributed by "Capt. Joe Ruggles" (Mr. Tom Begley, who, by the way, played his part well, and everybody felt that to kill him in the first act was to deprive the caste of one of its most effective members), contributed an excellent song in which he was assisted by Miss Lillie Simons as Bessie Ruggles "Daddy's Darling." Here it may be remarked that she appeared to great advantage in the title role. Miss Annie Simons as Jane Ruggles sang two songs and Miss Lila Bell as "Lucy," a song and Mr. Dick Simons as "Barney McCoy," gave a rattling song and dance. The concluding chorus, the solo by Miss Annie Simons, was a bright and happy arrangement of "Cruiskeen Lawn," and was given with great spirit and brought a most entertaining and well presented play to a happy close.

Space will not permit a detailed reference to the individual performers, but it is just to say that while, of course, some got through their work better than others, all deserve credit for their proficiency, and especially their independence of the prompt-book. And their loyalty to the Association is further shown by the fact that the excellent and, in some cases splendid costumes worn were provided by the performers themselves. The following is the

As mentioned, the entr'acte contributions were excellent, and in fact were worthy to be considered a good entertainment in themselves. Between the first and second acts, Miss Lottie Bell, a clever young violinist, performed in capital style one of Weinawski's charming little mazourkas. This was given with a sweetness, taste and purity of tone quite artistic in their character. In reply to a hearty encore, a performance of St. Patrick's Hymn was played in large style, and in a most expressive manner.

Miss Jennie Riley followed with the sweet singing of Scanlon's "Over the Mountain," and for an encore the ballad, "Mother of the Girl I Love."

Between the second and third acts a very pleasing presentation of a quartette, "We'll have to Mortgage the Farm," cleverly arranged by Miss McCabe, was well presented by Miss Nettie Lewis, Misses Florence and Lavina Hallihan and Mr. Frank Dwyer, assisted by a concealed chorus, very effectively introduced.

Before the curtain went up and also between the third and fourth acts the orchestra played a collection of Irish airs splendidly. Miss Lottie Bell contributed the violin parts with great spirit, and Mr. F. W. Miller's cornet contributions were played with fine tone and expression. Little Carrie White won roof raising applause for her splendid recitations, one of them introducing a pretty song which she sang as well as she recited. It must not be omitted to mention that she took her part in the play as well as the best of them. Mr. Eddie Graham give a finely performed dance, and his character dance with piquante little Nellie Graham his sister, quite carried the house away. The little girl's skirt dance was splendidly given with all the airs and graces of a professional.

Miss McCabe deserves especial praise for the excellent musical introductions that so charmingly brightened the play. Her accompaniments were also excellently given.

Altogether the C. L. A. has every reason to be proud of the excellent entertainment, which as an amateur entertainment in its variety and smooth production, has not been surpassed in Peterborough.

The thanks of the Association are due to Messrs. Edward Lynch and Frank McPherson, who kindly volunteered to act as ushers, which they did very effectively.

Stylish Note Paper.

We would like to show you some of our new things in fashionable note papers, just opened out to-day at the Peterborough Bookstore. The new "EMPRESS" note paper and envelopes to match, is a very dainty kiss of paper and folds once into the new shaped "Empress" envelopes. The latest colours are Rose, Azure and Syrian in French crepon effects. Also Kid Surface and Pure Ivory Whites, and the price for quality is a marvel of cheapness.

Wheels for Baby.

It's pretty sure to be fine and clear weather by and by, and then some mothers are going to want Baby Carriages.

As usual, the biggest stock of Baby Carriages is at the Peterborough Bookstore.

It occupies a large part of our second floor salesroom and it offers more opportunities for a satisfactory choice and greater values than any Baby Carriage stock we ever owned.

There isn't a single "left-over" Carriage in the lot and whether you pay $7.50, $10 or $13 you're bound to get full money's worth. Take our—

$10 CARRIAGE

As an example of the values we offer; varnished reed body, upholstered in pretty and substantial Damasks, good serviceable silk finished parasol with ruffled edge, patent gears, tinned steel wheels, and a patent brake which holds the wheels securely when you wish to stop.

Grand Easter Concert.

The entertainment of the Easter season will be the sacred concert to be held in the George street church on Tuesday evening, April 4th. Choruses will be rendered by forty to fifty voices, with orchestra and piano accompaniment. The programme will be supported by the following foreign talent: Mr. Grenville Kleiser, reader and impersonator, Toronto; Mrs. Chambers, soprano, Montreal; Mr. Bruce Bradley, tenor, Toronto. 1d

Joseph Forster's Sale.

At Mr. Forster's auction sale on Thursday almost every "knock down" showed that all animals brought an increased price, and without doubt farmers' stock is advancing rapidly up to former high prices. Good average cows brought $35 to $40; sheep, $7 to $9; working horses and drivers $60 to $90. A general purpose brood mare, in foal to Levi Bowles' imported stallion Erskine McGregor, brought $127, and her last year's foal, by the same sire, $51. This is what Mr. John Haggart, the auctioneer, calls "cracking good prices." Mr. W. J. Green was secretary of the sale.

FIGHT TO A FINISH.

The Last Round Took Place Before the Magistrate this Morning.

A fierce fight took place a day or so ago in the rear of the C. P. R. Hotel, and as a result Albert Crouter and Arthur Blodgett were summoned before the Police Magistrate this morning, on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Both combatants bore marks of the fray, but though Blodgett evidently got the worst of it at the start he proved a winner in the end, as he was discharged, whilst Crouter will have to meet a five dollar fine or go up on the hill for ten days.

Blodgett's story is to the effect, that as he was leaving the hotel by the rear door, Crouter suddenly dealt him a terrific blow in the face, stating that this was the man who had insulted his wife. This started the ruction, and it was lively until the two were separated. Blodgett's witnesses told a straight story confirming his evidence.

Crouter's tale of woe was hazy. He said the row started outside, whilst the witnesses claimed that it began in the bar. Crouter was sure he had been struck by a club, but no one else saw such a weapon. His wife, whom he claimed had been insulted, has been dead over ten years.

A Lively Run on Fresh Trout for This Week.

THE NEW COVERT TOP COAT.

For Spring Wear has got the call again this season. It is a modified type of the real Covert Coat, which is short and boxy. The leading features is that it is not so short as the real Covert, and is much less boxy. In length it ranges from 34 to 35 inches for a man of average height. It must look broad, with well-rounded shoulders, a bottom fullness, the greater part of which will be placed at the sides. Well vented side-seams, collar of the material, shorter than the Chesterfield but broader and squarer in effect.

The material will be Covert coatings in neat drab shades, Venetians and Rainproof Cloth of pleasing mixtures.

A range of new patterns in Soverign Trousers ($5.00) to select from.

OUR COLUMN OF SPORTS.

SOME TIMELY REMARKS ON SEASONABLE GAMES.

What is Going on in Local and Outside Hockey Arenas—Notes From the Curling Ice.

HOCKEY.

A fast team of Colts came over from Lindsay last evening to play a game with a mixed team of the Peterboroughs. The match proved most interesting, some very fast hockey being seen, King, Whitcroft and Glover showing to better advantage than at any time this season.

The visitors had a fast forward line which played a good combination game, but did not appear to be able to shoot with sufficient accuracy to score. This deficiency in this respect was to a degree caused by Glover's fine work at coverpoint, few better exhibitions being seen at that position on the ice this year. A coverpoint's business is to break up a combination and one of the most effectual modes of doing this is to stop one of the factors in it. Glover did this and as there are seldom more than two or three men handling the puck in these rushes, Crossley and Comstock were able to look after the others without having too many to cope with. Crossley made some great reliefs and Comstock cleared well. The manner in which Dick Watt "followed back" is worthy of special mention. His interference play was capitally done, and he made several sensational rushes during the evening. King and Whitecroft figured in all the combination work and some very pretty play was seen when they took the puck.

The score at half-time was 6—1 in favour of Peterborough, the final tally being 10—2.

King scored 5 of the goals, Whitecroft 3 and Morgan and Watt, one each.

The teams were composed as follows:

Lindsay.		Peterborough.
Burke	goal	J Comstock
Knight	point	W Crossley
Gladman	cover point	R Glover
Parkin	forwards	H King
Taylor		R Watt
Johnston		W Whitcroft
Shannon		H Morgan

Mr. Ernie Wasson's refereeing proved highly satisfactory to both teams.

CURLING.

Skip Beauchamp Boucher was defeated by Skip Whiten last night by the score of 19-6

A close game for the oysters was played between Skips Bellegheim and Knapman. The rinks were composed as follows:—

W. J. McCallum	A. McNeil
T. Ferguson	S. Ray
J. Connal	T. Rutherford
J. S. Knapman,...skip 16	D. Bellegheim skip 11

The two Colt rinks which won the Midland Curling Colts' Association Tankard, wish to challenge any two rinks in either the Thistles or Granites, or will play a rink selected from each.

Another bonspeil is to be held on Monday evening at the rink.

THE KENNEL.

Mr. Robt Kerr has entered his fox terrier bitch "You Know" for the Toronto Fox Terrier Club Show at the end of the month. It is a pity that Mr. LeBrun, Dr. King and Mr. Stockdale did not also see fit to make entries at Toronto.

FIGURE SKATING.

The Quebec Telegraph of March 10th, makes the following reference to a well-known Peterborough boy:—"Mr. E. J. Hartley, of Peterborough, Ont, was one of the skaters at the Q.A.A.A. Rink last evening—that is to say when he began to skate he was. Before long, however, he was the only one, and the others were spectators, for Mr. Hartley is a figure skater of the first order, and gave a wonderful exhibition. He has all the usual figures down pat, and a good many specialities. One of these, strange as it may appear, is caricaturing on skates. In other words cutting out on ice the faces of prominent public men and others. The charm of Mr. Hartley's skating consists as much in the execution as in the variety of his figures."

MARCH APRIL MAY.

These Are the Months in which to Purify Your Blood.

This is the season when your blood is loaded with impurities, accumulated during the winter months from close confinement, rich food, and other causes. These impurities must be driven from your system or they may breed serious disease and cause untold suffering. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest and best blood purifying medicine it is possible to obtain. It is what the millions take in the spring. It will purify and enrich your blood, create an appetite tone up your system, and give you sound, robust health.

The Y. M. C. A. Debate.

The heading to the report of the debate of the Y. M. C. A. Debating Club in yesterday's EXAMINER, is perhaps misleading. The decision arrived at was not that of the Y.M.C.A. itself, but of a committee of the club. Of course such a debate has no political significance, as the club has no partisan composition, the president, Mr. W. H. Hill, and the vice-president, Mr. F. Ray, both being Conservatives, and the members are divided in the usual proportions on political lines. Such societies we know debate every conceivable subject, and their utterances on political matters are to be regarded as purely academic, and not as expressing even the personal opinions of the debaters, who speak on the side on which they are chosen, irrespective of their personal convictions.

Makes Weak Women Strong, And Sick Women Well.

It is made from a formula of Dr. R. V. Pierce, the celebrated specialist in diseases of women at Buffalo, N. Y. It is a strictly temperance medicine, containing neither alcohol, opium or other narcotic poison. Its protracted use does not create a craving for intoxicating stimulants or deadly narcotics. It cures irregularities, displacements, drains, ulcerations, inflammation, headache, backache and nervousness. It prepares the way for almost painless maternity, and insures robustness to the newborn. It cures women at home, and does away with obnoxious questioning and local examinations.

Some medicine dealers offer substitutes when you ask for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. They imitate this medicine in appearance as nearly as the law will allow, but they cannot imitate its record of thirty years of cures.

Mrs. Mattie Venghaus, of Tioga, Hancock Co., Ill., writes: "I had been sick for seven years, not in bed, but just dragging myself around. At last I took three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and five of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and it is impossible to describe in words the good these medicines did me."

Neither the "Discovery" nor the "Favorite Prescription" contains any alcohol, opium or other narcotic.

SOUND WAVES.

Some That You Can Only Feel and Cannot Hear.

The deepest note which can actually be heard by human ears is produced by an organ pipe 32 feet long. If you throw a stone into a pool, you will see a number of ripples spreading after the splash in circles. If you blow a whistle or beat a drum, you make a splash of the same kind in the air, and the ripples spread out all round. When they break against the drum of the human ear, the brain is conscious of a sound. If the little waves or ripples in the air are quite regular in the proportion of 8, 16, 32 ripples per second, the results are perfect musical notes.

Now, the 32 foot organ pipe produces exactly 16 waves or vibrations every second. When the dead march in "Saul" is played, for instance, on the great organ of St. Paul's cathedral, that note may be distinctly heard, like the boom of artillery, shaking the whole building to its foundations.

But deeper notes than that can be felt, though they make no sound. In the thunder of Niagara—a cataract which is roughly 167 feet high—a note is produced exactly the same as that from a 160 foot organ pipe. Listening intently, you can feel the shocks and actually count them as they beat upon the eardrum at the rate of eight vibrations a second.

Yet even that is not the deepest note, for when the volcano of Krakatoa blew up in Sunda strait every observatory in the world very shortly recorded the explosion. The delicate meteorological instruments actually recorded a note of four vibrations a second, which could not possibly have been heard by mortal ears.—London Answers.

A TRUE STATEMENT

By Foreman White, of the Hamilton Screw Works.

Hamilton, March 6.—If a vote of the people were to be taken to ascertain which is the most popular medicine on the market, Dodd's Kidney Pills would lead by a large majority.

One of the latest cures by that grand remedy is that of Foreman T. H. White, of the Screw Works here, who testifies that he was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills of Kidney Disease of eight years' standing, after other medicines had failed.

Mr. White says: "One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me, four boxes cured me. Publish this statement if you wish. It is true in every particular."

Death Signs in Holland.

The outward signs on the houses where some one has died in north Holland are original in the extreme. When the dead person was a Protestant, a long black mantle, such as the undertaker wears when he goes to the grave, is hung in the middle of the front door. In the case of a Roman Catholic a tall black cross is placed on the doorstep.

Very Considerate.

Housekeeper—I ordered a dozen oranges today, Mr. Titefyst, and you only sent me 11. How was that?

Grocer—Well, ma'am, one of them was bad, and I didn't think you'd want it.—Philadelphia Catholic Standard.

ARMY POKER SHARPS

A QUIET GAME WITH A SMOOTH GET EVEN ATTACHMENT.

The Easy Way In Which Two of Uncle Sam's Regulars Cleaned Out a Couple of Overconfident Professional Card Swindlers.

The man from Tampa, in company with a party of New Yorkers, was enjoying his after dinner cigar in an up town cafe. His chair was tilted back on its rear legs, and a diamond as big as a Springfield bullet blazed in his ruffled shirt front.

"Speaking of pokah, sahs," said the Tampa man as one of the party concluded a story of that game, "permit me to observe that some of the most remarkable pokah playahs in the country are to be found among Uncle Sam's private soldiers; yes, gentlemen, among the enlisted men of the regulahs."

The listeners showed signs of incredulity, and one of them exclaimed derisively: "Thirteen pat!"

"But, sahs," continued the Tampa man, "considah that there are 1,000 men in a regiment and that 1,000 times $13 is $13,000. I reckon, sahs, that there's a lively game in that sum when the most of it gets sifted into a few hands. And remembah, gentlemen, that the en!' 'ed man of the regulahs is the most care free of men. The nickels with which he antes in a small pokah game are nothing moah to him than so many beeah checks. It is the same with his dollahs in a biggah game. The necessaries of life he can lose only by bad conduct. He can gamble away only his luxuries. That makes him the most dashing of gamblahs, while constant practice makes him a most powahful playah; yes, sah, and a most skillful and dangerous dealah.

"At Tampa heights there was a bahn-like building that the regulahs called Noah's ark. They called it that because it contained all the animals, including the tigah. If there exists a game that was not on tap at Noah's ark, I do not recall its name. The proprietah of the ark did not run the games. He simply ran the bah and rented the tables and layouts to the soldiers. In that way he was able to juggle with onah local laws foh many weeks. A private who had won a couple of hundreds at pokah could rent a faro layout and open a snap foh his less affluent comrades to buck. In addition to the banking games there were many games of draw pokah. The place was packed to the doahs, and money was plentiful. It did not take long foh ouah southern professionals to realize the possibilities of Noah's ark.

"One evening I happened in and noticed the operations of a couple of that gentry whom I knew by sight and reputation. Their names were Jackson and England, and they were most expert and dishonest gamblahs. Aftah that I used to drop in every evening and watch their progress. They played only draw pokah and were winning steadily from the soldiers. There were always a numbah of uniformed onlookahs about their table, and I could see that every play of the professionals was closely scrutinized and studied. But no one evah interfered.

"Well, sahs, one evening I found the patrons of the ark in a remarkably quiet mood. The drinkahs at the bah were not, as usual, boisterous. The playahs at othah ables cast furtive and expectant glances ovah their shoulders towahd the table where the gamblahs were engaged with twp soldiers. The crowd of bluecoats around that table was even largah than usual. I felt that a denouement was at hand and edged up close to the game. One of the soldiers was strictly sobah and the othah was apparently drunk. It was the drunken soldier's deal. He shuffled the cards clumsily, passed them to the soldier on his right foh the cut and dealt them about as skillfully as a niggah boy playing old sledge on a bale of cotton. Then he howled foh a drink befoh the game proceeded. Meanwhile the gamblah, England, who sat opposite the drunken soldier, picked up his hand and found foah kings pat. He slyly gave his partnah, Jackson, a glimpse of it. Jackson and the sobah soldier held worthless hands.

"The drunken soldier turned from the table to take his drink, and at the same moment his sobah comrade also turned and asked an onlooker back of him foh a light foh his cigah. In that instant Jackson deftly turned ovah the drunken soldier's hand and showed it to England. It was a pat ace full on queens. At this act of treachery I looked in suhprise at the uniformed onlookahs, but their faces were as impassive and indifferent as if they were Chinamen. I was indignant, sahs, and came very neah interfering mahself.

"Having finished his drink, the drunken soldier turned back to the game. Jackson, on his left, came in with his ante. England, with foah kings pat, raised it $20. The sobah soldier threw his hand in the discahd. The drunken soldier just called, but the two gamblahs continued raising his calls until every dollah on the table was in the pot, for the drunken soldier borrowed and bet all his comrade's money. It looked like a plain case of two men cross lifting a third out of all his money on a shuah thing.

"When all the money was up, the drunken soldier dealt the draw. Jackson drew three cahds. England, with foah kings pat, drew none. When it came to the drunken soldier, instead of stapding pat on his ace full, he tossed the two queens in the discahd and took two cahds. Then said Jackson:

"'I call table stakes.'

"England smiled confidently ovah his foah kings and said:

"'I regret exceedingly that, having no moah money, I must do likewise.'

"The drunken soldier, suddenly becoming sobah, remarked with Indian brevity, 'Same heah!' Then he turned ovah foah aces and raked in the pot. Stuffing the big wads of bills in his pockets, he got up from the table, stretched, yawned and said sleepily, 'It's neah taps!' Then he sauntered outt of the ark, and the sobah soldier went with him. As I walked towahd the doah one of the soldier playahs at a stud game looked up at a passing soldier who had been one of the onlookahs and asked, 'Is it off?' The ansah was a silent nod. Now, sahs, will you please infohm me whethah that was a drunken soldier's luck or a case of the bitahs bit?"—New York Sun.

OUTWITTING A COBRA.

Saucer of Milk Plays a Part In a Threatened Tragedy.

Dinner was just finished, and several English officers were sitting around the table. The conversation had not been animated, and there came a lull, as the night was too hot for small talk. The major of the regiment, a clean cut man of 55, turned toward his next neighbor at the table, a young subaltern, who was leaning back in his chair, with his hands clasped behind his head, staring through the cigar smoke at the ceiling.

The major was slowly looking the man over, from his handsome face down, when with a sudden alertness and in a quiet, steady voice, he said: "Don't move, please, Mr. Carruthers. I want to try an experiment with you. Don't move a muscle.' "All right, major," replied the subaltern, without even turning his eyes. "Hadn't the least idea of moving, I assure you! What's the game?" By this time all the others were listening in a lazily expectant way.

"Do you think," continued the major—and his voice trembled just a little—"that you can keep absolutely still for, say, two minutes—to save your life?" "Are you joking?" "On the contrary, move a muscle, and you are a dead man. Can you stand the strain?" The subaltern barely whispered. "Yes," and his face paled slightly. "Burke," said the major, addressing an officer across the table, "pour some of that milk into a saucer and set it on the floor here just at the back of me. Gently, man! Quiet!"

Not a word was spoken as the officer quietly filled the saucer, walked with it carefully around the table and set it down where the major had indicated on the floor. Like a marble statue sat the young subaltern in his white linen clothes, while a cobra di capello, which had been crawling up the leg of his trousers, slowly raised its head, then turned, descended to the floor and glided toward the milk. Suddenly the silence was broken by the report of the major's revolver, and the snake lay dead on the floor. "Thank you, major," said the subaltern as the two men shook hands warmly. "You have saved my life!" "You're welcome, my boy," replied the senior, "but you did your share."—Scottish American.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption, and that no medicine could cure her. Her Druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six now bottles, found herself sound and well and does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Sold by all Druggists, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

Gunners' Patron Saint.

Why was St. Barbara chosen to be the patron saintess of all gunners? It is one of those things which are to be known and which one ought to know, but does not. Meanwhile there is the fact that she does intercede for all gunners by land or sea. In the old French navy the Ste. Barbe was the gunroom, and the name may be found with that meaning attached to it in all dictionaries. Moreover, in France she is the saint not only of gunners, but of all fire brigades. The sapeurs pompiers, who, for some mysterious reason, are a regular chopping block for jokes, hold their holiday on the day of her feast.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The best medicine money can buy for impure blood, nervousness, and all stomach and kidney troubles is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Chinese Boatwomen.

The boatwomen of China have no need to agitate for women's rights—they possess them. The boatwoman, whether she be a single woman or a wife or a widow, is the head of the house—that is to say, of the boat. If she is married, the husband takes the useful but subordinate place of deckhand or bow oarsman. She does the steering, makes bargains with the passengers, collects the money, buys supplies, and in general lords it over everything.—Keystone.

Dr. A. W. CHASE

COMES TO THE AID OF

Catarrh Sufferers

SUCCESS in life is almost impossible for a man with bad breath. Nobody wants to do business with him. Nobody wants to associate with him. He is handicapped everywhere. Offensive breath comes from Catarrh; sometimes from Catarrh of the Stomach, sometimes of the lungs, sometimes of the head, nose, and throat. It is from Catarrh somewhere, and Catarrh is another name for uncleanness.

Many men understand this, and make every effort to cure it, but it is beyond the reach of ordinary practice.

No self-respecting man can ignore Catarrh. If he has it in any form he makes constant effort to be rid of it.

There is something about the manner of life and the climate of Canada that seems to breed diseases of the mucous membrane. Medical science ordinarily doesn't try to cure Catarrh; it "relieves" it; but Dr. Chase has been curing Catarrh for over thirty years, and his name is blessed by thousands who have shaken off the grasp of this insidious disease.

A Speech That Paid.

"Daniel Webster once got a check for $5,000 that he was in nowise looking for," remarked ex-Mayor Berrett of Washington at the Arlington.

"Webster was in the United States senate at the time and had delivered his masterly speech on the compromise measures, in which he sought to reconcile the differences between the sections. Its broad patriotism appealed to Mr. W. W. Corcoran so strongly that he sent the senator the sum mentioned the very next day in a letter expressive of his admiration for the man and the speech. Years afterward I saw the original of the reply sent by Mr. Webster acknowledging the receipt of Mr. Corcoran's letter."

THE FICKLE SEA.

Who has heard the cod line singing o'er the bow?
Who has hauled the flashing prey across the wale?
Who has felt the wet brine stinging on the brow
When the boat is all a-stagger 'neath the gale?
Who has laid him in the sagging of the sail
While the masthead's nodding sleepy to the moon,
And has slumbered till the stars grow dim and pale?
Fill your bumpers! Join the chorus of my croon!

Oh, the fickle, fuming, frolic fretting sea!
Oh, the limpid, lapping, laughter loving sea.
We who love her fill our glasses
To the best of all the lasses,
And we drink a briny bumper to the sea.

Who has lain upon the sloping deck awash?
Who has hauled and clewed and chanted in the wind?
Who has watched the mainmast bending nigh a-crash,
While the rival boat's a-dropping off behind?
Who has leaned against the creaking, jolting wheel
Through a moonlit summer night on southern sea?
Who has felt the old sea longing that I feel?
Fill your bumpers, men, and shout aloud with me!

Oh, the singing, sighing, salty scented sea!
Oh, the rushing, roaring, ramping, raging sea
On your feet and clash your glasses,
"To the best beloved of lasses—
Here's a brimming, briny bumper to the sea!"
—Richard Stillman Powell in Criterion.

THE WILY SEA OTTER

ITS PELT IS HIGHLY PRIZED AND HARD TO OBTAIN.

The Animal Is All Eyes, Ears and Nose When Alive and All Fur When Dead—Its Capture Is Attended With Great Dangers and Hardships.

Fifty pounds sterling, or $250, per skin is not an unusually high average price to pay for the fur of the sea otter, and at fur sales in London a much higher price has often been asked and received. Much, of course, in the matter of price depends upon the condition and size of the skin. The animal when it is alive and wearing the fur itself is from three to five feet in length from nose to tail tip, though the skin lying upon it in loose folds, the actual "pelt," is of fair size.

Ever since Bering, sailing from Russia, discovered Alaska and found its natives clad in otter skin this fur has been the prime object of the pelt hunters' desire. Sable, marten, mink and even ermine can be trapped or shot without extraordinary trouble. Seals are driven inland like fools to be slaughtered and skinned at their captors' leisure. But the sea otter must be sought diligently as the diamond, for three centuries of experience have made him wise.

Upon the map of North America may be seen jutting from the southern corner of Alaska, which is the northwest corner of the continent, Aliaska, a peninsula, which breaks off into a chain of islands called the Aleutians. Just where the peninsula ends and the islands begin a point may be noticed marked Belkovsky.

This is the headquarters of the sea otter hunters, and between here and Chernaboor island to the south and Saanak island to the southwest the bulk of the sea otters are taken.

Thoroughly impressed with the value of his own skin, the sea otter takes care of it by living far away from the mainland, sleeping with one eye open, upon the floating weed beds or a sea washed reef exposed to the full fury of the north Pacific.

At the slightest sign of the approach of man he dives deep, and stays below for 20 minutes at a time.

Sometimes a stray otter may be shot from the land as he plays in the surf, but the chief methods of his capture are "the surround" and clubbing. In the former case a party of Aleutian islanders are conveyed to Saanak, there to encamp for two or three months.

Woe to the hunters if the wind be off the shore, for then no fire may be lit to make the beloved tea, no pipe of tobacco smoked, or the hope of a capture would be vain. For the otter is all eyes and ears and nose when alive; all fur when dead.

Upon a calm day the hunters paddle gently over the sea in their skin canoes, keeping an eager eye upon the rolling surf for a sign of the prey. A hunter sees an otter and makes a quiet signal to his mates. Like a flash the quarry has dived. Raising his oar aloft, the man who found the otter remains as a buoy above the place of the animal's disappearance, while his mates form in a huge circle with him in the center.

In 20 minutes, at most, the otter comes up again in sight of some of the canoe men. A frightful yell drives the poor brute below again before he has had time to fill his lungs. Shortly he is again seen, and the process repeated, till at length his body is so gas inflated that he cannot sink and falls a prey to the lucky hunter whose spear first pierces that too rich coat of his.

Luck varies, and the sea otter is yearly rarer and more shy, but, if fortunate, each hunter may have from two to five skins for the traders as the result of his three months' catch.

To be a successful hunter requires a Spartan scorn of comfort, huge patience, keenness of vision and readiness of resource, as well as great dexterity in the handling of a risky craft and an intimate knowledge of your quarry's habits which it requires a lifetime of observation under trying conditions to gain.

"The surround," then, is no joke, but clubbing next door to suicide. The hunters encamped upon Saanak have been for a day or two prevented by a howling gale from doing anything save sleep or smoke. One or two of the men, knowing, seemingly by instinct, that the gale has almost blown itself out, prepare for a clubbing expedition.

Should they in the dark and turmoil miss the islands some score of miles away they are carried out into the ocean and certain death. If, on the other hand, they make their haven, they land and creep, club in hand, over the rocky coast to the ocean swelled reef where the otters sleep.

The roar of the gale drowns the sound of their approach, and the poor otter is a mere "pelt" before he knows of his danger. Scores of otters have been killed in one night by a clubman or two. But otter clubbing is not a means of livelihood likely to become generally popular. —Chambers' Journal.

Baby Eczema and Scald Head.

Infants and young children are peculiarly subject to this disorder, and if not promptly arrested it will eventually become chronic. Dr. Chase made a special study of eczema and disease of the skin and we can confidently recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to cure all forms of eczema. The first application soothes the irritation and puts the little sufferer to rest.

Children Cry for CASTORIA.

THE "GREEN RAY."

To Be Seen Frequently at the Delta of the Nile.

The "green ray," an optical phenomenon which has been made the foundation of a story by Jules Verne, is a flash of greenish light seen as the limb of the sun rises or sets under certain conditions of the atmosphere. The sea horizon is good for observing it, but the effect is occasionally seen in the Alps or other mountains, and, according to Piot Bey in a paper to the Academie des Sciences, Paris, it is often to be observed in Egypt from the point of the delta to Alexandria or Suez, either at rise or set of sun.

The ray is distinctly visible, and always of an emerald green, which is brighter as a rule at sunrise than sunset. At sunset, when the eye can follow the effect better, the ray sometimes appears longer and ultimately takes a blue tinge. This blue ray has also been observed preceding the "green ray" at sunrise, for example, by Mr. William Gaff, near the ruins of Memphis, not far from the stepped pyramid of Saggarah. He even thinks the ancient Egyptians were familiar with it, because in monuments of the fifth dynasty and others the sign of "Kha," representing the rising sun, has the outer streak of a blue color and the two inner streaks are green. Their writings also speak of the greenness of the sun on rising, and they liken it to an emerald.

It is evident from all this that the "green ray" is an objective, not a subjective, phenomenon, and that the horizon of the sea has nothing to do with it. Nevertheless, the state of the atmosphere evidently has to do with it, and that of Egypt, ordinarily pure, seems to have much, for the ray is seldom seen elsewhere on land.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease, is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells of how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

The Wrong House.

A weather beaten member of the tired fraternity, who had lost a leg and had it replaced by a wooden substitute, stumped his way up the main street of a Lanarkshire village the other day and paused at the door of the first likely looking dwelling. Knocking at the door, which was opened by a brisk, businesslike housewife, the man began his stereotyped whine:

"If ye please, mum, I lost my leg"—

And before he could unfold another word of his tale the sharp retort came

"Aweel, ye didna lose it here!"

And bang went the door in his face. —Liverpool Mercury.

Fooled by a Gas Machine.

A Brooklyn woman, whose gas bills were almost beyond computation and certainly beyond her purse, had one of the quarter in the slot machines put in her flat and anticipated great pleasure in keeping tab on her gas expenditure. These machines, by the way, are fed a quarter, and when the quarter's worth of gas is burned they shut off automatically.

Toward evening of the day in which the machine was installed she wended her way to the slot and deposited her money, but when an attempt was made to light the gas the machine would not register, and the evening light was shed out of lamps and candles. A wrathy note brought the company inspector to the scene the next morning, and he thoroughly vindicated the reputation of the contrivance when he unlocked it and drew from the inside three nickels and a dime.—New York Mail.

REV. WILLIAM STOUT'S STATEMENT

Proves conclusively that Burdock Blood Bitters permanently cures Scrofula.

The Reverend gentleman a sufferer for 23 years—tried the most skilled physicians in Ontario, who failed to do him good—B.B.B. cured him 17 years ago, and to this day there has been no sign of the disease returning.

When Rev. Wm. Stout's statement of his wonderful cure of Scrofula by Burdock Blood Bitters was given to the public some fifteen years ago, the case was so remarkable, as it had defied the skill of leading physicians and surgeons in Canada, that many were inclined to believe that the disease would surely come back on him again.

To this day, though, the reverend gentleman, who is now stationed at Kirkton, Ont., has never had a sign or symptom of this terrible affliction returning, which is another strong and convincing proof, added to the long list we have already published, that when B.B.B. cures you you're cured to stay cured.

The following is the statement Rev. Wm. Stout made of his case in 1883.

In the autumn of the year 1859 an indolent, painless swelling was observed by my friends to be rapidly growing on the left side of my neck. Iodine was freely applied during the following winter, but swelling continued to enlarge, until it reached the size of a large apple.

In the spring of 1861 I applied to Dr. Symmes, of Meaford (now dead), who blistered it and punctured it but pronounced it devoid of pus; but upon a deep incision being made over half a pint of genuine pus was discharged. Immediately it healed, and began slowly to grow again; and in the spring of 1863 I had it operated on by Dr. Chas. E. Barnhardt, of Owen Sound, after which a terrible inflammation having set in, I went to the hospital at Toronto, and was about a month under the care of that eminent surgeon, Dr. Aikens. He treated the swelling by free incisions, and by setons which were continued for six months with no real benefit. In December of that year I was again under the care of Drs. Barnhardt and Allen Cameron for three months. It continued emptying and filling until March of 1864, when, it being closed over, I attended the Grammar School at Kincardine, but in June had it operated on by Drs. Moore and Martin, then practising in that town. I had it opened that fall several times, and had it filled with the tincture of iodine for the purpose of destroying the sac. I began teaching in school section No. 1, Kincardine, in Feb., 1865. In about three weeks it violently attacked me again, and I was advised to go to Dr. P. R. Shover, of Stratford who, with Dr. Hyde, opened the abscess and applied iodine freely into the inner walls of the cavity, which destroyed the rotundity of the sac, but produced no other benefit. In June, 1867, it inflamed again most violently, and I was under the care of Dr. S. Secord, of Kincardine, for six months. From that time until 1873 it was an open unsightly sore. I removed to Virgil, township of Niagara, and taught during 1872, trying to labor, though under intense suffering. At Niagara I was so completely worn down that I consulted Dr. Wilson, who said he could only prescribe a nourishing and stimulating diet in order to meet the drain on the system. This kept me about, but offered no permanent benefit. In 1873 I moved to Port Credit Public School, but after eighteen months resigned my charge, afterwards assuming charge of Glen Williams School, County Halton. In May, 1874, suffering terribly, I again went to Toronto to the same Dr. Aikens that had treated me in the General Hospital in 1863. That summer and fall I was greatly afflicted, and suffered fearfully during the winter of 1874-5. The next summer I went to Dr. Mullin, of Brampton, under great suffering. He treated me very skillfully and kindly, advising me precisely as did Dr. Wilson, of Niagara. January, of 1876, I became head master of Bath School.

During a nine months' stay at Warkworth, Dr. McRae and Dr. Goldsmith, of that village, both operated on me, as also did Dr. Mitchell, while I was attending college at London. After my ordination on the 18th of June, 1878, I volunteered to take the Bishop's poorest mission, and through painful trial labored on, under the providence of God. I now have three fairly good churches. Starting from nothing, I have made for myself a pleasant and desirable home. When I came to Wiarton in July, 1878, I was again violently attacked and confined to bed for over two weeks under the care of Dr. Wigle, who incised the abscess, and by care I did my work until the following spring, when his services were again necessary, and again in December, 1879, I went to London and consulted Dr. Morehouse, and afterwards Dr. Woodruff. Although I had to work very hard that winter, I was under constant suffering. The abscess assumed a cancerous appearance.

I assisted the Bishop in March of 1879 at St. James' Church, Westminster, at which time my neck was complete covered with a white cloth. I am rejoiced to say that I no longer need to cover my neck to hide my affliction, and fear no recurrence of the same. Dr. Wigle, of Wiarton, operated on me in May, 1880, and again in December of that year. I then went to London, and on my return I was again attacked more violently than ever. I was almost on the verge of despair, having been treated by the best medical skill the country contained, as the many eminent names previously mentioned will show. When I had exhausted the skillful resources of the regular profession, I then resorted to nearly all the patent medicines that promised to cure scrofulous and blood diseases, but without any benefit whatever. When in an almost helpless condition, I tried Burdock Blood Bitters. I took it for about four months, and in that length of time used several bottles internally, and having faith in its common-sense like rational promises, and believing that if it was a good alterative blood-purifying medicine that would act upon the grandular system when taken internally, why, I reasoned, would it not, by the power of absorption, excite the grandular system and the secretions to a healthy action by direct application outwardly, through the medium of the skin, and thus exert a double curative influence. I applied it freely externally with the most astonishing and gratifying results. Believing I had made a singular and valuable discovery, I persevered in my efforts, and they to my great joy were crowned with success, and for the first time for years I was able to dispense with surgical aid, which I firmly believe I shall never require again for the same disease. More than two years have elapsed since I have had any attack of the disease, and I feel as well and safe now as if it had never affected me, which after more than twenty-three years of terrible suffering seems almost like a miracle to relate.

I have tried Burdock Blood Bitters for one of my children, who was afflicted with an obstinate humor of the blood, and whose face was covered with sores, now perfectly smooth and clean; also my servant, treated for swelled neck, and many other cases in our parish, to whom we have given and recommended the remedy. Such is our faith in its virtues that I seldom go abroad without taking a small bottle for any suffering friend. Knowing that it cured me, and believing that it saved my life, I most earnestly and heartily recommend it to suffering humanity, and would urge all who may be similarly afflicted to give it a trial.

I believe it to be a true specific for all constitutional Scrofulous Blood Diseases, and unsurpassed as a rare healing remedy of great cleansing and curative power. I know of some who have died of my disease, and one in the very neighborhood where I was attacked, who, perhaps, might, like me, have rejoiced in restoration to health had they been possessed of this invaluable remedy. WILLIAM STOUT,
Parsonage, Wiarton, Ont.

Rev. Wm. Stout is at the present time rector of the Anglican Church at Kirkton, Ont., and under the date of July 26th, 1898, wrote the following, showing how during the past 17 years there has been no sign of the disease returning.

"It is now seventeen years since I was cured by Burdock Blood Bitters, and fifteen years since I first gave a statement of my case.

"During all these years there has not been the slightest return of the scrofulous abscesses which for so long a time defied the skill of some of the best physicians in Canada.

"All that I said of B.B.B. in 1883 I can say with greater emphasis now. My cure has certainly been a permanent one, and I can assure you I owe a deep debt of gratitude to B.B.B., and only desire that its wonderful healing and curative properties shall be made more widely known to suffering humanity." Look where you may, you can find no other remedy producing such a record of permanent cures of severe and malignant diseases as B.B.B. is presenting from time to time. The reason of this is that B.B.B. attacks disease at its source and origin in the blood, makes that life-giving fluid rich and pure, and removes from the system all those poisonous products on which disease germs thrive.

THE BEDOUIN.

How This True Child of the Desert Goes Through Life.

How dreamily that Bedouin life, with its uneventfulness and its fatalism, fitted the time and the place! Here was a poor Arab who did not know how old he was, but he could look farther into heaven than I could. His mother had borne him while the caravan was on its way to Mecca. He had worked as a laborer on the Suez canal, and he had been a dog knacker in Constantinople before that. He had gone hungry in the wadies of Idumæa, and had run as a cameleer barefoot in the burning sands of Arabia Petræa. He had vegetated into manhood on the lower stratum of this strange oriental existence, content to believe that life was an unavoidable curse, with a drowsy intimation of eternity in it, always associated with the tinkling of bells, the rattle of castanets and the sweet smell of Beirut tobacco.

But he could see some things that were beyond my vision, and I wondered if this true child of the desert, born under indigo skies, of a race that had been guided since the days of Moses and Menephtah by the pillars of fire by night, had not preserved some powers of vision that were common to the primeval man. He never lost the true oriental disdain for enterprise and contemporaneous disturbance, and he made an engineer feel that his work, seen in the light of the unperturbed stars, was, after all, an impertinence to a true pariah.—"Ghosts In Jerusalem," by A. C. Wheeler, in Harper's Magazine.

PIMPLES CURED BY Cuticura SOAP

The most effective skin purifying and beautifying soap in the world, as well as purest and sweetest for toilet, bath, and nursery. It is the only preventive of pimples, blackheads, red, rough, and oily skin, red, rough hands with shapeless nails, dry, thin, and falling hair, and simple baby blemishes. It is so because it strikes at the causes of most complexional disfigurations, viz., THE CLOGGED, IRRITATED, INFLAMED, OVERWORKED, OR SLUGGISH PORE.

My face was covered with a pimply, rappelled, and itching skin. After using CUTICURA SOAP for six weeks my skin made a remarkable change, all the pimples went away, my skin getting as soft as velvet.
H. CROME, 223 Melrose St., Chicago, Ill.

I was troubled with pimples, especially on the chin and forehead. I tried several home remedies, but as they proved to be of no value, I decided to use CUTICURA SOAP, and in six weeks I was entirely rid of them.
HENRY F. DAHLKE,
6111 So. Paulina St., Chicago, Ill.

My face was covered with pimples and blackheads. Some would be all red, and others would be full of white matter. The blackheads would be all over my face. I spent about ten dollars for soaps, medicines, etc., but they never did me any good. I tried CUTICURA SOAP, and it only took three cakes to cure my face. JOSEPH B. CLAMER,

"EXCUSES."

This was the Subject of Rev. Mr. Cowsert's Address Last Evening.

The final meeting in the series of Evangelistic services that have been held during the past three weeks in Park street Baptist Church, was held last evening. There was a large attendance, and after Mr. Cowsert and Mrs. Dingman had sung a duet, Mr. Cowert preached on the subject of "Excuses" from the text—Luke 14.17.18.

While the parable was primarily intended for the Jews, at the same time it also set forth the Gospel of Redemption with its privileges and opportunities. The gospel was here likened to a feast, and not to a famine. The worldly sinners could not see anything in the gospel, nevertheless it was full. Many young people also looked upon the christian life as void of any pleasure. Such was not the case. It had a fulness of real joy.

The gospel was likened to a feast, because it had enough for all, even to fulness. Job, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob had partaken of its fulness, looking forward by faith to the sacrifice of Christ, while we look back to it, and yet there was enough and to spare.

Again it was like a feast, in that it was free. In this respect it was unlike some church feasts, where it cost one fee to get in and six fees to get out. The Gospel feast could only be partaken of by those who were willing to receive it as God offered it, "without money and without price." It could not be earned, but was a gift from God.

The Gospel was like a feast, in that it was adapted to satisfying the spiritual hunger of the human soul. Multitudes were being deluded by the devil and were endeavouring to satisfy these cravings with the things of time and sense. God never intended material things to satisfy us, but had a higher and nobler purpose for us. To live for pleasure was to be in a state of Spiritual death. God offers this full, free and satisfying salvation to all, but there are those who refuse to accept it and offer excuses for so doing.

The three spoken of in the parable are representations of certain classes. The first man was interested in real estate, and stood for a class of people who to-day worship the "Golden Calf." Love of money made a pigmy out of a giant, and the biggest fools in the world were those who sold out to the devil so cheaply. The second man must have been a fool, or else used the excuse as a makeshift. He was a man of care, and worked after the sun went down. He hadn't time to come to the feast, like many people to-day. No time to serve Jesus, or to commune with Him! What a sad state is which to face the stern realities of eternity! The third man was a lover of pleasure, and represented a class who look upon the world as a huge playground. Christ, Himself, had said that "pleasures choke the word." Many were grasping the effervescent pleasures of this life, and refusing the "Joy unspeakable and full of glory."

No valid excuse could be offered for rejecting the great salvation purchased by God at the cost of the life of His Son, and offered so freely to all. Very soon the door to the feast would be shut, and "when once the master of the house shutteth the door, no man openeth."

The pastor will preach at both services to-morrow. Mrs. J. F. Dingman will sing at each service. The ordinance of baptism will be administered at the evening service.

As a result of the special services thirty-five persons professed to have trusted Christ.

THE HIGH COURT OF CANADIAN FORESTERS.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF THE PROCEEDINGS AT BRANTFORD.

Interesting Figures Showing the Growth of the Order—A Very Low Death Rate—Stiff State of the Reserve Fund.

The EXAMINER has received from the High Secretary the following brief but comprehensive report of the proceedings of the recent High Court at Brantford, which will be read with interest by members of the order:

The High Court meeting just held in the beautiful city of Brantford, was one of the most successful in the history of the Order. Never did the High Court assemble under more favourable circumstances. The gratifying reports for 1898, the place of meeting being the birthplace of the Order, as well as the warm reception extended to the delegates by the citizens of the "Telephone City," contributed largely to the success of the meeting.

Nearly 300 delegates were present, representing Subordinate Courts of every Province in the Dominion.

Bro. R. Elliott, H. C. R. of the Society, and one of its earliest promoters, gave a very comprehensive report, dealing with the steady and permanent growth of the Order, since its organization twenty years ago, both as to the membership and finances. At the close of the year the Order had a membership of 37,739 and a surplus for the payment of death claims of $701,173.75. The High Chief Ranger embodied in his report a large number of important rulings given by him during the year, all of which were adopted by the High Court.

The report of the High Secretary, Bro. Thomas White, was a most exhaustive and interesting one, showing, as it did, the large and increasing volume of business transacted during the year in the various departments of the Head Office. During the year, 138 cheques amounting to $143,987.06 were issued in payment of 137 deaths, and 2,212 cheques, amounting to $44,786.33, in payment of Sick and Funeral Benefit claims. There were also 612 orders amounting to $30,072.32, issued on the General Fund.

By reference to the High Auditors report some conception may be gained of the vast amount of business transacted through the Head Office of the Society.

As shown by the High Treasurer, Bro. John Neeland's report the receipts on the various funds were: Insurance $252,344 30, Sick and Funeral Benefit Branch $43,759.88, General Fund, $39,196 25, or a total of $335,300 43. The total expenditure in these funds amounted to $125,703.98. The interest receipts were again the largest in the Order's history, being for the year $21,-266.95.

Bro. Dr. U. M. Stanley, one of the first promoters of the Society and Chairman of the Medical Board since the inception of the Order, in his report showed that the death rate during the year was considerably lower than the average of previous years, and the second lowest in the Order's history being only 4.56 per thousand of membership. The number of deaths during the year was 137, being ten less than for 1897. During the year there were received 7,101 applications, of which 6.576 were considered first-class risks. From an insurance standpoint, the Order has had a healthy growth.

The report of the High Auditors was a most gratifying one. The year opened with a balance on hand in the insurance fund of $502,766.51. The receipts amounted to $252,344 30, an increase as compared with 1897 of $32,404 69. Owing to the low death rate there was a decrease in the amount paid out of $8,515 47. The net result was to add to the surplus the sum of $108,407.24, the largest addition in the Order's history, making a net surplus at the close of the year of $701,173 75, which amount with the exception of $73,651.08 deposited on current account, is invested as follows:—Dominion Government Stock $100,000.00, Loan Co. Debentures $370,000 00, Municipal Debentures $142,422.67, and Bank Deposits $125,-000.00.

The total amount of Insurance carried by the Order at the close of year was $31,-727,500 00. There were 1,327 carrying $500.00 insurance; 27,830 carrying $1,000; 60 carrying 1,500, and 1,572 carrying $2,000. The average amount at risk was $1,080.48 as against $1,040.91 a year ago.

The proportion of surplus funds per member was $22 77 and per $1,000 of Insurance $22.09, being an increase of 95 cents and $1.13 respectively.

Bro. E. Gartung, Superintendent of Organization, presented a very carefully prepared report, giving much valuable and statistical information relative to the growth and standing of the Order numerically.

At the close of the year there were 661 Courts in the Order, representing a membership of 30,789. There were 442 Subordinate Courts in the Province of Ontario, 93 in Quebec, 12 in New Brunswick, 21 in Nova Scotia, 2 in Prince Edward Island, 69 in Manitoba, 9 in the Northwest Territories, and 6 in British Columbia.

During the year 47 Courts were organized, with a membership of 1,033. There were initiated into the various Courts throughout the Order 4672, making the total initiated for the year 5,636 exceeding the previous year by 628. The net increase in the membership was 3694. The average age of the members initiated during the year was 28.9. About three fourths of the members initiated were between the ages 18 and 35 years, and one-fourth between the ages of 35 and 45 years.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION.

A number of important amendments effecting chiefly the Sick and Funeral Benefit Branch of the Order, were made to the Constitution.

Any Beneficiary member desiring to join this Branch must pass a Medical Examination on the prescribed form, duly approved of by the Medical Board, pay an enrollment fee of 50c, and thereafter on or before the last day of each month for the next ensuing month pay a monthly fee according to age as per the following table of rates:—

SIGNS OF SPRING AND EASTER.

Some Surprising Spring Specialties for Men, Young Men and Boys at H. LeBrun & Co.'s.

The approach of Spring and Easter bring into play thoughts of new clothing. The early spring holidays, beginning with Good Friday, remind gentlemen that their shabby winter attire must be changed for new spring styles. The question is—"Where to get suited?" Visit Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co., and you are at headquarters, where you have your pick from a heaping stock, and where price and style are of equal importance. Men's and young men's nobby spring overcoats, made to order on the premises, are awaiting your inspection, with a $18 price ticket, the best overcoat value in town. Stylish Suit made to order in faultless fashion from $12 to $18. These prices should come home to you. But LeBrun and Co's "Bargain Counter" runs all round the store. Low prices and good qualities are not neglected in ready-made clothing, in which you are certain of finding what you want at a lower price than similiar clothing is sold elsewhere. New Spring Tweed Suits $4, $5 and $6, well worth your critical eyes. New Spring Overcoat at $5, $6, $7 and $9, are rare makes. If they do not look the same at home as they did in the store, return them. Spring Suits for boys, bright new suits that wear long, fit neat, and look better than the general run. Mothers when out shopping should call in and see these nobby little rigs for boys in neat patterns from $1 up. We give Trading Stamps equal to five per cent. on all purchases, to encourage the cash system.—H. LeBrun & Co.

Be a Man and Own

A home of your own, you can if you will. A lady called at our office 2 p. m. explained what she wanted to buy, where she wished it, and how and what she was prepared to pay, we pointed out what she wanted, where she was wanted it, and about $150.00 less than she was willing to pay: Within two hours she told our assistant it was useless to go further, she was well suited, and as soon as the Bank opened she gother money and paid the deposit required. The above is true, as we can prove, and as we have a few more Real Bargains, will the next be taken in a like business way, by a Lady or Gentleman? Come to us and we will guide you right, our advice is to secure a home. Open 7.30 to 9.00 p.m.

500 Ordered to Return Home From St. Petersburg.

MAY WORK GOOD FOR CANADA.

Violation of the Oath of the Czar, His Father and His Grandfather by the Officials — This Absolutism May Result in Sending Canada Some Desirable Settlers—Cable News.

St. Petersburg, March 20.—The deputation of 500 persons who came here to present a petition with 500,000 signatures relating to the Imperial decree of Feb. 15, concerning the constitution of Finland, have been ordered to return home immediately. In the event of their failure to comply with this mandate force is threatened.

A Nation in Mourning.

New York, March 20.—The London correspondent of The Times says: "The prospects of the peace congress at The Hague are darkening because of the growing sympathy of the liberal nations with the people of Finland. This unhappy country is in a state of despair. Helsingfors, the capital, is in mourning, the theatres are closed and the people dress in black, the newspapers heading their articles with the words: 'A Nation in Mourning.' The Czar, his father and his grandfather, each swore an oath to respect the constitution of Finland. A framed copy of this oath hangs in every church. Now, through the pressure of Gen. Kurepatkin, the Minister of War, and Pobiedonostseff, Procurator of the Holy Synod, this engagement has been broken. The Emperor's local title, Grand Duke of Finland, disappears, and the word 'Empire' or 'Russia' is substituted in the soldier's path for the word 'Fatherland.'

Outrageous Hardships.

"Thirty-five per cent. of the young men, instead of 10 per cent., must enter the army for five years service, with a liability of seven years more, and they may be sent to any part of the Russian Empire, while Finland must pay ten million marks as a military contribution. The Finnish Senate consists of 20 members. Ten of these, alarmed by fear of an armed Russian occupation, accepted the Czar's manifesto. Ten refused. The President gave the casting vote in favor of Russia.

Talk of Emigrating to Canada.

"To such a depth are the people plunged in despair at the prospect of sharing the fate of Poland, or, at best, of being reduced to the state of Russian peasants, that a movement was started also among the young men and is growing rapidly, for a wholesale emigration to Canada. It is incomprehensible that the Czar, whose personal aims have been so enlightened in so many cases, should have permitted this flagrant reversal of his father's unvarying policy and this extension of military despotism, which revolts all the lovers of liberty, on the very eve of a conference summoned to seek diametrically opposite ends."

BLOODTHIRSTY ANARCHISTS.

They Did Conspire to Blow Up the Italian Chamber.

Rome, March 20.—Most of the Italian newspapers, prompted by the Chief of Police, deny the report that a plot has been discovered for blowing up the Chamber of Deputies. Nevertheless, the report is perfectly true, and the people of Rome have to thank Chief Inspector Melville of London for averting the disaster. The conspirators were so proud of their scheme that they wrote about it in their letters to the exiled Italian Anarchists in London, and thence the news promptly reached Inspector Melville. There appears to be some prospect of a recrudescence of the Anarchist ferocity in Rome, and the King and Queen and all the Ministers have additional detective guards. Strangers are unable to gain admission to the Chamber of Deputies, and the public galleries are daily filled with police agents.

Lucchini Gone Mad.

London, March 20.—From Geneva comes the news that Empress Elizabeth's murderer, Lucchini, has completely broken down under the rigors of solitary imprisonment. He has attempted suicide on three occasions, and has probably become violently insane.

MARTINO OVERSTEPPED BOUNDS.

Sir Claude Macdonald Now Transacts Italy's Chinese Business.

Rome, March 20.—In the Senate on Saturday Admiral Canevaro, Minister of Foreign Affairs, replying to questions upon the subject, stated that Signor Martino had violated his instructions as Italian Minister to China by putting an ultimatum to the Chinese Government regarding the concession at Sanmun Bay, and had, therefore, been recalled. The negotiations between Italy and China, he added, are now entrusted to Sir Claude Macdonald, the British minister at Pekin, and Italy had undertaken not to use force unless efforts fail.

SERIOUS RUMPUS IN HAVANA.

The Police Are Having a Hard Time of It in the Cuban Capital.

Havana, March 20.—A serious conflict between the police and people of Havana on Saturday night resulted in considerable shooting and clubbing. From 50 to 75 persons were wounded, some seriously. Among the injured is Police Captain Estampes, formerly a colonel in the Cuban army.

Shortly before 9 o'clock it was reported that another conflict between the people and the police had taken place last evening in the outskirts of Havana, and two policemen and several civilians, all wounded, were conveyed to police headquarters. It is asserted also that two policemen were killed, and that the reserve had been called out. There is also a rumor that a policeman was stabbed to death in the afternoon.

Spain and Her Filipino Prisoners.

Madrid, March 20.—Senor Silvela, Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, had a conference yesterday with the French ambassador regarding the liberation of Spanish prisoners in the hands of the Filipinos. Spain, it is reported, has determined to protest to the civilized world against the attitude of the Americans in hindering the efforts of Gen. Rios, Spanish commander in the Philippines, to liberate the prisoners.

FILIPINOS AGGRESSIVE.

Rebels Attack the Battery at Lomo Church and Are Repulsed With Loss.

Manila, March 20.—An attack was made by the rebels on Saturday upon the battery at Lomo Church, but were repulsed by the Pennsylvanians with heavy loss. Lieut. Thompson and Privates McVey and McCanso of Company C were wounded.

A gunboat with a company of the 23rd Regulars on board, is now on the lake attacking the small towns. She was last heard of off Morang and Santa Cruz.

Want to Go Home.

Madrid, March 20.—A cable message received from General Rios, the former commander of the Spanish troops in the Philippine Islands, says the situation of the Spaniards at Manila is so critical that they all desire to return home, the Americans rendering their sojourn in the Philippines impossible. The Spanish steamer Luson left Manila on Saturday for Cartagena, taking a number of Spanish soldiers and 190 officials.

Filipinos Made an Attack.

Manila, March 20.—Some of the rebels recently expelled from Cavite and the small towns in the vicinity of Pasig combined forces and on Saturday night attacked a company of the Washington Volunteers, a detached post at Taguig, about a mile and a half southeast of Pasig. The rebels fought desperately, aided materially by the jungle and the darkness, but they were completely routed with heavy loss, after two hours' fighting. The Americans lost two killed and 20 wounded, among the latter Lieut. Frank Jones. In a sortie on Sunday the Oregon Regiment had one man killed and four wounded, and the 22nd Regiment one killed. According to the official reports no fewer than 200 of the Filipinos were killed.

Gen. Otis says the American army and gunboats now command the lake. He estimates that property of the insurgents valued at $500,000, with quantities of rice and sugar and 40 tons of coal, which is very valuable here, have been captured.

Fired a Britisher.

Nice, March 20.—Premier Dupuy, who is French Minister of the Interior, yesterday signed an order expelling from the France the correspondent of The London Globe and Mail. This action is taken by reason of the publication in London of a number of articles by the correspondent in question, the tendency of which was to prejudice foreigners against the Riviera.

Our Trade With Britain.

London, March 20.—Enquiries at the high commissioner's office with regard to trading between Canada and the Motherland continue. Addresses are asked for of reliable Canadian firms shipping wood pulp, mica and oil, manufacturers of furniture, and dealers in walnut and birch, logs or dressed. A Bristol firm desires the agency of a Canadian packing house. Hon. R. Dobell sailed for Canada on Saturday.

Ottawa News via London.

London, March 20.—A despatch from Ottawa says that in connection with the agitation looking to the exchange of the British West Indies for the Philippines or other American possessions, there is a scheme in Canada to submit to Parliament a proposal to exchange the Leeward Islands with the United States for an Alaskan strip.

President Kruger Scents Danger.

Pretoria, March 20.—President Kruger, in an important speech in Heidelberg, on Friday, emphasized the necessity of the State retaining the dynamite monopoly, because, as he argued, the South African Republic being an inland State, in the event of trouble with any of the powers its supplies of explosives might otherwise be suddenly cut off.

Rev. Dr. Knapp Safe.

London, March 20.—Rev. Dr. Knapp, former principal of Queen's College, St. John's, Nfld., who mysteriously disappeared from his residence in Brighthouse, West Yorkshire, on Jan. 18 last, writes to his friends in this country that he has reached New York in a sailing vessel.

Lord Hershell's Body in England.

Portsmouth, Eng., March 20.—The British cruiser Talbot, with the body of Baron Herschell on board, which sailed from New York on March 8, arrived here yesterday.

CUTTING RAILWAY FARES.

Eastern Agents of the Union Pacific Advised That a New Schedule Now Applies.

New York, March 20.—General Passenger Agent Lomax of the Union Pacific, has advised General Eastern Passenger Agent Tenbroeck that, taking effect Saturday, second-class rates from Missouri River terminals to California points will be $32.50, a cut of $40; from Sioux City and Omaha to northern Pacific and intermediate points, $25; from Leavenworth and Kansas City to the same territory, via Pocatello, $28.25. The latter rates have been $40 and $50. General Eastern Passenger Agent Charles Kennedy of the Rock Island was advised to the same effect by General Passenger Agent Sebastian, and it is expected the Canadian Pacific will bulletin these rates from St. Paul.

The Great Northern has aggravated the situation by announcing that on the 21st inst. it will apply half rates to all second-class business moving to all points from which the regular fare from St. Paul is in excess of $8. The Northern Pacific will undoubtedly follow suit, and other roads affected may be expected to fall in line.

THE FAKIR GOT IN HIS WORK.

How a Home-Made Patent Medicine Got Much Hespeler Money.

Hespeler, Ont., March 20.—A large number of people in Hespeler and the surrounding country are feeling very sore, the result of the visit of a slick fakir a couple of days ago, who took away a big roll of good dollars and left in their place a large quantity of bad medicine. He gave his name as Hamilton and said he was a brother of a well-known doctor of Toronto. His plan of procedure was, before calling on a family, to find out the name of the family physician who usually attended them and said that he had sent him and highly recommended his medicines. His prices knocked the bottom out of the local druggists' quotations. Preparations that sell for $1 a bottle he offered four for $1, with a couple of boxes of "blood pills," a package of herb tea and a couple of bottles of other preparations thrown in. These big bargains, coupled with their doctor's recommendation, fooled a great many people, who bought $2 or $3 worth of the stuff, most of which was not genuine. He even sold to the relatives of the M. D.'s and druggists. He was traced to Guelph, where he registered at a hotel as Lewis, but there gave the police the slip. Thirty-six dozen bottles of medicine, several dozen boxes of pills and a valise belonging to the fakir, which were left at the hotel there, were seized by the authorities.

Perfectly Cured

Weak and Low Spirited—Nervous Prostration—Appetite Poor and Could Not Rest.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla to others. It has been the means of restoring my wife to good health. She was stricken down with an attack of nervous prostration. She suffered with headaches and her nerves were under severe strain. She became very low spirited and so weak she could only do a little work without resting. Her appetite was poor, and being so weak she could not get the proper rest at night. She decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, as we had heard it highly praised, and I am glad to state that Hood's Sarsaparilla has perfectly cured all her ailments." G. POSTAL CHANGES.

Letters Bearing a Special Rate Will Have Special Delivery.

During the year which has just passed important changes have been made in post office regulations and rates. Letter postage within Canada, and from Canada to the United States, has been reduced from three to two cents per ounce, and the rate between Canada, Great Britain and thirty-seven different parts of the empire has been reduced from five cents to two cents per half ounce. The special delivery system has been introduced. Letters bearing a special delivery stamp costing ten cents and addressed to the following cities in Canada are delivered by messenger immediately upon receipt: Toronto, Hamilton, London, Brantford, Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec, St. John, Fredricton, Halifax, Winnipeg, Victoria and Vancouver. Postage is now chargeable upon newspapers at the rate of one-quarter of a cent. per pound, which will be increased to one-half cent per pound on June 30 next.

SPRAYING ORCHARDS.

The fruit growers of Ontario have suffered very great losses in recent years owing to the prevalence of destructive insects. The best means for combatting this evil has for some time engaged the attention of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, and much has already been accomplished in this direction by extending among farmers a knowledge of the spraying process, which has been found to be the only effective remedy. We have just received the report for 1898 of Mr. Wm. Orr, Superintendent of Experimental Spraying, which comprises detailed reports of experiments conducted at thirty points throughout the province, affording much information of practical value to the owners of orchards. These experimental sprayings are increasingly popular, as evidenced by the fact that the attendance last year numbered 3,538, or over 700 more than that of 1897, while is was about double the attendance on the spraying held in 1896. The applications of farmers to have sprayings held in their localities were much more numerous than could be responded to. As a means, however, of bringing clearly and convincingly before a large number of people the completely satisfactory results of the spraying process, a large exhibit was put on view at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition, showing sprayed as contrasted with unsprayed fruit, the respective quality and condition of the two showing plainly the advantages of the system.

The tent caterpillar, aphis, codling moth and other well known but little appreciated injurious insects were very much in evidence last season, and wrought fearful havoc in unsprayed orchards. In those subject to the spraying treatment, on the contrary, the fruit as a rule was clean, sound and attractive in appearance. It was all subjected to rigid inspection, and after all in the slightest degree damaged was discarded, the result in many cases showed from 90 to 100 per cent. of the crop in fine condition. Such tests should be sufficient to convince all of the need of spraying as an adjunct to successful fruit growing, and if this conviction can only be brought home to the farming community as a whole the gain in the production and in the status of Canada abroad as a fruit producing country will be immense.

Arrangements are now being made for spraying experiments for the current year, and everyone interested can obtain a list of the orchards and dates on application to Mr. Wm. Orr, Superintendent of Experimental Spraying, Fruitland, Ont. All progressive farmers should have a copy of this report, which they will find full of suggestion. It can be had by writing to the Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

The Department intends also to publish shortly a bulletin containing detailed information concerning insect pests and the best methods of suppressing them by means of the spraying process, which will prove a valuable addition to the available literature on the subject.

One of Thousands.

Miss Lily Cox, 2 Gladstone Avenue, Toronto, contracted acute catarrh through taking a severe cold some two years ago. Her suffering was very distressing at times. She tried several remedies, but none gave her any real relief. Dr. Agnew's Catarrh Powder was recommended to her one application gave instant relief, and when she had used four bottles she says she was entirely cured. Sold by H. B. Macdonald and Ormond & Walsh.

OBITUARY.

THE LATE JOHN PATTERSON.

The death of the above pioneer of Canadian advancement at his home in Cavan last week marks the exit of another of those older settlers who contributed so largely to the early history of the country. Born in the County Cavan, Ireland, in the year 1807, before Queen Victoria had entered upon the scene, and before Wellington had made himself famous upon the field of Waterloo, he was for three-quarters of a century an active participator in many of the stirring events in Irish and Canadian history. Before coming to the New World in 1836 he had joined the Yeoman's Guard of Coothill, Ireland, and did service under George III's reign. Coming to Canada at the time when revolution was brewing under the discontent prevailing at that time, he joined with Mackenzie in the rebellion of 1837. He with six others were for three days on Lake Ontario in an open boat without food, evading the search of their pursuers. He was under the command of Captain Law of the West Durham Company in Clinguacousy township when Mackenzie's first lieutenant was arrested, the old house in which the capture was made being still standing to mark the history of that justifiable rebellion as many view it. Upon the arrival of the deceased in Canada he settled in Darlington, where he married in 1840, Mrs. Patterson being a native of Fermanagh, Ireland. After living there four years they removed to Canton, in Hope, where the greater part of their active life was spent, from where they moved some eleven years ago to Cavan, which has been their place of abode since. Deceased was probably the oldest Orangeman in Canada, having joined Boyne Lodge, No. 25, in Coothill, seventy-five years ago at the age of eighteen. Three sons and one daughter, all of whom are living, were the result of the union, three of whom are still at home, Miss Patterson, John L. and Harry. The other son, W. J., is chief engineer on the C. P. R. steamship Alamedia plying between Sydney and Hong Kong. Mrs. Patterson is still living to sorrowfully mourn the departed, being twelve years younger than her deceased husband. Mr. Patterson was a life long member of the Episcopal church and his funeral took place on Wednesday last, the remains being interred in the Front church cemetery followed by a large number of sympathising friends.

THE SUCCESSION BILL.

Property in Ontario Transferred Before Death Liable to the Tax—Hon. Mr. Harcourt's Amendment.

Toronto, March 20.—Hon. Mr. Harcourt's bill to amend the succession duty act provides that any sum payable under the act may be recoverable by action in any court of competent jurisdiction. The High Court is given jurisdiction to determine what property is liable to duty under the act, the amount thereof, and the time or times when the same is payable. Subject to the discretion of the court as to costs, an action may be brought for any of the purposes mentioned in the present act, notwithstanding the time for the payment of the duty has not arrived. The Attorney-General is given the same right to require the production of documents and to examine witnesses as a plaintiff has in an ordinary action.

The following is a new section: "Where any property which has previous to the death of the person whose estate is subject to duty been conveyed or transferred to some other person is declared liable to duty, the court may declare the duty to be in lien upon the property, and may make such declaration, although the amount of such duty has not been ascertained; and where any property which, had it remained in the hands of the person to whom or for whose benefit it was conveyed or transferred by such deceased person would have been liable to duty, has been conveyed or transferred to any purchaser for a valuable consideration, the court may direct the person to whom or for whose benefit the said property was conveyed or transferred by such deceased persons as aforesaid to pay the amount of the duty to which such property would have been subject."

The foregoing provision is to be retrospective in its operation, as is also a subsequent provision enabling the Provincial Treasurer to register a caution at the registry or land titles office in respect of mortgages or charges on land which are subject to duty.

The bill also contains provisions making property which the deceased has power to dispose of, and estates in dower or by the courtesy, liable to duty. In determining the aggregate value of the estate, property outside of the province is to be included.

The following provision prohibits the transfer of stocks or shares: "No foreign executor or administrator shall assign or transfer any stocks or shares in this province standing in the name of a deceased person or in trust for him, which are liable to pay succession duty, until such duty is paid to the treasurer of the province, or security given as required by section 5 of the said act, and any corporation allowing a transfer of any stocks or shares contrary to this section shall be liable to pay the duty payable in respect thereof."

It Never Disappoints.

People who are troubled with any disease caused or promoted by impure blood or a low state of the system may take Hood' Sarsaparilla with the utmost confidence that its faithful use will effect a cure. Millions take it as a spring medicine, because they know by experience it is just what the system needs.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver tonic. Gentle, reliable, sure.

Wanted Them All.

Julia Ward Howe was once talking with a dilapidated bachelor, who retained little but his conceit. "It is time now," he said, pompously, "for me to settle down as a married man, but I want so much. I want youth, health, wealth, of course, beauty, grace"—

"Yes," said Mrs. Howe, sympathetically, "you poor man, you do want them all."

Ivory billiard balls, freshly turned, have to be treated very carefully, as a sudden change in temperature may cause them to crack. To prevent this they require to be placed for at least three months in a warm room in order to shrink them gradually and dry true before they are finished and polished.

GOLD DOLLARS ARE EXPENSIVE.

One of Them Costs About $1.80 When Secured From Brokers.

One of the most inconvenient bits of money ever coined by the United States government was the $1 goldpiece, which closely resembled in size and weight the 5 cent piece to be seen in the provinces, and which were utterly useless and detestable as units of commercial exchange. When the government had collected nearly 20,000,000 of these gold dollars, some one in authority determined that a popular benefaction might be accomplished by the retirement of them or at least by ceasing to coin them.

The latter course was adopted, and in time business men forgot what they looked like and even refused to accept the stray specimens. Coinage ceased on Sept. 20, 1890, and today a gold dollar sells for $1.80 at least, sometimes for more, and they are controlled by brokers at that. For some time none has been kept at the subtreasury in this city, although constant requests for them have come from women and girls, whose motives were chiefly sentimental. They wanted them for decorative purposes, for birthday gifts to appreciative babies or for additions to outlandish bangles which at one time it was a girlish fad to have dangling on one's wrist, even as the wives of the king of Dahomey wear them.

It is said that brokers do a fairly profitable business annually in the sale of gold dollars. They supply them to banks, which in turn sell them to individuals. Tradesmen are more afraid of them than they are of Columbian half dollars, and they look with suspicion on a person who presents one for the fraction of a dollar's worth of goods. There are two sizes of the coin, the smaller being the more common and the larger being the more convenient of the two. Those who call at the subtreasury for them are invariably advised not to pay such a premium, unless there is some very urgent reason why the possession of the coin is necessary.—Boston Transcript.

WEAVING SET TO MUSIC.

Japanese Tots Work Twelve Hours a Day For a Penny.

At Sakai, about half a dozen miles from Osaka, and some other towns in Japan where carpets, rugs and fabrics of the same class are manufactured there are no large carpet factories, but hand looms may be seen in nearly every house.

The weaving is set to music. The children are taught to sing a sort of nonsense verse to a certain tune, the superintendent or head worker leading, and that air means a certain pattern, the deft fingers of the little workers rhythmically following the notes.

At the right moment the woman in charge of a loom hums a new tune, and the little ones instantly take it up and as quickly change the pattern to suit the music. It is consequently quite correct to speak of these productions as a "one tune," "two tune" or "four tune" carpet, and so on, as the case may be.

The children kneel at their work upon a plank at the end of the loom, and each of them slides backward and forward along it, according to the space occupied by their allotted portion of the pattern.

The actual workers are for the most part children of from 7 years of age upward, and from two to four, five or even six work at a single loom under the direction of an adult, generally a woman.

Some 5,000 boys and over 18,000 girls are thus employed. The children work 12 hours a day, and each earns about a penny in that time. Three of them can, if expert hands, complete an ordinary rug, say 6 feet by 3 feet and made of colored hemp or woolen yarns, in a day. A silk rug of the same dimensions, however, would occupy the same workers for from 80 to 100 days.—London Standard.

Duration of Life.

The ratio of length of adolescence to length of life in the shortest lived mammals is proportionately less than it is in longer lived mammals. For example, the period of growth and development of the domestic mouse is, according to my informant, a breeder of these small rodents, about three months. In other words, the mouse may be expected to live 15 times its adolescent period as a mature animal. The Arab horse, according to a well known authority, arrives at maturity in about eight years. Its lifetime is about 40 years—that is to say, the animal lives four times the length of its adolescence as an adult.

Man, on the other hand, who only completes his growth by the union of the eternal epiphysis of the clavicle to its shaft at the age of 25, has, after passing his fiftieth year, or "the middle arch of life," to use Dr. Farr's phrase, only another 25 years' expectation of life. His potential longevity accordingly foreshadows a period of maturity not greater than twice the length of his youth.—W. Ainslie Hollis in Nature.

STRUCK HEAD-ON.

An Engine-Smashing Collision at Shakespeare on Saturday—Firemen Hurt.

Shakespeare, Ont., March 20.—At 5.40 a.m. on Saturday a head-on collision occurred between a passenger and a freight train on the Grand Trunk Railway. The freight train, although the passenger train from Toronto was due to pass, was standing foul of the main line on west siding of the station. At 5.40 o'clock the passenger train, in charge of conductor Devlin, arrived, but the storm prevented Engineer Walker seeing the engine ahead of him. Both engines were badly broken up by the collision. The first-class passenger coach was derailed, and the baggage car was considerably damaged, but stuck to the rails. Three cars of the freight train were derailed. The fireman of each engine was badly injured when taken out of the wreck. Fireman Finch of the freight train lost his left foot, and Fireman Law of Toronto was badly scalded and hurt internally. An auxiliary train was sent out from Stratford and the track was cleared in two hours. The crew of the freight train all belong to the Sarnia tunnel, and that of the passenger to Toronto.

"EMPIRE DAY."

Public Schools of Ontario to Celebrate It on May 23.

Toronto, March 20.—"Empire Day" will be celebrated in the public schools of Ontario on May 23 for the first time. The Education Department has issued a circular to school inspectors throughout the province, notifying them to that effect, and outlining the method in which the day should be spent. The morning will be devoted chiefly to a familiar talk by the teacher on Canada's relation to the Empire and readings from Canadian and British authors. Patriotic recitations, songs and speeches will be the afternoon program. The public will be invited.

VALUABLE

Residential Properties FOR SALE

In Peterborough.

Having decided to remove to Manitoba in the spring, I have decided to sell the following valuable properties at prices that should secure ready purchasers:

Parcel No. 1. A Brick Terrace of four houses, adjoining the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets, two storys, well built with good stone cellars full size of buildings. Each residence contains six rooms with summer kitchen. This property has always been continuously rented and pays an excellent rate of interest on the investment, and it is practically a new property, being only erected a few years, and is in good condition.

Parcel No. 2. Brick residence corner of Reid and Simcoe. Containing ten rooms. House in good condition with all modern improvements, bath, closets, heated with furnace and lighted with electricity.

Parcel No. 3. Brick dwelling corner Aberdeen and Benson streets, facing Dixon Park, containg seven rooms with summer kitchen. This property was erected last season by myself and occupied by myself. Has hard and soft water in kitchen and is a very comfortable residence. This lot is 103 feet square.

Parcel No. 4. Brick residence, corner Wolseley and Benson streets. Two storeys, seven rooms with kitchen, pleasantly situated adjoining Dixon Park. Hard and soft water in kitchen. This lot is also 103 feet square and is a similar building to parcel No. 3.

Parties desiring a good paying investment or home will find any of these desirable purchases.

Particulars and terms, which are reasonable, made known on application to the undersigned.

THE ODORLESS

CREMATORY CLOSET.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematory Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS.

Alliston, March 1st, 1899.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable. Yours respectfully,
JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 28th, 1899.

I have used it for sometime and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.
W. H. MORRISON

Medical Superintendent's Office, Sept. 30th, 1897
Asylum for the Insane, Hamilton.

Gentlemen: I had the opportunity of witnessing yesterday the operation of your Odorless Crematory Closet. It had a large accumulation of fecal matter in the pan when the fire was started, and inside of 20 minutes it was all reduced to ashes. There was no odor before or during the operation of consuming the fecal matter, as the ventilation by the flue seems to carry off all odor at once, before it has a chance to vitiate the surrounding atmosphere.
Yours truly. JAMES RUSSELL, M.D.
Binbrook, Sept. 30th, 1897.

Dear Sirs—Having been present at a private test of your new patent closet yesterday afternoon, I beg to express my satisfaction with it in every way. Neither before, during or after the burning out of its contents did I detect the slightest unpleasant odor. I am satisfied it will be a boon to thousands in rural towns, villages and country homes. Yours truly.

PULP MILLS FOR CANADA.

Nova Scotia Leases 1,000 Square Miles of Land for This Purpose.

Halifax, March 20.—Attorney-General Longley laid before the Nova Scotia Legislature on Saturday an agreement entered into on the first of last month, by which Her Majesty the Queen grants a lease for 30 years of two immense tracts of Crown lands in Victoria and Inverness Counties, Cape Breton, comprising altogether nearly 1,000 square miles, to three American capitalists—Edward L. Sanborn and Robert B. Blodgett of Boston, and Daniel F. Emery, jr., of Portland, Me. The lands are leased for the purpose of converting the timber thereon into pulp and paper, and the lessees must have two such mills in operation within the period of two years, and have expended at least $10,000 in the operation of the business for which the lease is granted. The lessees agree to pay the Government of Nova Scotia $6,000 per year and to do all their manufacturing within the Province of Nova Scotia.

One provision of the agreement prohibits the transfer of the lease to any person or corporation except the North American Paper & Pulp Company, Limited, without the consent of the Attorney-General of Nova Scotia. The Government reserves the customary mining rights over the property granted, but agrees to sell the land, or any portion thereof, to the lessees for the purpose set forth, at 40 cents per acre, the prevailing price of Crown lands in Nova Scotia.

If the terms of the agreement are fulfilled as regards the erection of pulp or paper mills and the same are operated through the stipulated period, the lessees may obtain a renewal of the grant for a further term of 30 years at $6,000 per year.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease, is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells of how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

GALICIAN FOUND GUILTY.

The Awful Crime and Its Motive—An Accomplice Being Tried.

Winnipeg, March 20.—The probability is that Gusczak, the Galician, found guilty of murdering four Galician children and their father, will be sentenced to-day to hang. The trial of the second Galician murderer begins to-day.

The crime of which the Galician Gusczak was found guilty on Saturday afternoon was one of the most cold-blooded on record. Another Galician named Bojecsko had $60 in cash secreted on his person which Gusczak got to know of and wished to secure. He and another man named Czuby went to Bojecsko's hut one night armed with a revolver and an axe. They shot Bojecsko, mutilated his body with the axe, then killed four children belonging to Bojecsko and who were sleeping in the room. The children were killed with blows from the axe alone. Their bodies were found a few days after.

The Crow's Nest a Bonanza.

Vancouver, March 20.—The Crow's Nest Coal Co. has secured the contract to supply the British fleet at Esquimalt with coal for the present year. The amount of consumption is not less than 2,000 tons per month, and some of the vessels when leaving the station carry away with them more than that for one trip.

Catarrh Cured After Fifteen Years' Suffering.

JAPANESE CATARRH CURE CURES.

Mr. John Crow, 421 Keefer street, Vancouver, B. C., writes: "After receiving its valuable benefit from Japanese Catarrh Cure I consider it my duty to add my testimony for the benefit of fellow sufferers. I had been a great sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years; and during that time I tried almost every remedy I ever heard of for this trouble and a score of doctors; but the result was only temporary relief, and in each case the catarrh returned. I used six boxes of Japanese Catarrh Cure over one year ago, and since that time have been completely free from catarrh."

Japanese Catarrh Cure is the only permanent cure for catarrh yet discovered; the first application relieves, and six boxes are guaranteed to cure the worst case of catarrh, or money will be refunded. We will also be pleased to send a sample to any person troubled with this disease. Address, The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., 121 Church street, Toronto. Sold by Ormond & Walsh, druggists, Peterborough. Price 50 cents; six for $2.50, with guarantee.

NEW YORK'S FIRE HORROR.

Sixteen Known Dead, 44 Missing and 57 Injured in the Holocaust of Friday Night.

New York, March 20.—The destruction on Friday afternoon of the Windsor Hotel and the loss of perhaps 60 lives is still the all-absorbing topic here. There is consternation in the homes of many, and telegrams are coming from all parts as to the whereabouts of missing relatives. However, the full tale cannot be told till perhaps to-day, when the work of clearing away the wreck will probably be well under way. Little in the way of searching for bodies could be done yesterday.

No more bodies were taken from the ruins yesterday. The latest estimate last night is 16 dead, 44 missing and 57 injured.

It is expected that the property loss, including the hotel, contents and valuables owned by guests, will total $2,000,000.

Twelve hundred men are now at work in three eight hour shifts engaged in searching the debris for bodies and valuables.

Many thrilling stories of escape and heroic rescue are told, and yesterday over 20 of those accounted among the missing were discovered, reducing the number now to 44.

Mrs. Isabella Macdonald, formerly of Toronto, whose name is among the missing, had lived at the Windsor for three years, and was a society newspaper writer. She had been ill for some time and was under the care of Dr. Carleton Simon. She occupied rooms on the fifth floor, facing on the inner court. Dr. Simon says that he has so far been unable to obtain any trace of Mrs. Macdonald. She is supposed to have perished.

The hospital reports as to the injured were most favorable yesterday. Most of the patients were improving. Some of them were able to leave the hospitals yesterday and others will be discharged to-day.

Gone to New York.

Toronto, March 20.—Mr. J. B. Kay of this city left last night for New York to aid in the identification of Mrs. Macdonald, if necessary. Mrs. Macdonald, who is his aunt, lived here about 15 years ago, but has resided at the Windsor Hotel for some years past.

A HUNDRED REASONS

Can be given why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best and most effectual cure for every form of indigestion.

They are in the tablet form which retains their good qualities indefinitely, while liquid preparations become stale and useless with age.

They are convenient, can be carried in the pocket and taken when needed. They are pleasant to take.

After each meal dissolve one or two of them in the mouth and, mingling with the food, they constitute a perfect digestive, absolutely safe for the most sensitive stomach.

They digest the food before it has time to ferment, thus preventing the formation of gas and keeping the blood pure and free from the poisonous products of fermented, half digested food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the only remedy designed especially for the cure of stomach and nothing else.

One disease, one remedy; the successful physician of to-day is the specialist, the successful medicine is the medicine prepared especially for one disease.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets make the complexion clear by keeping the blood pure.

They increase flesh by digesting flesh-forming foods.

A whole package taken at one time would not hurt one, but would simply be a waste of good material.

Over six thousand men and women in the State of Michigan alone, have been cured of indigestion and dyspepsia by the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per package.

In His Midst.

"An when I'm 6," said the 5-year-old, pursuing a tour of mental investigation entirely upon his own hook, "Marjorie, she'll be 9 or 10, an Paul, he'll be 4, an when Marjorie's grown up Paul will be mos' 7, an I—well, I guess I'll be in heaven."

But here his mother, who is of a practical turn of mind, interrupted. "Heaven, my dear boy," she said, "you can reach at any time. It lies within yourself."

"Does it?" replied the 5-year-old, who also is practical. "All right. Then all I've got to do is to turn myself inside out."

The Medical Profession Recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. C. M. MARKET REPORTS.

A Little Rally in Wheat on Saturday—At Chicago Prices Recovered Over a Cent—Quotations.

Liverpool, March 20.—Wheat futures on Saturday closed 3-8d per cental higher than Friday.

Chicago, March 20.—Wheat futures rallied on Saturday and at one time rose 1⅛c above Friday's closing figures. There was some good buying by outsiders, and room traders and crop damage reports were made the most of. Unless the latter prove well founded we shall yet see lower prices for wheat. The close was near the top for the day.

A LONDON CASE.

Proving the value of Dodd's Kidney Pills in Kidney Disease.

London March 20—Mr. Charles Dean, stableman at the City Hotel, comes forward to add his quota to the mass of evidence in favor of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Dean states that he had for three years suffered from severe cutting pains in the small of his back. At times they were so great that he had to lie down to get relief.

Several remedies were used without benefit. A doctor prescribed for him, saying his kidneys were affected, but no good resulted.

Finally he took a friend's advice and used Dodd's Kidney Pills. The usual result followed. Three boxes cured him out and out.

THREE ESSENTIALS.

Three things are urgently needed just now by Men, Young Men and Boys in order to appear properly dressed at this season of the year.

Thanks to Gough Bros. it is no longer an expensive matter to dress yourself or your boys in the present fashion.

The barriers between stylishness and expensiveness have been wholly burned away by the Wonderfu Cheap Men's modern rules of merchandising.

The FIRST Essential is a New Spring Suit. For Men, we give you a thousand choice patterns to pick from, in Sacks or Cutaways, starting at $3 90. For Boys, a selection incomparable in make, finish and price, starting at $1.90 for a strong Navy Serge Suit.

The SECOND Essential is a New Spring Top Coat. There are men who would hardly believe that Spring Coats of so high a character could be found, ready made, at $5.50, $7, $9, and $10. But they are a remarkable dressy line—good in quality, well fitting and finished in a superior manner.

The THIRD Essential is a New Spring Hat. Our Hat story is short but important. It tells of the tremendous strides made in our Hat selling. The New Spring Styles in Stiffs and Softs are Wilkinson's and Wakefield's British makes. Men's Fedoras at 95c. and up. Men's Derbys in smartest shapes at $1.60. Colours black brown, tan and gray. Golf and Varsity Caps and handsome shapes in Tweeds and Serges are again popular.

All Three Essentials at this Big Store, with Spring Boots and Shoes a good Fourth and New Spring Shirts and Neckwear good Fifths.

The Storm.

Snowploughs were kept running all Sunday on both lines of railroad, and today's trains were, in consequence, delayed only a short time. The lateness of the west bound express on the C.P.R. was due to the locomotive leaving the track near Mountain.

A Good Price for Land.

Mr. John Garbutt, sr., has purchased the farm of Mr. Geo. E. Elliott, Lot 18, Con. 4, in Smith, at the rate of $60 an acre. As the farm adjoins Mr. Garbutt's property at the rear, it makes a very fine estate indeed. Mr. Elliott is retaining twenty-five acres, upon which he will reside for the present.

Masonic.

A Masonic Lodge of Instruction has been convened by District Deputy Grand Master W. Evans, under the jurisdiction of the Ontario District, and will open in Port Hope on Tuesday evening, 21st inst. Delegates from Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges will leave by special G.T.R. train to-morrow at 11.30. Representatives of the craft from this district will be present in large numbers.

Badly Cut.

Mr. Olif Anderson, of Harvey, met with rather a bad accident last week. He was in the woods chopping, and through a glance of the axe it landed lengthways on his big toe, taking off a piece of the bone and making a nasty gash. Medical assistance was obtained and the foot is now making good progress, though the extent of the gash is indicated when it is mentioned that thirteen stitches were required to draw it together.

TO DRESS BOYS TASTEFULLY in comparatively cheap duds is the task for mothers who come to this store. The variety of styles so comprehensive that trading with us becomes a pleasure instead of task. In Fancy Pleated Suits for instance, prices range from $1.50 to $5.00, and every suit is well made from reliable cloth, or it would not be here. GRAFTON & CO., well known Clothing Manufacturers.

SCARLET FEVER.

It is being Quickly Stamped out—No New Cases Reported in two Weeks.

The statement made in a morning contemporary that scarlet fever is spreading, is contradicted by Dr. Clarke, Health Officer, who states that the fever is being stamped out, no new cases having been reported for about two weeks. Only thirty cases have occurred since January 1st, and all were of a very mild type. There are only two cases of scarlet fever in the Nicholls' Hospital, and no cases of infectious diseases of any sort in St. Joseph's.

No teacher is allowed to permit a scholar to return to school from a household which has been infected until a properly signed certificate from the physician in charge is presented. The Medical Health Officer provides these certificates free of charge.

THE SNOWPLOUGHING.

Many Complaints Made Regarding the Manner in Which it was Done.

Ald. McWilliams having been appointed Mayor in the absence of Mr. A. L. Davis summoned a meeting of the council for this afternoon when the matter of inefficient service by the snow ploughs will be discussed. The town teamsters and contractors will be in attendance.

Complaints of the manner in which the snowploughing has been done this year have been constantly received, and particular complaint has been made in regard to the work done, or rather left undone, two weeks ago Sunday and also yesterday.

From all parts of the town church-goers had to plunge through the snowdrifts yesterday.

Park Street Bridge.

West end residents, in the vicinity of the Park street bridge over the creek, complain that there have been no channels cut under the bridge to permit of the easier flow of water, and in consequence the space underneath the bridge is blocked with ice to such an extent that, as is estimated the water on the upper side of the bridge is two feet higher than below, and cellars in the vicinity are therefore flooded. It is hoped that the authorities will take prompt steps to remedy the matter complained of.

A Tribute From Talmage.

Mr. Granville P. Kleiser, who appears at the George street concert April 4th, is in receipt of the following testimonial: "The Brooklyn Tabernacle and Rev. T. Dewitt Talmage, D.D., pastor, desire to express to you their great appreciation of your entertainment given in the Tabernacle May 30th. Your selections, which were of the best, were rendered in a manner that stamped you at once as an elocutionist of high rank and ability, and we trust you may find it convenient to again favour us with an exhibition of your talents." Remember the concert, April 4th, in George street church.

Somewhat of a Predicament.

A few evenings ago as a religious gathering in town was about to be dismissed the electric lights went out—and stayed out. Unfortunately no other means of illumination was available. The male portion of the congregation had made liberal use of the hooks supplied for hanging thereon great coats and hats, and each gentleman at once proceeded to discover his own by the sense of feeling. Mistakes will happen and some happened that night, and a number of gentlemen are to-day wearing head gear that belongs to someone else and are unable to discover the rightful owner.

Stylish Note Paper.

We would like to show you some of our new things in fashionable note papers, just opened out to-day at the Peterborough Bookstore. The new "Harmon" note paper and envelopes to match, is a very dainty shade of paper and folds once into the new shaped "Monogram" envelopes. The latest colours are Rose Amore and Syrian in French cream effects. Also Kid Surface and pure Ivory Whites, and the price for quality is a marvel of cheapness.

THE WOLFE STREET MATTER.

A PROBABLE SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT.

A Proposition to be Submitted to the Railway Committee of the Privy Council—Town Consents to the Matthews Siding.

At a special meeting of the Council which was held on Saturday afternoon there were present, Mayor Davis and Ald. McWilliams, Sawers, Neill, Dunne and Hall.

A communication was read from the Town Solicitor re the C.P.R. freight shed and Wolfe street.

It was moved by Ald. McWilliams and Sawers—"Whereas the freight shed of the C.P.R. is constructed partly upon Wolfe street, and the lines of rails entering the station yard cross Wolfe street west of the creek so as to render the crossing of the same practically impossible, and whereas the C.P.R. Co. have agreed to make and maintain a roadway from a point upon Wolfe street west of the creek and west of their rails to George street upon the land of the said company, north of the passenger station, in lieu of Wolfe street, and it is desirable that that part of Wolfe street shewn in pink upon the plan hereto annexed should be closed and conveyed to the C. P. R. Co.; be it therefore resolved that upon the execution of an agreement by the C. P. R. to make and maintain a roadway forty feet wide, as shown on said plan, from Wolfe street, west of the creek, and west of the rails of the company, to George street upon the lands of the company north of the passenger station, and including the bridge over the creek, the council of the town of Peterborough consents to an order being passed by the Railway Committee of the Privy Council of Canada closing that part of Wolfe street crossed by the rails of the company, and the north half of that part of Wolfe street opposite lots 1 and 2, west of George street and south of Wolfe street, upon compensation being paid to the owners of said last mentioned lots, one half of the compensation payable to the owner of Lot No. 2 to be payable by the corporation of the town of Peterborough and one-half by the C. P. R. Company, Mr. T. G. Harper having agreed to accept $50 and Mr. N. T. Leplante having agreed to accept $75 for damages to their part of Lot 2. The compensation in respect to Lot No 1 to be paid by the said company except as to the sum of $30, which is to be paid by the corporation of the Town of Peterborough.

Be it further resolved that upon C.P.R. Company accepting, acting upon and carrying out the foregoing provisions of this resolution, the council of the town of Peterborough hereby consents that a railway siding may be constructed by the C.P.R. Company and carried along Wolfe street from the line of the said Company, west of George street, to the property of the George Matthews Company, Limited, east of George street, provided that nothing herein contained shall be deemed to authorize the doing of any act which shall cause any injury to private property or render the corporation of the town of Peterborough liable for any damage to any private property as to the owner of such property.

That the clerk be authorised to affix the corporate seal to a duplicate of this resolution, and that the Mayor and clerk sign the same, and that the same be forwarded to the Railway Committee of the Privy Council.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Sawers and McWilliams, that the Town Solicitor be instructed to take proceedings to collect the amount due by J. D. Baptie for market tolls—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Dunne and McWilliams, that a cheque be issued to R. W. Errett for $7 for inspecting the market scales.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Sawers and Dunne, that Ald. McWilliams be acting mayor during the absence of Mayor Davis.—Carried.

SUBMERGED LANDS.

Those Who Own Them Meet Again in the Council Chamber and Discuss the Matter.

On Saturday afternoon a meeting was held in the council chamber by the owners of land along the Otonabee, which has been submerged and damaged by the rise of the river.

Mr. Wm. Yelland occupied the chair, and a number of speakers gave their views on the question. A few were in favour of sending a deputation to Ottawa before Easter to interview the Government on the question of compensation for damages done the lands overflowed.

As new sluice ways had been put into the Hastings dam and a large portion of the rock shoal blasted out just above. The majority of those present advised waiting for a few months in order that it might be seen what relief would be afforded before the Government be again approached.

Several of those present stated that a perceptible relief was already apparent through the water being lowered in the manner stated, and appeared to think that when additional sluice ways were put into the dam at Hastings and more of the rock shoal removed, the water would flow so much more freely as to allow of a great deal of submerged land being reclaimed. They thought that it would be time enough to ask for compensation for damaged lands when the Government had completed the work which it was hoped would give relief.

It was decided that the meeting adjourn until the last Saturday in May, by which time the relief to be afforded by the work at Hastings will be fully apparent, and it can then be decided whether it is advisable or not for a deputation to wait upon the Government.

Before the meeting adjourned, Mr. Matthew Clarke pointed out that years ago the Otonabee did not possess the sloping banks which now contain it, the shores then being high and precipitous, as stated in Mrs. Moody's book, when she compares the river to the Liffey. The speaker argued that the raising of the water by the construction of the Hastings dam had caused the overflowing of the original banks. He read a letter, however, from the Department of Railways and Canals which stated that the raising of the water was due to the filling in of the channel of the river by sawdust, which had been thrown into the water as refuse from the sawmills for years.

MILLINERY OPENING AT MISS DELANEY'S.

The Importance of Making Early Selections of Easter Millinery is Apparent.

Miss Delaney's opening reception of spring millinery will take place on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 23rd, 24th and 25th. The display will comprise patterns and styles surpassing in effect anything hitherto exhibited.

Every lady will be cordially welcome. The preparations for this opening have been on a scale calculated to make the event in advance of any yet reached. The display of select models of Paris and New York hats, bonnets, millinery novelties, capes and jackets will be the largest and most attractive ever made by Miss Delaney.

Store open until 10 p.m. during opening days.

DAILY TEMPERATURE RECORD.

The following are readings of the official thermometers for this morning, as well as the highest and lowest yesterday—shade temperature:—

	Highest.	Lowest.
To-day, 7 a. m.		15° above zero
Yesterday	27° above	12° above

The fall of snow on Saturday night and Sunday morning was the heaviest of the season, with the exception, perhaps, of the snow-storm of December 4th, when probably as much snow fell as on Saturday night. During March of last year no snow whatever fell, and at this date the ground was entirely bare and many of the spring birds had arrived.

A MARCH WEDDING.

Celebration of the Hayden—Robinson Nuptials.

The home of Mrs. Thomas Robinson, Emily, was the scene of a very pleasing event on Tuesday, it being the marriage of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth (Lily) Robinson, to Mr. John A. Hayden, a prosperous farmer of Hallock, Minn., the Rev. E. Roberts of Omemee, officiating.

Miss Edith Robinson, a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mr. W. R. Cornell, of Lindsay, assisted the groom through the ordeal.

After the interesting ceremony had been performed, the guests numbering about thirty, (all immediate relatives of the bride), sat down to a sumptuous repast, which had been prepared for the occasion by the bride's mother and sister, Miss Edith, after which a very pleasant and sociable evening was spent in conversation, games and singing.

The bride was the recipient of many handsome and costly presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden left on Thursday evening for their future home at Hallock, taking with them the best wishes of their numerous friends for their success and happiness. Mrs. Hayden will be much missed in the Methodist church at Omemee having been a member; she was also an active member of the E. L. of C. E. and a regular attendant of the Sabbath School.

From a Well-known Herd.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says: Mr. W. H. Hamilton has imported a tremendously swell cow, a thoroughbred Jersey from the celebrated herd owned by Mr. Treanum of Smith. It is a very pretty animal. The Jerseys are coming much into favour as a village cow. The flow of milk is not large, but the quality is exceptionally fine. A cross of Ayrshire and Jersey is said to give very desirable results, being more hardy than the thoroughbred Jersey and having a larger flow of milk.

THE NEW COVERT TOP COAT.

For Spring Wear has got the call again this season. It is a modified type of the real Covert Coat, which is short and boxy. The leading features is that it is not so short as the real Covert, and is much less boxy. In length it ranges from 34 to 35 inches for a man of average height. It must look broad, with well-rounded shoulders, a bottom fullness, the greater part of which will be placed at the sides. Well vented side-seams, collar of the material, shorter than the Chesterfield but broader and squarer in effect.

The material will be Covert coatings in neat drab shades, Venetians and Rainproof Cloth of pleasing mixtures.

A range of new patterns in Soverign Trousers ($5.00) to select from.

"LECTURES TO MEN" ARE APPRECIATED.

REV. E. V. STEVENSON'S SERIES COMPLETED YESTERDAY.

Lessons of the Lectures Summed up—A Formal Address Presented, Expressive of Appreciation of the Course.

Yesterday afternoon Rev. E. V. Stevenson delivered the closing address of a series of "Lectures to Men" that have been presented by him at St. John's for the past 12 weeks, on Sunday afternoon, though Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rev. H. Symonds and Rev. W. L. Armitage contributed to the series.

Yesterday afternoon there was a large attendance, principally of the men of the congregation, though it is a pleasure to note that many of other communions were present, and have also been regular attendants upon the course.

Rev. Mr. Stevenson began his closing address by referring to the circumstance that this would be his last opportunity before his departure from Peterborough of addressing those who had attended the course of lectures concluded that day. The lessons he had endeavoured to impress might now be reviewed and summed up. Though his lectures had been mainly on subjects not directly based upon the religion of Christ, yet there ran through them all a line of Christian thought to show that the only solution of the problems of life that confronted us all, was the laws and principles of the religion of Jesus Christ. His object had been to discuss the burning questions of the day, and if he had been able to present some ideas that would extend their appreciation of the brotherhood of man, his object would have been met. The subject that exercised the most potent influence at the present day was the social question, the relation of man to man. We must keep step with the spirit of the times, and this course of lectures had as their aim to stir up attention to the claims of social questions upon men. If those who had heard these lectures had been impressed by what they had heard, with a sense of their duty in this regard, it was for them to give effect to it in their relations to their fellow men. The claims of citizenship appealed to all good men. All good Christians would be good citizens. It was his desire that the principles of Christ should be impressed upon the community to the lessening of the flagrant sins that were dragging down the work of the Church. If he had stayed longer in Peterborough it would have been his desire, though there would have been many unpleasant features to the task, to seek to bring about a complete readjustment of the social condition of the town as a matter of duty, and he hoped that the men whom he had had the pleasure of addressing would set themselves to the promotion of a similar work. All through this course he said that it had been his aim to show that the only remedy for the social evils that existed was the application of the religion of Christ, and he hoped that he had been able to bring his hearers to a higher recognition of the person and religion of our Lord and Saviour. The only true manly life was that moulded upon the manliness of Jesus Christ. He who desired to move in the world as a complete and sincere man must be a follower of Christ. Pilate spoke a greater truth than he, perhaps, thought, when, as Jesus was arraigned before him, he said "Behold the man." The world had never seen a perfect man till Christ came, and the world would never furnish such another. He had that strong attribute of manliness true courage. He shrank from no temptation; never hesitated, no matter what the risk, to speak the truth, never wavering nor compromising with wrong. This courage was shown through all his life, in the closing hours of his life, and he gave the supreme manifestation of manly courage when he gave his life for the life of the world. Christianity was not something merely sentimental, and as held by some fit, only for women, but something to be aimed at in the lives of those who wished to become true men, to become truly manly. The manliness of Christian life had its place in the world—mingling with men. There were two ways given of serving God. Christ's way was to go into the world. The way of John the Baptist and his disciples to shun the world. We could serve God best, not by isolation but by being men amongst men and striving to impress upon our fellows the manliness of Christ. The speaker said he never had more pleasure in coming closer to men than during the last eighteen months in Peterborough, and he went on to point out that a duty of Christian manliness was to set our face against some things. While courage in its highest form was a grand quality of manhood, he would place purity next or with it. He urged his hearers to set their faces sternly against impurity. Nothing was a greater destroyer of high ideals of life than impurity. Impurity emptied the life of the elements of goodness, while purity was manliness at its best and highest. We had temptations within and without and if we were true men we would subdue the flesh to the will. One great temptation to impurity in life was questionable literature, and the speaker deplored the facility with which evil literature could be obtained in town, and this facility argued a demand which was exercising a baneful influence upon the minds and lives of, especially, young men and boys. He called upon his hearers to frown down foul literature. Courage and purity were two prime essentials of Christian manliness whose importance he desired particularly to impress. He hoped his hearers would realize their duty as citizens of Peterborough and members of the great social family. Every true Christian should be interested in the community and strive to keep its life up to the highest standard of moral courage and personal purity. In conclusion, he urged upon his hearers, if they had been influenced by his addresses, to take up the work of social improvement, and help the spread of the great Christian principles that underlay the brotherhood of man. If this were done, then the speaker would be trully thankful that he had had the privilege of speaking upon the subjects, that had for several Sunday's engaged their attention. His great regret was that as a man he had not been able to do more for men.

THE LECTURER'S APPRECIATED.

At the conclusion of the address, most of those present, except a few who left to early to be apprised of the event, assembled in the school room when the following appreciative address was read.

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson.

DEAR SIR.—We, the members of the congregation of St. John's, as well as several of other communions, who have enjoyed the pleasure and profit of hearing your course of admirable "Lectures to Men" desire, at the close of the series, to express our very cordial appreciation of their excellence in respect of both literary merit and didactic result. We are sure that the research and thought evident in the addresses themselves, and the personal inconvenience and sacrifice of well-earned leisure involved in their preparation and delivery, will on your part be counted no sacrifice, but find abundant compensation in our assurance that these addresses, while they have been replete with the elements of intellectual enjoyment and moral and spiritual instruction, have inspired us with nobler and more practical conceptions of our common "duty towards God and towards our neighbour."

With the memory of these lectures will always be associated the most pleasant recollections of the frank-hearted geniality and kindly courtesy that have made your personal relations to us so pleasant, and it is with quite unfeigned regret that we think of your departure from the town, in which during your residence you have earned a title to universal esteem, both as a clergyman and as a gentleman.

With our formal a-Dieu we would join the wish and prayer for your future success and happiness.

Rev. Mr. Stevenson in reply said that he was completely taken by surprise, which was, however, a most pleasant one, for he thoroughly appreciated the kind references made to his addresses, though he feared they were not up to the standard, described in this address. But he had reason to be greatly gratified, if he had been able to impress them with a practical interest, in a subject that lay very near his heart.

The address, which was beautifully engrossed, by Mr. Pringle was signed by those who had attended the lectures during the winter.

GLADSTONE'S SYMPATHY WITH IRELAND'S CAUSE.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

PETERBOROUGH, St. Patrick's Day, '99.

SIR,—One year ago to-day a great Home Rule banquet was held in London. It was presided over by Mr. John Dillon, M.P., chairman of the Irish National party.

Among the friendly letters received on the occasion was the following from the greatest of English statesmen, W. E. Gladstone. It is so precious—every word of it, so full of encouragement, so fraught with fruit for Ireland, that to forget it so soon would indeed be criminal in Irishmen.

In the humble hope, therefore, of reviving and perpetuating in the hearts of all patriotic Irishmen, within our own sphere at least, the holy sentiment it embodies, I ask the favour of its publication in your liberal paper.

J. W. FITZGERALD.

"ST. PATRICK'S DAY, 1898.

"DEAR MR. DILLON,—I send a word of sympathy for the banquet on St. Patrick's Day.

"Your cause is in your own hands.

"If Ireland is disunited her cause so long remains hopeless; if, on the contrary, she knows her own mind and is one in spirit, that cause is irresistible.

"With kind regards and good wishes, I am, dear Mr. Dillon,

"Yours faithfully,

"(Sgd.) W. E. GLADSTONE."

HANGING OF PREVOST.

The Port Arthur Murderer Launched Into the Unknown According to Law —Protested His Innocence.

Port Arthur, March 18.—The execution of Oliver Prevost for the murder of the swineherders, Rene Dabin and Ferdinand Carriere, on Feb. 10, 1897, took place yesterday morning. Only about 25 officials and others witnessed the affair, and there was no demonstration. A crowd of about 50 men and boys gathered on the street in front of the jail.

When Radcliffe requested Prevost to hold out his arms to be pinioned just before the march to the scaffold, the latter said: "I submit, but you are hanging an innocent man. You are only doing your duty, but I am innocent."

Sharp at 8 o'clock the march to the scaffold began, and was led by the sheriff, followed by Prevost, dressed in a black serge suit, supported on either side by Turnkey Connor and Radcliffe, Rev. Father Neault and Jail Surgeon Macdonald. During the march Prevost's face bore a haggard, yellowish appearance. His lips moved rapidly in prayer, but no sound came from them. The movement of the lips increased as the steps leading to the scaffold were reached and the ascent began. Arrived on the scaffold, words, at first low, but ever increasing in volume and vehemence, fell from his lips, addressed to the Virgin Mary and Jesus, praying for mercy. Prevost's steps faltered on the march, but not enough to give his assistants any trouble.

During the adjusting of the noose and black cap the prisoner prayed steadily. Within a half-minute after arriving on the scaffold Radcliffe had completed preparations, the trap was sprung, and the body shot out of sight. Four minutes later the pulse had ceased beating and life was pronounced extinct, the neck having been broken. The usual formal inquest was held when the body was cut down a half-hour later, followed by the burial of the body in the angle of the jail yard. The execution was a perfect piece of work, Radcliffe doing his work quietly.

The following words in French were found in the cell which Prevost occupied, and were written yesterday morning: "Oliver Prevost, 17th March, sentenced for a crime which he did not commit. What is discouraging is to think of dying such a death, for which he is not culpable. Dieu me preserable; Dieu me otier."

The crime for which Prevost paid the penalty was a most cold-blooded one. The two murdered men were shot in the back by Prevost, who endeavored to implicate Mme. Gauthier, who was his housekeeper. After the shooting Prevost and the woman went back to the shack and robbed the house and bodies. Next morning he went back and set fire to the house, burning the bodies beyond recognition. Prevost was suspected, but was allowed to leave, taking the woman and her children with him. He was followed by detectives, and at Pembroke was arrested for larceny and sentenced to seven years' imprisonment. He made a confession, charging the woman, Gauthier, with the crime. She turned Queen's evidence, and it was on her testimony that Prevost was convicted.

A TRUE STATEMENT

By Foreman White, of the Hamilton Screw Works.

Hamilton, March 6.—If a vote of the people were to be taken to ascertain which is the most popular medicine on the market, Dodd's Kidney Pills would lead by a large majority.

One of the latest cures by that grand remedy is that of Foreman T. H. White, of the Screw Works here, who testifies that he was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills of Kidney Disease of eight years' standing, after other medicines had failed.

Mr. White says: "One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me, four boxes cured me. Publish this statement if you wish. It is true in every particular."

Toronto Live Stock.

Toronto, March 18.—Receipts of live stock here yesterday were large—69 car loads, composed of 1,250 cattle, 800 sheep and yearling lambs, 50 calves and 1,530 hogs. This, together with 46 loads on Thursday, made the largest market for some time past. The quality of fat cattle, considering the large number, was better than it has been for several markets; but still a large percentage would have paid the farmers for feeding from a month to six weeks longer. Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption, and that no medicine could cure her. Her Druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six new bottles, found herself sound and well and does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Sold by all Druggists, large bottles 50 cents and $1.00

He says: My wife was most terribly afflicted with protruding piles, and contemplated a surgical operation. A friend of ours recommended the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a complete cure. We were so pleased with the ointment that I tried it myself, as I have been troubled with an unsightly skin affliction which covered the lower part of my face.

For 25 years I suffered untold agony, and was treated by the best medical skill in the United States. I consider Dr. Chase's Ointment worth its weight in gold for piles and skin disease.

Left Baby on the Bumpers.

Buffalo, March 18.—Warrants have been issued and officers sent to St. Catharines to bring back a man and woman, supposed to be Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Coalsin, who reside on a farm there. They are wanted here to answer a charge of abandoning their infant baby. The child was found in a basket on the bumpers of a freight car in the yard of the Delaware & Lackawanna at Cheektowaga, just outside the city line. The Coalsins came to Cheektowaga a short time ago, and on Monday suddenly left for St. Catharines, after abandoning their child.

Not Confirmed in London.

London, March 18.—The report current in high circles in Vienna to the effect that the Princess Victoria Alexandra Olga Mary, second daughter of the Prince of Wales, is to marry Prince George of Greece, cannot be confirmed here. Princess Victoria was born July 6, 1868, and Prince George is 29 years old.

No Catholic University for Ireland.

London, March 18.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Liberal Unionists held yesterday, the Duke of Devonshire announced that the present Government would not create a Catholic university in Ireland.

Indian Duty on Sugar.

London, March 18.—The Secretary of State for India, Lord George Hamilton, in answering a question in the House of Commons yesterday, said the object of the Indian Government in imposing countervailing duties upon bounty-fed sugar was to prevent the vast indigenous trade, based upon free enterprise and industry, being undermined by subsidized products of foreign countries. Public opinion in India, he said, in conclusion, unanimously approved the countervailing duty.

Boisson's Heavy Sentence.

Paris, March 18.—Ex-Lieut. Boisson, alias Durand, formerly of a French infantry regiment, who was arrested in this city on Feb. 5 on the charge of carrying on an illicit correspondence with a foreign government, involving military secrets, was yesterday sentenced to five years' imprisonment, to pay a fine of 1,000 francs and to be placed under police supervision for ten years.

WARD'S BLOOD & NERVE PILLS

READ THE PROOF!

GENTLEMEN,—I have for a long time needed something to make blood and build up my system. My blood was watery and thin, lacking strength and vitality. Last January a friend said:—"Why not try Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills? They will supply the oxygen your blood needs and give you health and strength." I told him I was very skeptical as to any benefit that could be derived from any proprietary medicine and had no faith in them. There the matter rested until four months ago, when reading so much about what Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have done for so many people with impoverished blood, I concluded to give them a trial. I have taken four boxes and my unbelief so far as Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills are concerned has been entirely removed. They are a splendid blood builder and strength restorer, and an invaluable medicine for weak, enervated people. This has been my experience, they having given me strength of body and strong healthy blood.

CURTAIN RAISERS.

The James-Kidder-Warde company is to revive "Matamora."

"Kid" McCoy is to take a vaudeville company on the road.

Tommaso Salvini entered his seventy-first year last New Year's day.

Tamagno, the tenor, has given his daughter $900,000 as her marriage portion.

Minnie Palmer is the latest legitimate star to succumb to the temptation of a big salary to enter vaudeville.

Signor Mancinelli's opera, "Ero e Leandro," will have its American production in New York early in the spring.

Mabel Tempest, sister of Marie Tempest, died recently in London. She was a member of the "Little Miss Nobody" company.

Willie Collier is said to have done excellent business in California, proving rather an exception to the general rule this season.

Scalchi will make her farewell tour next winter, but she thinks it best to say that she will not join forces with Patti for the series.

W. S. Cleveland, the well known minstrel manager, is now engaged in conducting the business of the Buffalo Foot Cycle Skate company.

Mrs Fiske continues to maintain her independent attitude. She says, "So long as I play upon the stage I shall have no association with the theatrical trust."

Andrew Mack's new play for next season will be "The Last of the Rohans," a comedy of Irish life, written for him by Ramsay Morris, author of "An Irish Gentleman."

Charles F. Coghlan will begin an engagement in New York in April, producing his new drama, an original work, not based upon "The Tale of Two Cities," as has been reported, or upon any other novel or play. The title of Mr. Coghlan's drama is "Citizen Pierre."

He Fooled the Surgeons.

All doctors told Remick Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Rectal Fistula, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with five boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the purest Pile cure on Earth, and the best Salve in the World. 25 cents a box. Sold by all Druggists.

An African King.

King Lewanika's costume was rather remarkable. On his head he wore a black, broad brimmed felt hat over a scarlet nightcap. A long bright blue dressing gown, much embroidered with scarlet braid in Manchester style; a flannel shirt, tweed waistcoat, trousers and aggressively new yellow boots completed his costume. This was evidently his holiday attire, for on other days his scarlet nightcap was replaced by a blue Tam O'Shanter and the dressing gown by a shoddy ulster.

We seated ourselves opposite the door looking out on the river, while the rest of my party were grouped in a circle round us. It was not etiquette for any but the king and his interpreter to enter the hut, so Letia and the councilors remained outside while we carried on desultory conversation on the subject of our respective journeys, hunting, etc., enlivened by the gentle tinkling of the piano and the subdued singing of the king's choristers.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Misunderstood.

The words of some hymns are sometimes misunderstood, and the misunderstanding is often ridiculous. A good story with this as a theme is being told.

A young countryman had promised to contribute $2 to a fund to buy music books as soon as he disposed of a calf, but failed to do so. He went to choir practice one night a little late, and just as he entered the door the choir began to sing the well known Sunday school song "The Half Was Never Told."

This sounded to him like "The calf was never sold," and he started in to thrash several of the young men in the choir.—Philadelphia Call.

TEA TABLE ETIQUETTE.

Quaint Customs Once Observed by English Dames.

Tea drinking has become very fashionable among us of late years, almost as much so as it was in England a century ago, but the prevailing customs at the table are different. The "teacup times of hood and hoop" had their own etiquette, of a sort not likely to be revived. What should we think now of a fashionable lady who cooled her tea with her breath? Yet Young says of a certain bewildering Lady Betty:

Her two red lips affected zephyrs blow
To cool the Bohea and inflame the beau,
While one white finger and a thumb conspire
To lift the cup and make the world admire.

Again a passage in contemporary literature shows that it was a lack of good manners to take much cream or sugar in one's tea. Says a lady of quality to her daughter; "I must further advise you, Harriet, not to heap such mountains of sugar into your tea, nor to pour such a deluge of cream in. People will certainly take you for the daughter of a dairymaid."

Certain other customs may be remembered in this country among us who had grandmothers trained in the ceremonies of a later day. One of them consisted in putting the spoon in the cup to show that no more tea was desired; another was that of turning over the cup in the saucer for the same purpose.

Etiquette also demanded that the tea should be tasted from the spoon, and that the hostess should then inquire, "Is your tea agreeable?" Certain scrupulous old ladies ask that now, and the question savors of a more sedate and gentle day than this.—St. Louis Republic.

AN EXPENSIVE EXPERIMENT.

The Head Bookkeeper Finally Balances His Accounts.

A south side man who is a clerk in one of the leading banks on this side of the river was in a communicative mood last night. During a conversation about various things he took on a retrospective air and said, "There is nothing like the faithful discharge of one's duties, but it is sometimes an expensive experiment."

On being questioned as to the cause of the remark he replied: "Well, it reminds me of an experience I had while employed in a prominent Fourth avenue bank. I don't mind telling it to you. The head bookkeeper was a character in many ways. Method was his hobby. He had a way of doing everything, and he never varied from the rules he set down. Exactness in his accounts was a particular fad, and he spared no pains in carrying his ideas into effect. One afternoon in balancing our books it was found he was short 1 cent. We searched and searched, but when it came to the usual time for going home that cent was still missing.

"Do you think the head bookkeeper would allow us to go? Not much. Several of us had engagements we wanted to fulfill, but it made no difference. Supper time came, and we were no further ahead than when we started. Headed by the bookkeeper, we repaired to a neighboring restaurant for supper and then returned to work. After several hours the missing cent was found and the accounts balanced. But in figuring up it was discovered that in searching for the discrepancy of 1 cent the bank had incurred a bill for suppers to the amount of $7.50."—Detroit Free Press.

All American Children.

"Do you not have trouble with so many nationalities?" the spectator asked of the principal of a large school in the crowded tenement part of the city. "Oh, we hang the flag over the school platform," was the answer, "and have the regular exercise of saluting it, and the children become very patriotic indeed. They will not own, in most cases, that they are not Americans." "Yes," said the other teacher, "I often ask, 'Will the German children in the room stand up?' The Germans are more wedded to their fatherland, apparently, than other immigrants, for a few—though not by any means half—of them usually rise to this invitation. 'Now let the Italian children stand,' generally brings no response at all, though the school is crowded with them in my district. But when I end up by saying, 'Will the American children stand up?' the whole school rises joyfully."—Outlook.

Baby Eczema and Scald Head.

Infants and young children are peculiarly subject to this disorder, and if not promptly arrested it will eventually become chronic. Dr. Chase made a special study of eczema and disease of the skin and we can confidently recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to cure all forms of eczema. The first application soothes the irritation and puts the little sufferer to rest.

Short Procession—Long Tramp.

Montreal, March 18.—There is no doubt that St. Patrick's Day enthusiasm is on the wane in Montreal, although the celebration yesterday was fairly successful. The procession was a short one, but the distance traversed, from St. Patrick's to St. Gabriel Church, Point St. Charles, was very long. The sermon preached by Rev. Father Fallon was an eloquent one, and on the whole the day was one to be remembered. The usual concerts took place in the evening.

IRVINGITES.

Survival of the Curious Sect Started by Carlyle's Wife's Lover.

It is somewhat hard to realize that an age so materialistic as this, with its decay of faith all around, should still see such an organization as that of the Irvingite sect, or, to give its own name, the Catholic and Apostolic church. The sect was founded, as readers of Mrs. Oliphant well know, by Edward Irving, the young Scotch clergyman who was the teacher and then the sweetheart, who ought to have been the husband, of Jane Welsh Carlyle.

The tragic story has often been told, among others by my unworthy self. Irving loved Jane Welsh, and Jane Welsh loved him, and in both cases they probably loved each other to the end. But Irving had been engaged to a young woman, the daughter of a fellow minister, before he had met the bright, black eyed, olive skinned gypsy with the sharp tongue, the domineering character, the comfortable fortune, the fiery and vehement nature of Jane Welsh, and the lady and her father held the young fellow to his bond.

Sick at heart, tired of suspense, stung in her pride by the suggestion of an interfering but well meaning friend that she was still dying for love of Irving, Jane Welsh was precipitated into her marriage with Carlyle. The sequel of the story was as tragic as its opening. Jane Welsh led what I have always regarded a life of torment with Carlyle, and in the end her heart burst, and she died in her carriage in Hyde park without a moment of preparation or warning, and Froude, looking at her face, from which death's effacing fingers had cleared away the heavy and harsh lines of sunless days and sleepless nights, of unsatisfied longings and mute revolts, declared that it was the most impressive on which he had ever looked. And Carlyle was left to loneliness and remorse, to that vain appeal to the deaf to hear, to the dead to feel and to the harshly treated to forgive by which so many of us pay the penalty of our unkindness to the living.

Irving ended, to my mind, almost as tragically. Popular preacher for awhile, with churches crammed to suffocation, and all the blare and tumult of the clerical celebrity, he ended by losing his senses, and then—why, then he founded a new religion! There was to be a second coming of the Saviour; the gift of tongues was supposed to come to the second race of apostles as to the first, and the officers of the congregation were called angels and archangels.—Mainly About People.

Divers Are Bad Tempered.

One of the peculiar effects of diving is that it makes one bad tempered, says a writer in The Outlook. As the irritability passes away as soon as one is drawn up, it is only reasonable to suppose that it is caused by the unusual pressure of air inside the dress, though in what particular way it acts I cannot say. My experience and that of other divers whom I have questioned is that the merest trifle may make one furious. There is always something wrong. The lines are held too tight or too slack, or there is too much air in the dress or too little, or the boat is drifting too fast, or shells are not plentiful enough, or the dress is leaking, or the face glass is not clean, and so forth.

I have occasionally become so angry at some imaginary trouble that I have given the signal to be pulled up with the express intention of "licking" every one in the boat. As I neared the surface, however, and the pressure decreased my fighting spirit would gradually wane, and by the time the face glass was unscrewed I would be so ridiculously good natured as to forget entirely my errand.

The right leg is far more subject to accidents than the left. It has been found that the ratio is about 18 serious accidents to the right leg to three to the left.

The practice of kissing under the mistletoe is of very ancient origin, as it dates from the days of the Druids, when no doubt it had a religious meaning.

FULL MANLY VIGOR is a priceless boon to all who possess it. Time was when unhappy men were willing to exchange the possessions of a king for the principal elements of a perfect man. The same conditions might exist today were it not so generally known that a quick, positive and permanent cure has been found for the very worst bodily affliction that can befall any man. The ERIE MEDICAL CO., 64 Niagara St., Buffalo, N.Y., will send their great cure to be paid for if satisfactory, or returned at their expense—no cost to the patient—if it is not the wonder-worker they claim. Write the company about it. Full information sent sealed.

A NEW INVENTION!

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which lights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. After Serious Sickness

THE HEART AND NERVES NEED STRENGTHENING—THE BLOOD REQUIRES ENRICHING.

Nothing will do this like Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

After such serious diseases as Typhoid Fever, Scarlet Fever, Pneumonia, Diphtheria, La Grippe, etc., the heart and nerves are left in an extremely weakened condition, and the blood is thin and watery.

Getting back health and strength again seems slow work.

At this time there is nothing that will help a convalescent to health like Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

They impart vitality to the heart and nerves, enrich the blood and invigorate the whole system. Since the recent epidemic of Grippe, thousands of people have not regained their strength—don't feel their old self yet. A few boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will banish all the evil after effects of this disease and rapidly restore health and animation. Mr. T. Barnicott, with Messrs. Hutchinson & Thompson, Aylmer, Ont., made the following statement:

"About a year ago I was quite sick with La Grippe, which left my system in an exhausted condition.

"I could not regain strength and was very nervous and sleepless at night, getting up in the morning as tired and unrefreshed as when I went to bed. I was very listless, had no energy, and was altogether in a miserable state of health.

"Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I got at Richard's Drug Store, changed me from a condition of misery to one of bright and happy healthfulness.

"They built up my system, strengthened my nerves, restored vigorous circulation of the blood, and in fact made a new man of me. They are a splendid remedy for all enfeebled and nervous conditions, and I heartily recommend them to any one suffering from the after effects of Grippe."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure Palpitation, Dizzy and Faint Spells, Shortness of Breath, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Anaemia, Dyspepsia, St. Vitus Dance, Partial Paralysis, Female Troubles, Weakness and General Debility.

Sold by all druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. a box or 3 for $1.25, T. Milburn & Co., Toronto, Ont.

As to Providence.

A country parson went to see a humble parishioner and, if possible, to comfort him some little under heavy trouble which had befallen. The pastor found the homely old man in his desolate cottage alone. He said many things, and added that he must try to take all affliction humbly, as appointed to us by Providence.

"Yes," said the good old man, who was imperfectly instructed in theology, "that's right enough, that is. But somehow that there old Providence have bin ag'in me all along, but I reckon as there's one above as'll put a stopper on he if he go too fur."—Baltimore News.

Half Sick Half Well

Many persons have their good day and their bad day. Others are about half sick all the time. They have headache, backache, and are restless and nervous. Food does not taste good, and the digestion is poor; the skin is dry and sallow and disfigured with pimples or eruptions; sleep brings no rest and work is a burden.

What is the cause of all this? Impure blood.

And the remedy?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

It clears out the channels through which poisons are carried from the body. When all impurities are removed from the blood nature takes right hold and completes the cure.

If there is constipation, take Ayer's Pills. They awaken the drowsy action of the liver; they cure biliousness.

INTRICATE OPERATIONS.

The Bobcaygeon Independent refers to several recent operations in the Nicholls Hospital as follows:

Some weeks ago John Johnston of North Verulam, was sent to the Nicholls' Hospital, suffering from a case of strangulated hernia, which is a break in the inner lining that supports the bowels, through which a portion more or less, of the bowel protrudes. It was not expected that he would recover, but after an operation by Dr. McCullough the protrusion was put back, and the rupture or break is healing. This case was in very bad condition when operated upon, and the recovery has been retarded by the formation of an abscess, but a report received this week from the hospital states that Johnston is gaining in flesh rapidly and doing well.

Last Monday Mr. William Irwin of Dunsford, came to the village for advice, being scarcely able to move. After an examination Dr. Bonnell arranged by telegraph for his admission to the hospital, and he went off immediately. The protrusion in his case was much larger than Johnston's, but Dr. McCullough at once performed a most skilful and successful operation. The rupture was on the left side, and so large was the protruding bowel that an incision of seven inches had to be made. The bowel had formed several adhesions that had to be liberated, and one of the peculiarities of the case was that the vermiform appendix, which should be on the right hand side, was firmly adhered to the bowel, and was part of the protrusion at the rupture. The operations by skilled surgeons are most astonishing. There was a man deliberately cut open, his bowels, trimmed, cleaned and coiled comfortably into the hold in neat shipshape, and four hours after the operation his temperature was only a trifle over normal, and twenty four hours after he was as right as a fiddle.

The Independent should have mentioned in portion to Dr. Carmichael and Dr. Young, that they assisted in the operation.

SIGNS OF SPRING AND EASTER.

Some Surprising Spring Specialties for Men, Young Men and Boys at H. LeBrun & Co.'s.

The approach of Spring and Easter bring into play thoughts of new clothing. The early spring holidays, beginning with Good Friday, remind gentlemen that their shabby winter attire must be changed for new spring styles. The question is—"Where to get suited?" Visit Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co., and you are at headquarters, where you have your pick from a heaping stock, and where price and style are of equal importance. Men's and young men's nobby spring overcoats, made to order on the premises, are awaiting your inspection, with a $13 price ticket, the best overcoat value in town. Stylish [illegible] made to order in faultless fashion from $13 to $18. These prices should come home to you. But LeBrun and Co.'s "Bargain Counter" runs all round the store. Low prices and good qualities are not confined to ready-made clothing, in which you can partake of finding what you want at lower prices than similar clothing is usually sold. New Spring Tweed Suits at $5, [illegible] well worth your criticism. Our [illegible] Overcoat at $5, $6, $7 and $8 are very similar. If they do not [illegible] as they did in the [illegible] Gents' Hats for boys, [illegible] this line, fit neat, [illegible] general run, [illegible] should call in and see these [illegible] rigs for boys in [illegible] patterns from $1 up. We give [illegible] equal to five per cent. on [illegible] to encourage the cash system. LeBrun & Co.

The best medicine money can buy for [illegible], nervousness, and all stomach [illegible] troubles is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE GRAND LODGE OF THE SONS OF ENGLAND.

CLOSE OF THE GRAND LODGE MEETING AT OTTAWA.

Visits From Senator Vidal and Rev. E. F. Taylor—Changes in the Interest of Juvenile Members.

The twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Supreme Grand Lodge of the Sons of England was brought to a close at midnight Friday, the final business being the installation of the new Executive.

A constitutional change that will materially help the juvenile lodge was effected by making half the sick dues of a member who has transferred from a juvenile to an adult lodge payable by the latter when the member is not entitled to full benefits. The periods of payment of sick dues in the juvenile lodges were also reduced from twenty-six to thirteen weeks, the change applying to full and half benefits. Other useful legislation facilitating the formation of juvenile lodges was adopted. What by many has long been regarded as a weakness to the society was removed to-day by the adoption of the clause which sought to place upon the Grand Lodge the onus of protecting members of defunct lodges, who, through advancing age or sickness, could not obtain membership in a subordinate lodge. The result of the final vote on this clause was received with loud applause, the debate having a long and stubborn one.

The better part of the afternoon session was occupied in the discussion on the report of the committee on referred motions. The report relative to the readjustment of the rates in the sick and funeral department proposed a complete change in the economy of subordinate lodges whereby there would be a separation of the funds into sick benefit, funeral and management funds. The subject is one which, in various shapes, has come before the Grand Lodge for the last three years, and it was felt that a satisfatory settlement had at last been reached by the presentation of a completely worked out plan, which gave added strength at those points where such was deemed necessary and removed inconsistencies in methods of funding. The proposed plan was explained to all in a masterly manner by Mr. H. Furje, Supreme Grand Auditor. The debate that followed was of a most exhaustive character, those participating with but few exceptions endorsing the principle embodied in the report, but several speakers depreciated changes of such a sweeping being made until the subordinate lodges had an opportunity to pass upon them. An amendment deferring action until the next Grand Lodge was finally carried by a small majority.

Considerable interest centered in the report of the Grand Lodge Trustees, particularly in that portion relating to the sum of $3,000 secured by second mortgage on Shaftesbury Hall. It was with considerable satisfaction that the Trustees reported that the Hall Company had sold the property for $61,500, which would leave about 25 cents on the dollar for the shareholders, among whom are many lodges as well as individual members of the society. Arrangements had been almost completed for the payment of the mortgage. During the day a telegram was received from the society's solicitor in Toronto, stating that the mortgage had been discharged. The news was received with applause. The Grand President and Past Grand President Barlow Cumberland, referred in warm terms to the manner in which the Trustees of the past year, Messrs. Elliott and Boxall, had performed their unusually difficult task.

During the day the following resolution was adopted: "That on the occasion of the anniversary of the patron saint's day of old Ireland, March 17, 1899, the Supreme Grand Lodge of the Sons of England Benevolent Society, now in session in the City of Ottawa, hereby extends hearty greetings to the loyal Irishmen of Ottawa, through the St. Patrick's Literary and Scientific Association, and wishes all good wishes for their prosperity.

A committee was appointed to report to the next Grand Lodge some practicable scheme for ensuring district lodges direct representation at Grand Lodge.

SNOWPLOUGHING.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—Two weeks ago there appeared in the columns of your valuable paper, references to the system of snowploughing now in use in our town. I am quite in sympathy with the writer of the letter that appeared at that time, and agree with all he says in it, and while the discomforts of the last storm are very forcibly being impressed upon us, permit me, in the interest of pedestrians and particularly in the interests of those of our women who are compelled by circumstances to be out, to call attention also to the disgraceful state of affairs that exists in the cleaning (?) of our sidewalks.

We all know how we were obliged to unnecessarily wade through inches of loose snow the greater part of Saturday, and that if one wished to go to worship yesterday, before eleven o'clock, one was compelled to labour knee deep through the beautiful—at least such was the state of the walks of the section of which I have definite knowledge. So much for recent examples of the work not being done in time.

Again, after the plough has gone over the places where the sidewalks used to be what is the result? One might almost stop to wonder how that sidewalk in places (and sometimes in very long places, too,) managed to slide so far sideways as to be entirely out of sight. It seems not to matter much where the plough goes so long as it does go—sometimes. I have in my mind an instance of Saturday last where, for the whole distance of my lawn, about twelve inches of my walk was partly cleared, and the remainder of the width of the walk was piled up with snow in a manner with which we are too familiar. Little or no attention is paid to crossings. The hand shovel is unknown to the driver.

I am not acquainted with the contractor of our section, neither am I trammelled by any knowledge of the contract. It may be that the contractor does a good deal more work than his price will pay him for. But these things I do know—the way the work is at present carried out would disgrace a country village, and if one wishes his sidewalk cleaned he has to get out with a shovel and do it.

If the system of ploughing is to be continued, why no not have it done in a proper and workmanlike manner, whenever necessity arises, whether the storm be over or not? If the cost of removing the snow is to come out of the pockets of the people, then let the people have value for their money. Let us have what we pay for, and if we do not already do so, pay for what we get.

[illegible] is fresh in the minds of [illegible] for the present condition [illegible] when "snow ploughing" and "removing the snow from the side walks" seem to be diametrically opposite terms, let them see to it that satisfactory arrangements are made for cleaning from our walks the snow of next winter.

CITIZEN.

Peterborough, March 20, 1899.

SNOW PLOWING.

(To the Editor of the Examiner.)

Dear Sir,—Our snow plowing is generally done in a most disgracefully slipshod and careless way. This is bad enough, but a case of specific and apparently wilful neglect came under my notice yesterday. The contractor, on Antrim street, after doing the north side, only did a part of the south side, turning off and taking the middle of the street, and leaving the walk in front of two lots untouched; this compelled the occupants of the two houses on the lots neglected, to wade through snow knee deep to reach the partly cleared walk. This was so evidently and wilfully done, that I think the authorities should take practical action in the matter. Every ratepayer contributes his share to the snow ploughing expenses, and every ratepayer is entitled to decent treatment.

CHURCH CHIMES.

"Jerusalem, Behold thy King"—Parker, was the title of a finely rendered solo by Mr. J. A. Culverwell in All Saints' church last evening.

The solo, "Jesus, I Love Thee," was exceedingly well sung by Miss L. Passoe during the offertory at the evening service in the George street church yesterday.

The evening anthem, "Glory to God in the Highest," was excellently rendered by the George street choir yesterday, the solo passages being taken by Miss Clara Bellegham.

Special services will be held at Grace Church this week, beginning this evening. Rev. J. E. Kilgour and others will be in charge. Special music will be provided. The meetings open at 8 p.m.

Pastor Salmon, of Toronto, conducted the services at Bethany Tabernacle yesterday, and will continue the special meetings each evening this week. He will be assisted by Rev. Mr. Russe.

The morning anthem in the George street church entitled "Just as I am," was nicely rendered by the choir yesterday. A very sweet hymn-anthem entitled "Let us Pray," was also rendered with beautiful effect.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST.

Rev. Mr. Bastow preached yesterday morning upon the efficacy of prayer, hoping by so doing to help develop the prayer-meeting spirit. This forcible presentation of the subject could not fail to have, to a great extent, the desired effect. The text was Psalm 65 2 "Oh, Thou that hearest prayer."

He said that it is very important that we should have clean and strong faith in the efficacy of prayer, for prayer occupies a conspicious place in the Christian life. We become Christians through prayer. Usually we begin by turning to God with such supplication as "God be merciful to me, a sinner," "Lord help, or I perish." The fact that Paul prayed, was the infallible sign that he had began the Christian life. Then we continue the Christian life by prayer. Usefulness also depends upon prayer. John Wesley said, "I preach as though everything depends upon me, and I pray as though everything depends upon God." We need clear ideas as to how to pray, and the utmost possible assurances of the efficacy of prayer. First, He is called in the text the Hearer of prayer. He has always honoured this title from the time that men began to pray until this very day. He has both the disposition and the power to bestow upon all suppliants whatever is best for them to receive. In the second place, He has implanted the instinct to pray. Plutarch said, "There is no city where there is not a temple and where men do not pray," and Guizot, the French author of "The History of Civilization," said that amongst all the moral instincts there was none more universal and invincible than the instinct to pray. If God has implanted the disposition certainly he will answer it when it is intelligently and devoutly exercised in harmony with his own teachings. A third proof of the efficacy of prayer is the numerous rich promises that are given in the Bible. A fourth argument is the gift of the Spirit to teach us to pray. Whatsoever the Spirit teaches us to ask, surely the Father will bestow, otherwise there would be discord in the centre of all harmony. A fifth argument for the efficacy of prayer is the atonement and intercession of Jesus, which are designed to bring us into fellowship with God and secure from Him every needed good. The facts of history were the last argument named. Of these facts we have an abundant stock in Scripture, in the history of the church and in the biographies of Christian men. Facts are stubborn things. We believe in them when we cannot explain them. George Mueller and his orphan asylum is one of the striking instances of this sort in modern times. Surely all this should lead us to exercise the utmost confidence in the efficacy of prayer and to make a diligent use of the privilege.

Recent Scientific Research

Has, it seems, resulted in a sure cure for catarrh, a most offensive and insidious disease, until lately considered incurable. This remedy is called Catarrhozone and is simply inhaled, being carried by the air directly to the diseased parts of the throat or nasal passages, thus superseding former disgusting and useless snuffs and ointments. Catarrh, bronchitis, irritable throat, &c., yield to Catarrhozone every time. Write for a free sample of Catarrhozone to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Lake Sailors' Wages Raised.

Cleveland, O., March 20.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Lake Carriers' Association, held here Saturday, it was decided to advance the wages of sailors $5 per month for the coming season. The advance applies not only to sailors, but to all kinds of labor on a vessel, from engineer to deckhand. The advance takes effect on all boats owned by members of the association, which are about four-fifths of the vessels afloat on the lakes. The advance will be general, however, as the owners of boats not in the association are forced to pay the association rates of wages.

Death Rather Than Arrest.

Winnipeg, March 20.—G. Lemprecht, secretary-treasurer of the municipality of Rhineland, who was short in his accounts $8,700, has committed suicide at Altona, where he resided. A warrant had been issued for his arrest, and as the local constable was about to execute it, Lemprecht shot himself in the head with a revolver, which he always carried. Death ensued in about an hour.

COLONIAL AFFAIRS.

Chamberlain Discusses the Reid Contract in Plain Terms.

PRESIDENT KRUGER SCORED.

The Funeral Obsequies of the Late Lord Herschell—The Talbot Gives Up Her Melancholy Freight — Ungracious Treatment of the Finnish Deputation—Aguinaldo's Ferocious Energy—Cable News.

London, March 21.—During the course of the discussion of the vote on colonial account, in the House of Commons yesterday, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, replied to various colonial questions raised.

With regard to the Reid contract with Newfoundland, he said that to have disallowed or delayed it would have been a tremendous interference upon the part of the Imperial Government with a self-governing colony, and either course would have brought the colony into bankruptcy, for which he would have been held responsible.

Continuing, Mr. Chamberlain remarked that although he shared largely in the opinion in regard to the financial unsoundness of the contract, possibly he might be mistaken, and the Government of the colony might be right. Its Government, however, had made the painful admission that it was incapable of efficiently carrying out large operations which were handed over to the contractor, whom he believed to be competent and honorable.

Speaking of the West Indies, Mr. Chamberlain said he thought it was impossible to give these islands representation in the Government.

Touching the Transvaal question, Mr. Chamberlain said that not one of President Kruger's promises to remedy grievances had been fulfilled.

Mr. Chamberlain asserted that if President Kruger would give the Johannesburgers a real municipality, with control of their own educational system and civil police, as he could do without the slightest derogation to the interests and dignity of the Transvaal, he would remove nine out of ten Uitlanders' grievances. Great Britain, Mr. Chamberlain then pointed out, could only intervene in the event of a breach of the London convention, or if the comity of nations was not observed. As the paramount power in South Africa, Great Britain could make friendly suggestions, but he (Mr. Chamberlain) did not believe for a moment that they would be successful now, and, therefore, it would be undignified to make them.

Mr. Chamberlain concluded with saying: "As long as the present conditions continue they constitute a real danger. We are watching the situation most carefully, but thus far there has been nothing to justify an ultimatum, and, failing compliance, war, which seems to have been suggested by a previous speaker."

AGUINALDO IS FURIOUS.

Gen. Lagarda Decapitated for Suggesting Peace Overtures.

Manila, March 21.—It is reported on good authority that Aguinaldo is taking extreme measures to suppress signs calculated to cause a cessation of hostilities. On Friday last General Lagarda visited Malolos for the purpose of advising Aguinaldo to quit. He argued with the insurgent leader and attempted to convince him of the folly of his persistence in the face of overwhelming odds. Aguinaldo was furious at the advice and ordered General Lagarda to be executed immediately.

The unfortunate General was promptly decapitated.

LORD HERSCHELL'S REMAINS.

Ceremonies on Landing Them in England —Now at His Late Home.

Portsmouth, Eng., March 21.—The British cruiser Talbot, from New York on March 8, which arrived off Spithead Sunday with the remains of the late Baron Herschell on board, was berthed at the dockyard here yesterday morning. The casket containing the body was disembarked at 2.30 p.m.

The whole crew of the Talbot was drawn up on the upper deck of the cruiser when the casket, covered with a Union Jack, was borne ashore by eight petty officers and carried to the railroad car.

The Body in London.

London, March 21.—On the arrival here last evening from Portsmouth of the remains of Lord Herschell, the casket was taken in a modest hearse to the late residence of the deceased in Grosvenor Gardens.

POPE LEO'S GIFT.

Queen of England to Receive a Statue of the Christ.

London, March 21. — The growing cordiality between the Vatican and the Court of St. James is exemplified by the gift the Pope has just sent to Queen Victoria. The gift is a handsome statue, and a duplicate of it is also now being made for presentation by the Pope to Westminster Abbey.

The statue sent to the Queen shows the figure of Christ standing upon a globe. The right arm is uplifted, and upon the left rests a long cross. The sculpture is the work of the Italian artists Ross and Zenario, and experts who have seen it at Rome declare it to be a splendid specimen of the sculptor's art.

His Holiness ordered this statue to be made especially for the Queen, but when it was completed he was so pleased with it that he ordered duplicates to be made for presentation to several of the crowned heads of Europe. The original, however, was sent to Queen Victoria, as the Pope had intended.

Special services will be held in St. Peter's Cathedral at Rome on May 11 for the formal blessing of the statue.

The Czar and the Finlanders.

London, March 21.—A despatch to The Times from St. Petersburg says that the petition brought by the Finnish deputation against the russofication of Finland was so large that the customs officers at first did not wish to let it pass free of duty. A cart had to be employed to take it from the railway station.

The Czar, in declining to receive the deputation, sent word that he was not offended, but made them return to their homes and forward what they had to say to the governors of the districts and provinces, who would forward their statements to the Russian Governor, who if he thought it necessary, would transmit the appeal in the proper way to the Czar.

Belgian Request Refused.

London, March 21.—The Pekin correspondent of The Times says: "Sir Claude Macdonald, the British minister, has been urging the Tsung Li Yamen to grant the Belgian demand for a land concession at Hankow, but China declines, and the British advocacy of Belgium's proposal is regarded as unreasonable and inconsistent."

Five Children Burned.

Hutchinson, Kan., March 21.—The home of Mrs. John Moore was burned yesterday, the result of a lamp explosion. Moore's five children, ranging from 3 to 12 years, lost their lives. Firemen found the children lying side by side in their bed on the floor, all dead, but not badly burned They had apparently been suffocated by smoke.

On the bodies being examined it was found that the children had been stabbed in the neck, one of them so deeply as to sever the spinal column. Moore, the father, has been arrested for the crime. There is talk of lynching him.

MET DEATH CALMLY.

Mrs. Place Dies at Sing Sing in the Electric Chair.

FIRST WOMAN ELECTROCUTED.

A Murmured Prayer Was the Only Evidence of Dependence—The Woman Who Killed Her Stepdaughter and Husband Bravely Faced the Inevitable—Proceedings in the Death Chamber.

Sing Sing, N.Y., March 21.—Mrs. Martha M. Place, who killed her stepdaughter and husband at their home in Brooklyn on Feb. 7, 1898, was electrocuted in Sing Sing Prison yesterday morning, the first woman to die in the chair in this State. Mrs. Place went to her death impassive, calm and with no more than a murmured prayer. With her when she entered the death house was the warden, on whose arm she leaned heavily; her minister, Rev. Mr. David Cole of Yonkers, an old friend and aged pastor; a woman physician, one of the matrons of the prison and two keepers.

The woman's eyes were closed, and she picked her way to the chair without lowering her head. As she sat down her lips moved again in prayer, and she said, "God help me!"

The two women, who followed her closely, were there in an instant. Dr. Irvin, with an assistant, helped to cut off the view of the witnesses seated around the chamber. It was but a moment's work to bare the leg and attach the electrode, the prison matron drawing her skirts out in front of the chair. The second electrode was clamped down on the head in an instant. Mrs. Place never stirred.

Her aged pastor walked quietly away. He could not bear to look at her. Quicker than it has ever been done before, the straps across the face were buckled on, the pad drawn over the eyes, the signal given and the lever thrown down.

The women attendants pressed close up against the chair. One could hardly see a movement of the body. There was no pain, no suffering, no scene of any kind.

The women in the death chamber seemed strangely out of place. The woman physician was bright-looking, sharp in her movements, rapid in what she did, but her dress was what gave the scene a strange aspect. She wore a grey dress and a huge hat, with pronounced crimson trimmings. She both fastened on the electrode and examined the heart. With the prison matron, she stood directly in front of Mrs. Place, and watched her face as she died. Both were affected, but performed their duties well.

At exactly 11.01 State Electrician Davis gave the shock. It was a voltage of 1,760, about the usual strength, and was continued for four seconds. Then it was lowered to 200, and maintained for 56 seconds. When the current was shut off, Dr. Irvin, the prison physician, felt her neck, where there was a slight pulsation of the arteries; but the woman was dead, and those physicians who saw the electrocution and examined the body afterwards gave it as their opinion that death had been instantaneous.

After a brief interval a second shock was given. Those who stood around did not even hear a respiratory moan. The voltage was the same as in the first shock, and again lasted four seconds. It was gradually diminished to 200, and when the current was shut off the body sank back in the chair. There was hardly a mark where the electrodes had been.

The body remained in the chair until after the witnesses had filed out of the chamber, when it was removed to the autopsy table, where the autopsy was conducted behind closed doors, no one being permitted to be present except the operating surgeons, Dr. Irvin, Dr. McKenna and Dr. Jennie Griffin. The report will be sealed and not made public at present. Later in the day the body was taken to an undertaking establishment and embalmed. It was shipped last night to New Jersey.

After it was over, Warden Sage said the whole affair was even more satisfactory than he had hoped for. There is no denying that the warden had feared a breakdown or a scene. The reason for the double crime was jealousy on the part of Mrs. Place towards her husband for his love and affection for the child of his former marriage.

AVALANCHES AT QUEBEC.

An Intercolonial Train and Fifteen Men Buried in the Snow.

Quebec, March 21.—Two great snowslides took place from the cliff overlooking Levis yesterday. An Intercolonial freight train was buried and the engine thrown partly off the track by the first. Men were sent to dig it out, and another avalanche buried 15 of them. By strenuous efforts they were dug out alive, but the last one rescued was unconscious and almost dead. All trains were delayed. The snowfall is tremendous.

Acute Rheumatism

Pains in the Foot and Limb—A Complete Cure Accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"For a number of years I was afflicted with acute rheumatism in my left side and all the way down my limb into my foot. I live five blocks from my work and had to stop and rest several times in going and coming. I could get no relief from my trouble and was on the point of giving up my job when I happened to hear of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I purchased a bottle of this medicine and a vial of Hood's Pills and began taking them. Before I had half finished them I was relieved and it was not long before I was completely cured. I never lose an opportunity to praise Hood's Sarsaparilla, for my cure meant a great deal to me, as I have a family and must always be at my post." "A WRONG POLICY" THE RIGHT ONE.

The Stratford Beacon in a recent number, under the first part of the above heading, addresses itself to a criticism of some of the features of Mr. Stratton's speech given during the budget debate in the Ontario Legislature. The Beacon states that "Mr. Stratton declared for an extension of the policy incorporated in the measure prohibiting the exportation of saw logs. He wants spruce logs and nickel also placed under the ban." Continuing, the Beacon says that > "Prohibition of the exportation of saw logs can be defended only on two grounds—that of retaliation for the excessive duty the United States have placed on Canadian lumber, and the preservation of a considerable portion of our forest wealth."

The object aimed at by Mr. Stratton involves neither the one part nor, necessarily, the other part of the alternative presented in the above paragraph. His object is to obtain the adoption of a policy that will secure to the province and the people the full advantage to be derived from the development of our pine timber, spruce and mineral areas. The Beacon, in effect, argues that such a policy will operate prejudicially to the interests of the United States, which would suffer from a lack of supply of raw material if our timber and pulp were manufactured in Ontario. That might be; but we are chiefly concerned about ourselves. We wish to so develop the resources of Ontario as to give the greatest possible returns to the province and people of Ontario, to give the largest possible employment to labour. Our relations to the United States in respect of pine timber and spruce are so exceptional that the stock arguments against the principle of export duties do not apply. The supply of our neighbours of both timbers, especially in the case of pulp spruce, is becoming rapidly exhausted, and Ontario will then be in a position to corner the market and will be able, by providing for the manufacture of these products within the province, to confer untold advantages upon the province and upon people to which the necessary manufacturing operations will give employment. This seems to be a better way than permitting our neighbours when, (and even before) they shall have wastefully depleted their own resources in these woods, to raid our pine and spruce lands and carry off our raw material leaving Ontario mills, machinery and workmen idle, while the chief advantage derived for our immense natural wealth would be represented by the comparatively trifling timber dues the Government might collect.

The Beacon insists, inferentially, upon confounding Mr. Stratton's idea, in regard to spruce especially, with an export duty. It says:—

> "A law what would prohibit the exportation of spruce logs would be a fine thing for the millionaires in the pulp and paper making industries, but it would mean impoverishment to the settlers who have spruce logs to sell. It is only the competition of outside buyers of spruce logs that enables the settlers to get a fair price for his raw material. Remove this and he is at the mercy of the local pulp and paper manufacturers."

This is talking to the gallery with a vengeance. Such a condition as painted in the foregoing paragraph does not and cannot exist. If our contemporary had taken pains to inform itself on the subject it was treating in the article referred to, it would have discovered that the Crown timber regulations, adopted by the Legislature last session, in "An act respecting the manufacture of pine cut on the Crown domain," (61 Victoria, Chap. 9.) applied only to Crown lands, so that all the pulpy tears wept over the poor settler are wasted. As the act quoted reads, there is nothing to prevent a settler from selling and exporting all the pine on his property not reserved by the Crown, that he chooses. And it is an extension of this principle to spruce that Mr. Stratton aims at. Neither the Government nor Mr. Stratton nor any one else would propose an invasion of private rights. Nor would the adoption of a policy in regard to our spruce, similar to that now applied to our pine timber, interfere with, or injure, or in any way harmfully affect, private interests, but, on the other hand, would benefit the workingman in direct ratio to the extent to which manufacturing operations, which would give employment to labour, were conducted. The spruce areas of Ontario are the most extensive of any country. The Ontario Government, wisely foreseeing the importance of spruce, have reserved it to the Crown during the past seven years. Therefore only a comparatively small quantity of spruce is at the disposal of settlers, but what unreserved spruce is on their lands will be as completely at their disposal in the event of manufacturing regulations, similar to those now applied to pine being adopted, as they are before such regulations may be enforced. The policy which the Beacon calls "A Wrong Policy," is the right policy. It is a provincial policy, it is a patriotic policy—a policy of Ontario for Ontarians. Nature has abundantly endowed us in the respects treated of, and we should be lacking in appreciation of the bounty of Providence and remiss in our duty to the Province and the people of the province, if we omitted to take measures to realize the amplest amount of profit and benefit from the exploitation of our timber and mineral areas. To vary the British watchword—"what we have we'll hold,"—what we have we'll make the most of. Instead of killing the goose with the golden eggs by parting with our raw material in the shape of log pine or spruce, we shall show true wisdom if we gather the golden eggs ourselves by providing that every element of profit in the form of employment of labour and industrial stimulus shall be extracted from our pine and spruce by manufacturing them in our own country.

THE LEGISLATURE.

A Great Quantity of Routine Work Disposed of Quietly—Second and Third Readings—Work in Committee.

Toronto, March 21.—A fair amount of routine business was transacted at yesterday afternoon's session of the House, though no matters of great public importance were taken up. Mr. Carscallen's bill providing for the assessment of the plant of telephone and other companies as the property of going concerns, and not as "scrap," passed the second reading, but Hon. Mr. Hardy stated that although the bill would be allowed to go to committee, the Government must not be understood as being committed to any of its provisions. He pointed out that the Government's bill now before the House dealing with the general taxes of the province, and which to some extent covered the assessment of the companies referred to in Mr. Carscallen's bill, was in an opposite direction to that gentleman's proposals.

Mr. Crawford's bill respecting Knox Church, Toronto, was read a third time and passed.

In reply to Mr. Foy (South Toronto), Hon. Mr. Gibson said the amount of fees the registrar of loan companies received in 1898 from such corporations was $10,549.50. The expense of the office the hon. member said he could not precisely give. The expenses of the insurance branch for the same year were $9,488.15.

In reply to Mr. Reid (Addington), the Attorney-General said an official was appointed by the Government to make an audit of the accounts of the collector of the town of Amherstburg. It had been deemed better that he proceed no further in this work until the yearly statement had been presented to the town.

Mr. Pattullo's bill to incorporate the Ontario Historical Society was read a second time and referred to a special committee. Mr. Pattullo explained the objects of the society and its aims.

Two bills for amendment of this act came up for second reading. Mr. Reid (Addington) has a simple bill in one line—to repeal section 5 of the Ontario Game Protection Act; in other words to repeal the enactment against hunting or killing of deer in water.

Mr. Charlton's bill is to amend the act so that it shall not apply to hunting deer owned by and on the lands of the person hunting, and on the trial of any complaint defendants are to be competent but not compellable witnesses.

On the suggestion of Hon. Mr. Gibson both bills will be considered together by the legal committee. The second reading stage carried in respect to each bill.

On the motion for the second reading of Mr. Stratton's bill respecting cycle paths and cycle path commissioners last Friday, the Speaker intimated that he thought the bill was not in order, seeing it involved fees and money clauses. He, however, allowed the bill to stand. Yesterday the clerk of the House again called the bill for second reading, on which the Speaker repeated his objection to the money clauses. Mr. Stratton did not withdraw the bill, and it remains on the order paper.

Third Readings.

The following bills were read a third time and passed:

Concerning the town of Prescott; respecting the Hamilton Young Women's Christian Association and Technical Institute; respecting the township and village of Madoc; to consolidate the debt of the town of Collingwood; respecting the Toronto Hotel Company.

In committee of the whole House, the following bills were advanced a stage:

Respecting Victoria Hospital of the city of London; respecting St. Luke's General Hospital, Ottawa; respecting the London Young Women's Christian Association; respecting the town of Dundas.

Second Readings.

Respecting the town of Owen Sound; respecting the Brantford Gas Company; respecting the debenture debt of Sarnia; respecting the village of Exeter; respecting municipal institutions in territorial districts; respecting pasture lands and hens on stock.

To amend the Registry Act in respect to registration of leases—Mr. Stratton.

To amend the Public Health Act in respect to bylaws for borrowing money for funds to erect smallpox hospitals, and several bills respecting municipal and assessment acts. Among the latter were the two bills of Mr. Carscallen (East Hamilton).

Naval Heroes in the Abbey.

The well known saying, "Westminster abbey or glorious victory," attributed to Nelson when he boarded the San Josef at the battle of Cape Vincent, seems to point to the hero's own wishes as to an abbey grave. But for some unknown reason, when the end came at the famous battle at Trafalgar (1805), Nelson was buried at St. Paul's, and the abbey authorities, finding crowds going there to gaze on his last resting place, had an effigy made of him and set it up near Kempenfelt's monument, in order to attract people back to Westminster, with the desired result.

The figure now stands in the Islip Chantry chapel with the other funeral effigies, and is a very lifelike and good representation of the great man. It is said to have been copied from a smaller figure for which Nelson sat, in all the clothes except the coat he actually wore. Maclise, who borrowed the hat for his picture of the "Death of Nelson," found the marks of the eye patch on the inner lining and the stamp of the period in the crown.—Pall Mall Magazine.

A QUEER CALCULATION.

The Power That Would Be Required to Move the Earth.

Statisticians sometimes have queer ideas. One of them has amused himself by calculating how much energy, water and coal it would take to move the earth a foot, supposing that it was subjected throughout its mass to a force equivalent to terrestrial gravitation. This is a gratuitous supposition, for in spite of its enormous mass the earth weighs nothing.

Starting with the fact that the earth's mass is about 6,100 million-million-million tons, our statistician calculates that we should require 70,000,000,000 years for a 10,000 horsepower engine to move our globe a foot. The boiler that should feed this engine would vaporize a quantity of water that would cover the whole face of the globe with a layer 800 feet deep. The vaporization of this water would require 4,000 million-million tons of coal. This coal carried in cars holding ten tons each and having a total length of 30 feet, would require 400 million-million cars, which would reach 80,000,000 times around the earth. This train, moving at the rate of 40 miles an hour, would take more than 5,000,000 years to traverse its own length. It would require for storage a shed that would cover 1,000 times the area of Europe.

If we realize that this fantastically huge amount of energy is nothing at all compared with what the earth possesses in virtue of its rotation about its axis, its revolution about the sun, and its translation in space with the solar system, of which the earth is but an infinitesimal part and which itself is but an infinitesimal part of the universe, we may get some idea of the importance of man in the universe and estimate his incommensurable pride at its just value. —Nature.

DANGEROUS PIGS.

The Peccary Is Wholly Fearless and Will Fight Man or Beast.

A writer in the St. Louis Republic says that the most vicious and fearless member of the brute creation is the peccary, or wild hog, of Mexico. This animal seems utterly devoid of fear and displays an intelligence in fighting man strangely at variance with its apparently complete lack of mental attributes.

Their ability to scent men is particularly marked. The only thing to do when they get after you is to run away from them as fast as a horse can carry you, and then there is no certainty that they won't catch you. They are nearly as swift as a horse, and their endurance is as great as their viciousness.

A friend of mine encountered a drove of them in a wild part of Mexico a few years ago, and his escape was almost miraculous. He very foolishly shot and wounded a number of them. Then he took refuge in a tree.

The peccaries kept him in the tree all that day and through the night. They circled round the tree, grunting and squealing their delight at the prospect of a feast. He soon exhausted his ammunition and brought down a peccary at each fire, but this had no terrors for the beasts.

Toward morning they began to eat those he had killed, after which they formed in line and trotted off. If they had not had some of their own number to devour, they would have guarded that tree until my friend, through sheer exhaustion, dropped from his perch and allowed them to make a meal of him.

The wildcats and tigers that infest the Mexican wilds flee from the peccaries with instinctive fear, and even rattlesnakes keep out of their path.

A TRUE STATEMENT

By Foreman White, of the Hamilton Screw Works.

Hamilton, March 6.—If a vote of the people were to be taken to ascertain which is the most popular medicine on the market, Dodd's Kidney Pills would lead by a large majority.

One of the latest cures by that grand remedy is that of Foreman T. H. White, of the Screw Works here, who testifies that he was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills of Kidney Disease of eight years' standing, after other medicines had failed.

Mr. White says: "One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me, four boxes cured me. Publish this statement if you wish. It is true in every particular."

THE ODORLESS CREMATORY CLOSET.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematory Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS.

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable.

Yours respectfully,
JAMES CONWAY.

Rheddon, February 25th, 1898.

I have used it for sometime and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets.

I am, yours, etc.
W. H. MORRISON

Medical Superintendent's Office, Sept. 20th, 1897
Asylum for the Insane, Hamilton.

Gentlemen: I had the opportunity of witnessing yesterday the operation of your Odorless Crematory Closet. It had a large accumulation of fecal matter in the pan when the fire was started, and inside of 20 minutes it was all reduced to ashes. There was no odor before or during the operation of consuming the fecal matter, as the ventilation by the flue seems to carry off all odor at once, before it has a chance to vitiate the surrounding atmosphere.

Yours truly. JAMES RUSSELL, M.D.

Elmbrook, Sept. 20th, 1897.

Dear Sirs—Having been present at a private test of your new patent closet yesterday afternoon, I beg to express my satisfaction with it in every way. Neither before, during or after the burning out of its contents did I detect the slightest unpleasant odor. I am satisfied it will be a boon to thousands in rural towns, villages and country homes. Yours truly,
M. J. MULLOCK, M.D.

Half Sick Half Well

Many persons have their good day and their bad day. Others are about half sick all the time. They have headache, backache, and are restless and nervous. Food does not taste good, and the digestion is poor; the skin is dry and sallow and disfigured with pimples or eruptions; sleep brings no rest and work is a burden.

What is the cause of all this? Impure blood.

And the remedy?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

It clears out the channels through which poisons are carried from the body. When all impurities are removed from the blood nature takes right hold and completes the cure.

If there is constipation, take Ayer's Pills. They awaken the drowsy action of the liver; they cure biliousness.

WILL FIGHT FOR GOOD NAME.

W. E. Wellington Denies the Charges by Which His Wife Got a Nebraska Divorce.

Omaha, Neb., March 12.—A divorce suit, very quietly prosecuted, resulted recently in dissolving the matrimonial bonds between Helena Gibbs Wellington and William Edgar Wellington, Toronto parties. The decree was granted by Judge Fawcett.

Wellington is a nurseryman of some prominence in the Province of Ontario. His wife charged him with infidelity with unknown parties at the Yates Hotel, Syracuse, N.Y., and the Kittatinny Hotel, Delaware Water Gap, September, 1895. She alleged to have lived here long enough to be a resident of the country, the necessary time to entitle her to an action in the courts here. They were married in Toronto, June 11, 1888.

Local attorneys, representing Wellington, vigorously opposed the granting of the decree. The suit was heard in the private room of Judge Fawcett and the decree was made the very day the answer of the husband's attorneys was filed. In this answer the husband denied that Mrs. Wellington had been here long enough to entitle her to a divorce in the Nebraska courts.

It is said Wellington will insist that his wife was not lawfully divorced and will go into the Canadian courts to compel her to resume her marital relations if she ever puts foot upon Canadian soil. He denied in toto all her allegations of infidelity. In the Ontario capital social gossips have indulged in a great deal of scandal about the affair.

A LONDON CASE.

Proving the value of Dodd's Kidney Pills in Kidney Disease.

London March 20—Mr. Charles Dean, stableman at the City Hotel, comes forward to add his quota to the mass of evidence in favor of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Dean states that he had for three years suffered from severe cutting pains in the small of his back. At times they were so great that he had to lie down to get relief.

Several remedies were used without benefit. A doctor prescribed for him, saying his kidneys were affected, but no good resulted.

Finally he took a friend's advice and used Dodd's Kidney Pills. The usual result followed. Three boxes cured him out and out.

Ponton's Action Waits.

Belleville, Ont., March 21.—Col. Lazier, master-in-chancery, has adjourned the case of Ponton v. The Dominion Bank until after the criminal case has been disposed of.

Toronto, March 21.—The suit of William Ponton for $50,000 against the Dominion Bank for malicious prosecution and false arrest has been postponed by the master in Belleville until after the second Ponton trial. The bank, however, wishes to have the suit heard before the criminal action, and, accordingly, appealed against the master's decision fixing the date, but the motion was adjourned until Friday. The Crown's motion for a change of venue will be heard Wednesday.

Four Men Killed at Rockland, Ont.

Rockland, Ont., March 21.—The scaffold erected inside of the large turner for the purpose of repairs gave way just as the men were entering at 1 o'clock, and, coming down upon five who entered, killed four of them as follows: Louis Lochon, Henry Dalrymple, Eugene Deschamp and Archie Stewart. Xavier Frappier was four hours under the debris, and was finally got out seriously hurt.

THE GROWING TIME.

Debate on the Address in Reply Brings Out the Facts.

ALL SPEAKERS AGREE IN THIS.

Mr. Bell, the New Member for West Prince, Moves the Address in Reply and Makes a Favorable Impression—Sir Charles Tupper Speaks for Over Four Hours—Sir Wilfrid Next.

Ottawa, March 21.—The address in reply to the speech from the throne was moved yesterday afternoon by Mr. Bell, the new member for West Prince, P.E.I., in an able speech, which won for him the applause of his fellow-members and a complimentary reference by Sir Charles Tupper. Mr. Martineau (Montmagny), who spoke in French, seconded the address, endorsing the policy of the Government in the administration of the Yukon and in the reform of the Senate. Sir Charles Tupper followed in a speech of four hours and a half, which he devoted to an arraignment of the Government. The adjournment was moved at 11 p.m. by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who will continue the debate this afternoon.

At ten minutes past 3 Mr. Bell, the Ottawa, March 21.—At 10 minutes past 3 yesterday afternoon Mr. Bell, the newly-elected member for Prince County, Prince Edward Island, rose to move the address in reply to the speech from the throne. Starting with the first paragraph of the speech, he said no one would dispute that there had been an increase in trade, which had risen from $239,000,000 in 1898 to $304,000,000 in 1898, and had increased still $12,000,000 more since June. Canadian trade had increased at two times the ratio of that of the United States. Canada could get along well enough without being at all dependent on the United States. There had been a substantial reduction in taxation, and the Liberal policy had resulted in a surplus of a million and three-quarters, which would be increased to three millions and a quarter this year. The manufacturing industries had been improved by the Government's policy, and manufacturers were really doing better than under the National Policy. Canada's immigration last year had increased 20 per cent. Immigration had been general, but largest in British Columbia, and he ventured on the prophecy that when the census of 1901 is taken it will be found that British Columbia is third amongst the provinces, standing next to Ontario and Quebec. Touching on the Washington commission, he said that the Canadian commission had made an honest effort to settle all difficulties between the two countries, which he thought was a better policy than leaving one point open. As the speech only mentioned one point of disagreement, he thought it was a fair inference that on all other points there was at least substantial agreement. He recapitulated the points of difference on the Alaskan boundary question, and argued that in refusing the terms offered, the Canadian commissioners had upheld the honor and dignity of Canada.

Mr. Martineau seconded the motion in French, speaking for half an hour in general approval of the speech, and following very much the same lines as Mr. Bell.

Leader of the Opposition.

After recess, Sir Charles continued his remarks on the Washington negotiations, saying that it was to be regretted that an adjournment had been consented to after the dishonorable proposal made by the United States commissioners. He criticized the statement made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier that the Atlantic fisheries difficulty ought to be settled on the basis of the treaty of 1871, namely free fishing for free fish, because the treaty of 1871 provided far more than that. It provided for an arbitration by which Canada received five and a half million dollars.

Sir Charles then took up another vein and told the Government something about the policy the Opposition would adopt, and in turn discussed a fast Atlantic service, the question of export duties on logs, pulp wood and nickel, the question of inter-Imperial trade, the Pacific cable scheme, the plebiscite on the prohibition question, the Imperial penny postage scheme, the miserable mail service in the Yukon, the threatened "rearrangement of the electoral districts," and challenged the right of the Government to make a change in the constitution, which already provided that the constituencies can only be changed after each census. The announced "reform" of the Senate he stigmatized as an attempt to break down the protection guaranteed to the smaller provinces by the constitution of the Senate.

At 11 o'clock Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved the adjournment of the debate and the House adjourned.

Debate in the Senate.

Ottawa, March 21.—The address was moved in the Senate by Hon. W. Kerr of Cobourg, seconded by Mr. Thibaudeau, both of whom acquitted themselves well.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell then followed in a careful and thoughtful review of the speech, in the course of which he said the redistribution bill forecasted in the speech of course could not be discussed until the bill was before Parliament.

Hon. David Mills spoke up to 6 o'clock, when the Senate adjourned.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease, is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells of how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists.

A TERRIFIC WINDSTORM.

Many People Killed and Much Property Destroyed in Alabama, Arkansas and Mississippi.

Huntsville, Ala., March 21.—The tornado which struck the northern part of Madison County last night did a great deal of damage to houses and farm property. Passengers who arrived last night on a train from the north reported that people were coming into the railway stations in quest of physicians to attend the injured.

Bismarck, Ala., March 21.—A terrific windstorm, accompanied by rain and hail, passed through the extensive plantation of Samuel Curry, in Chilton County, last night. Eleven tenement houses were blown down, and two negro boys were killed. Seventeen other negroes were injured.

Pine Bluff, Ark., March 21.—Further details of the fearful storm which swept over portions of Arkansas Saturday morning reached Pine Bluff yesterday. At Walnut Lake three persons were killed. Every house on J. M. Parker's plantation, extensively known as Fish Place, was demolished.

Bethlehem, Miss., March 21.—Will Wicker's house was destroyed by a tornado yesterday, and a child killed. A stable is said to have been blown 150 yards, with a horse in it, but the horse was uninjured.

ISN'T THIS PROOF

Clear and Convincing That Dodd's Kidney Pills Cure Diabetes.

Engineer John Graham's Case Was Pronounced Incurable by a Leading Montreal Physician—Yet Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured It.

Montreal, P.Q., March 20—Thick and fast come the most convincing proofs of the really marvellous cures of Kidney Diseases in this city by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Not a day passes on which we cannot read reports of several cures—at home, right here in Montreal at our own doors.

In the face of this vast mass of proof, we must believe what such an enormous number of our fellow-citizens write on the subject, viz., that there is no other medicine known to science that can at all equal Dodd's Kidney Pills, as a cure for Kidney Diseases of all types.

Many hundreds of Montreal people have been cured of Diabetes by Dodd's Kidney Pills, but there are in the city, still, hundreds of other sufferers who do not know that by using this famous remedy, they can be cured, positively cured, for all time at almost no expense.

That such is the case, let the experience of Engineer James Graham, of No. 50 Victoria Square, prove.

Mr. Graham had Diabetes for six years. One of the most eminent of Montreal's physicians examined him, and informed him that his case was beyond all aid—incurable.

No wonder the sufferer grew despondent. But, one day he read of a wonderful cure of Diabetes, effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills. He at once bought a box and began to use them. They caused marked improvement, and he used two boxes more. Now he is as healthy as he ever was, robust and hearty.

Isn't this proof enough that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Diabetes?

It ought to be, surely!

Engineer Shattuck Killed.

Buffalo, March 21.—Train No. 18, on the Lake Shore Road, met with an accident just outside of Buffalo yesterday morning. The engineer, Henry S. Shattuck of Buffalo, was instantly killed; George W. Roberts, the brakeman, living at Derby, N.Y., was seriously injured, and William Forster of New York, porter, was slightly hurt. The exact cause of the accident is not yet known. The railroad officials believe ice clogged one of the interlocking switches.

A Comparison.

"You use a great many words that don't mean anything," said the political talker's manager.

"Did you ever take note of the bell ringing and steam puffing and general racket that occur when an engine pulls out of the depot?"

"Yes."

"Well, that's how it is with me. It takes a lot of noise to get my train of thought started, but once under way I defy anybody to stop it."—Washington Star.

The Medical Profession Recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. C. M. Harlan, writing to the American Journal of Health, Feb. 10th, says:—"Among the proprietary medicines deserving recognition is Dr Chase's Ointment, as a remedy for piles, Eczematic, skin eruptions of all kinds, for which it has been used with marked success and has effected remarkable cures in many obstinate cases which seem to baffle the skilful medical attendant."

MARKET REPORTS.

Wheat Is a Little Higher; Improvement Registered at Chicago and Liverpool—The Latest Prices.

Liverpool, March 21.—Wheat futures partially recovered yesterday and closed ½d to ¾d per cental higher than Saturday's final figures.

Chicago, March 21.—Wheat futures opened yesterday morning nearly half a cent higher than Saturday's close, the cable advices being stronger and there being some bulletin crop damage talk. The week's increase in the visible supply, moreover, was small. The May option rose nearly a cent above Saturday's final quotation, but lost three-quarters of the advance. The July option closed ⅝c higher than on Saturday.

Visible and Afloat.

As compared with a week ago, the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States has increased 193,000 bushels; that of corn has decreased 567,000 bushels, and that of oats has increased 461,000 bushels. The visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States, together with that afloat to Europe, is 66,632,000 bushels, against 66,359,000 bushels a week ago and 69,737,000 bushels a year ago.

A NEW INVENTION!

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1899 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which lights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. Is Your Piano in Tune?

The change of season affects pianos as well as anything else. Mr. Geo. Gumpright, practical piano maker and tuner, with 28 years experience, attends to all orders left at Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drug store.

The Men's Meeting.

On Sunday Rev. J. G. Potter gave a forcible address at the Young Men's Christian Association. The subject was "Why is God unknown to many men." It was because after changed conditions of their own lives and conduct, "Sin had separated between them and God." Next Sunday Mr. E. McCooke, Railroad Y.M.C.A. secretary from Toronto, will conduct a "Railroad meeting." While all men are welcome, a special invitation is extended to employees, of the G.T.R and C.P.R. railways, living in Peterborough.

Large Consignment of Crockery.

Mr. C. B. Routley has just returned to town after having purchased a $5,000 stock of crockery, and is now engaged in storing it away in his new crockery department, specially fitted up in the second story of his store. Mr. Routley secured this large stock at 60c. on the dollar. It includes dinner, tea and chamber sets, glassware, fancy china, etc. This department of Mr. Routley's business has outgrown its usual quarters on the ground floor, and as he has been encouraged to go more largely into these lines, he has provided ample space up-stairs to display his goods. Look out for the announcement of a big crockery sale in a few days.

Stylish Note Paper.

We would like to show you some of our new things in fashionable note papers, just opened out to-day at the Peterborough Bookstore. The new "EMPRESS" note paper and envelopes to match, is a very dainty size of paper and folds once into the new shaped "Empress" envelopes. The latest colours are Rose, Azure and Syrian in French crepon effects. Also Kid Surface and Pure Ivory Whites, and the price for quality is a marvel of cheapness.

THE THISTLES WIN ANOTHER BONSPIEL.

They Were Nine Points Up All Around.

MANY CLOSELY CONTESTED GAMES.

At Half Time the Granites Led by Thirteen Points, but the Thistles Made a Great Finish and Won by Nine Shots.

Another most enjoyable bonspiel between the Thistles and Granites took place last night at the rink, when six rinks from each club met in friendly contest.

As the Granites had strengthened their rinks considerably since the bonspiel of a week ago, many thought that they would be the winners. In the first half of the game this opinion seemed to be about to be verified, as the Thistles were thirteen points behind in the contest. Whether the Granites ate too much at half time, or didn't eat enough, will never be known, but on resuming play they began to lose ground and the Thistles gradually reduced the lead of their opponents and slowly forged ahead, winning out by 9 shots—just 10 less than their majority of a week ago.

The scores on the different rinks were as follows:

Majority for Thistles—9.

At one time every Thistle rink was "down" but that of the Colts, which was never headed during the evening. At one time the Colts were 14 points up, but Skip Dumble secured a seven end, and it took some time to make up the drop.

Skip Ray was 10 points down in the early part of the game, but kept after his opponent, and slowly pulled up, making a dead heat with him.

Skip R. S. Davidson had a lead of 16 on Skip Belleghem at one time, but the latter scored seven ends in succession, and was only beaten out by five shots.

Skips Jeffries and Rutherford had it hammer and tongs all the way through. First one was ahead and then the other, but the Thistle man was the best finisher, and won out by 4 shots.

Another close game was that between skips Connal and Whiten. It was a case of see-saw and skip Whiten had somewhat the best of it until towards the finish when Jimmy came up with a rush and won out by four lengths.

Skip Ferguson's men blame Tommy Hooper, the caterer, for their defeat. They say his coffee was so tempting that they were induced to take too much of it and consequently fell off in their game towards the close. Onlookers, however, say that a combination including T. P. Attrill and George Boucher couldn't have been beaten under any circumstances.

The Thistles will be setting their name up for making Garrison finishes, if they keep on in the way they are going.

The Granites think that if they had one more chance they could yet beat the Thistles in a six rink match. The Thistles haven't any objection to giving them the opportunity providing the ice can be procured.

SIGNS OF SPRING AND EASTER.

Some Surprising Spring Specialties for Men, Young Men and Boys at H. LeBrun & Co.'s.

The approach of Spring and Easter bring into play thoughts of new clothing. The early spring holidays, beginning with Good Friday, remind gentlemen that their shabby winter attire must be changed for new spring styles. The question is—"Where to get suited?" Visit Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co., and you are at headquarters, where you have your pick from a heaping stock, and where price and style are of equal importance. Men's and young men's nobby spring overcoats, made to order on the premises, are awaiting your inspection, with a $13 price ticket, the best overcoat value in town. Stylish Suit made to order in faultless fashion from $12 to $18. These prices should come home to you. But LeBrun and Co's "Bargain Counter" runs all round the store. Low prices and good qualities are not neglected in ready-made clothing, in which you are certain of finding what you want at a lower price than similar clothing is sold elsewhere. New Spring Tweed Suits $4, $5 and $6, well worth your critical eyes. New Spring Overcoat at $5, $6, $7 and $9, are rare makes. If they do not look the same at home as they did in the store, return them. Spring Suits for boys, bright new suits that wear long, fit neat, and look better than the general run. Mothers when out shopping should call in and see these nobby little rigs for boys in neat patterns from $1 up. We give Trading Stamps equal to five per cent. on all purchases, to encourage the cash system.—H. LeBrun & Co.

A Lively Run on Fresh Trout for This Week.

By special arrangement with the catchers I am prepared to make a special run on fresh trout for this week and have dropped the price from 10c to 7c per lb. until Saturday night. A large quantity just received and fresh shipments during the week. This is the biggest and best chance yet. 50c Oysters at 35 and 40c. California Naval Oranges, Bananas and Lemons also at reduced prices to beat the Trading Stamps. Also all kinds of Sea and Fresh Water Fish, the cheapest in town.

A PRESENTATION

On behalf of the Nicholls' Hospital Nurses to Miss Fannie Dixon.

Miss Fannie Dixon, graduate of the Nicholls' Hospital Training School for Nurses, who has been head nurse at that institution for the past two years, and who is leaving to pursue her occupation in Chicago, received a very pleasant surprise last evening at the Hospital, when Mr. Richard Hall, Chairman of the Board, presented her with the complete equipment of the Victoria Order of Nurses. The presentation was made by Mr. Hall on behalf of the Lady Superintendent and nurses of the staff, and when making it he took advantage of the opportunity to express himself in most complimentary terms in reference to the character of the work done by Miss Dixon during her course, and after assuming the position of head nurse.

The equipment presented is in a neat case, and is the most complete of its kind that can be procured. Many physicians do not possess the resources which are found within the kit of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

It is understood that Miss Dixon will leave for the west on Friday.

Spain's Greatest Need.

Mr. R. P. Olivia, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S. C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest Blood and Nerve Remedy, all pain soon left him. He says this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures all liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthens the nerves, puts vim, vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing, you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. Sold by J. Lynch, Druggist.

THE NEW COVERT TOP COAT.

For Spring Wear has got the call again this season. It is a modified type of the real Covert Coat, which is short and boxy. The leading features is that it is not so short as the real Covert, and is much less boxy. In length it ranges from 34 to 35 inches for a man of average height. It must look broad, with well-rounded shoulders, a bottom fullness, the greater part of which will be placed at the sides. Well vented side-seams, collar of the material, shorter than the Chesterfield but broader and squarer in effect.

The material will be Covert coatings in neat drab shades, Venetians and Rainproof Cloth of pleasing mixtures.

A range of new patterns in Soverign Trousers ($5.00) to select from.

ALDERMEN ARE AFTER THE SNOW-PLOUGHERS.

THEY HEED PEDESTRIANS WHO COMPLAIN.

The Negligent Contractors to be Stirred Up—Their Case Turned Over to the Fire, Water and Light Committee with Plenary Powers.

An indignation meeting was held by the Council yesterday afternoon in reference to the manner in which the snow was, or rather was not, cleared from the walks by the ploughs on Saturday and Sunday last.

Acting-Mayor McWilliams presided and there were present Ald. Denne, Davidson, Langford, Best, Sawers and Corkery.

Ald. McWilliams stated the reason for calling the meeting, and mentioned the large number of complaints which had been received on account of the snow which had been left on the walks on Sunday, and also on March 4th. He thought the matter should be sifted and the blame laid on the proper shoulders. Two weeks ago Sunday there was not a snow-plough out by ten o'clock, at which hour he notified Street Inspector Ranney, when that official routed out the drivers and contractors. Last Sunday what work had been done was done in a disgraceful manner. Mr. Blodgett had told him that he had been instructed by Mr. Ranney that it was not necessary to turn out for light snowfalls.

Mr. Ranney was the first witness called, and stated that he did not think it should be necessary to notify the drivers and contractors every time there was a snowfall that they must turn out. They should know that it was their duty to do so. He had spoken to Blodgett in reference to Ald. McWilliams' statement, and Blodgett's answer was that he had never told Ald. McWilliams anything of the kind. (Laughter.) Last Saturday Ald. Davidson had telephoned to him about getting the men out, but as he was sick Ald. Davidson had said he would look after the matter himself. Blodgett's statement that he had to pay $6 for injuring planks through turning out when there was only a light fall of snow was untrue. Blodgett had paid him nothing for injuring planks.

Ald. Davidson stated that he had notified the police to get the drivers out on Saturday afternoon. He thought the men would know enough to turn out on such a day as Sunday. If they did not, it was time the town got men who did. On Monday Constable Stewart had roused Driver Montgomery at 4 a.m., and Mr. Breckenridge was also out at about the same hour in the south, but on Sunday no one could have been out early, as the walking was very bad.

Ald. Denne was sure there had been no snow plough along the south side of the Cathedral at 10.45 Sunday.

Mr. Ranney explained that out of the five horses, only two were fit to be used on a snowplough. The men said they were afraid to try the new colts on the ploughs. The drivers always seemed very dilatory about turning out, and were too anxious to get into the stables again.

Contractor Breckenridge, when examined, stated that his conscience was clear. He had been out by daylight after every snow fall, and had covered his beat 32 times this year in the south.

Alderman McWilliams stated that he had heard no complaint about the south end.

Alderman Sawyers thought all the complaints were about the town drivers.

Driver Montgomery stated that he had been past the Cathedral by 8 o'clock Sunday morning. He did not remember at what hour he was out on March 4th.

Mr. Ranney said that the drivers were still in the barn at 11 a. m. when he notified them to go out.

Mr. Montgomery went on to say that he had cleared Water street before 5 a.m. on Sunday last. On Saturday afternoon he was out at one o'clock. He had to wait in the fire hall until relieved from duty at that hour.

Driver Kennedy said he was out at 7 o'clock on Sunday. He covered the ground south of Charlotte to Sherbrooke street, and west of Reid as far as Elm street. He went right out to the boundary. He had been out Gilmour street early. On going over the route for the second time the snow had drifted so much that one would never know it had been done earlier. He had turned out at 4 a.m., Sunday.

Ald. McWilliams reported that he had sent word to Contractor Blodgett to be on hand for the investigation, but the latter said he was too busy snow-ploughing to come down town. On Sunday morning he had sent word to Blodgett at ten o'clock to turn out, and the man was just starting then.

Ald. Langford thought the whole system was poorly conducted. The drivers were afraid of doing one another's work, and were always quarrelling among themselves. The whole crowd should be suspended.

Mr. Ranney said that at times they refused point blank to do certain work.

Ald. McWilliams thought that one or both of the drivers should go.

Numerous instances were cited by those present of streets in the centre of the town and at the north end which were constantly neglected.

It was decided to refer the whole matter to the Fire, Water and Light Committee, with power to suspend if they thought it necessary.

The Parks Committee was authorized to arrange with the Horticultural Society to take charge of Victoria Park this year for the sum of $250, providing the tools, etc., were turned over to the town next year.

RHEUMATISM'S ORGINS.

The Relentless, Unrespecting Pain Giant is Shorn of His Strength by the Aid of South American Rheumatic Cure—It Never Fails.

Mr. Duncan McIntyre, of Mount Forest, says: "I was sorely afflicted with rheumatism for over a year. I was almost totally disabled and at times suffered agonies of pain. I tried many remedies and doctors without avail until I began using South American Rheumatic Cure. I derived great benefit from one bottle and was so well pleased with the results I continued using it, and my advice to-day to all sufferers from rheumatism is to use this great remedy. I feel satisfied it is the greatest of rheumatic cures." Sold by H. S. Macdonald and Ormond & Walsh.

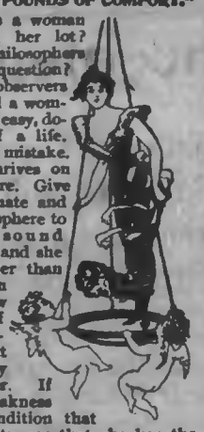
"A THOUSAND POUNDS OF COMFORT."



What makes a woman contented with her lot? How many philosophers can answer this question? Some shallow observers imagine that all a woman wants is an easy, do-nothing sort of a life. But that's a big mistake.

A woman thrives on kindness and care. Give her an affectionate and congenial atmosphere to work in, and sound physical health and she will work harder than the average man and never grow discontented. If you have a fretful wife, find out some new way to be kind to her. If there is any weakness or diseased condition that causes irritability, see that she has the proper remedy right away.

That wonderful medicine originated by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., his "Favorite Prescription" for women's diseases, will restore perfect organic vitality and health. It will give cheerfulness, energy and power. In the words of a New York lady, Mrs. O. N. Fisher, of 1861 Lexington Ave., it will give a "thousand pounds of comfort."

"I feel it a duty to inform you," writes Mrs. Fisher in an earnest letter to Dr. Pierce, "that I had been a sufferer for many years from nervousness with all its symptoms and complications. I was constantly going to see a physician or purchasing medicine for this or that complaint as my troubles became unbearable. In the spring of 1897 my husband induced me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After taking one bottle and following your advice I was so encouraged that I took five more bottles and then I did not take any more for several weeks as I felt so much better.

"I am not now cross and irritable. I have a good color in my face; have gained about ten pounds in weight and one thousand pounds of comfort, for I am a new woman once more and your advice and your 'Favorite Prescription' caused it, coupled with your 'Pleasant Pellets' which are not to be dispensed with. I will not take any more unless you so advise, for I do not see that I need it."

Dr. Pierce will send advice by mail entirely free of charge. Address as above.

THE PROFESSOR'S ADVICE.

It Was Followed, but It Spoiled the Next Recitation.

They tell this story of a college prank the boys at Princeton played on Professor "Winky" Young, professor of astronomy His recitations were recently held the first thing in the morning, and he had to admonish the students in his division to correct the fault of tardiness, which he claimed was increasing in a lamentable manner, and when one of the students explained that they all studied so late at night they were apt to oversleep in the morning he kindly advised them to secure alarm clocks, which he said were one of the most valuable and useful inventions.

The next day nearly every student in the class came into recitation with an alarm clock in his pocket, which by patient and united effort were set so that one would go off promptly at every successive minute of the hour. The effect can be imagined. Shortly after the first student was called to recite one of the clocks in the pocket of a boy at the other end of the room went off with a terrible clamor, and before it had finished a second in another part of the room made even a louder racket.

There was a brief interval, which the professor utilized to call up another student, but the latter was scarcely on his feet before the third clock went off. The performance was continued for half an hour or more, when the professor, who had a keen sense of humor, recognized the situation and cut short the fun by terminating the recitation. The boys explained that they had followed his advice and secured alarm clocks, which they were carrying around with them because they were likely to fall asleep at most any time.—St Louis Globe-Democrat

A Good Report.

"My mother was troubled with rheumatism in her knees for a number of years, and it broke out into a running sore. She has taken three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now she is almost entirely well. She cannot speak too highly of this great medicine." Mrs. John Farr, Cloverlawns, Ancaster, Ontario.

Hood's Pills cure nausea, sick headach, biliousness, indigestion, constipation.

Explaining it.

"Now," said the physician who was examining an applicant for life insurance, "I shall have to ascertain your chest expansion."

"My what?" asked the applicant.

"Your chest expansion."

"He means," interposed a friend who had come in with him, "the difference between what you measure when your chest isn't inflated and what you measure when it is inflated."

"Oh," said the applicant, beginning dimly to understand. "Ten years ago I measured around here"—indicating his rotund stomach—"only 32 inches. I measure 48 now. I guess what you call my chest expansion is 16 inches."—Youth's Companion.

THE "MURDER OIL."

Standard Oil Trust Mastered the Imperial Commons.

THE ROCKEFELLER VICTORY.

English Public Opinion Stirred Up Over the Recent Success of the World-Embracing Oil Trust — Means Used to That End Said to Be Unusual in Britain.

New York, March 20.—Henry Norman, cabling from London to The Times, says:

"For the first time in my recollection, common talk, and, indeed, the criticism of frank newspapers, has suggested that a vote in the House of Coumons was due to an improper outside influence. The Standard Oil Company is a corporation of such vast powers and such far-reaching activity, that perhaps it is not surprising it should be suspected of having its influence on this side of the ocean on behalf of what is here described as 'murder oil.'

"Much comment was directed to the presence of a number of Americans in the members' lobby of the House of Commons on the afternoon of the debate. The Pall Mall Gazette said: 'The American oil ring has been too strong for the House of Commons.' The Speaker, a leading Liberal weekly, says: 'Mr. Rockefeller and the American Standard Oil Trust triumphed in the House of Commons on Wednesday afternoon.'

"The Outlook, an Imperialist weekly, speaks sarcastically in Jesse Collings' 'Rockefeller to sleep' accents.

"Every independent witness before the royal commission, from Lord Kelvin downward, advocated the high flash of oil. The Government will not have low flash oil on its premises. Several important American States prohibit it. In London alone 80 deaths every year for the last seven years have been directly caused by the low flash oil, yet the legal flash point is to remain for the present in England at 73 degrees. It is a curious fact that of the Irish members, one-half voted for the high flash oil, and the other half for the low flash."

A BRILLIANT FUNCTION.

The First Drawing Room of the New Governor-General at Ottawa.

Ottawa, March 20.—Seven or eight hundred ladies and gentlemen attended the first drawing room of our new Governor-General in the Senate Chamber on Saturday night. The function was one of the most brilliant of its kind ever held in Ottawa, a very noticeable feature being the large number of visitors from places other than Ottawa, especially ladies, of whom there were nearly 100. The reception lasted exactly one hour and ten minutes. The Premier was prevented by indisposition from being present, but the Ministry was represented by the following members, all of whom, with the exception of Sir Henri Joly, wore their official uniforms: Sir Richard Cartwright, Sir Louis Davies, Sir Henri Joly, Hon. S. J. Fisher, Hon. W. Paterson, Hon. A. G. Blair, Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. David Mills, Hon. F. W. Borden, Hon. J. I. Tarte and Hon. W. Mulock. Solicitor-General Fitzpatrick was also present. The ex-Ministers were also well represented by Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper and Col. Prior. After the reception was over the Speakers of the Senate and House of Commons, Sir Alphonse Pelletier and Sir James Edgar, entertained His Excellency and Lady Minto and all those who had attended the drawing room.

KIPLING MENDING FAST.

Dictated Some Letters and Saw a Few Friends on Sunday.

New York, March 20.—Mr. Rudyard Kipling last night read the papers, dictated some letters and saw a few friends. He spoke of getting out soon, and his doctor, Dr. Dunham, encouraged him with the promise that he will be permitted to leave his room in a few days.

The Poor Mother-in-law.

El-Alam, a Turkish paper of New York city, tells this story: "Ibrahim Effendi, to whom things happened, did you perchance hear of the things? The effendi was crossing a river, bearing with him his mother-in-law and a bag of gold, his savings. Then rose the flood which wrecked the vessel, and Ibrahim knew not at first which to save, the gold or his relative. Then, having taken counsel with himself, thought Ibrahim and spake: 'My gold will I save, for where can I get more gold? But Allah to me will give all the mothers-in-law that I need and perhaps more.' Then having thus said, he thus did, and all the Turks said that he was wise."

How He Acquired Trouble.

"Education," said the man who had been sued for breach of promise. "Is the root of all evil."

"How so?" asked the man who had not been sued and consequently could not reason from the same premises.

"If I hadn't been able to write," answered the defendant, "what evidence do you suppose they would have against me?" Still he conceded after some argument that the man who can write and won't has some advantages over the man who doesn't write because he can't.

His Life Was Saved

M. J. H. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken by Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and am now well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. 50 cents and $1.00 at any Drug Store every bottle guaranteed.

Dr. A. W. CHASE

COMES TO THE AID OF

Catarrh Sufferers

SUCCESS in life is almost impossible for a man with bad breath. Nobody wants to do business with him. Nobody wants to associate with him. He is handicapped everywhere. Offensive breath comes from Catarrh; sometimes from Catarrh of the Stomach, sometimes of the lungs, sometimes of the head, nose, and throat. It is from Catarrh somewhere, and Catarrh is another name for uncleanness.

Many men understand this, and make every effort to cure it, but it is beyond the reach of ordinary practice.

No self-respecting man can ignore Catarrh. If he has it in any form he makes constant effort to be rid of it.

There is something about the manner of life and the climate of Canada that seems to breed diseases of the mucous membrane. Medical science ordinarily doesn't try to cure Catarrh; it "relieves" it; but Dr. Chase has been curing Catarrh for over thirty years, and his name is blessed by thousands who have shaken off the grasp of this insidious disease.

DENS OF HORROR.

The Prisons of Morocco Are Hotbeds of Deadly Disease.

The prison system and treatment of prisoners are worse in Morocco than in any other country in the world.

Men are arrested—often merely to spite some one whom they have been so unfortunate as to offend and who possesses some power—and flung into prison, where they would be left to starve did not their relatives or friends bring them food, for no arrangements whatever are made by the authorities for the feeding of prisoners. All that is provided is a prison, generally crowded with prisoners dying in the most loathsome and infectious diseases, dark and unventilated, and custodians who are quite as brutal and savage as the prison system itself.

Prisoners are cast into these hotbeds of disease, generally without the most farcical pretense of a trial, to die and rot if their crimes are light or their enemies impotent. Otherwise they are probably tortured in some way or another. Starving merely is too good for them in the opinion of the authorities.

Not long ago a merchant who had dared to claim payment for goods supplied to a friend of one of the court officials was cast into prison without trial, and after suffering torments in the midst of a mass of diseased humanity for months was taken out, shoved into a barrel fitted with long spikes and rolled down a high steep hill. The barrel eventually plunged into the sea with its torn and mangled cargo. Imprisonment, torture and death for daring to present his bill!—Cincinnati Enquirer

AFRAID SHE WOULD LOSE HER BOY.

He was wasting away with a terrible Cough. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cured the Cough and restored his health.

It takes the life out of a mother to see her child—the idol of her heart—slipping away, succumbing to a cruel Cough that all the remedies she has tried won't cure.

Mrs. Jasper Singer of Burgessville, Ont., went through a trying experience and gladly gives an account of it for the benefit of Canadian mothers. This is what she says: "My little boy of a year and four months old took down with a heavy cold last fall. I tried different medicines but they did no good. He got so thin he was nothing but bones and hardly ate anything.

"I thought quite a few times I would lose him, till I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The first bottle helped him wonderfully and the third bottle completed the cure.

"I would advise all mothers to give their little ones Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup as it is so pleasant to take and so effectual." Price 25c. All dealers.

Women's Worst Enemy

Some hesitate before giving an answer, but those who know best will immediately say HEADACHE.

Thousands of women live in misery day after day, and week after week, suffering untold agony from these dreadful headaches. Husbands are disheartened, children neglected, and happy homes ruined. Most women strive to bear in patience the suffering which they consider part of life without looking into the cause or searching for relief. Food cannot digest without the bile which the liver supplies and hence the necessity of keeping the liver in good working order. To cure the headaches you must cure the liver and thus remove the cause of disease.

Dr. Chase spent years of his life in perfecting a medicine which acts directly on the kidneys and liver. Thousands of grateful women have testified during the past ten years to the effectiveness of this remedy for sick headaches. Many a home has been restored to happiness as a result.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the greatest discovery of this great scientist, are put up to sell at 25c doses for 25c. All dealers.

THE FUN FOUNDRY.

A Rude Awakening.

Man is of earth. He shall not rise
On fancy's golden wings,
For, if he tries, some rude surprise
Discomfort straightway brings.
He seeks to steer far from this sphere,
But with a sudden lurch
He wakes to find, with pangs severe,
He's tumbled from his perch.

Oh, for some fair and distant realm
Where life through dreams might glide,
With joy forever at the helm,
Our sole and trusted guide,
Where no such phrase as this might stir
The mortal from repose—
That daily admonition, "Sir,
Yer water pipes is froze!"
—Washington Star.

An Easy Problem.

If a merchant gives his spendthrift son one gold chain the first day, two gold chains the second day, three gold chains the third day and so on for a fortnight, what will the young man have at the end of 14 days?

The One He Loves.

The one that he loves is not pretty—
He even admits it himself.
He says that he loves not for beauty
Nor social position nor wealth.

His love is immeasurable, boundless;
He loves with an ardor sincere;
He loves not the wit of a woman—
His love he holds sacred and dear.

But one day I found out his secret
(He unthinkingly told me, the elf).
I know now why he loves so truly,
For the one that he loves is himself.

If Love Were Not.

If love were not, one asks, what then
Would fill the hearts and souls of men?
If love were not, what lore would rise
From fair, fond looks in woman's eyes?

If love were not, O poet sage,
In dull despair the world would age!
No thought would be, no prose or rhyme,

A Button Collection.

A New York lady's pet hobby is a marvelous collection of all sorts and sizes of buttons. Some of the enamel and minature painted ones are veritable works of art, while paste and precious medals worked in various ways supply other fascinating specimens. The greatest rarities are two Chinese official buttons, which in reality are decorations, and buttons from off garments known to have been worn by Marat, Robespierre, Charles Dickens, Sir Walter Scott, Washington, Nelson, Byron, De Foe, George II, George III, Napoleon, Wellington, Bismarck, Irving, Garfield and numerous other celebrities of both sexes. The collection numbers some 10,000 specimens.—New York Telegram.

JUST A GLIMPSE.

A Man of Mature Years Sees a Strangely Familiar Face In a Mirror.

"Here," said a man of mature years, "was an experience that I fancy others have had. You know we don't realize the change in our own appearance as the years go by. We feel young, all right, and imagine that we look so, and never realize that we don't. But coming down from an upper story of a tall building in an elevator the other day and thinking of something else I happened to see a face in a mirror in the side of the car.

"It had a curious interest for me somehow. It was the face of a man of middle age, tolerably well preserved, but with hair pretty gray and with marks at the outer corners of his eyes showing where the crow had stepped on him—lightly, to be sure, but the marks of crow's feet nevertheless, the face of a man of years. But, old and gray, the most curious and fascinating thing about it was its striking resemblance to my own. This was almost startling, but a moment later, when as I looked at it I saw a slight turn of my own head reproduced with a corresponding movement by the head in the mirror, I realized that what I saw was indeed a reflection of my own face, and that for a moment I had seen myself as I was.

"But when I got home I looked in the glass there. And did I see any middle aged folks now? Not by a jugful! I saw the man I wanted to see. A little gray perhaps? Yes, a little gray. Crow's feet? Yes, if you want to call 'em so. I'm no spring chicken. I don't set out to be that—that is, not this spring's—but I'm a young man still for all that, and I'm going to remain so for many years to come despite what the mirror in the elevator said."

What Did She Mean?

"What if I were one of those husbands, my dear, who get up cross in the morning and bang things about and kick everything over just because the coffee is cold?"

"John," responded his wife, "I would make it hot for you."

As her words admitted of more than one interpretation, John said nothing about the coffee.—Exchange.

Nubar Pasha and the Pipes.

Soon after the occupation of Cairo by the British troops the late Nubar Pasha took a prodigious fancy to the music of the Black Watch and had the idea of having a servant taught the use of the bagpipes. Nubar dispatched a French friend, who spoke English very well, to interview a piper on the subject.

Donald replied "Weel, he micht learn or he micht no'. Bit, let me tell ye, it needs wind an' mickle strength tae fill the bags o' the pipes an' keep blawin'. Sae if yin o' thae Egyptian chaps took the job on he'd need tae be bandaged a' ow're like yin o' thae auld mummies, or maybe he'd burst himsel'."

This conversation was reported to Nubar, who took the piper's remarks seriously. So he gave up the idea of having a skirler attached to his household, as the use of the bagpipes was attended with the prospect of such danger to the performer.—Westminster Gazette.

VALUABLE

Residential Properties FOR SALE

In Peterborough.

Having decided to remove to Manitoba in the spring, I have decided to sell the following valuable properties at prices that should secure ready purchasers:

Parcel No. 1. A Brick Terrace of four houses, adjoining the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets, two storys, well built with good stone cellars full size of buildings. Each residence contains six rooms with summer kitchen. This property has always been continuously rented and pays an excellent rate of interest on the investment, and it is practically a new property, being only erected a few years, and is in good condition.

Parcel No. 2. Brick residence corner of Reid and Simcoe. Containing ten rooms. House in good condition with all modern improvements, bath, closets, heated with furnace and lighted with electricity.

Parcel No. 3. Brick dwelling corner Aberdeen and Benson streets, facing Dixon Park, containg seven rooms with summer kitchen. This property was erected last season for myself and occupied by myself. Has hard and soft water in kitchen and is a very comfortable residence. This lot is 100 feet square.

Parcel No. 4. Brick residence, corner Wolseley and Benson streets. Two storeys, seven rooms with kitchen, pleasantly situated adjoining Dixon Park. Hard and soft water in kitchen. This lot is also 100 feet square and is a similar building to parcel No. 3.

Parties desiring a good paying investment or one will find any of these desirable purchases.

Particulars and terms, which are reasonable, made known on application to the undersigned.

CUSTODIANS OF THE FAITH.

THE RELATION OF THE CLERGY AND LAITY OF IRELAND THERETO.

The Theme of Rev. Father Frank O'Sullivan's St. Patrick's Day Sermon.

The following is a report of the sermon delivered by Rev. Father Frank O'Sullivan at High Mass in St. Peter's Cathedral on St. Patrick's Day :

"We are the children of the Saints and look for that life which God will give to those who change not their faith from Him."—Tobias, II, 18

I feel unworthy my dear brethren, to address you on this the great National and religious festival of the Irish race. It seems fitting that only the Soggarth Aroon, who has learned from experience the trials and virtues of the Irish people, and who held a place in their hearts that the priesthood of no other nation held in the hearts of its people, should address you, should congratulate you on this the feast of the Patron Saint of Ireland. But those venerable missionaries are fast disappearing from the scene, as are also the heroic pioneers who hewed out of the forests of this country the homesteads of the present generation, and who in the face of almost insurmountable difficulties fought the good fight, kept the faith and transmitted that precious heritage to us. For them to day is a day of triumph, a fore-shadowing as it were of their heavenly triumph, a day on which they deserve to receive from us of the younger generation tokens of veneration and of gratitude. Strong in their faith, faithful to their duty, they need no words of exhortation from me. I will, therefore, address myself more particularly to the younger people, to recall to their minds their dignity and obligations as the children of Irish Catholic parents, and to inspire them with more veneration for their Irish birthright ; for "we are the children of the saints, and look for that life which God will give to those who change not their faith from Him."

It is evident to all those who are following the course of recent events that we are to-day in the midst of a

RELIGIOUS REVOLUTION.

Protestantism is fast losing it hold upon the people, because its dogmas do not satisfy the minds and consciences of intelligent truth-seeking men. This is especially the case in England, which of all the countries of Europe severed itself most completely from the Church of Rome. In France, Austria, Poland, Bavaria and Belgium, the Catholic cause triumphed. In Germany and Holland a large percentage remained true to the faith. But the enemies of our Saviour felt no less secure when they saw His body placed in the tomb than did Protestant England on beholding the utter contempt in which everything Catholic was held. So completely forgotten became the dear old religion of once "Merry England" that the little handful of Catholics who remained faithful were looked upon with curiosity and suspicion as the adherents of a worn-out superstition. It seemed impossible to proud Englishmen that there could be any church for them that was not English. Viewing the ruins of Catholicity in the island, it seemed that it should never be rebuilt. But a marvellous transformation is taking place to-day, not in England alone, but throughout the entire English-speaking world, and many earnest, noble souls are returning to their long lost mother.

All must admit that the Irish race is in the hand of God, the principal instrument that is bringing about this revival of Catholicity among English-speaking people to-day. France has evangelized the world. Her martyred priests have sown the seeds of faith in this Canada of ours. We the children of Irish emigrants owe much to the charity of the French people, and we should be slow to forget Grosse Island and Point St. Charles, where many of the French clergy sacrificed their lives in ministering to the wants of the victims of the fever during the famine years. But to-day when people are dazed with the multiplicity of creeds and theories, it is the Catholic sentiment of the Irish peasantry and the zeal of the Irish hierarchy that is saving the English-speaking world from infidelity. "No other race," says the Bishop of Peoria, "could have done what the Irish have done ; and why ? Because their faith was tried in the furnace of tribulation ; because of their devotion to their priests, no matter to what race they may belong ; because of their genuine Catholic instinct, unadulterated by any national prejudices' Yes, verily, if we may imagine what is impossible, that Rome, the centre of truth, were swept from the earth, there would be no higher court of appeal in matters of faith than the Catholic sentiment of the Irish laity. It is the religion founded by Christ that is to save the world to-day. She alone has preserved intact the deposit of revelation given to the Apostles. "She is," in the words of Bishop Spalding, "the only hierarchic religion. Outside her fold there are views and opinions, but here is an organism which shoots its roots deep into the hidden strata of buried ages. The Church leads us by the hand along the silent ways of this mystic past. She was in Jerusalem when Stephen was stoned ; she was with Peter on the Vatican. She lived in the Catacombs : she saw Constantine triumph ; she saw Rome fall." She is certain of her destiny, because the Holy Ghost will be ever with her, but she is in many ways left to the devotion of her children, and it is, as I have said, the glorious privilege of the sons and daughters of St. Patrick to be to-day among English speaking people the apostles of the truth as revealed by Christ, that truth which, with a few sad exceptions, exists in the mind and heart of the Irish race throughout the world, as pure as when St. Patrick planted its standard upon the Hill of Tara.

FOR THIS COUNTRY

When God chooses a person or a nation for any great work He endows them with those qualities of nature and grace which fit them for it. We will, therefore, cast a glance at the past to see how God prepared the Irish people for this glorious vocation.

It is believed that the ancient inhabitants of Ireland were Milesians, one of the races that settled in the West at the time of the Babylonian transmigration. Be that as it may, their extraordinary conversion would seem to prove that they had retained some of the ancient traditions, especially as regards the which prepared their minds for the gospel of Christ. They bowed their necks to the sweet yoke as if their whole past history had been a training in the service. They were the exception to what St. John said—"He came unto His own and His own received Him not." The conversion of the Island was accomplished without the shedding of a drop of blood. The fulness of divine faith shone upon its people and they become at once not only a nation of believers but also soldiers of Christ. The three successors of St. Augustine the Apostle of England, in the see of Canterbury were foreigners, while Ireland in the very lifetime of St. Patrick possessed a native priesthood and a native hierarchy. Everywhere throughout the land churches were erected, monasteries and cloisters sprang up within which the first of the long line of Ireland's virgin saints consecrated their lives to God. Those three centuries from fifth to the eighth were the golden age of Ireland's history, the time when she became renowned as the Island of saints and scholars. Her schools, notably those of Armah, Banger, Cashel and Lismore, were the most celebrated in Europe. Alfred the Great, the founder of the English monarchy, was educated in them as was also the founder of the university of Paris. In matter of Education Ireland was to the world then what Rome is to-day. Yes more, for she was the only peaceful spot in Europe then torn by storms of battle. She escaped the wrath of the northern hordes which were then wreaking vengeance on pagan Rome. Not only was she the safe depositary of learning but also of faith, during those years when the Roman Empire was crumbling to ruin ; she was, as has been beautifully said the, "Ark of God secure upon the wild waste of waters about the wreck and ruin of a world." It was the glorious privilege of who were afterwards obliged to seek refuge on the continent to be thus the Apostles of Catholicity. There are few ancient towns in Germany, France, Belgium or Switzerland, that do not honour the memory of some Irish saint. Ireland gave to Germany 150 saints, forty-five to France and thirty to Belgium.

With the eight century begins the history of Ireland's sorrows. For three hundred years the Dane besieged her shores, until on the glorious fields of Clontarf, a christian king holding aloft the image of the Crucified, led the Irish troops to victory Then came the Normans, who did not cease their invasions until the time of England's apostacy. With the reign of Henry VIII, began a series of religious persecutions, which for diabolical atrocity, were not surpassed by the ten pagan persecutions of Christian Rome. Ireland sank out of sight among the nations, left desolate and bleeding like her Blessed Saviour on Calvary. She was forgotten even by the Catholic nations, but she never forgot her Catholicity. When the great Western Schism took place in the fifteenth century, and the Pope was exiled to Avignon in France, Ireland alone among the countries of North-western Europe, remained firm in her adherence to the See of Peter. It is true that there were many feuds among the Irish chiefs as there are, alas ! to-day. But when the King of England tried to bribe the Irish people to acknowledge him as the head of their Church, to give up their belief in the blessed Eucharist, to turn away from the image of Mary, they scorned him with the indignation begotten of their faith and their Celtic pride. From Londonderry to Cork they united as a man, and never did warrior fight more bravely than they for Mary and Mary's Son.

St. Paul tells us that faith is the substance of things to be hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. England chose the things that are seen, the comforts and glories of this life, but Ireland fought and suffered for eleven hundred years for the things that are not seen, for that life which God will give to those who change not their faith from Him." This, I hold, is the quintessence of faith. The tenacity with which the Irish clung to their faith during those centuries, had made it, as it were, part of their nature. "Catholicity," says Dr. Cahill, "is almost natural to an Irishman. He is, as it were, a Christian before he is baptized. You can from his heart but Catholicity ; you can crush out every sentiment from his mind but the love of his altars ; you may break him into pieces, and smash him into the dust, but like the diamond in fragments, the faith shines in him to the last."

Nor has this faith failed to bear fruit. It is true that the Irish have many faults and that many, also, have sinned even against the characteristic virtues of their race. But where, I ask, is there a man that has given to the world such an example of conjugal fidelity as the Irishman ? Where a maiden, that has approached nearer to the type of virginal purity, Mary Immaculate than the Irish maiden, and where a mother, who has given such an example of patience, tenderness and love as the Irish mothers ? And if, my brethren, that mother says as she sees a smile on the sleeping infant in her arms "the angels are whispering to my darling" you may call it superstition, but is it not a beautiful superstition, the very excess of her faith that tells her that that baptized infant is an angel of God ? The Irish wife is the queen of her husband's heart because she knows that her love for him has been sanctified by the sacrament of matrimony, and for like reasons the husband ever honours her womanhood and is ever true to the wife of his bosom. The furnace of suffering has wrought the jewel of tenderness and love in the heart of the Irish mother. Behold her at the wharf of Queenstown bidding farewell forever to her sons and daughters, behold on her features the agony of maternal love, and tell me did ever mothers suffer as Irish mothers have suffered ? Did ever mothers love as Irish mothers have loved. Yes my children, one mother and one only, Mary at the foot of the Cross.

Honour, therefore, my dear children, your Irish parents, who have bequeathed to you these virtues as a precious heritage. But bear in mind that to whom much is given much shall be required. Remember, my dear young people, that if your lives are not in accordance with your faith you are a stumbling block in the way of establishing the Kingdom of Christ in this town. Jesus expects that you will show to your Protestant friends that your religion is the religion that makes saints. The only way to this is by the silent preaching of example, by your temperance, by your purity, your honesty, your exemplary home life. Things I am sorry to say occur from time to time that would suggest a rebuke. But I will speak no word of reproach to you on this joyous feast day. But I beseech you, my children. in the name of your blessed Saviour and His blessed mother, in the name of St. Patrick, whose virtues we commemorate to-day in the name of all the hidden saints of Ireland, her martyrs, her virgins and her confessors, in the name of your own dear parents, I entreat you to honour by the purity and sanctity of your lives your Irish names and your Catholic faith.

The Case of Mr. Jas. Brayley

One of Hamilton's Enterprising Manufacturers, Causing a Great Deal of Comment.

He Had Made up His Mind to Suffer Torture to His Dying Day. But Doan's Kidney Pills Have Made a Complete Cure.

The way in which Doan's Kidney Pills are curing the most severe cases of kidney complaint and urinary diseases in Hamilton, Ont., has set the whole city talking about them. People are asking for DOAN'S, will have nothing else but DOAN'S and the druggists are kept busy supplying the demand.

One of the most remarkable cures by these pills is that of Mr. James Brayley, 58 King William St., the well-known manufacturer of saddlery hardware, punches, dies, etc.

Mr. Brayley states that for years he had been troubled with gravel and weakness of the kidneys. To pass water was excruciating agony, and the pain in his back was intense. He continued going from bad to worse till an operation had to be preformed. Nothing seemed to do him any good, and, as he says himself, "I had made up my mind to suffer torture to my dying day !"

But one day Mr. Brayley saw an advertisement of Doan's Kidney Pills, and he determined to give them a trial. He took one box, and then another, till he finished four boxes. By that time he began to get decided relief, and he continued taking them until all the pain had left his back.

"Now I am as limber as an eel," says he. "Instead of getting up a dozen times at night, I never get up more than once. My urine was thick with mucous, but now it is perfectly clear and has no sediment of any kind. I am delighted to testify on behalf of Doan's Kidney Pills, as they cured me after the last ray of hope had fled."

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all dealers at 50 c. a box, or three for $1.25. Ask for Doan's and refuse all others.

Be a Man and Own

A home of your own, you can if you will. A lady called at our office 2 p.m. explained what she wanted to buy, where she wished it, and how and what she was prepared to pay, we pointed out what she wanted, where she she wanted it, and about $150.00 less than she was willing to pay: Within two hours she told our assistant it was useless to go further, she was well suited, and as soon as the Bank opened she got her money and paid the deposit required. The above is true, as we can prove, and as we have a few more Real Bargains, will the next be taken in a like business way, by a Lady or Gentleman? Come to us and we will guide you right, our advice is to secure a home. Open 7.30 to 9.00 p.m.

Anglo-French Agreement as to African Boundaries.

THE TRADE OF THE GREAT NILE

Britain Retains Bahr-El-Ghazal, With Darfur—France Will Keep Waday, West of Darfur; Bagirmi, South of Lake Tchad, and Kanem, North of Lake Tchad—General Cable News.

London, March 22.—The convention between Great Britain and France, delimiting their respective frontiers in the valley of the Nile, was signed last night by the Marquis of Salisbury and the French ambassador, M. Paul Cambon, respectively.

The Terms of the Convention.

Broadly stated, the terms of the convention are as follows: The exact frontier, from the northern lines of the Belgian Congo to latitude 15, is to be determined by a mixed commission, it being agreed that Great Britain will retain Bahr-El-Ghazal, with Darfur; France keeping Wadai (or Waday), west of Darfur, Bagirmi, south of Lake Tchad, Kanem, north of Lake Tchad, and, generally speaking, the territory east and north of Lake Tchad lying north of the 15th parallel. The French sphere will extend south to the tropic of Cancer to the western limit of the Libyan desert.

LORD HERSCHELL'S FUNERAL.

An Impressive and Solemn Service in Westminster Abbey.

London, March 22.—The funeral of the late Baron Herschell, who died at Washington on March 1, took place yesterday in Westminster Abbey. A procession of carriages formed at the residence of the deceased, Grosvenor Gardens. At the residence the casket was placed in an elaborate glass panelled hearse, and the procession proceeded to Westminster Abbey. There the body was met by the dean, clergy and the choir.

Lord Churchill, the Lord in Waiting to the Queen, represented Her Majesty, and there were also present representatives of the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York.

The chief mourner was the son of the deceased, Baron Richard Farrer Herschell, who followed the coffin with the members of the family.

As the procession proceeded up the nave the burial office and the Nineteenth Psalm were sung.

Lord Churchill bore the Queen's wreath, which was of bays, with an autograph card inscribed: "A mark of sincere regard from Victoria, R.I."

At the conclusion of the services, Sir Frederick Bridge, who had been organist of the Westminster Abbey since 1875, played the Dead March from Saul.

The remains were afterwards removed to Waterloo Railroad Station, to be conveyed to Clyffe, Dorsetshire, where they will be interred.

THE AGREEMENT WITH RHODES.

A Special Wire to Be Erected for Use of German Government.

Berlin, March 22.—In the Reichstag yesterday Herr Richter, the German Radical leader, asked the Government for information on the subject of the negotiations progressing with Mr. Cecil Rhodes. The Minister of Foreign Affairs said the negotiations for a railroad through German East Africa were still in progress, but an agreement had been reached regarding the laying of the telegraph line through the East African Protectorate, in which the rights and supremacy of German interests were fully safeguarded. The line would be constructed at the telegraph company's expense, and would be completed within five years.

The agreement includes the erection by the Trans-African Telegraph Company of a second wire through German territory, for the exclusive use of the German Government.

Agoncillo Gone to Paris.

London, March 22.—Agoncillo, the agent of Aguinaldo, and the members of the former staff of Filipinos at Washington, have gone to Paris, in order to confer with the Filipino Junta there. Neither body has received news from the Philippines during the past eight days. They say they fear the Americans have discovered and stopped their means of sending news to Manila.

Anglo-American Feeling.

Bermuda, March 22.—Rear-Admiral Sampson of the U.S. navy, in an interview with a correspondent of The London Times here, expressed the hope that the good feeling between Great Britain and the United States would be permanent. He says the United States has more to gain by a defensive alliance than Great Britain, and he rejoices that the recent change of sentiment has taken place.

Very Cold in Germany.

Berlin, March 22.—There has been a recurrence of snowstorms accompanied by severe cold throughout Germany. A great amount of damage has been done to vegetation. The weather has aggravated the influenza epidemic. In Berlin alone this month there were over 200 deaths from influenza. The schools have been closed in East Prussia this week, owing to the spread of the disease.

France Withdraws Objections.

London, March 22.—The Pekin correspondent of The Times says: France has withdrawn her objections to the extension of the Cosmopolitan settlement at Shanghai on conditions that have been accepted by the foreign consuls, and it now devolves on the British, American and German ministers to insist upon the immediate granting of the extension.

Pope's General Health Good.

Rome, March 22.—The Pope's physicians, Dr. Lapponi and Professor Mazzoni, visited His Holiness yesterday and found his general health good and the seat of the recent operation in excellent condition.

Canadian Home Circles.

St. Catharines, March 22.—The fifteenth annual session of the Supreme Circle, Order of Canadian Home Circles, commenced here yesterday afternoon. About 278 delegates are in attendance. Never was the order in such a flourishing condition. The new members equal ten per cent. of the membership at the beginning of the year, over 500 new members having been enrolled so far during 1899. During the past year over $150,000 was paid out in death claims; over $2,700 to members totally disabled, and $20,000 was added to the special reserve fund for the life expectancy fund. The year closes with a membership of 10,030.

Sherman Is Not Dead.

Santiago de Cuba, March 22.—There is no truth in the statement published in the United States and cabled back here, representing that the Hon. John Sherman is dead. It is incomprehensible how these reports originated. The American Line steamer Paris, Captain Frederick Watkins, arrived here last evening before dark and it was immediately reported that Mr. Sherman was not only alive, but better, resting easily, and expected to recover.

Dr. Parkin Is President.

Toronto, March 22.—The annual meeting of the Toronto branch of the British Empire League was held last night in Association Hall. G. R. R. Cockburn, ex-M.P., presided. The annual report stated that at the close of 1898 the membership was 482, being an increase of 34. Since the close of last year 93 members have been added to the roll. There is a balance on hand of $58.49. Dr. G. R. Parkin was elected president.

A COMPLETE REPLY.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Effectually Answers Sir Charles Tupper.

THE PREMIER'S GREAT SPEECH.

Sir Charles Tupper's Extravagant and Inconsistent Utterances Severely Dealt With—The Various Departments of the Government Defended and Commended — Mr. Mulock's Reforms Eulogised.

Ottawa, March 22.—The speech made yesterday by Sir Wilfrid Laurier was one of the best, if not the very best, he has ever delivered in Parliament. It was eloquent, luminous, clear, aggressive, and marked by flashes of humor and satire that roused the frequent enthusiasm of his friends and brought the flush of anger to the face of his opponents. The truth is that ever since the Liberal Government took office they have been defamed, misrepresented, pelted with abuse and ridicule, and subjected generally to such treatment as was never before dealt out to a Canadian Government. Sir Wilfrid Laurier showed yesterday that he could carry the war into the ranks of the Opposition, and that he was well able to defend his Administration against the bluster, audacity and misrepresentation of Sir Charles Tupper and his associates. It was time that the hue and cry of the Tupper partizans was checked, and yesterday the task was done most effectually by the Prime Minister. It was a sturdy, manly speech, a speech perfect in its plan and statesmanlike in its purpose. He dealt frankly and courageously with the question of prohibition. He emphasized the importance of penny Imperial postage, and two-cent domestic postage. He praised Mr. Mulock for his extraordinary reduction of the deficit in the Postoffice Department. He justified the extension of the Intercolonial Railway to Montreal. He denounced the Opposition and the Senate for the killing of the Yukon railway contract and the consequent great sacrifice of Canadian trade. He dealt at length with the question of the Senate, and while opposing the abolition of that Chamber and deprecating rash constitutional changes, declared that the Senate must be made an effective and responsible part of the machinery of government. He made an eloquent defence of the action of the British commissioners in not rashly and recklessly breaking off the negotiations at Washington, and declared that the policy of Canada now and for the future must be determined by considerations only for the interests of the Canadian people, and not founded in the mere spirit of retaliation against the United States. But there were no nobler sentences in his speech than those in which he declared that the infamy of a gerrymander should never attach to his Government, and that any redistribution bill that should be brought down should give fair play to Liberals and should not withhold fair play from Conservatives. The Premier was cheered long and loudly over and over again, and sat down amid an unusual and remarkable demonstration among the supporters of the Administration. No one will deny that Sir Charles Tupper spoke the night before with a good deal of physical vigor, but his speech was rambling and ineffective, and in comparison with the speech made by the Prime Minister yesterday was certainly a poor performance.

Mr. Foster, a clever debater beyond question, followed the Premier and opened with his usual facility, but with little fire or vigor, and adhered to that practice which has become the curse of Parliamentary discussion in Canada, that is the wearying of members on both sides, and the packing of whole volumes of Hansard with long, dreary irrelevant extracts from speeches and clippings from newspapers. Parliament ought to unite to put down this practice, and it should be abandoned by every public man jealous for his reputation and influence. It was noticeable that while Sir Wilfrid Laurier spoke almost every seat in the House was occupied, that the galleries were crowded and that no member left the Chamber during his speech, while Mr. Foster during most of the time he had the floor spoke to half-filled galleries and not half the Conservative members were in their places. The speech of the Prime Minister had a distinctly depressing effect upon the Opposition. Sir Richard Cartwright spoke a few words in continuation of the debate and then moved its adjournment.

In the Senate.

Ottawa, March 22.—In the Senate yesterday afternoon, in reply to a question by Senator Boulton, Hon. David Mills said that it was not intended that the Washington negotiations should interfere with the relations between the Dominion and Great Britain. The debate on the address was continued by Hon. David Mills, who was followed by Senator Ferguson.

The Gaspesia Moving.

Halifax, N.S., March 22.—The steamer Gaspesia was reported yesterday afternoon to have been seen one mile off Amherst Isle, Magdalen Islands, jammed in heavy, close-packed ice, and moving east with it. The ice was running so fast that it was not safe to try and board her. As she passed the signal station she was within signalling distance, but showed no signals.

Sued for $1,000, Got $400.

London, Ont., March 22.—At the Middlesex Assizes yesterday the Lewis case was resumed. It is an action brought by George Lewis, a painter, for $1,000 damages against the street railway for being ejected from a street car and injuring his shoulder, as a result of the fall he got from the car.

FRIENDS PREVAILED

A Nervous Toronto Women Walked the Floor During the Night for Hours at a Time—She Makes a Statement.

TORONTO, ONT.—"I was troubled with nervousness. It was impossible for me to keep still and if the spells came over me during the night I had to get up and walk the floor for hours at a time. My blood was very poor and I was subject to bilious attacks. My feet would swell and I was not able to do my own housework. I treated with two of the best physicians here but only received relief for a time. I became discouraged. One day a friend called and advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I laughed at the advice but I was prevailed upon and procured one bottle. Before I used it all I began to feel better. I took several bottles and also several boxes of Hood's Pills. Now I can eat and drink heartily and sleep soundly. Hood's Sarsaparilla has entirely cured me and also strengthened me so that I now do all my own work. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all sufferers from nervousness, weakness or general debility." MRS. H. F. FARM, Degrassi Street.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills; easy to take, easy to operate. 25 cents.

IN THE NAME OF HUMANITY.

When the United States entered upon the war with Spain in respect of Cuba, it was not from express purposes of territorial aggrandisement, but from "motives of humanity." It is a matter of doubt whether in the short time of less than a year, the Spaniards were guilty of more inhumanity than is to be charged against the United States in their "humanity" campaign. The cruelties practised on United States soldiers through ridiculous red tape and departmental inefficiency, were the beginning. Brave men, subjected to the most arduous work, demanding the best and most plentiful nourishment, were fed on rotten meat and embalmed beef, preserved in a way very similar to than an undertaker employs to preserve a corpse, and even such meat was carted to headquarters in garbage and manure wagons, uncleaned of the adherent filth of their ordinary use. In Cuba the poor soldier, smitten down with disease from the combined effects of rotten food, sweltering heat, malarial poison, want of shelter, etc., was left at the mercy of fate, unsupplied with proper medical treatment, from lack of stores and common sense and foresight. And when soldiers by hundreds became too weak to stand up to be shot down, they were shipped home in floating "Black-holes-of-Calcutta," in transports better fitted for cattle than human beings—crammed into steaming, stuffy holds, foul with the reak of bilge water and emanation from pest stricken men, packed almost in layers, with scarcely room to turn a hand, on fire with fever and not even potable water supplied, without medicine, without one of the comforts which mitigate the suffering of disease in even the most squalid home in civilization. Such is a faint picture of the inhumanity, involuntary, of course, and under the circumstances inevitable, but at the same time actual and apalling, that the United States practised on its own brave soldiers. But for the overt examples of the manner in which the United States carry on the crusade undertaken in the interests of humanity, turn to the Philippines where the brave natives are waging an unequal but laudably plucky fight for their firesides and their homes; for their liberty, for their independence. There the tender practices of humanity takes the form of rapine pillage and fire. Take for proof extracts from one day's despatches describing in rhetorical bumbast the "splendid achievements" of the United States Army:

"Ten villages were burned and heavy losses inflicted."

"The United States troops followed them (the "rebels"—against shamefully misused authority) for fifteen miles, burning every village along their route."

"Ships belonging to the army just completed a three days' cruise up the various creeks, during which time (three days) they were destroying "insurgent" villages and barges and other boats belonging to the "rebels."

"A sanctuary has been placed before every picture in Paris, but the soldiers are bringing loads of loot from dwelling houses."

A war against women and children implied in burning their houses, for which their husbands and fathers are fighting, may be counted a "splendid achievement" but is hardly in accord with the humane sentiments which were held to justify the war, any more than an effort crush and efface the natives of the Philippines and ram respect for the spread eagle down their throats, by shot and fire and pillage, are consonant with the twaddle about proper government being based upon the "consent of the governed."

The atrocities practiced by the United States upon the poor people that are fighting for their homes, may be justified as military necessities, but that will not let us forget that they are hardly a becoming finale to a war undertaken from motives of "humanity.".

Since the foregoing was written a pamphlet has been received, issued by the Philippines Company, New York, and giving full information of the commercial possibilities of the islands. The avowed object of the pamphlet is to "show their commercial value." Here then, perhaps, is the key to the motive of the war of extermination now being waged against the people of the Philippines. The almighty dollar is ever in the ascendant. Uncle Sam covets the vineyard of Naboth, and the Jingo Jezebels urge him on. The Philippines will make a splendid field for the establishment of more sugar trusts and other combines like those that are getting at the bottom of the pockets of the people of the United States. As to the probability of the United States civilizing the Filipinos and establishing just and stable government, not much hope for success is furnished by the circumstances that after a hundred years of trial, under the most favourable conditions, mob law is rampant in some parts of the United States, and the murder of coloured fellow-citizens is considered an act of merit. If the colour problem cannot be solved at the very doors of the sovereign power, how can its solution be looked for at the other side of the world!

THE LIBERALS AND PROSPERITY.

(The Globe)

Our Conservative friends are apt to grow a little nervous when the prosperity of this country is referred to upon any political occasion. But in their own fat years they were not at all chary about reminding the people that Conservative government and good times went hand-in-hand. The speech from the throne in December, 1880, referred not only to the bountiful harvest with which Canada had been blessed, but to the "undoubted return of her commercial prosperity and the substantial development of her various industries." The orators of the day, as long as the good times lasted, were continually referring to the subject, and driving home the moral that prosperity was largely due to the N. P. In his speech on the address on Monday Mr. Bell pointed out that the trade of Canada had increased in the last two years from $239,000,000 to $304,000,000. The eight months of the current year show a further increase of $12,000,000 over the corresponding period of 1897-98. The remarkable fact was noted that the trade of Canada was increassed by $47,000,000, while that of the United States, with fourteen times our population, increased by only $33,000,000. The finances of the country are in a most satisfactory position. The deficits have come to an end; there was a surplus last year of $1,722,000, and it is expected that the figure will be at least doubled during the current year. At the same time, the burdens of taxation have been very largely diminished, and the reduction of postage from three cents, and in some cases from five cents to two, may be almost placed in the same category as a reduction of taxation. It is fair also to remind our Conservative friends of their dismal predictions of blue ruin, and of the complete failure of their efforts as prophets. The industries of Canada were never more prosperous. The Nova Scotia Steel Company has been compelled to refuse orders. The Massey-Harris Company, employing 2,200 hands, has voluntarily increased the wages of its workmen by 10 per cent.

ORDERS ISSUED TO THE SENATE.

Montreal Herald.

No sooner has it been announced in the speech from the throne that it is intended to introduce during the present session, a measure providing for a redistribution of constituencies than the Star calls on the Senate to kill the measure. Nothing is known of what is proposed to be done. It makes no difference. It is a cill which the Liberals want passed, and that being the case, it must be killed whatever may be its nature. Consequently, the Senate is served with orders to despatch it without mercy.

Through his newly acquired personal organ Sir Charles Tupper thus issues his mandate to Sir Mackenzie Bowell and the Senate. The Conservative Senators have their marching orders. They know what is expected of them. Other things they may do or not do this session, but kill the redistribution bill they must. It is demanded of them by Sir Charles. The lash has been plied, and although the Senators pose before the public as models of independence in public life, they now understand that here again their pretensions must be publicly belied. What does Sir Charles Tupper care for their pretensions? He knows what he wants, and of them it is only expected that they shall obey orders.

This demand upon the Senate by the Star has a curious ring after the way that journal has for some months past been pleading for the continuation to the Upper Chambers of all its present powers. It now appears quite plainly that the only reason for an absolute veto by the Senate is that the use of it may be handy for the Conservatives when in opposition in the House of Commons and in a majority in the Senate. Friends of the Senate know exactly what is the motive of Sir Charles and his party in making the cause of the Senate their own. It is simply that the Senate may be preserved for their use. The Senate is now in a position to know what is expected of it for this session, and the country will wait with interest to see how the orders are obeyed.

A LONDON CASE.

Proving the value of Dodd's Kidney Pills in Kidney Disease.

London March 20—Mr. Charles Dean, stableman at the City Hotel, comes forward to add his quota to the mass of evidence in favor of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Dean states that he had for three years suffered from severe cutting pains in the small of his back. At times they were so great that he had to lie down to get relief.

Several remedies were used without benefit. A doctor prescribed for him, saying his kidneys were affected, but no good resulted.

Finally he took a friend's advice and used Dodd's Kidney Pills. The usual result followed. Three boxes cured him out and out.

The Log Line Had Been Cut.

Yarmouth, N.S., March 29.—The Castilian investigation closed yesterday and the court will meet in Halifax next Tuesday to give their decision. The only evidence yesterday, besides the captain's, was that of Captain Arthur McGray of the Prince George, and Captain Campbell of the Aberdeen, who testified as to the current effects on compasses, etc. Captain Barrow delivered a full statement from the time of leaving Portland till he was in Yarmouth. He did not think his compasses had been tampered with, but said there were some bad fellows on board, who remained undiscovered, for their log line had been deliberately cut at the taffrail, and they had to get a new one in Portland.

A FIERY DEATH TRAP.

Another Fatal Horror—This Time at Omaha, Nebraska—Women Killed and Frightfully Burned.

Omaha, Neb., March 23.—Comparatively insignificant in material destruction, but appalling in its harvest of death and suffering was a fire that partially destroyed the Patterson Block at Seventeenth and Douglas streets yesterday afternoon. Two of its victims have already passed away, one more is not expected to live, and about 25 others are suffering from broken limbs and burned flesh.

The blaze started shortly after 3 o'clock. A group of women, busy with the affairs of the secret orders with which they were affiliated, were in a moment brought face to face with death. Sixty seconds later seven of them lay burned and bleeding on the pavement, to which they had dropped 40 feet below, and the others were rescued after they had been more or less severely injured in their desperate dash down the single flight of stairs that led to safety.

The fire originated from a gasoline stove explosion in a room in the rear of the third floor of the building and next to the elevator shaft. About 90 members of the Women's Lodge of Maccabees were attending a committee meeting in the front waiting room on the same floor. They were unconscious of danger until a janitor threw open the door and told them to get out before the flames cut them off. The warning came too late. The fire swept through the door and down the single stairway. Those nearest the door fled through the blinding smoke and reached the street with hands and face burned and blistered. The rest faced a solid wall of flame. There was a fire escape at the south front of the building, but none of them thought of it. They rushed panic-stricken to the windows, through which the smoke was already pouring. The fire, scarcely a foot behind them, caught their clothing and scorched their faces.

In another instant the spectators, attracted by the clouds of smoke, were horrified to see one after another spring from the open windows and fall heavily to the pavement. Not one arose. They were quickly carried into the office of a physician across the street. Most of them were bleeding from severe cuts and bruises, and all were burned until their skin hung in shreds. As fast as dressings could be applied, the victims were taken to the Clark Hospital. Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Schamel died without recovering consciousness.

Aside from the fatalities and the injuries to persons, the fire was not a serious one. The loss will not exceed $50,000.

VALUABLE Residential Properties FOR SALE

In Peterborough.

Having decided to remove to Manitoba in the spring, I have decided to sell the following valuable properties at prices that should secure ready purchasers:

Parcel No. 1. A Brick Terrace of four houses, adjoining the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets, two storys, well built with good stone cellars full size of buildings. Each residence contains six rooms with summer kitchen. This property has always been continuously rented and pays an excellent rate of interest on the investment, and it is practically a new property, being only erected a few years, and is in good condition.

Parcel No. 2. Brick residence corner of Reid and Simcoe. Containing ten rooms. House in good condition with all modern improvements, bath, closets, heated with furnace and lighted with electricity.

Parcel No. 3. Brick dwelling corner Aberdeen and Benson streets, facing Dixon Park, containg seven rooms with summer kitchen. This property was erected last season for myself and occupied by myself. Has hard and soft water in kitchen and is a very comfortable residence. This lot is 108 feet square.

Parcel No. 4. Brick residence, corner Wolseley and Benson streets. Two storys, seven rooms with kitchen, pleasantly situated adjoining Dixon Park. Hard and soft water in kitchen. This lot is also 108 feet square and is a similar building to parcel No. 3.

Parties desiring a good paying investment or one will find any of these desirable purchases.

Particulars and terms, which are reasonable, made known on application to the undersigned.

THE ODORLESS

CREMATORY CLOSET.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematory Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS.

Allsten, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable. Yours respectfully,

JAMES CONWAY.

Medical Superintendent's Office, Sept. 30th, 1897
Asylum for the Insane, Hamilton.

Gentlemen: I had the opportunity of witnessing yesterday the operation of your Odorless Crematory Closet. It had a large accumulation of fecal matter in the pan when the fire was started, and inside of 20 minutes it was all reduced to ashes. There was no odor before or during the operation of consuming the fecal matter, as the ventilation by the flue seems to carry off all odor at once, before it has a chance to vitiate the surrounding atmosphere.

Yours truly. JAMES RUSSELL, M.D.

Shaddon, February 28th, 1898.

I have used it for sometime and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets.

I am, yours, etc.
W. H. MORRISON

Elmbrook, Sept. 20th, 1897.

Dear Sirs—Having been present at a private test of your new patent closet yesterday afternoon, I beg to express my satisfaction with it in every way. Neither before, during or after the burning out of its contents did I detect the slightest unpleasant odor. I am satisfied it will be a boon to thousands in rural towns, villages and country homes.

Yours truly,
M. J. MULLOCK, M.D.

FOR SENATE REFORM.

The Ontario Legislature so Declares by 11 Majority.

A DEBATE THAT WILL EDUCATE.

The Opposition Shifts Its Ground—Instead of Adhering to Mr. Whitney's Amendment, They Propose One Which Opposes a Change in the Constitution—The Speeches Made on Tuesday.

Toronto, March 22.—The Legislature last night by a majority of 11 passed the resolution which was moved last week by Hon. Mr. Hardy in favor of Senate reform. The division took place, not upon Mr. Whitney's amendment expressing appreciation of the Senate's action in rejecting the Yukon and Drummond Counties bills, but upon a further amendment moved by Mr. Carscallen in the afternoon deprecating any change in the constitution of the upper Chamber which might disturb the equilibrium between the Dominion and the provinces established at Confederation. Comparing the two amendments, it will be seen that there was a decided change of base on the part of the Opposition. Mr. Whitney's proposition, asking the House to vote approval of the Senate, scarcely deserved to be treated seriously, but the Conservatives had at least some basis of argument when they touched the question of the constitution of the Senate. Mr. Carscallen's amendment was defeated by a vote of 48 to 37, and the amendment of his leader was declared lost on the same division. The same vote reversed procured the passage of the resolution and the adoption of the motion ordering that an address be prepared and presented to Her Majesty embodying the views of the Legislature.

Senate Reform Debate.

Mr. Carscallen resumed the debate on the Attorney-General's Senate reform resolution. The member for East Hamilton contended that a joint session of the Senate and Commons would destroy the individuality of the two Houses. As to the alleged deadlock in legislation by the action of the Senate, he denied that such a state of things had ever existed in Canada, nor had it in England in regard to the House of Lords. There had been nothing indicated by the Attorney-General, nor by the Minister of Education, as to how the proposed reform would practically work. A proposition, far-reaching, such as that of the Government, should be well digested, and have no element of uncertainty about it. It should be endorsed by the will of the people. Let the people pronounce on the question at the polls. This was in accord with popular and representative government. He said he was not prepared to say that some measure of reform in regard to the nomination of Senators may not be advantageously adopted, and favored Senatorial districts, and opposed centralization. He would take the power of appointment from the Ministry of the day. He commented on the advantages of an elective Senate, which should be an independent body, and never sit or vote conjointly with the House of Commons. He approved of an age-limit for resignation. Under an elective system the country would not approve of Senators being appointed for life. He preferred a term of years, not less than seven. In conclusion Mr. Carscallen moved that the following words be added to Mr. Whitney's amendment:

"This House deprecates any change in the constitution of the Senate by which the equilibrium between the several provinces of the Dominion, as established by the British North America Act, may be disturbed."

Mr. Colquhoun (West Hamilton) seconded the amendment.

Mr. Graham (Brockville) repelled the allegation of the member for East Hamilton that the members on the Government side of the House would not on this question vote independently. If Mr. Carscallen regarded hon. members as a purchasable commodity he should substantiate his charge. The member for Brockville also assailed the statement that those who sought the passage of the Yukon bill were burglars. He defended Hon. Mr. Tarte, denouncing the hounding of a man because he had changed his political faith. He challenged anyone to prove crookedness in Mr. Tarte in respect to either the Yukon or Drummond Counties bill, or in any other way since he became a member of the Liberal party. Mr. Graham said emphatically: "I am in favor of the abolition of the Senate pure and simple." Then reasons for abolition were given—because the Senate is out of harmony with the legislative working of a democratic country; also on the grounds of economy. By the abolition of the Senate the Dominion would save $200,000 a year.

Mr. Powell (Ottawa) gave earnest support to Mr. Carscallen's amendment. He maintained that for the last 30 years the Senate had done great service to the country. The Premier would be a very brave man, indeed, if he dared to broach Senate reform in the present session at Ottawa. It was not believed by any of his followers that he would do such a rash thing. In fact, the people of Quebec would not support him in such a proposal, for the simple reason that by the terms of Confederation they were assured of a certain representation in the Senate. Mr. Powell submitted figures as to the work of the Senate in rejecting ill-considered legislation. In the 30 years' service since Confederation, the Senate had thrown out 153 bills—65 Government bills, 35 public and 53 private bills, including divorce. During this period the Senate had ejected 47 Conservative measures and 18 Liberal. Where, then, is the partizan leaning?

Mr. Lumsden (Ottawa) heartily supported the motion. He declared himself free and untrammelled, and that he followed his leader loyally but not servilely. He should give an independent vote, and in favor of the resolution. The Senate was not only an obstructive body, but destructive—whenever Liberal measures were concerned. This was a progressive age, and the Senate lagged behind in the proceedings. Mr. Lumsden said the resolutions did not go as far as he was prepared to go. He would prefer total abolition.

Mr. T. C. Lucas (Centre Grey) objected to this radical change in Parliamentary Government. The House had no commission to discuss this question. He objected to reducing the House to the level of a debating society. The Attorney-General was very anxious to see the original draft of Mr. Crawford's Workmen's Compensation bill. "I," said Mr. Lucas, "would be equally glad to see the original draft of the Attorney-General's resolutions." He said he was prepared to consider a well-digested measure of Senate reform, but he could not support the Attorney-General's proposals.

Mr. Foy (South Toronto) said that was neither the time nor place to deal with the constitution of the Senate. Members had no mandate from their constituents on this question. All expressions were but individual opinion. The Ontario Legislature had no more right to discuss this subject than had the Senate to discuss the regulations and procedure of that House. The resolutions, if passed, would only be the expression of the Liberal members, and an almost equal number of Conservatives would vote against it.

Mr. Foy concluded at midnight, when the division on Mr. Carscallen's amendment to the amendment took place, the Government majority being 11.

The original resolution was carried on the same division.

Address to Her Majesty.

The Attorney-General moved, seconded by Hon. Mr. Ross, the address to the Queen, asking for the proposed amendment to the B.N.A. Act.

WRITES A LETTER ON DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Sufferers are at liberty to correspond with the above address and will obtain full particulars regarding the great cure.

He says: My wife was most terribly afflicted with protruding piles, and contemplated a surgical operation. A friend of ours recommended the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a complete cure. We were so pleased with the ointment that I tried it myself, as I have been troubled with an unsightly skin affliction which covered the lower part of my face.

For 25 years I suffered untold agony, and was treated by the best medical skill in the United States. I consider Dr. Chase's Ointment worth its weight in gold for piles and skin disease.

ASSEMBLY NOTES.

These bills were read a third time and passed by the Legislature yesterday: To confirm a bylaw of the town of Prescott; respecting the town of Oshawa; respecting the village of Merrickville; respecting the London Young Men's Christian Association.

Hon. A. S. Hardy yesterday introduced a bill to amend the statute law.

The interprovincial board of arbitrators to adjust the accounts of Ontario and Quebec and the Dominion, yesterday considered the accounts of the common school fund.

The Elevated Railway bill, introduced by Mr. German, was voted out of the railway committee yesterday morning.

Mr. Pattullo's bill to repeal the clause in the Municipal Act allowing municipalities to grant exemptions to industries came up before the municipal committee of the Legislature yesterday and was opposed by Mr. Kribs. After some discussion it was further held over.

A bill introduced yesterday by Mr. Ferguson amends the Municipal Drainage Act so as to limit the time to six months within which the engineer is to make his examination after receiving instructions to do so, and gives the council power to appoint another engineer if he does not do it.

A TRUE STATEMENT

By Foreman White, of the Hamilton Screw Works.

Hamilton, March 6.—If a vote of the people were to be taken to ascertain which is the most popular medicine on the market, Dodd's Kidney Pills would lead by a large majority.

One of the latest cures by that grand remedy is that of Foreman T. H. White, of the Screw Works here, who testifies that he was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills of Kidney Disease of eight years' standing, after other medicines had failed.

Mr. White says: "One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me, four boxes cured me. Publish this statement if you wish. It is true in every particular."

RELIEF IN 10 MINUTES!

Every sufferer from catarrh who reads these lines will find in them a message of hope. No matter how severely he may be afflicted, no matter how many so-called remedies he may have tried, no matter how many physicians have experimented upon him in vain, no matter how completely he may have despaired of ever ridding himself of his disgusting and distressing malady—he can be cured! Hundreds upon hundreds of cases as bad as his have been fully and permanently cured by DR. AGNEW'S CATARRHAL POWDER.

This wonderful remedy never fails if taken before catarrh has developed into other necessarily fatal diseases. Don't put it off—go at once to your druggist and get a bottle. It will relieve you in 10 minutes—it will place you on the road to full recovery immediately. It cures cold in the head, sore throat, tonsilitis, asthma, hay fever, loss of smell and deafness. Here is an interesting letter from the Rev. James Murdock, of Harrisburg, Pa.:

"When I know anything is worthy of recommendation, I consider it my duty to let my friends know it. I have used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder for the last two months and am now completely cured of catarrh of five years standing. It is certainly magical in its effect. The first application benefited me within five minutes. I would not be without it in the house if it cost $5 a bottle, as it will cure any slight cold I may have, almost instantly." At all druggists.

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart relieves heart disease in 30 minutes. Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills—20c. for 40 doses—are the best. Dr. Agnew's Ointment relieves in a day eczema, tetter and all skin diseases. Cures piles in 3 to 5 nights. 35c. 16

St. Thomas Laborer's Luck.

St. Thomas, March 23.—Mr. Edward Johnson, a corporation laborer, has thrown up his job. Last week he received notice from a firm of lawyers that by the death of a relative in England he had inherited from $25,000 to $30,000. He will shortly leave for England to secure his fortune.

C.P.R. Brakeman Killed.

Montreal, March 22.—Yesterday morning about 4 o'clock T. W. Brown, brakeman, was killed on the track of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Outremont. It is supposed that Brown fell from the top of a car and thus met his death. Deceased resided at Outremont.

Queen's Fees Raised.

Kingston, March 22.—For next year the fees at Queen's University for pass examinations in science and arts have been raised from $3 to $6, and in honor examinations from $4 to $8.

A HUNDRED REASONS

Can be given why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best and most effectual cure for every form of indigestion.

They are in the tablet form which retains their good qualities indefinitely, while liquid preparations become stale and useless with age.

They are convenient, can be carried in the pocket and taken when needed. They are pleasant to take.

After each meal dissolve one or two of them in the mouth and, mingling with the food, they constitute a perfect digestive, absolutely safe for the most sensitive stomach.

They digest the food before it has time to ferment, thus preventing the formation of gas and keeping the blood pure and free from the poisonous products of fermented, half digested food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the only remedy designed especially for the cure of stomach and nothing else.

One disease, one remedy; the successful physician of to-day is the specialist, the successful medicine is the medicine prepared especially for one disease.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets make the complexion clear by keeping the blood pure.

They increase flesh by digesting flesh-forming foods.

A whole package taken at one time would not hurt one, but would simply be a waste of good material.

Over six thousand men and women in the State of Michigan alone, have been cured of indigestion and dyspepsia by the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per package.

A NEW INVENTION!

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which lights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. THREE ESSENTIALS.

* * *

Three things are urgently needed just now by Men, Young Men and Boys in order to appear properly dressed at this season of the year.

Thanks to Gough Bros. it is no longer an expensive matter to dress yourself or your boys in the present fashion.

The barriers between stylishness and expensiveness have been wholly burned away by the Wonderfu Cheap Men's modern rules of merchandising.

The FIRST Essential is a New Spring Suit. For Men, we give you a thousand choice patterns to pick from, in Sacks or Oxtaways, starting at $3 90. For Boys, a selection incomparable in make, finish and price, starting at $1.80 for a strong Navy Serge Suit.

The SECOND Essential is a New Spring Top Coat. There are men who would hardly believe that Spring Coats of so high a character could be found, ready made, at $5.50, $7, $9, and $10. But they are a remarkable dressy line—good in quality, well fitting and finished in a superior manner.

The THIRD Essential is a New Spring Hat. Our Hat story is short but important. It tells of the tremendous strides made in our Hat selling. The New Spring Styles in Stiffs and Softs are Wilkinson's and Wakefield's British makes. Men's Fedoras at 95c. and up. Men's Derbys in smartest shapes at $1.00. Colours black, brown, tan and gray. Golf and Varsity Caps and handsome shapes in Tweeds and Serges are again popular.

All Three Essentials at this Big Store, with Spring Boots and Shoes a good Fourth and New Spring Shirts and Neckwear good Fifths.

Hand Badly Lacerated.

Andrew Howie, an employee of Auburn Woollen Mills, while working at a picker this morning got his hand caught in the gearing and several fingers were badly lacerated. Drs. Boucher and Clarke found it necessary to amputate one finger but hope to save the others.

Historical Lecture To-night.

The subject of the Historical Lecture at St. John's this evening will be "The Age of Non-Jurors." This is an epoch of peculiar interest and about which little is known. The lecturer will be Rev. H. F. Burgess, of Bethany. The public are cordially invited. 8 p. m.

Stylish Note Paper.

We would like to show you some of our new things in fashionable note papers, just opened out to-day at the Peterborough Bookstore. The new "EMPRESS" note paper and envelopes to match, is a very dainty size of paper and folds once into the new shaped "Empress" envelopes. The latest colours are Rose, Azure and Syrian in French crepon effects. Also Kid Surface and Pure Ivory Whites, and the price for quality is a marvel of cheapness.

DIED SUDDENLY IN DETROIT.

Sadly Sudden Death of Miss Bella Bolton.

Mr. J. R. Bolton, of the Armstrong & Bolton Company, contracting engineers, New York, was in town to-day, visiting his grandmother, Mrs. J. R. Brown, 287 Reid street. Mr. Bolton is on a sad journey, returning from Detroit, where on Sunday he attended the funeral of his sister Bella, second daughter of Mr. Geo. Bolton, formerly of Peterborough. Miss Bolton's death, which took place on the 16th, was very sudden. She had for some time been complaining of ill health, but it was not considered serious. On Thursday last she went to the bath room for the purpose of taking a bath, and died on the floor, where she evidently had sunk down when the fatal attack came on. She was discovered some time later, quite dead. Miss Bolton will be well remembered by many in Peterborough, and her sadly sudden death will be learned with deep regret. The funeral took place on Sunday.

PERSONAL

Mrs. J. A. Preston, of Bethany, is visiting Mrs. Jos. Armstrong.

—Intelligence has been received here to-day of the death at Niagara of Mr. Wellington (Monty) Moncrief, formerly of this town, and brother of Mr. Wm. Moncrief.

—The Canadian Land Company control about 350,000 acres in Haliburton County, and it is estimated that the stocks of birch, maple, basswood and black ash growing thereon are worth one million dollars, and the value is constantly growing.

—Cobourg has abolished the curfew bell, and other towns are talking of doing so. On the other hand, the plan admittedly works well in many places. Whether the law works well or badly depends upon the police—where they do their duty good is being accomplished.

SIGNS OF SPRING AND EASTER.

Some Surprising Spring Specialties for Men, Young Men and Boys at H. LeBrun & Co.'s.

The approach of Spring and Easter bring into play thoughts of new clothing. The early spring holidays, beginning with Good Friday, remind gentlemen that their shabby winter attire must be changed for new spring styles. The question is—"Where to get suited?" Visit Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co., and you are at headquarters, where you have your pick from a heaping stock, and where price and style are of equal importance. Men's and young men's nobby spring overcoats, made to order on the premises, are awaiting your inspection, with a $13 price ticket, the best overcoat value in town. Stylish Suit made to order in faultless fashion from $12 to $18. These prices should come home to you. But LeBrun and Co's "Bargain Counter" runs all round the store. Low prices and good qualities are not neglected in ready-made clothing, in which you are certain of finding what you want at a lower price than similiar clothing is sold elsewhere. New Spring Tweed Suits $4, $5 and $6, well worth your critical eyes. New Spring Overcoat at $3, $6, $7 and $9, are rare makes. If they do not look the same at home as they did in the store, return them. Spring Suits for boys, bright new suits that wear long, fit neat, and look better than the general run. Mothers when out shopping should call in and see these nobby little rigs for boys in neat patterns from $1 up. We give Trading Stamps equal to five per cent. on all purchases, to encourage the cash system.—H. LeBrun & Co.

CURLIANA.

The return match in the Lindsay-Peterborough competition was played yesterday—three rinks of Granites going to Lindsay and three rinks of Thistles playing Lindsay here. The Thistles were one point down in Peterborough, but in Lindsay the Granites were seven points up, thus winning the match.

The scores were as follows:

The Lindsay end of yesterday's match was something of a blow to the Scugog curlers. On the occasion of the first match in this competition, when Lindsay turned down Peterborough, an elaborate report was forwarded to the Toronto papers, which to-day for some reason contains no mention of the match in Lindsay yesterday.

It will be noticed that every rink of the Granites scored a majority, but perhaps the most notable feature of the match was the splendid work done by Skip Whiten's quartette, which turned down the redoubtable Flavelle's rink for five points, and it is no small feather in Skip Whiten's cap that in two matches out of three, he has defeated the generally regarded invincible Skip Flavelle.

As Lindsay and Peterborough have each won a match, the final games will be played to-morrow to decide the ownership of the cup.

Lakefield is playing two rinks in town this afternoon.

HOCKEY.

The Invincibles went to Campbellford on the noon train and play the hockey team of that town to-night.

LACROSSE.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club will be held on Tuesday evening in the Oriental Hotel parlours. Reports for the year will be presented, and officers elected. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of members of the club and those interested in its welfare.

CRICKET.

The annual meeting of the Cricket Club will be held on Thursday evening next at the Oriental Hotel, instead of on Friday as was previously announced. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

CYCLE PATH BILL.

The Globe says: The statement that Mr. Stratton's bill respecting cycle paths proposes to authorize municipalities to construct and maintain paths is erroneous. Under the measure which the member for West Peterborough has introduced, County Judges are empowered to select in each county a number of gentlemen to whom the construction and maintenance of cycle paths is to be relegated. Those cyclists using the paths will be required to take out a license each year. Riders who do not pay the fee will have to keep to the ordinary highway, that is if the bill passes. It is not proposed to place any burden upon the municipalities in connection with the bill.

Y. W. C. A. CONCERT.

It Was a Great Success Both From the Standpoint of the Audience and the Association.

A large and fashionable audience, composed almost entirely of ladies, gathered in Association Hall last evening, and listened to a most pleasing programme, which was presented under the auspices and in aid of the Young Women's Christian Association. The movement must evidently have many warm sympathizers in town, as the attendance crowded the large hall to its limit.

In the absence of Dr. Bell, Mr. J. W. Garvin was asked to preside, which he kindly consented to do. The programme was opened by Miss Dennistoun, whose most artistic rendering of Pape's "The Brook" as a pianoforte solo was fully appreciated. Mr. G. W. Mulligan followed with the vocal solo, "Little Women" (Osgoode) in his most pleasing style. "The Creole Love Song" was invested with new beauty as sung by Mr. James Dawson, whose voice is developing into one of great promise. A violin and piano duet was delightfully given by Misses Bell and McCabe. It was a bright mazurka.

Little Lola Ostrom was in her best form and her several selections during the evening earned her well deserved encores. "I watch 'neath thy lattice," sung by Miss Annie Hall, was a most delightful number, given with feeling and a care in shading which was most pleasing to the ear. Miss Edmison followed with a brilliant rendering of Chopin's Valse in E Flat as a pianoforte selection, after which as a closing number, Mrs. S. J. Shorey and Miss Clara Bellegham sang as a duet "Home to our Mountains," from Verdi's Il Trovatore, their voices blending admirably in this exquisite musical gem.

The managers and promoters of the concert are to be congratulated upon the success that attended their efforts to furnish a very pleasing and well-balanced programme.

The Y. W. C. A. desire to cordially thank all those who assisted in the programme and to any others who in any way helped to promoting its success, the Y. M. C. A. for the free use of their hall, and Mr. Mulligan for the loan of the Whaley-Royce pianoforte used on the occasion.

ANNUAL WHEEL SHOW.

The Second Event of This Kind to Take Place Next Week in the Y. M. C. A.

The second annual cycle show under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. will be held in Association Hall on the evenings of Monday and Tuesday, March 27th and 28th.

Great success attended this event last year, but this year's arrangements promise to surpass it. The representatives of the different wheels will decorate their exhibits on an elaborate scale.

All will have an opportunity without charge of viewing the models for '99 under the most favourable circumstances.

The following firms are taking part:—Messrs. McPherson & Young, Peterborough Hardware Co., Fairweather & Co. A. Mercer & Co., J. J. Turner & Sons, W. A. Sanderson and Talbot Bros. A floor space has also been reserved for "old timers."

An attractive announcement will be issued in a few days.

The show is open to all. Boys will not be admitted.

Spain's Greatest Need.

Mr. B. P. Olivia, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S. C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest Blood and Nerve Remedy, all pain soon left him. He says this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures all liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthens the nerves, puts vim, vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing, you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. Sold by J. Lynch, Druggist.

NOTABLE MASON FUNCTION.

DISTRICT LODGE OF INSTRUCTION HELD AT PORT HOPE.

Important Assembly of Masonic Delegates—Exemplification of the Work by Lodges in the District—Highly Creditable Proficiency of Peterborough and Lakefield Lodges—Grand Banquet Tendered.

The important event, which had been awaited with interest by the members of the Masonic fraternity under the jurisdiction of Ontario District No. 13, was begun on Tuesday morning in the Masonic Hall, Port Hope, under the direction of Right Worshipful Bro. W. Evans, District Deputy Grand Master.

The attendance of delegates was unusually large, the district being represented by members of the craft from Peterborough, Lakefield, Lindsay, Omemee, Keene, Millbrook, Cobourg, Colborne, Whitby, Bowmanville and Port Hope.

The fact that M. W. Bro. E. T. Malone, of Toronto, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada, was to be present in his official capacity, as well as other distinguished Grand Lodge officers, imparted increased interest to the importance of the assemblage.

Among the large gathering of delegates from other sections of this district, the following brethren registered from Peterborough, Lakefield and Keene Lodges:

Peterborough—R W Bro Harry Rush, Grand Junior Warden; R W Bro Wm Miller, P D D G M; R W Bro W E Conway, W Bro F D MacKay, W Bro W H Walkey, W Bro Robt McFadden, Bros (Rev) W L Armitage, E J Roesel, H Long, W Stocker, R Hamilton, W Butler, F W Walden, J Crane, J M McCharnock and W Menzies.

Lakefield—W Bro W M Graham, W Bro John Hall, W Bro W H Casement, W Bro R J Munro, W Bro J E Kelly, Bros E Q Dench, J R Fraser, E Thompson, W Cox, J Ridpath, Jno Cooper, C Boyce and C D Crawford.

Keene—W Bro (Dr) John M Shaw.

LODGES OF INSTRUCTION.

The importance of meetings of Lodges of Instruction has been long conceded by the craft, and the most distinguished workers in the fraternity have given their countenance and counsel at their proceedings. But for these lodges of instruction the members would acquire a much less perfect knowledge of the beautiful details of their work and require a much longer time to become proficient in the practice of the ceremonies and the elucidation of the ancient landmarks of the Order. The business is confined to the principal discipline required in the elaborate ceremonies, and affords practical instruction to those who seek special information and are ambitious of preferment. The Mason who is ambitious of becoming a good Mason must work, as the ancient brethren worked, with fervency and zeal—for the process of a Mason's advancement is gradual—from the rough stone in the N. E. angle of the lodge to the perfect aspirant to Masonic honours.

THE BUSINESS ON THE SUMMONS.

The Lodge of Instruction was officially opened at 10 a.m. by R. W. Bro. W. Evans, of Port Hope, D D.G.M., and the following assignment of work was elaborated:

10 a.m.—Exemplification of 1° by Faithful Brethren Lodge No. 77, Lindsay.—W. Bro. McMahon, Master.

11 a.m.—Exemplification of 2° by J. B. Hall Lodge, No. 145, Millbrook.—W. Bro. A. A. Smith, Master.

2 p.m.—Exemplification of 1° by Fidelity Lodge No. 248 Bowmanville—W. Bro. Baird, Master.

3 p.m.—Exemplification of 2° by Clement Lodge Lodge No. 313, Lakefield.—W. Bro. Graham, Master.

4 p.m.—Exemplification of 3° by Lebanon Lodge No. 139, Oshawa.—W. Bro. Punshon, Master.

7.30 p.m.—Exemplification of 3° by Peterborough Lodge No. 155.—W. Bro. Conway, Master.

Great interest was manifested throughout the entire sessions, the attendance at each being such as to crowd the capacity of the hall. The skill of the craftsmen from the different sections of the district was highly commended by the D.D.G.M. At the evening session, when the exposition of the impressive ceremonies of the 3° was given by the officers of Peterborough Lodge, No. 155, the attendance was largely augmented. The Grand Master was enthusiastically received at this session, and took his seat in the East. The distinguished visitor watched the work of the Peterborough officers with pleasurable emotions, and was pleased to bestow high praise upon its accuracy and perfection.

The elaboration of the work in the several degrees, and the knowledge imparted, was of the most valuable nature, and the event will be marked by a renewed interest in Masonry throughout the whole district.

Grand Banquet.

At the conclusion of the business of the day, the brethren were invited to partake of the hospitality of the brethren of Hope and Ontario Lodges of Port Hope. About one hundred and fifty Masons surrounded the tables, which were laden with the luxuries of the day. The scene presented was one of unusual attractiveness. The large dining hall was festooned with flags and bunting and a charm and brilliancy was given to the mystical surroundings by the gorgeous dress and Masonic clothing of the Grand Master and Grand Officers. The floral decorations on the table consisted of rich blooming and foliage plants, artistically decorated flower vases and lamp stands, while the brethren gave ample evidence of harmony and vivacity during the hours of refreshment.

R Wor Bro Evans occupied the chair, having on his right the distinguished guest of the evening, the M. W. Grand Master, R. W. Bro. W. J. Robertson, District Secretary and other officials; and on his left were R. W. Bro, H. Rush, G.J.W.; R. W. Bro. W. M. Miller, P. D. D. G. M. and other officers.

The chairman proposed the toast of "The Queen and the Craft," which was responded to with appropriate honours, and the singing of "God Save the Queen" by the whole company.

The chairman then gave the toast of the evening, "The Grand Lodge of Canada and the Grand Master,' which was enthusiastically received.

The Grand Master, on rising, was unable to proceed for several minutes, owing to the royal welcome he received from the brethren. He thanked them for the very enthusiastic manner they had drank the toast. He was more than pleased with the reception he had received here. He said: In my ramblings up and down, the length and breadth of the land, I have been loyally welcomed wherever I went. I have formed friendships during my term of office which will last me until the end of my life. But in this connection there is one prayer I have to offer, and that is—if I may be allowed to use the somewhat common expression—that my head shall not swell. (Laughter.) The position which I occupy is enough at times to swell the head of the most canny Scotchman. I came here on the invitation of Bro. Evans to assist him in having good work done in this district. I know your D.D.G.M. and your district well, for many years, and have had a practical acquaintance with nearly every Lodge. And while I desire to give praise to your D. D. G. M. to whom praise is due, I by no means forget the arduous duties of your previous D. D. G. M's. (Hear, hear.) With regard to Grand Lodge, I can tell my brethern to-night that they have every reason to be proud of that body, who have now 25,000 Masons in good standing, in the Grand Lodge of Canada. We have an excellent staff of officers, among whom, I am pleased to see present to-night, is our worthy Grand Junior Warden, R. W. Brother Rush. I am also pleased to say that, in that portion of the ceremonies which Bro. Rush gave us to-night, he has no equal in that work. He was glad when Grand Lodge elected Bro. Rush, and elected him too, unanimously. (Applause.) I love to associate with my brethern, and let me tell you, that if I thought there were no more in Masonry than in wearing the gold and tinsel ensigns of office, and not endeavoring to do my duty, then I would have no more to do with it. (Hear, hear.) The Grand Master then eloquently referred to the equality of Masons in the Lodge room, where, he said, "the tradesman can meet on the same level with the most distinguished of your citizens. The words of their esteemed Kipling, who should have been the poet laureate, had an appropriate bearing:—

"We met on the level, and we parted on the square,
And I was Junior Warden in that lodge out there."

Continuing, the Grand Master said: I am glad to notice that the clergy are flocking into our lodges. We cannot have too many of them. God speed the day when these men shall be a power in the craft. (Applause.) He drew attention to some injuries inflicted on lodges by suspensions and demitting members. The practice of charity inculcated in our order did not take on its practical form at times in our lodges. He urged them to bring back these suspended and demitted members into their lodge rooms and begged them to remember that the proper time to bestow wreaths and flowers was now, not after death. (Applause). After some further pointed references of a similar nature, the Grand Master resumed his seat amid continued applause.

R. W. Bro. Rush proposed the toast of "Ontario District No. 13," to which R. W. Bro. Evans responded. He touched upon the varied phases of the work as he found it in his district, and stated that the esprit de corps among the lodges had been most harmonious and friendly. "But," he remarked, "when I visit such lodges as Peterborough, No. 155, and Bowmanville, No. 423, it is a rare pleasure."

The toast was also responded to by R. W. Bros. W. J. Robertson and W. Miller.

The toasts of "The Learned Professions," "Municipal Institutions," "The Press," and "The Ladies" were suitably proposed and honoured, after which Bro. Crane sang the new Masonic parting song, entitled "The Junior Warden's Toast." A capital musical programme was carried out during the evening, in which the following took part:—Bros. J. Crane, W. Stocker, F. W. Walden, W. Jones, W. Bro. Punshon and others.

Great credit is due to the energetic members of the Executive Committee of Hope and Ontario Lodges for the thorough manner in which they discharged their duties in connection with this Lodge of Instruction. The Reception and Banqueting Committees left nothing undone to entertain the visiting brethren from the district in a right royal manner. "Auld Lang Syne" followed by "God Save the Queen," brought the proceedings to a happy termination.

THE NEW COVERT TOP COAT.

For Spring Wear has got the call again this season. It is a modified type of the real Covert Coat, which is short and boxy. The leading features is that it is not so short as the real Covert, and is much less boxy. In length it ranges from 34 to 35 inches for a man of average height. It must look broad, with well-rounded shoulders, a bottom fullness, the greater part of which will be placed at the sides. Well vented side-seams, collar of the material, shorter than the Chesterfield but broader and squarer in effect.

The material will be Covert coatings in neat drab shades, Venetians and Rainproof Cloth of pleasing mixtures.

A range of new patterns in Soverign Trousers ($5.00) to select from.

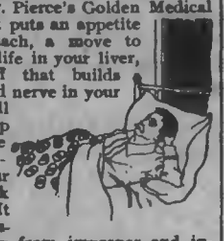
IT IS BREAKFAST TIME!

"Don't want any." "It's time to go to work!" "Leave me alone." There you are, limp as a rag, lying in bed when there's good cold cash waiting for you down-town. But your head is heavy. Your eyelids are lead. Your tongue tastes bad. And you don't care. It's liver — liver — liver. And stomach — stomach—stomach. You don't know it, but it's so.

There's just one remedy that will put vim in you—by giving you clean bowels, a healthy stomach, a lively liver, and blood that is rich and red and don't stagnate. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It puts an appetite in your stomach, a move to your bowels, life in your liver, and the stuff that builds bone, flesh and nerve in your blood. It will make you sleep at night, wake in the morning, eat your meals and work with a zest. It cures all diseases resulting from improper and insufficient nourishment — lung, nerve, liver and blood troubles. It contains no alcohol to inebriate or create craving for stimulants. An honest dealer won't offer you an inferior substitute for a little extra profit.



In a letter received from A. D. Weller, Esq., of Pensacola, Escambia Co., Fla. (Box 544), he states: "I have, since receiving your diagnosis of my case as stomach trouble and liver complaint, taken eight bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and must say that I am transformed from a walking shadow (as my friends called me) to perfect health. I value your remedies very highly and take pleasure in recommending them to any and all who suffer as I did. Four months ago I did not think to be in shape to assist our 'Uncle Samuel' in case of hostilities, but thanks to you, I am now ready for the 'Dons.'"

Keep your bowels open. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will do it without griping. All medicine dealers.

REV. DR. ORMISTON DEAD.

One of the Greatest Preachers Canada Ever Produced Passes Away.

Whitby, March 21.—Barrister David Ormiston of this town received word yesterday that his brother, the Rev. Dr. Ormiston, had died at Asusa, near Los Angeles, California, on Sunday.

The deceased was born in the County of Ontario nearly 75 years ago, and 25 years ago was looked upon as one of the most brilliant orators in the Presbyterian Church. He was the son of a farmer, and was essentially a self-made man. He taught school in the town of Whitby, then came to Toronto, and graduated from the Normal school.

He studied theology at Victoria College, then in Cobourg, but was ordained by the Presbyterian Church. He was pastor of Central Presbyterian Church in Hamilton for a number of years, where he attracted as much by his genial personality as by his brilliant sermons.

He went to New York and took charge of the church on the corner of College street and Fifth avenue, where he is said to have been paid $25,000 a year.

About 15 years ago he resigned his charge in New York and went to California, where, having bought a large fruit farm, he settled down to spend his declining years in peace. Here it was he died of apoplexy, not unexpectedly.

The deceased was considered one of the greatest preachers Canada ever produced. His sermons drew university men at all times, while his lectures were the most popular of his day. His pet theme was education. He was in his day a master of tempestuous oratory.

Pain in the Back.

Being troubled off and on with pains in my back, caused by constipation, I tried several kinds of pills I had seen advertised, and to put the truth in a nut shell Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the only pills that have proven effectual in my case. I can heartily recommend them.

FRESH AIR AND FOOD.

THE BLACK FOREST SURE CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

No Medicines. No Inoculation. No Coddling—Simply Pure Air Day and Night. Enormous Meals, Carefully Regulated Exercise and Rest.

There is an interesting article in The Nineteenth Century in which Mr. J A. Gibson tells how he was cured of consumption. Mr. Gibson found himself, at the age of 28, suffering from acute phthisis. His case was pronounced to be desperate by the doctors. He weighed only 9 stone 7 pounds, and the disease had such a hold upon him that he never expected to recover. However he went off into the country, as the doctors advised, and after three months of complete rest and a diet of more than half a gallon of milk a day he had put on a few pounds' weight. Then a friend urged him to go to Nordrach in the Black forest and place himself under Dr. Walther.

He did so, and in four months he came back to England in a state of barbaric health, weighing 12½ stone and with a chest measurement to correspond. What was this magical treatment of Dr. Walther? Nourishment, rest and fresh air—no medicines, no inoculation, no coddling, but simply open windows day and night, enormous meals and carefully regulated exercise and rest.

It sounds an easy cure, and it began to take effect instantaneously in Mr. Gibson's case. The first thing was to gain in weight, and with this object in view Dr. Walther fairly crammed his patient. Mr. Gibson gained in weight. Everybody else gained in weight. There was a competition as to who should gain most, and people ate for dear life, with an eye on the scale.

"We used to say among ourselves," writes Mr. Gibson, "that we had to eat three times the ordinary amount of food—one portion to replace natural waste, a second portion to replace the extra waste from the disease and a third portion to put on weight so that the system might be strengthened and finally get the better of the disease." Everybody had to lie down for an hour before meals. To bed at 9 and up at 7; breakfast at 8, dinner at 1, supper at 7—this was the day's routine, with a walk at a snail's pace.

From the moment of arrival until leaving Nordrach the patient never breathes one breath of any but the purest air, as Nordrach is in the Black forest, at an elevation of 1,500 feet, surrounded by trees, and a long way from a town or even a village. The casement windows of the sanitarium are kept wide open day and night, summer and winter, and in some instances the windows are taken completely out of the frames.

Thus it is practically an outdoor life the patient lives continuously. There is therefore no danger of chills on going out in any kind of weather or at any hour, as the temperature within and without is equal. So pleasant does this living in the open become and so hardy is the patient made and so invigorated that on his return to this country it is the greatest misery for him to have to remain in a room with closed windows.

Being at such a considerable height—1,500 feet, with a rise in the longer walks of another 1,500 feet—the patient, to get the same amount of oxygen into the system, must breathe relatively more of the rarefied air and thus expand the lungs. In this way the lungs are completely flooded with pure air. All the odd corners and crannies, which he has hardly used for years, are ventilated, which the easy walking up hill is eminently calculated to effect, while at the same time the almost absolute rest the patient enjoys allows the lungs to be practically undisturbed, and so permits the healing process to proceed. The climate is much the same as in England. There is quite as high a rainfall, and in winter it is much colder. But it has been demonstrated beyond a doubt that climate has absolutely nothing to do with the case.

There the patients, who go out regularly day after day in all kinds of weather, sometimes walk for hours at a time in the rain without ever thinking of changing their wet clothes afterward. This course Mr. Gibson still adopts and finds that such a wetting—sometimes twice in one day—never does him any harm whatever.

He asked Dr. Walther if he thought his system could be carried on with hope of success in this country. He said that it could be worked here quite as well as at Nordrach, or as in the balmiest clime; that all that was required was a place where pure air was to be had, situated well away from a town, at a fair elevation, and the man to see that the system was properly carried out. Mr. Gibson is now convinced that this is perfectly true.

Absolutely nothing else is needed. Freedom from wind, a high average of sunshine, dry climate and all such other things as are generally supposed to be so necessary go for nothing. And this is the crux of the whole matter. It is possible to cure here, on the spot, almost all the people of this country who are ill of phthisis. Why, then, are sanitariums not erected at once to cure the hundreds of thousands of those who are ill and who have not the means to go abroad—hundreds of thousands who are as certainly doomed to death as if they were already under the sod if some such steps be not at once taken? It is sad to think that all these people must die when they might easily be saved.

Scrofula, salt rheum and all diseases caused by impure blood are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is America's Greatest Medicine.

THE GOLDEN AGE.

There are no days like bygone days,
So thinks the senile heart,
No ways there are like ancient ways,
None now such bliss impart;
For when the vision back is cast
It sees a golden age.
That heart then sighs for all the past
And deems the action sage.

The brightest days are coming days,
Affirms the youth in glee,
And on the future is his gaze
While present moments flee.
The golden age is yet to beam
Before his eager mind,
And thus his thoughts with luster gleam
As they their views unbind.

But to the sensual epicure
The olden age is now.
With plenty near his joy is sure,
And pleasure crowns his brow.
Within the present days he tries
To taste the chiefest good,
Asserting that the rich and wise
Are those supplied with food.

The true philosophy is found
In looking up and on
Away from sordid, earthly ground
Toward everlasting dawn.
The better life beyond us lies,
Declares the sacred page,
And those who look with faith lit eyes
Discern the golden age.
—Rev. W. H. Bancroft in Philadelphia Ledger.

Satire.

"How was that for satire?" asked Senator Sorghum after he had abused a man for 20 minutes owing to a failure to carry out his instructions.

"Why, you know, satire is supposed to be something critical, expressed in such a way that its object must see its force without taking offense."

"Well, that's what this was. That man can't take offense. He owes me too much money."—Washington Star.

As Exemplified.

Tiresome Caller—How do you get rid of bores?

Eminent Statesman—My valet generally knows them and reminds me of some engagement. (Tap at the door) Well, Harris, what is it?

Valet (thrusting his head in)—I beg your pardon, sir, but I think you have an engagement to dine with General Hogo in about 'arf an hour.—Chicago Tribune.

Getting Even.

"There is some comfort in being the father of twins," said the unhappy looking passenger, to which the fat passenger, being there for that purpose, inquired, "What?"

"They keep each other awake of nights as well as my wife and me."—Indianapolis Journal.

Getting Him Located.

"Weyler!" exclaimed one Spanish citizen contemptuously. "He's a regular Don Quixote."

"No," answered the other. "He isn't Don Quixote, nor Sancho Panza, nor yet Rosinante. If he is anybody in that combination, it's the mule."—Washington Star.

THE SUGAR BILL ADOPTED.

Legislative Council Passed Protective Measure Almost Unanimously.

Calcutta, March 21.—The Legislative Council yesterday adopted the countervailing sugar bill.

The Viceroy of India, Lord Curzon of Kedlestone, expressed satisfaction at the unanimous feeling of the Council on the subject of the bill. He said the fullest enquiries had shown the necessity of urgency in the case, and recommended the bounty system as being "a vicious expedient for selfish interests."

Lord Curzon also asserted that the Indian Government was only exercising its legitimate rights in relieving the country and helping an important industry and a huge number of cultivators.

Brought Up in the Commons.

London, March 21.—Mr. Reginald McKenna (Liberal) raised the countervailing sugar question in the House of Commons yesterday by asking if it is proposed to pursue the same policy in Great Britain.

Mr. A. J. Balfour, the Government leader and First Lord of the Treasury, fenced the question, declaring there was no indigenous sugar production in Great Britain, as there was in India.

More Honor for Rhodes.

London, March 21.—Emperor William, it is said, will confer the order of the Crown of Prussia upon Mr. Cecil Rhodes, the South African magnate, with whom His Majesty recently conferred in Berlin regarding the railway and telegraph project of Mr. Rhodes in Africa.

The Starving Cretans.

London, March 21.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Standard says:

"News has been received from Smyrna that 6,000 Cretan Mussulman refugees, who were in desperate lack of work and food, invaded and pillaged Greek and Turkish towns, in which many persons were killed or wounded.

DIZZY AND FAINT SPELLS.

Warnings of heart trouble that should be heeded.

These feelings of faintness, those dizzy spells and "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over some people from time to time are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They indicate an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered state of the nervous system. Nature is asking in an unmistakable manner that aid be brought to her assistance quickly.

There is no time for delay. One faint may be recovered from will the next? One dizzy spell may pass off but the next may prove more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills at once before their case gets hopeless.

This remedy acts directly on the disordered heart and nerves and restores them to healthy action.

Mrs. John Gilker, Maria, Bonaventure Co., Que., recently wrote as follows:

"It gives me great pleasure to be able to state that I have been using for some time the wonderful remedy, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

"For a number of years I have been troubled with heart throbbing and dizziness, followed by nervousness and weakness.

"I was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, which I did, and got great relief from the first, and now am completely cured. I feel very grateful for the benefit I have received."

There is no one who has ever taken Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills faithfully but has derived benefit from their use. They have cured thousands of cases of palpitation, dizzy and faint spells, throbbing, skip beats, nervousness, sleeplessness, weakness, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, anaemia, pale and sallow complexion, female complaints and general debility."

THE NIGHT CLERK'S STORY.

A FACE LIKE CHALK.

A very bad attack of the Grippe one year ago last winter left my system in a very weak state and my nervous system completely unstrung. After getting over the dangerous stage of the disease I naturally expected to gain strength, but, unfortunately, did not do so. On the contrary, my blood became weaker. I daily lost strength and vitality, and my nervous system became so weak that it was a constant source of suffering both day and night. I lost appetite, the sight of food nauseated me, the weak state of my system caused shortness of breath and unnatural action of the heart, such as fluttering and violent palpitation, and my face was like chalk. I was in this condition and constantly getting weaker when I began taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills. I had read the books they distributed and their advertisements in the papers, and thought, "Well, I have taken so much medicine without benefit it is useless to spend any more money. However, I finally made up my mind. It is a forlorn hope; I can but try. If I am not benefited I will not be hurt. So I bought one box and received great benefit therefrom, so continued their use, and to-day am a well man in consequence; my blood is strong, my face has the ruddy hue of health, my appetite has returned, I sleep well, I have not the slightest indications of nervousness or heart trouble, and from a sick, weak, nervous man Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills have transformed me in six weeks to full health and strength." I am yours very truly,

(Signed) WILLIAM WILLARD,

HUMOR OF LUNATICS

ASANE MAN'S EXPERIENCE IN AN IN SANE ASYLUM.

By the Time He Got Through Being Fooled by the Inmates He Was Ready to Distrust Even the Superintendent of the Institution.

"I never knew until I went out to California this time that insane people have a powerful sense of humor," said a Washingtonian who recently returned from a trip to the coast. "I confess that I've always found a morbid sort of interest in going through noted insane asylums, and so I armed myself with the proper credentials in San Francisco and went up to Napa county to have a look over the splendid asylum for the insane there. Inasmuch as I wanted to see a few things without the attention of a guide, I didn't present my letters, but just rambled around the beautiful, spacious grounds for awhile. I hadn't spent three minutes examining the extraordinary rose gardens in front of the main asylum building before a tall, slender young man, well dressed and exceedingly well groomed, emerged from a clump of oleander trees and approached me.

"Taking a look around, eh?" said he to me.

"'Yes,' I said. 'I only arrived here a few minutes ago, and I'm taking the liberty of nosing about without any official guidance.'

"'Well,' the tall young man said, pleasantly, 'I don't suppose I fall out of the classification "official guidance" seeing that I am the assistant superintendent here, yet I should be pleased to show you about and at the same time try not to place any restraint upon you by my awe inspiring presence.'

"Well, the young chap's manner was so pleasant and winning that I could only thank him for his kindness, and we started over the grounds. We hadn't gone far before a middle aged man, also well dressed and well groomed, appeared some distance in front of us down the gravel walk, and he beckoned to my companion. The young man excused himself courteously and went up to the middle aged man. The two conversed earnestly together for a few minutes, and then, linking arms, what do they do but coolly walk off, leaving me standing there in the middle of the gravel path, a good deal nonplused.

"'Surprised over the way they deserted you?' said a voice right back of me. 'You mustn't mind a little thing like that, though. Both of those men are as crazy as loons.'

"I turned around, and there, standing behind a hedge about ten feet to my rear, was a little old gentleman, neatly dressed in black, and with a quizzical smile on his features.

"'Surely,' I said, 'you cannot mean that that rational speaking, pleasant mannered young man who was conducting me about the grounds is bereft of his wits!'

"'Mad as a March hare,' repeated the old gentleman flatly. 'Incurable case. Harmless, but incurable. The man that he went off with is also a very sad case—very. Thinks he is the Maharajah of Bludblud, or something like that. But you mustn't mind 'em. Lots of visitors are taken in the same way. If you care to, I'll just show you around. I am one of the board of visitors of this institution and just happen to be here in my unofficial capacity today.'

"Much marveling over what the old gentleman told me, I fell in with him, and we rambled around the huge geranium arbors, and finally entered the enormous glass building where the cultivation of violets is carried on.

"'Nice array of flowers, isn't it?' the old gentleman inquired of me, waving his hand at the beautiful beds of violets in bloom. 'I am not inordinately vain, my friend, I hope you will understand, and yet I cannot but congratulate myself upon the introduction of this violet raising feature here, for I myself was responsible for it and only succeeded in having this hothouse constructed after enormous exertions with the authorities of the institution.'

"I congratulated the old gentleman upon the result of his labors and was just about to ask him to take me into the main building and introduce me to the superintendent when he suddenly excused himself, saying that he had left his spectacles on a bench in the gardens and would be back directly. I waited for him for fully ten minutes, but as he did not return I started on out of the glass building.

"'You didn't really expect him back?' I heard a voice say, and then a pleasant faced man, dressed as a laborer and carrying a watering pot, came from behind a group of palms. He spoke with a Scotch brogue.

"'The old gentleman you were with is very bad up here,' said the man with the watering pot, touching his forehead. 'He's been here for 20 years, and he fancies he owns the place. I am the head gardener here, and he tries his best to run me. But he don't—no, sir, he don't. He can't. No crazy man can run me.' And the Scotchman went down the length of the raised violet beds, watering the plants.

"I passed out of the glass building and started for the entrance to the main building, there to present my letters. As I was about to walk up the steps to the entrance a man with side whiskers and rather a sharp, piercing eye walked up to me.

"'You have business here?' he inquired of me in a rather sharp tone. Well, I thought he might be another of 'em, and so I kept right on. He followed me up the stairs and into the office, and I had to hand my letters to him. He was the superintendent. He smiled when I told him of my experience in the grounds.

"'Which of them was really insane?' I asked him.

"'All of them,' he replied."—Washington Star

LEGEND OF THE LACEMAKER.

How a Bruges Maid Was Visited With a Vision.

Her jewels of great price were not the only things bequeathed to her daughters by the Empress of Austria. She left a fortune in a collection of laces to the eldest that has already proved a bone of contention between the two ladies. These laces, it is claimed by connoisseurs, are priceless and should never be trusted beyond the walls of a museum. Should they be seen, however, a fresh impetus might be given to the industry of lacemaking, now in a languishing condition. The queen of the Belgians was the first to sound the trumpet of alarm about this falling off in Flanders, the cradle of the art of lacemaking.

As the legend runs, it was Jaqueline, countess of Flanders, who was deeply in love with her noble husband, the handsome Henelick, but who did not return this tender feeling with the ardor it deserved. He had even made eyes at the countess' maid, Serena, who, for the sole crime of being beautiful, was sent by her mistress to a dark and noisome place of concealment in a corner of the palace. The room where the poor girl was confined opened on a small, damp garden, and there she would sadly sit and mourn for her beloved, the equerry Luitpold.

One day her eyes filled with tears. She prayed to the Virgin to come to her rescue by some miracle, and then, raising her heavy eyelids, she beheld a million white silky threads, so tenuous and arranged in such wonderful patterns that she was lost in admiration before them.

By and by she began to wish she could imitate the lovely patterns of good Mary's threads, for evidently they had been placed there in answer to her supplication. At last, after a month of patient and arduous toil, she achieved a piece of gossamer, cobweblike work that rivaled the miraculous threads arrayed by her holy patron. The lace was sent to the countess, who shed tears of delight at the sight of so much beauty. The next step was to send for the captive and marry her to the equerry, bestowing a sum of money on the happy pair that would have kept them in comfort ever after, but independently of the countess they became rich, for the young woman taught her art to seven daughters, from whom descended all the Bruges lacemakers.

This is a sweet romance, but from whom did this pious Serena receive the threads with which she imitated the heavenly cobwebs? It has been suggested that she unraveled her stockings and again that she plucked the golden hairs from her head, but why will folks be so dreadfully practical? It is sufficient that the handmade lace of Flanders is the most exquisite thing wrought by human fingers, and the fatal looms have almost destroyed its art with their new industry. It was the elegant Marie Antoinette who gave the first blow to lacemaking. The splendid lace worn in profusion at the courts of Louis XIV and XV were replaced by the gauzes and muslins of the queen, and, though the Empress Josephine brought back the fashion, it has never been the same as then. The looms have produced perfect—too perfect—imitations and cheapened the marvelous labor of years. It is now proposed by the Belgian queen and some other sovereign ladies to make a point of wearing only handmade lace and binding themselves by solemn compact not to allow an inch of machine made lace on their petticoats and underlinen. We shall see what effect this will have on the modern mondaine and how her bills will increase.—Boston Herald.

ECZEMA ON FACE

Could Not Go Out. Five Months Under a Physician. Went from Bad to Worse.

Gave Up Hope. Friend Recommends CUTICURA. Change in One Night. Cured One Month.

I was troubled with eczema on the face for five months, during which time I was in care of physicians. My face was in such a condition that I could not go out. It was going from bad to worse and I gave up all hope, when a friend of mine highly recommended CUTICURA REMEDIES. The first night after I washed my face with CUTICURA SOAP and used CUTICURA (ointment) and CUTICURA RESOLVENT it changed wonderfully, and continuing the treatment it removed all scales and scabs. From that day I was able to go out, and in a month my face was as clean as ever. THOMAS J. SOTH,
July 28, 1898. 312 Stagg St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

EVERLASTING ITCHING

And Burning of the Skin Cured by CUTICURA.

For the last three months I have been troubled with an everlasting itching and burning of the skin on my face, and did not know what to do to cure it. I was prevailed upon to try CUTICURA REMEDIES. The result was simply wonderful. In one week after using the CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA RESOLVENT I was entirely rid of it, and my skin is in a healthy condition. D. H. VAN GLAHN, 731 Stockton st., San Fran., Cal.

CUTICURA

Begins with the Blood and Ends with The Skin and Scalp.

That is to say, it purifies the blood and circulating fluids of HUMOR GERMS, and thus removes the cause, while warm baths with CUTICURA SOAP, and gentle anointings with CUTICURA (ointment), greatest of emollient skin cures, cleanse the skin and scalp of crusts and scales, allay itching, burning, and inflammation, soothe and heal. These are speedily, permanently, and economically cured the most torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, when the best physicians and all other remedies fail.

Sold throughout the world. POTTER D. & CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston. "How to Cure Every Humor," free.

WARRINGTON'S CREDITORS.

Will Receive Nothing in all Probability The Liabilities Are About $275,000.

The creditors of the defunct firm of J. C. and G. D. Warrington, wholesale cheese exporters of Montreal, will in all probability get no dividend from the estate. This, however, is not a matter of surprise, as it has been generally acknowledged ever since the failure of the firm took place, that matters were in a most deplorable condition, and that there were practically no assets. The claims filed with the curator. Mr. John W. Ross, amount to $275,000, and he states in a report which he has issued that there are practically no assets. When the assignment was made, there were practically no assets in sight. The curator has since obtained possession and disposed of a number of small assets which will liquidate the assignment and other expenses incurred by the estate.

The claims filed with the curator to date amount to some $275,394, a number of which, however, are subject to adjustment.

The books of the firm not having been written up for nearly two years, two assistants have been constantly employed on this work, which will be completed this month. Several suits for large amounts have been taken against the Brockville Produce Company, but it will be some time before they are decided by the courts.

MEDICAL SCIENCE ADVANCES

Positive Cure for Asthma Discovered.

It has long been recognised by medical scientists throughout the world that nature has supplied all creation with some remedy in the vegetable or mineral kingdom wherewith all forms of ailments can be cured, but it was not until the discovery by Stanley of the wonderful Kola plant along the Congo River in Africa that asthma was permanently curable. In fact it was not until the investigations made by Dr. Clarke some years later that this disease was found curable; he found that by combining the extract of Kola Nut with other vegetable extracts that the compound obtained would permanently cure asthma. Clarke's Kola Compound was then tried on over 100 cases in different hospitals, with the marvellous result that over 95 per cent were permanently cured in less than sixty days treatment. Clarke's Kola Compound is now recognized to be the only permanent cure for this dreadful disease. Sold by Ormond & Walsh, druggists, Peterborough. Free sample bottle sent to any person. Mention this paper. Address The Griffiths & MacPherson Co., 121 Church street, Toronto, or Vancouver, B. C., sole Canadian agents.

PUBLIC SCHOOL LIBRARIES.

They Are Recommended by Hon. G. W. Ross in His Report.

The last report of the Minister of Education, makes the following reference to School Libraries :—

It is to be regretted that so few Public School Boards have availed themselves of the provisions of the law to secure school libraries. In rural school sections, especially, there is a lamentable want of suitable reading matter for both children and parents. In urban municipalities, where Public Libraries have been established, this want may not be felt so seriously as in country districts. It too often happens, moreover, that the books selected for Public Libraries are better adapted to the needs of adults than to the children of our Public Schools. If any persons in the community deserve first consideration in this matter, they are undoubtedly the children of our schools. It must not be assumed that when trustees have provided teachers, they have done all that should be done in promoting the intellectual and moral growth of the pupils. To select a few books from some local library for the use of the school children is not enough. Even this is not done for many schools. What is really needed is a library in every Public School, where pupils may have ready access to the best works of literature in the English language.

In the case of High Schools and Collegiate Institutes, the most commendable efforts have been made by many trustee boards to provide the students with the best facilities for supplementary reading. The results are most satisfactory, and already very great progress has been made in the cultivation of a better taste for good reading among the pupils of such schools. In many respects, books for supplementary reading afford the very best opportunities for directing the attention of pupils to the choicest works in literature. With the vast number of books available much discrimination is needed if the attention of children is to be wisely directed, and so, in most of our High Schools and Collegiate Institutes, a course of reading is recommended for the pupils of the different forms. A catalogue of books prepared for this purpose has proved of much service in the selection of suitable works in literature. For those who never go beyond the High Schools the taste has been so cultivated that inferior works in literature will be avoided. Indeed, it must not be forgotten that one of the chief aims of a pupil's training should be to inculcate such habits as will lead to industrious and discriminating reading in after life. If the trustees of each rural school would expend even $5 each year upon supplementary reading, a valuable library would be secured in a very short time, which would prove of insalcuable advantage at least to those whose homes may be poorly provided with literature, and whose taste for good reading has been neglected.

APPOINTED ADMINISTRATORS.

The Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited, Toronto, have been appointed administrators of the estate of the late Peter J. Williams, who died at Ottawa on February 3rd, leaving an estate consisting of life insurance to the amount of $8,000. Mr. Williams left a will appointing Judge McTavish and Dr. McDougall executors, who have renounced in favour of the Company.

The same Company have been appointed administrators of the estate of the late Lydia M. Sheppard, who died in St. Catharines last January, leaving real estate to the value of $6,000.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mr. William Carter at the Age of Sixty-one.

The subject of this sketch is one for many years well known in this community. He was born in Queen's County, Ireland, and came with his parents to Canada in 1833. The family first settled in Otonabee, then went to Percy residing on the lot now owned and occupied by Mr. P. English. After the father's decease, the family moved to the farm now occupied by the deceased's brother, Mr. Joseph Carter, and thence to lot 6, con. 10, Asphodel.

He never married and has for many years made his home with his brother James, at whose home he died on Sunday evening, 19th inst.

Up to a short time ago he has possessed the best of health, as far as is known by his friends. A slight accident which necessitated the calling of a physician, revealed the fact that his days were very uncertain, and though a surprise to his friends, nothing appeared confirmatory, though a close watch was kept, when on Sunday evening after assisting with the outside work, went to the house, and after sitting for a while, went outside and not returning as expected, his brother James went to the door and found him outside on his hands and knees. He was immediately carried inside, but the spirit had taken its departure.

He leaves four brothers and two sisters to mourn his loss ; viz ; —Joseph and John of Percy ; James and George, and Mrs. McMillan and Miss M. Carter, of Asphodel.

LOST A HUNDRED MEN

European Expedition in Africa Attacked by Touaregs.

FILIPINO SELF-GOVERNMENT.

The United States Commissioners' Address to the Natives of the Philippines—Tribal Autonomy Possible—Trouble Reported at Negros—Final Interment of Lord Herschell's Remains.

Algiers, March 23.—Telegramme Algierien announces that a number of Arabs arrived at Ghardeia yesterday and that they were raiding the country. Ghardeia is situated about 300 miles south of Algiers, in the Sahara.

It is further announced that a party of Touaregs recently attacked a European expedition which was on its way to Air, in the Sahara, and that after a fierce fight the Touaregs were beaten off, but the expedition lost 100 men killed and part of its caravan was captured. The paper mentioned adds that the expedition must be Foureau-Lanys' mission, which is said to be the only European expedition at the present moment in the Sahara. When last heard from it had arrived at the town of Asion. Moreover, it is said in conclusion, there are certain other grave indications tending to confirm the news.

SELF-GOVERNMENT.

U. S. Commissioners Advise Them to Put Their "Trust in Americans"—The Address to the People.

Iloilo, March 23.—Sixty Spanish planters have arrived here, representing that a native tribe, 20,000 strong, on the Isand of Negros, threaten to destroy haciendas and crops. The Spaniards asked for arms to defend themselves and their property. The situation is unchanged. There has been fighting on Negros Island, but particulars are lacking.

Address to the Filipinos.

Manila, March 23.—The address to the Philippine natives drafted by the civil commission, on behalf of the United States Government, assures the people of the intention of the United States to develop the powers of self-government in the people. It is pointed out that the United States has assumed obligations which must be carried out in the interest of the civilized world. The people are assured that the President's sole wish is to render the natives capable of administering their own affairs, under United States protection, and that no spirit of vengeance or tyranny is to be exercised. The insurgents are instructed to lay down their arms and trust the United States Government. The majority of the commissioners incline toward giving the Filipinos a sort of tribal or provisional local autonomy, under a central American Government, which shall be military until a purely civil system is proved to be feasible.

Aguinaldo announces that he will personally conduct the Filipino reserves at Malolos and march into Manila in 20 days, unless the Americans withdraw in the meantime. The concentration of rebel forces in the vicinity of Malabon gives color to this statement.

At Cebu all is reported quiet.

Baron Herschell's Body.

London, March 23.—The remains of Baron Herschell, who died at Washington on March 11, and over which funeral services were held in Westminster Abbey, were interred yesterday in a vault in a secluded country churchyard at Tincleton, Dorsetshire.

Dupuy Was Indignant.

Paris, March 23.—In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday the allegations made against Baron von Mohrenheim, the former Russian ambassador here, in connection with the Dreyfus case, were the subject of an interpellation of the Government. The Premier, M. Dupuy, indignantly repelled all the insinuations against "the representative of an allied nation, whose services to France had never been forgotten." He vigorously protested against the action of the newspapers which originated "such scandalous falsities."

GERMANS ARE VERY WRATHY.

They Demand Redress in Samoa or They Will Help Themselves.

Berlin, March 23.—A petition was received at the Foreign Office here yesterday, signed by all the Germans in Samoa, protesting vehemently against the retention of Chief Justice Chambers and a further maintenance of the Berlin treaty, which is characterized as no longer bearable. The petitioners detail a number of alleged contraventions of the treaty by Mr. Chambers, especially toward Herr Grevesmuehl, the chief of police.

The Lokal Anzeiger publishes a letter from its Samoa correspondent, Herr von Wolffersdorff, dated Feb. 21. After recounting the critical condition the writer declares that if the German Government will not help the Germans of Apia against the alleged injustice and outrages of Mr. Chambers, the Germans will rise armed, and obtain the desired redress.

The Tageblatt demands the removal of Mr. E. B. S. Maxse, the British consul at Apia, claiming he is the prime cause of all the trouble.

CRAMP CONTRADICTED.

Why Ships Built in Glasgow Are Cheaper Than Americans.

Glasgow, March 23.—A statement by Charles Cramp of Philadelphia, a member of the well-known shipbuilding firm, now here, to the effect that on account of lower wages ships were built here 30 per cent. cheaper than in the United States, has aroused a vigorous denial.

It is stated, in opposition to Mr. Cramp's views, that American workmen accomplish twice as much as Clyde workmen in the same time, and three cargoes of American steel just received here show that building material is cheaper in the United States. The increased cost of shipbuilding in the United States, the Scotchmen maintain, is due to the inordinate profits expected by the American builders, who wish to become millionaires in a few years. The profit to Clyde builders is set down as from 3 to 10 per cent.

The Pope Despondent.

London, March 23.—The Rome correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says: "The Pope is beginning to suffer from depression. During the service on Sunday he asked one of his personal attendants how many were in the congregation he (the attendant) thought really rejoiced in his recovery. Then he added, despondingly, 'What mockery it is—this thanksgiving for my recovery. I shall not live a week.' The exclamation was followed by a prolonged and alarming fainting fit."

CECIL RHODES TRIUMPHANT.

The Cape-to-Cairo Hero Now Lionized in England—His Progress in Germany—A Cabinet Difference.

London, March 23.—Cecil Rhodes has now returned to London, having done much for himself and the interests he represents during the six weeks of his absence. In fact, he has quite rehabilitated himself in the eyes of his fellow-countrymen, who until now had not forgiven the disastrous Jameson raid, while his interview with the German Emperor may directly affect European politics.

As for the actual result of Mr. Rhodes' negotiations, the telegraph line from the Cape to Cairo is now a matter of certainty, while the railroad over the same route is at least placed more definitely among the probabilities of the immediate future.

Central Africa, once connected with Europe with telegraph, it is prophesied by Mr. Rhodes' friends here, would become a new land, of enormous potentialities. It is also universally recognized that railway communication is of vital, passing importance. With regard to this, Mr. Rhodes has obtained satisfactory assurances that, whether or not German capitalists step forward, permission to put the new line through German territory will be accorded.

Failing this, however, the Englishman has obtained the consent of the King of the Belgians, under certain conditions, to run his railway through the Congo Free State.

The energy, enthusiasm and self-assurance displayed by Mr. Rhodes in this triumphal trip have placed him, it may really be said, on the pinnacle of the estimation of the British public. It is safe to say that there is no more popular British hero to-day, not excepting Lord Salisbury.

Considerable discussion is reported between the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, and the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the former opposing and the latter favoring the African scheme of Mr. Cecil Rhodes.

A CRISIS IN JAMAICA.

The Assembly Dissolved—The Governor's Strong Measure.

Kingston, Jamaica, March 23.—The discussion by the Legislative Assembly of the measure providing for an increase in the tariff, rendered necessary by the colony's financial crisis, was indefinitely adjourned last Wednesday in consequence of the hostile action of the elected members of the Assembly, whose opposition made the passage of the bill an impossibility. Yesterday the Governor, Sir Augustus Hemming, issued a proclamation, dissolving the Assembly and stating that, under the advice of Secretary of State for the Colonies, he would augment the official element in the new Assembly to force the tariff bill through.

The present constitution of Jamaica has been in force for 15 years, but this is the first time the Government has availed itself of the power conferred on it to dissolve the Legislature and add to the nominated members of the Assembly.

Four New Official Members.

The Governor, Sir Augustus Hemming, reconvened the Assembly yesterday, at the same time bringing in four new official members to outvote the representatives. The Jamaica Association has convened public meetings throughout the country, and it has cabled to Mr. Chamberlain explaining the gravity of the situation. Considerable excitement prevails, and it is said that there will be trouble if the Government persists in its policy.

Khalifa in Great Straits.

London, March 23.—The Cairo correspondent of The Daily Mail telegraphs that the Khalifa, the Dervish leader in the Soudan, is in great straits for food and ammunition. He has only 6,000 fighting men and a thousand rifles, while he is hampered by an enormous following of women and children.

The Cairo correspondent of The Times says: "Sir William Garstin considers the possession of the Soudan, south of Khartoum, to be practically valueless to any civilised power, as the territory afford no field for the employment of capital."

Medical Co-Education a Failure.

Berlin, March 23.—The members of the clinic of the University of Halle have sent a letter to the clinics of all the other German universities, declaring that their experience has proved to their satisfaction that the admission of women along with men to clinical study is an entire failure. The letter warns the other clinics against the innovation, which the Halle physicians have found prejudicial to morals.

He Printed Polish Poems.

Berlin, March 23.—Herr Chiloter, editor of The Weekly Praca, has been fined $190 by the Prussian authorities for publishing in his paper two Polish patriotic poems.

Big Tax on Tea.

London, March 23.—Sir Thomas Lipton paid customs duty on a shipment of tea yesterday amounting to £76,847.

In Lady Curzon's Home.

London, March 23. — Ambassador Choate has decided to take No. 1 Carleton House terrace, which Levi Z. Leiter of Chicago bought last year for his daughter, Lady Curzon, who is now in India.

SUFFOCATED BY SNOW.

How Little Edith McCaffery of Woodgreen Place, Toronto, Lost Her Life on Wednesday Night.

Toronto, March 23.—Little Edith McCaffery, the 5-year-old daughter of Robert McCaffery, a laborer in the employ of the St. Lawrence Foundry Company, was missed from her usual place at tea time last night, and the parents became alarmed. Searching parties were organized and enquiries were made concerning her whereabouts, from relatives and friends. The police also were notified, but no person had seen or heard anything of her. About 9 o'clock, while P. C. Guthrie was on duty on East Queen street, he was attracted by a large pile of snow at the side of the Woodgreen Methodist Tabernacle. The constable, fearing that more snow might cause a fatality, took steps to prevent another fall from the roof. Kicking the heap to one side he was surprised to see the arm of a child. Making further investigation he found the body of the missing girl. The little child had evidently been passing at the time when a large drift of snow slipped off the roof and buried her. The parents are distracted over the sad affair. The body was taken to the home of the parents at 8 Woodgreen place.

Dundas Has a Sensation.

Hamilton, March 23.—Chief of Police Twiss of Dundas was on trial yesterday afternoon before Mayor Fisher and Squire Binkley, J.P.'s, on the serious charge of extorting money to condone an offence. Chief Twiss denies the charge and says the prosecution was instituted because he refused to withraw three charges which he preferred against A. R. Mills of the Red Lion Hotel. It is said sensational testimony will be given to-day.

Well Made and Makes Well

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared by experienced pharmacists of today, who have brought to the production of this great medicine the best results of medical research. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a modern medicine, containing just those vegetable ingredients which were seemingly intended by Nature herself for the alleviation of human ills. It purifies and enriches the blood, tones the stomach and digestive organs and creates an appetite; it absolutely cures all scrofula eruptions, boils, pimples, sores, salt rheum, and every form of skin disease; cures liver complaint, kidney troubles, strengthens and builds up the nervous system. It entirely overcomes that tired feeling, giving strength and energy in place of weakness and languor. It wards off malaria, typhoid fever, and by purifying the blood it keeps the whole system healthy.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5.

THE THREE FAT YEARS UNDER LIBERAL RULE.

SET FORTH BY SIR WILFRID LAURIER IN HIS GREAT SPEECH.

Sir Charles Tupper's Challenge Accepted and Answered—A Gratifying List of Good Results.

In the debate on the address in the House of Commons Sir Charles Tupper challenged the Government to specify anything that had been done under their rule worthy of being regarded as of value to the country. Sir Wilfrid Laurier accepted the challenge and, in his magnificent speech in reply, submitted the following, which is worthy of careful reading as setting forth the value of the statesmanship practically exhibited by the Liberal Government since it assumed the reins of power in 1896. The Prime Minister said:

I accept the challenge of the hon. gentleman. He asks us to say what we have done for the good of the country. I will try to tell him. In the doing so I shall be obliged to tell the blunders that he has made—well, no, not all the blunders that he has made, but only some of them, for if I were to undertake to tell all the blunders made by my hon. friend in his official life I should be obliged to speak as long as he spoke, which, God forbid, I do not intend to do. When the hon. gentleman came back from England to take charge of his party, which had not been led as it should have been led, according to his opinion—when he came back to lead his party to victory, as he hoped, and give them new life, there was a question that had been long before the country, a most dangerous question, which had brought this country almost to the very throes of civil strife. In the measure he proposed, conceived in violence, there was enough to vex, to irritate and to madden the majority, but there was not enough to give any substantial aid to the minority. And this is the gentleman who tells us that we have shown our incapacity. We dealt with that question. We removed it from the Federal arena to the Provincial arena, where it belongs, and where it should have been left, there to be dealt with by the citizens of the Province in a spirit of mutually honourable concession. I will not show here the character of the hon. gentleman's blunder in this case. It is there before his eyes. He sees it night and day, and regrets it night and day.

PREFERENTIAL TRADE.

There was another question in the settlement of which the hon. gentleman tried his hand when in office in Ottawa, as he had tried it in London—a question to which he referred yesterday, that of preferential trade within the empire. The hon. gentleman tried once, twice, several times, to do something towards establishing preferential trade within the empire. But he did not succeed in doing anything, because there were two treaties against him, the treaty with Belgium and the treaty with Germany. So long as these treaties were there the hon. gentleman could not do anything, for the reason that any preference that we gave to the motherland would also have to be given to Belgium and Germany; and, although Canada was ready and anxious to give a preference to the goods and merchandise of the motherland, she was not anxious or ready to extend the same favour to Belgium or to Germany—there were the treaties. Well, sir, we came into office, and, as he said yesterday, we "tried our 'prentice hands" at the job, and in four months our 'prentice hands did what his master hand could not do with years of labour. Then, sir, let me show the blunder that he made on the floor of this House at the time we introduced our policy, a blunder which he persisted in up to the very day that the treaties were denounced. He said we never could succeed, that our efforts were vain, that our policy was a mistaken one from the first. Well, we know he was wrong again there, and even yesterday he would not acknowledge the results which have been accomplished by our preference. He told us yesterday that our preference of 25 per cent. given to Great Britain had during the six months subsequent to the month of August, 1898, increased our trade with Great Britain only by 1 per cent. That is what he said. True, some other parties have stated that the increase had really been 6 per cent., but, says he, that cannot be, an increase of 6 per cent. cannot be admitted, because in that case the last six months of 1898 would have to include the month of July, and the month of July must not be included in the aggregate amount, because the preference was not in operation in the month of July, 1898. But the honourable gentleman ought to know better, and if I were to talk in the way he does I would find some more plausible method of showing my ignorance. He knows that the

PREFERENCE WAS IN OPERATION

in the month of July, 1898; it was in operation from the 23rd of April, 1897; true it is the preference was not then to Great Britain alone it was also shared by the other nations which had the benefit of the treaty, but it was there all the same, and, according to the statement made by the hon. gentleman, the then preference during the last six months of 1896 increased our trade with Great Britain by 6 per cent, the goods sold by Great Britain to Canada. Now, sir, that is something. I grant it is not much; it is not as much as I would like myself; probably it will never reach the figure which I would like to see. But we know how difficult it is to change the channels of trade, how difficult it is to bring a people to go into new operations. Sir, at all events, I say that a door has been opened, and that trade at this moment is flowing into it. The hon. gentlemen minimizes the efforts which we made in that direction. Allow me to quote to him an authority which perhaps he will recognise as valuable, the authority of a man who has done as much for preferential trade as my hon. friend himself; let me quote Colonel Howard Vincent. On the 1st of August Col. Howard Vincent wired to me from the House of Commons:

HOWARD VINCENT'S TELEGRAM.

"Premier of Canada, Ottawa:—United Empire Trade League in motherland, Australia, Africa, India and Oceanica affectionately salutes Greater Britain in Canada, and confidently expresses the undying gratitude of the British race of to-day and forever to their brothers throughout the vast Dominion, for their patriotic and filial inauguration of preferential trade between British kith and kin, in this, the first minute of freedom from restraining treaties. May this preferential trade grow and grow into the complete commercial federation of British peoples and possessions the whole world over, to the honour of our Sovereign, the glory of the English name, and the increasing welfare of all in Britain and Greater Britain."

I will only add one word in this connection, and it is a word which perhaps he should have remembered more often during his career. The door is open. Does it follow that everything has been done? No, far from it. There still remains a great deal to be done. But the mistake made by my honourable friend has been that he wanted to do everything at the same time. Sir, in this matter, as in everything else, you must take time, you must move slowly and victory is sure at the end.

IMPERIAL PENNY POSTAGE.

Now, sir, there is another thing we have done: we have established penny postage through the British Empire. I need not tell you how great a reform this is; it has made the empire more compact than it was. The seas are there all the same, the valleys and the mountains are there, but everybody realizes that hearts are nearer than they were before. Sir, this reform has accomplished this much; it has brought every part of the British Empire nearer to every home within that empire. But I will not dilate upon that subject. The honourable gentleman has only one fault to find with it, and that is that we did it, and he did not accomplish it himself. If he had done it himself he would have spoken of it yesterday in very different language from the language which he used; he would not have minimized it as he did, nor have attempted to ridicule it. Why, sir, if he had done it, I can imagine the pæans of victory that he would have sung on the floor of this House in favour of the honourable gentleman himself and perhaps of his colleagues also. The hon. gentleman says that neither myself nor my hon. friend the Postmaster-General are entitled to any credit for it. I claim no credit for it at all; all the credit is due to my hon. friend the Postmaster-General. The hon. gentleman stated yesterday that when I was in England I refused to second a motion in favour of penny postage. That is quite true; I did refuse to do so, and I may put it stronger and say that I refused several times. On different occasions during my visit in England I refused to have anything to do with penny postage, and I will give you the reason. It was not that I was hostile to it, far from that, as the records will show. But we had not been long enough in the saddle to know what we could accomplish in reforming the Post-office Department. I did not know where we stood and until I could be satisfied as a member of the Privy Council of Canada that such reforms could be accomplished in the Post-office Department as would wipe out to a large extent the deficits which had been accumulating there during the previous administration of that department, I would not touch the question of penny postage. But, sir, the day came when, under the administration of my hon. friend the Postmaster-General a deficit of $781,000 was reduced to less than $50,000. The hon. gentleman said yesterday that he could not believe it; that it was not true; there would be a deficit of a million dollars at least, he says. Sir, of course the hon. gentleman having described us as a lot of incompetents, cannot believe that my hon. friend, the Postmaster-General, has done what he did. It is inconceivable to him that the Post Office Department can be administered to-day with almost an equilibrium between revenue and expense. The hon. gentleman was not in favour of penny postage; he is not now, because, he says, we have not the financial strength to carry it through. But let him possess his soul in patience. The reform has been undertaken; it is subject to his criticism. To-day there is almost equilibrium; the deficit was less than $50,000 last year. Though the revenue has been decreased by one-third, still the deficit this year will be such that we will be able to give to the people not only penny postage, but domestic postage as well, at one-third less cost, and with a deficit one-third less than the deficit in the old times. The hon. gentleman stated yesterday that he took exception to a statement I made in Montreal that we had given penny postage to the Empire. He took exception to the word "we." I understood the expression coming from him, for had he been in my place it would have been the word "I" instead of the word "we." (Laughter.) Sir, I maintain the position that I took at Montreal, and here on the floor of this House I reassert that we did give penny postage to the empire. Of course I do not claim that we gave it by legislative authority, nor even by administrative authority. We had not the legislative authority, and we had not the administrative authority. But what we did do was to move the inertia that existed somewhere, and induce those who had the authority to come forward and to do the act; and it is done, and I claim the credit of it, not for myself, but for the Postmaster General. (Cheers.) The hon. gentleman would not give any credit to my hon. friend the Postmaster-General; he claimed the credit for Mr. Henniker Heaton. I agree that Mr. Henniker Heaton is entitled to all praise in that respect, and the first man to proclaim it has been my friend the Postmaster-General himself, and the second man to proclaim it, if I may be excused for giving my own opinion, has been my humble self.

IN THE MATTER OF FINANCE,

MR. HENNIKER HEATON'S TESTIMONY.

But, sir, the hon. gentleman (Sir Charles Tupper) knows very well that Mr. Henniker Heaton was the very first man to acknowledge the great credit which is due to my friend the Postmaster General in this respect. And if his memory, which is very keen up such subjects, but which is very dull upon some others, is so dull in this instance as not to have remembered certain correspondence which was exchanged that summer, let me be permitted to refresh his memory. On the 23rd of July last Mr. Henniker Heaton did me the honour of writing to me, and after speaking generally of the penny postage, he went on to say:—"The negotiations, the discussions, the arguments on either side were long and wearisome; the official inertia was finally overcome in a surprising way and the victory is won. It is the opinion of those possessing any acquaintance with the history of the affair that to this victory the courage, the energy, the determination, the moral stamina, and last, but not least, the frankness of Hon. Mr. Mulock largely contributed. He cannot report much to his colleagues, but permit me to submit his formal notification of the result.' To this letter I answered as follows to Mr. Henniker Heaton:—"I am much honoured by your favour of the 23rd of July, and I very greatly appreciate it, for the recognition which it conveys to me of the great abilities of my colleague, the Post-master General of Canada. I expected much from him, but the great success which has crowned his last effort was almost unexpected. Permit me to add further, that whatever may be the merits of Mr. Mulock in this late development of Imperial unity, he would be the first to admit that the credit of it primarily belongs to you."

Sir, these are the sentiments which were entertained with reference to this question on this side of the House. We have done something in this respect, and notwithstanding all the clamour, the honourable gentleman wants to raise against this great reform, the Canadian people will endorse it, not only because it is a matter of domestic policy, but also because it has a wider range for good than anything which has hitherto been achieved by the Canadian Government. (Cheers.)

LIBERAL ACHIEVEMENTS.

Now, Mr. Speaker, the hon. gentleman wants to know what more have we done. Well, it would take me too long to review in detail everything we have done. I must be brief, for I do not want to follow bad examples. But I may give summarily what we have done for the people of Canada. First, let me tell the hon. gentleman we have reformed the tariff to the great satisfaction of the majority both of the producers and consumers. When the hon. gentleman spoke yesterday of our reformed tariff he did so in such a way that I was not sure whether he was approving or attacking it; he was not sure himself. However, he spoke of cordage, and there was a sting in his words to blame us for what we have done in this respect. But yet the cordage business never was so prosperous as last year, though we made cordage free. (Hear, hear.) We have established a complete system of cold storage for the transportation of perishable goods, and in this alone we have rendered to the people of Canada most singular service. The trade with Great Britain last year in eggs alone amounted to the sum of $2,000,000, and it is yet only in its infancy. We have extended the Intercolonial Railway to the great centre of trade in the great City of Montreal. I do not know yet whether we can say we have done it permanently or not, but there is the attempt, there is the policy and the Senate will have occasion to pass on it by-and-bye. Whether it passes or does not pass, whether the Intercolonial Railway is to remain in the fields or come to the great city of Montreal is not a matter of our responsibility now, but will rest upon other shoulders than ours. Then, sir, we have obtained a most material reform. We have obtained from the C.P.R. a reduction of their freight rates, and in so doing we have given the greatest boon to the producers on the prairies of the Northwest. We have obtained a reduction of three cents per hundred pounds on wheat; we have obtained a reduction on a specified list of articles of merchandise, a reduction varying from 10 to 33 per cent., and they understand that in these matters alone we have given to the people of the Northwest Territories an advantage of at least $600,000 a year. (Hear, hear.)

THE ARCH BLUNDERER.

Sir, this is something of practical statesmanship. The hon. gentleman does not give us any credit for it, and in the face of all this he has the audacity to speak of our incapacity. He speaks as if we did not know anything of the history of Canada. Well, we do know something of the history of Canada, and, and, as the hon. gentleman in one of those moments of candid modesty for which he is famous, has told us that the history of Canada is his history, we know something of his own history too. I do not mean to depreciate the abilities of the honourable gentleman at all; I told him a moment ago that there are many things in him which I admire. I admire his industry, I admire his tenacity, I do not know that I do not even admire that sublime egotism of his which makes him see the world through his own personality. I will say more. I have no hesitation to say that he has done some good service for his party, nay for his country, when he was doing the thinking of anybody else than himself; that is, when he was serving under other people. But I must also say that I know something of the history of Canada, and, therefore, his history, and I know that whenever he has been left to do his own thinking and carry out his own plans, he has been an arch-blunderer. (Cheers. My hon. friend was something in Nova Scotia at the time he was serving under Sir Wm. Johnstone, if I remember right, but when the time came that Sir William Johnstone was removed to the great beyond the hon. gentleman had the direction of his own party, he scattered his party in less than three years. Then came the period of Confederation, and I must say that my hon. friend was clever enough to attach himself to the skirts of Sir John A. Macdonald, and, between Sir John Macdonald and himself they sailed the ship of state pretty successfully. The work, however, was divided. Sir John Macdonald was at the helm, and supplied the brains; my hon. friend supplied the wind; his blowing swelled the sails. (Prolonged laughter and cheers.) The hon. gentleman came back after a while to resume the chiefship of his party, and there was the same result as in Nova Scotia—in three months he destroyed it and put it in the position where it is now.

THE ODORLESS

CREMATORY CLOSET.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematory Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS.

Alliston, March 1st, 1899.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable. Yours respectfully, JAMES CONWAY.

Sheddon, February 25th, 1899.

I have used it for sometime and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc. W. H. MORRISON

Medical Superintendent's Office, Sept. 30th, 1897 Asylum for the Insane, Hamilton.

Gentlemen: I had the opportunity of witnessing yesterday the operation of your Odorless Crematory Closet. It had a large accumulation of fecal matter in the pan when the fire was started, and in side of 30 minutes it was all reduced to ashes. There was no odor before or during the operation of consuming the fecal matter, as the ventilation by the flue assures us to carry off all odor at once before it has a chance to vitiate the surrounding atmosphere.

Yours truly, JAMES RUSSELL, M.D.

Binbrook, Sept. 30th, 1897.

Dear Sirs—Having been present at a private test of your new patent closet yesterday afternoon, I beg to express my satisfaction with it in every way. Neither before, during or after the burning out of its contents did I detect the slightest unpleasant odor. I am satisfied it will be a boon to thousands in rural towns, villages and country homes. Yours truly, M. J. MULLOCK, M.D.

DYSPEPSIA AND CONSUMPTION.

Frequently Deceive the Doctors by Their Similarity.

Men Have Died With Dyspepsia Thinking They had Consumption—The Safest and Surest Course to Follow is to Use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Many a man has been killed by fear. Many a man has fretted himself to death. Many a man has gone to his grave, supposedly a victim of Consumption, whose complaint was neither more or less than Dyspepsia.

Consumption bears such a close similiarity to certain forms of Dyspepsia, that it is easy and natural to mistake one for the other. The chief symptoms are identical. In each case there is a cough, loss of flesh, paleness and night sweats. In some cases even the most skilled physicians have mistaken one for the other.

Many under the mistaken belief that they have consumption, dyspeptics sometimes obtain treatment for the first-named disease. Thus they take medicine, for a disease that does not afflict them, and which medicine does them no good, while they take no medicine for Dyspepsia which they have.

The safest, surest and best course to follow is to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They are, as has been shown hundreds of thousands of times, an infallible cure for Dyspepsia. In nine cases out of ten, the patient will recover perfect health strength and vigour in a few weeks, for in nine out of every ten cases of this kind, the disease is Dyspepsia and not Consumption.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure Dyspepsia in the only rational way—by removing the cause. They make the cure complete by curing the constipation that nearly always accompanies Dyspepsia, and by putting the liver in thoroughly healthy condition.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets prevent Consumption by filling the veins with fresh, rich, red blood and strengthening the system at every point against the dread disease.

THE LEGISLATURE

The Assembly May Finish Its Business Next Week.

THE SOUTH PERTH ELECTION.

Mr. Russell (East Hastings) Withdraws His Proportional Representation Bill —Both Leaders Express Their Dislike for Academical Legislation —Several Second Readings— Bills Withdrawn.

Toronto, March 23.—Very substantial progress was made in the Legislature yesterday, and it begins to look as though the work may be brought to a close by the evening of the 30th, prorogation taking place on the following Saturday or Monday. If the House is to finish on the date named, however, there will need to be an unremitting attention to business and no loss of time. The Premier last night gave notice of the Government's intention to hold Saturday sittings, and its desire for precedence for Ministerial legislation, beginning on Monday.

The leader of the Opposition entered a strong protest against the non-return of the official notification of the election of Mr. Monteith of South Perth. The Attorney-General said he had telegraphed, but had had no reply. Hon. Mr. Garrow said he had heard the returning officer was ill. Mr. Whitney held that whatever the cause a wrong had been done the member for South Perth.

After a very animated discussion, Col. Matheson obtained an order of the House for a return of correspondence with regard to a pamphlet on Algoma, on account of which $400 was paid to C. N. Smith, the publisher of a Sault Ste. Marie newspaper.

Mr. S. Russell (East Hastings) moved the second reading of his bill to allow municipalities to adopt proportional representation.

Mr. Whitney said that at this stage of the session very little time could be given to the consideration of the bill. He was doubtful if it would have the facilitating and clarifying virtues the hon. member claimed for it. It was one of those fanciful ideas about voting which commended themselves to a certain type of minds, but which might not have much practical benefit. Such an important change in the method of voting ought not to be made until after full discussion, which at this period of the session was not feasible.

The Attorney-General said that the proposed method of voting might suit certain classes of electors; but he was not sure it would be the best for legislative assemblies. In saying this he was not disparaging its usefulness. He was afraid, however, that it would not work effectively in Dominion or provincial elections, for not one-half of the electors would have ability to understand it. It would work also in a sectional way. Take the question of Single Tax as an example. If the advocates of this proposal were strong enough they might send their representative to council, or even that House. The same was true of other questions, which had their strong supporters, such as the irregularities of assessment. In fact, every man with a hobby might be able to secure a seat under this system. It was an interesting academic question, but would not be understood by the people at large.

The order was then discharged and the bill withdrawn.

Second Readings.

Mr. Richardson's bill to prevent camping on highways or unenclosed land, and to empower county constables to make arrests without a warrant, was read a second time.

Mr. Hill's bill to compel the use of fenders on electric cars, and keeping tracks flush with highways, passed its second reading.

Mr. Leys secured the second reading of his bill requiring in case of municipal and school elections, a declaration of the property qualification of the candidate to be made before 5 o'clock on nomination day.

Mr. Lumsden's bill, regulating trading stamp companies, and imposing a yearly tax in proportion to population, was read a second time.

Bills Withdrawn.

Mr. Richardson's bill to amend the High Schools Act; Mr. Little's, to prevent the growth and cultivation of the barberry shrub; Mr. Hill's, to amend the Public Schools Act; Mr. Wardell's, to amend the Ontario Elections Act in respect to recounts; Mr. Fox's, respecting police magistrates' salaries; Mr. McKay's, respecting ditches and watercourses.

A large number of bills were advanced a stage or read a third time.

The License Revenue Bill.

The resolutions respecting brewers and distillers were introduced at the night session, when Mr. Harcourt moved their adoption.

Mr. Whitney replied that it was the intention of the Opposition to move a six months' hoist. After a consultation with the Provincial Treasurer it had been arranged that the motion to adopt the resolutions should be carried on a division, on the understanding that when the House go into committee after the second reading of the bill, the resolutions should be debated.

The South Perth Return.

As the House was about to adjourn at 9.15, Mr. Whitney remarked that he was in a position to know that the return from South Perth was now on its way. Mr. Hardy said he was very glad to hear it.

An Excellent Old Lady.

Dunnville, Ont., March 22.—Mrs. William Eyears, relict of the late Joseph Montague, one of Dunnville's oldest residents, passed away yesterday in her 91st year. She was a native of Durham, England, and came to this country when quite young, settling at the mouth of the Grand River, where she entertained Sir Peregrine Maitand, the Governor of Old Canada, and his staff at her home during his stay at Port Maitland on his tour through the provinces nearly 70 years ago. Mrs. Eyears leaves behind her four sons and four daughters.

This Hits Pro Bono Publico.

Sacramento, Cal., March 23.—Governor Gage has attached his signature to the Morehouse bill, requiring all articles published in the newspapers and periodicals of California, referring to individuals, to have the true name of the writer affixed. Telegraphic despatches are, by special provision, exempt from the law. It is not known what action newspaper proprietors will take in the matter.

Forty-Nine Still Missing.

Forty-nine persons, besides the 15 dead, who are supposed to have been in the Windsor Hotel when it was destroyed on Friday, are yet to be accounted for. No bodies were recovered yesterday.

An Enterprising Firm.

Mr. Demers Allowed a Walk.

Quebec, March 23.—The nomination in the County of Levis took place yesterday. Mr. L. J. Demers, merchant of St. Romuald, was declared elected by acclamation. He is a Liberal. The vacancy was caused by the death of Dr. Guay, who was also a Liberal.

Point Gained for Corbin.

Victoria, B.C., March 23.—After two days of warm discussion, the resolution opposing the Corbin charter, passed last year, was rescinded by the Victoria Board of Trade yesterday afternoon. One endorsing the charter was also passed.

The death is announced at Mentone of Countess Czialymski, nee Princess Czartoriski, who once refused the hand of Napoleon III.

VALUABLE

Residential Properties FOR SALE

In Peterborough.

Having decided to remove to Manitoba in the spring, I have decided to sell the following valuable properties at prices that should secure ready purchasers:

Parcel No. 1. A Brick Terrace of four houses, adjoining the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets, two storys, well built with good stone cellars full size of buildings. Each residence contains six rooms with summer kitchens. This property has always been continuously rented and pays an excellent rate of interest on the investment, and it is practically a new property, being only erected a few years, and is in good condition.

Parcel No. 2. Brick residence corner of Reid and Simcoe. Containing ten rooms. House in good condition with all modern improvements, bath, closets, heated with furnace and lighted with electricity.

Parcel No. 3. Brick dwelling corner Aberdeen and Beacon streets, facing Dixon Park, containing seven rooms with summer kitchen. This property was erected last season for myself and occupied by myself. Has hard and soft water in kitchen and is a very comfortable residence. This lot is 100 feet square.

Parcel No. 4. Brick residence, corner Wellesley and Reuben streets. Two storys, seven rooms with kitchen, pleasantly situated adjoining Dixon Park. Hard and soft water in kitchen. This lot is also 105 feet square and is a similar building to parcel No. 3.

Parties desiring a good paying investment or one will find any of these desirable purchases.

Particulars and terms, which are reasonable, made known on application to the undersigned.

T. J. MOORE.

A NEW INVENTION!

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which lights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. For correct and full information regarding the new invention and NEWCOMBE PIANOS, write to our Direct Representative. Easy Prices. Liberal Terms.

A special meeting of Court Peterborough, No. 39, Canadian Order of Foresters, will be held on Friday evening, March 24th, 1899, at 8 o'clock, to discuss matters of importance to the members. By order of the Chief Ranger. A. D. RUSSELL, Secretary.

Easter Gifts.
Attention is directed to the display of artistic Easter cards, booklets and gift books at the Peterborough Bookstore. These charming mementoes of the season are the newest productions of the cleverest artists, and are well worthy of early inspection.—A. H. STRATTON & Co.

Photographic Gems.
The window of Mr. John W. Green's new studio on Hunter street, is at present enriched with a display of artistic gems of the photographic art, which is attracting much attention. A set of three large pictures are excellent specimens, and specially worthy of note, the workmanship being of a high-class order. They possess in a marked degree a fine blending of delicacy in shading and softness of tone that could hardly be excelled. The depth and boldness of outline impart a statuary effect, while the posing is intelligent and skilful. Cabinet pictures of familiar figures are also displayed, which partake of similar fine delineation. A number of groups exposed give exquisite expression to the expert handiwork of a clever artist.

THE BURLEIGH FALLS ELECTRIC ENTERPRISE.

A Large Peterborough Revenue Already Assured.

Mr. Calverwell, the manager, stated today that he had received assurances from the large manufacturers in Peterborough of a power revenue of some $5,000, and that besides this he has closed some forty term contracts for electric light with the merchants on the principal streets. He states that the merchants generally, want cheaper incandescent light. There seems to be no difficulty in concluding contracts. Mr. Calverwell says that as fast as possible, he will extend the same privileges to other users of electric light in Peterborough, whom so far, he has been unable to see. His syndicate is more than pleased with the large revenue assured in Lindsay and Peterborough, amounting, it is said, almost to some $25,000 per annum.

THE LATE WELLINGTON MONCRIEF.

His Death At Niagara Falls After a Brief Illness.

Yesterday the Examiner noted briefly the death of Mr. George Wellington Moncrief, better known perhaps as "Monty" Moncrief among his intimate friends, and he had many. His death took place at Niagara Falls, Ont., and resulted from an illness of only five days—pluriesy and inflammation of the bowels. Deceased was in the employment of the Grand Trunk Railway at the round house at Niagara Falls. He had been employed there only a short time, and has been absent only about six months from Peterborough, where he was employed with the Peterborough Canoe Company for several years. Monty was a great favorite amongst, especially, his young associates, who will hear of his seemingly untimely death, at the early age of 21 years, with profound regret.

The body will reach town on this evening's G. T. R. express, and the funeral takes place at two o'clock p. m. to-morrow, from the residence of the brother of deceased, Mr. Wm. Moncrief, 227 Perry street.

DEATH'S HASTY SUMMONS.

Mrs. Morgan O'Neill, of Emily, Died Suddenly Last Evening.

News of a very sad occurrance in Emily township reached town yesterday.

Mrs. Morgan O'Neill, of King's Wharf, prepared supper last evening for the family, and after the meal remarked to her husband that she felt a very severe pain in one of her ears and would sit down for a while.

Mr. O'Neill went out and returned in about five minutes to enquire how she felt, but found her dead. Heart failure is believed to have been the cause.

NEWS NUGGETS.

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—A set of shelving for news-paper files is being placed in the Town Clerk's office.

—Good tea at low prices is what you can get at the Spot Cash. Dinna forget. 3d

—The country roads are in bad shape and very few sleighs were on the market yesterday.

—The Committee of the whole Council meet this evening in the Town Clerk's office at 8 p. m.

—The George street church choir will practice this evening at eight o'clock in the church parlour.

—A young man who was under arrest for disorderly conduct, was discharged by Police Magistrate Dumble this morning.

—Some of the street crossing are uncomfortably sloppy, and considerable ingenuity is required to get over them dry shod.

—Flashes of lightning and the roll of thunder, and a smart spring shower were incidents of the weather last night, or rather this morning early.

—Wood is very scarce in town. On application to one of the town woodyards the Charity Board could only get a limited quantity of dry hardwood.

—The S. O. E. have engaged the Vitascope to reproduce scenes of the Spanish-American war in their hall to night and to morrow night, March 23rd and 24th.

—The members of the Welland Bicycle Club have endorsed Mr. Stratton's bicycle bill, and requested Mr. German, member for the county, to support it.

—Before Judge Robertson of Osgoode Hall, yesterday, the motion to change the venue of W. H. Ponton's second trial was adjourned until a week from Friday.

—One of the Fire Brigade horses, which was suffering from an injury received from a nail, which ran into its foot, has recovered. It was one of the Dixon team.

—A complaint comes from the North Ward that the slush is being allowed to remain on the sidewalks. West End residents are also complaining of the snowploughing.

—The Oddfellows of Pontypool and Havelock will be on hand this evening with a grist of candidates to receive the three degrees by the Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, degree team. A good time is expected.

—Owing to the evangelistic meetings being held in the Charlotte street church, the choir practice to-night will take place at the residence of Mr. A. L. Davis. All the members of the choir are requested to be in attendance.

—The winter like weather of the first days of spring has not diminished feminine interest in the millinery openings. Spring reigns in the millinery rooms if nowhere else—flowers have the leading note of the spring styles of the pocket book flatteners of 1899. The local millinery openings were largely attended last night.

Fire in Belmont.

At 7 o'clock a. m., on the 25th inst., the dwelling house of Mr. Fred Taylor, on lot 5, in the 4th concession of Belmont, took fire near the chimney. The house and kitchen were both frame and were entirely consumed. Most of the contents were saved by the timely aid of neighbours. The property was insured for $300.

George Street Church Choir Concert.

The programme for the concert in George street church on the evening of April 4th presents a very attractive list in those who will contribute to the programme. Three magnificent choruses will be given by the choir, assisted by local singers and strengthened by the full instrumentation of the Peterborough orchestra. Vocal numbers will be given by Mr. Bruce G. Bradley, tenor, of Toronto, and who is a favourite in Toronto musical circles; Mrs. Chambers, who is always a favourite in Peterborough, will also sing and will no doubt be well received. Mr. Grenville Kleiser, the well known reader and impersonator, will add interest and variety to the programme. Mr. Kleiser has been particularly successful in this season's engagements and comes more than ever equipped to delight an audience. Remember the date, April 4th. Admission 25c.

AGE OF THE NON-JURORS.

ADDRESS ON THE SUBJECT BY REV. H. W. BURGESS.

The Last of the Historic Lectures Delivered on Wednesday Evenings in St. John's Church.

Rev. H. W. Burgess, of Bethany, spoke last evening in St. John's church, on "The Age of the Non-Jurors."

He began by outlining the general history of the Church, which followed the religious settlement of 1662, when the Prayer Book was adopted as it now is. At this period the Puritans, who found themselves excluded from the Church, were opposing her from outside and within; considerable differences of opinion still existed, nevertheless all united in enthusiastic veneration for the two great treasures of the Reform Church which had been procured by so much labour—Episcopacy and the Prayer Book. The love of the Prayer Book was the greater, through its use being prohibited during the Commonwealth.

THE IMMORALITY

and general laxity of the day, though strongly withstood by the Church, yet exerted upon her a weakening influence.

During a period of general declension the Church produced types of Christian character of a very lofty kind, such as Barrow, Jeremy Taylor, Pierson and South. But it was only a minority who freely surrender themselves to the training of the Church and acquired the robustness of character and other graces characteristic of her. To the majority, as yet, the Prayer Book was simply an official service book and the Church a national institution.

The whole Church stoutly withstood the Romanizing tendencies of James II. and led the nation in healthy opposition to his un-English innovations. But when the restoration took place and William came to the throne some of the choicest spirits in the Church felt themselves impelled to the view that, as they had taken an oath of allegiance to James II. they could not conscientiously take an oath of allegiance to another sovereign. It was a purely technical point of conscience and was eminently a case for gentle treatment, but the oath was vigourously insisted upon, and Archbishop Sancroft, like other bishops, and 400 clergy and many distinguished laity voluntarily resigned their livings rather than do violence to their consciences. Among them was the saintly Bishop Kenn, author of the well known hymn, "Glory to Thee my God this Night."

THE BLOW FELL

all the more heavily upon these men and the Church of England because their places were supplied by men of very different opinions—inclining to laxity on points of discipline and doctrine. These "Non-jurors," as they were called, from not accepting the oath, had to find their own livings as best they could, endured countless sufferings and privations, but cherished their convictions to the end. Looking back from our day some may think the step they took unnecessary, but all must feel the heroism which prompted so great a sacrifice at the altar of honour and duty.

For a time the Church keenly felt the enforced defection of these noble men, as the majority left were of a broader and closer churchmanship. It was not so much that the non-jurors defended the Divine right of kings, as that they maintained the Divine origin and Catholic and Apostolic nature of the Church in the land and a high honourable idea of their duty as members of it.

It was in 1689 that the non-jurors left their livings. Afterwards, in the reign of Anne, the Church recovered from the shock, and enjoyed a stronger life.

Daily services and weekly communions were held in many of the churches, and the three great missionary societies of today had their birth. However, the life of the Church, like the life of an individual, is one of many changes, and another spell of depression had to rest upon her for upwards of a century, which gave way to the general revival of church life, which is now enjoyed.

This concludes the series of interesting historical lectures which have been conducted during the Lenten season in St. John's church.

PERSONAL

Mr. Fred Dixon was able to be out driving to-day.

Mrs. C. B. McAllister will not be "At Home" this evening.

Mr. R. S. Mills of Omemee, is visiting with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Matthews, of Lindsay, were in town yesterday.

Mr. J. C. Ray, general merchant of Cambray, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. McKinnon, wife of Mr. D. J. McKinnon, hotel keeper at Bethany, died on Tuesday afternoon after a protracted illness.

The Zion correspondent of the Port Hope Guide says that Mr. Wm. Walker, of Peterborough, was visiting friends in that neighbourhood a few days ago.

Mr. E. B. Edwards returned last night from Ottawa, where he was looking after the Armour appeal case before the Supreme Court. The arguments were concluded and judgment reserved. Mr. Edwards came home by way of Toronto, where he appeared before the Municipal Committee in reference to Mr. Stratton's bill to amend the Assessment Act in respect to the payment of taxes in instalments. The bill passed the committee stage without any important amendments.

TRAFFIC SUSPENDED.

The I. B. & O. Line Completely Snowed Under—Two Engines Ditched.

There is trouble on the I. B & O. R. R., and all communication with points along the line is cut off at present.

On Sunday morning one of the engines jumped the track while trying to remove a huge snow bank, and a message was then sent to Lindsay for a snow-plow. The plow was sent to the junction, and the remaining I. B. & O. engine was ordered out.

The crew made a heroic effort to reach the plow, and forced a passage through miles of drifts, but when within a few miles of the junction, ice was encountered unexpectedly, and the second engine was also ditched.

It will be some days before the line can be re-opened.—Post.

THE DONKEY CLUB.

Hard Hit at a Practice Not Unknown in Peterborough.

A clergyman on a recent Sunday gave out the following notice: The regular session of the Donkey Club will be held as usual at the close of this service. Members will line up just outside the church door, make remarks and stare at the women who pass, as is their custom. Any member known to escort a young woman to church like a man, and sit with her like a gentleman, will be promptly expelled from the membership.

The Bazaar.

The bazaar under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. Ladies' Auxiliary will be held on Friday, April 6th and 7th. The ladies are working hard, and from all reports will make the event a great success. Arrangements are rapidly being completed, and the leading features will include a high tea, a Japanese tea room, candy, flower and doll booths. The decorations promise to be elaborate. Citizens of all ages are interested. All should note the dates.

CRICKET.

The Cricket Club has decided to hold its annual meeting on Friday evening, as at first announced. A large attendance of those interested is expected.

HOCKEY.

The Invincibles put another victory to their credit last evening, when they went to Campbellford, and defeated that team by eight goals to three, although Campbellford had two players from Napanee and one from Deseronto to strengthen their team. The Invincible team was composed of: Goal, J Comstock; point, F O'Connor; cover point, W Crossley; forwards, Harry King, R Watt, Harry Morgan, Whitcroft.

Mr. Will Ackerman acted as referee.

To-night the Invincibles play with Norwood, and to-morrow night they appear in Millbrook.

The Millbrook Reporter speaks as follows of the recent Millbrook-Keene hockey match:

"Jim Handley had just quit ringing the one o'clock bell on Wednesday, of last week, when the "Hern" horse and the "Griffin" mare, with their noses pointing towards the Orient and their tails pointing towards the big elevator at the station, crawled over Allen's hill with their cargo of human freight. It was the fifth annual trip of the Millbrook Hockey Club to that picturesque little village on the banks of the Indian River, called Keene. The snow having fallen a victim to the March sun and wind left the roads in no condition for sleighs, so that the journey was made on wheels. A glance at the make-up of the load revealed the fact that only three of the old vanguard were present, Tommy Nattrass, Dan Tucker and the writer.

"Of the four previous excursions to do battle with the eastern puck chasers then, only three of the local could relate to the remaining juveniles the many thrilling experiences and the many amusing incidents that had happened from the time that the Keene-Millbrook relationship commenced. This was ably done, however, as the bus rolled roughly along, the mud from the hind wheels in the meantime coming in contact with "Dinny" Donley's face to such an extent that it soon resembled Neddy Hogan's back yard.

The hands on Johnny Bateson's Waterbury Watch pointed to half past four o'clock, when the left hind wheel took a chunk out of "Mick" Kennedy's gate post as the bus shot into the old familiar hotel yard. That father of hockey in the little Indian village, Jack McIntyre, with a number of his fellow citizens were on hand to give the citizens a formal welcome, notify them that the local police had been mussled for the day and extend to them the freedom of the town.

A twenty mile drive had, as might be expected, put a razor edge on the natural ravenous appetites of the visitors and when, at a little after six o'clock, the boys had arisen from an excellent supper, which was prepared in Mine Host Kennedy's well known style, there was little left save silverware and tooth-picks.

Printing is an art unknown to the inhabitants of Keene, but a lead pencil notice which hung in the bar, (we happened to get a look through the door) announced the battle to take place at 7 o'clock sharp. When therefore "Dinny" Donley, the mascot, had gathered together all the hockey sticks, skate straps, sticking plaster, chewing gum and liniment, the procession started from the hotel to the rink, where a big crowd awaited the arrival of great men, or rather boys from the West.

Perhaps no man is better known and no man receives a better welcome in Keene than Dan Tucker and his is indeed a glorious reception as he walks around shaking hands with big men, little boys and pretty girls. Dan has never missed a trip to Keene yet and prides himself over this fact as much as an old dyed-in-the-wool Grit does over reading the Toronto Globe since it was first published. When Dan took a run-hop-step-and-a-jump out of the waiting room and lit half way up the rink, he was garbed in a Salvation Army blood-and-fire sweater and was cruelly pounding a wad of Tutti Frutti between his jaws. He was given an ovation that would have done honour to a Tory leader in the Township of Manvers. Old farmers with pea straw in their whiskers and with a north of Ireland smile on the faces, remarked "well they've fetched Dan again," and the young ladies exclaimed with a sigh of satisfied expectancy, "yes girls here is Dan," while the little tots who lined the beam gave their mother's skirts a jerk and cried with voice trembling with joy, "mama, see, there's Dan."

It must of course be remembered, with the exception of Dan and Tommy, Millbrook was playing a strictly junior team against Keene's seniors, which accounts for the defeat of 11 goals to 5, but the visitors put up a good game throughout. When the puck was first faced it went directly into the Orientals' goal, where the players of both sides swarmed like farmers around a patent medicine wagon. Finally Tommy Nattrass did the needful, and a warhoop went up from the Millbrook contingent that smashed a window in the back of the rink. The referee throughout the entire game had little to do. The only gross infringement of the rules was when Tom Donley was gazing eastward into space he accidentally caught the puck in his mouth, and after rushing down the ice coughed it up in front of the Keene goal. Billy O'Brien, Johnny Bateson, Jack McMahon and Cal. Fee acquitted themselves in excellent style, the former in fact covering himself with glory.

After the game was over the boys did not go directly to the hotel by any means, but stayed at the rink where they indulged in various kinds of amusements. Tommy Nattrass raised Caine, while little Billy O'Brien swung a Bell very gracefully. Dan Tucker had Hope for something better, but his expectation did not mature.

On returning to "Mick" Kennealey's the two teams sat down to an excellent supper which was put up at the expense of the home seven. Jack McIntyre proposed the toast of Dan Tucker, to which the latter gentlemen responded. Then Dan Tucker proposed the toast of Jack McIntyre, which was accordingly disposed of.

The boys then started for home and came rolling into town next morning as Neddy Hogan war getting around to sweep out the bank. Such was the fifth annual trip of the Millbrook hockey team to Keene.—C

FOUND AN ERROR ON PAGE ONE.

The "Dunlop Annual" is Attracting Considerable Attention.

An elderly gentleman stepped into the office of the Dunlop Tire Company on the morning of the 15th inst. He said he read in the papers about their offer of a pair of tires to each of the first five readers of the Dunlop Annual finding the most typographical errors in their 1899 book.

The above mentioned gentleman was evidently a professional proofreader. In one minute he had found an error hidden on the first page of the reading. But one error does not necessarily count as the "most" errors—there may be others. The Dunlop Company hold the offer open for a month. Every letter received will be dated and filed away. The book must not be returned. Any error must be designated by the numbered page.

Readers of this paper who cannot get the "Annual" from a bicycle dealer should write to Department A. P., Dunlop Tire Company, Toronto.

Over-burdened Women.

Many a man sees his wife bend and tug at burdens that strain the back and the heart alike, without any idea of the outrage. Children follow in too quick succession to allow the mother time to recuperate. The womanly organs become displaced, there are debilitating, disagreeable drains, with the added pain of inflamed or ulcerated parts. In this condition the woman bravely tries to carry her household load, afraid to take the rest she needs lest a meal will be late. No wonder she is pale, weak, wretched, surly of temper and snappish of tongue. She would be false to nature if she were anything else. No persons need help so much as the class of whom this woman is the type. And for such women no help is so sure, so wonderful, as that given by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It restores all the womanly organs to perfect health. It establishes regularity in their functions. It restores the strained and shattered nervous system. It clears up the complexion, rounds out the form and makes life a daily happiness. "Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol or whisky. It is the best medicine for women. Nothing can be "just as good" as the best. Tell the dealer so if he offers a substitute.

"I have long thought it my duty to write you a few lines to let you know what your 'Favorite Prescription' has done for me," writes Mrs. Euphemia Falconer, of Trent, Muskegon Co., Mich. "I am twenty-seven years old; have been married ten years. I am the mother of four children. My first two babies were still-born, and I suffered every thing but death. My friends all thought I could never recover. I was reduced to 109 pounds. When I was three months along for my third child I was taken with hemorrhage or flooding and came near having a miscarriage from female weakness. For two months I was under the care of our doctor, but was getting weaker all the time until one day I happened to come across one of your little books and I read it through, and the next day I sent and got three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one bottle of 'Pellets.' I improved so fast I continued to take your medicine until baby was born, and he is healthy and all right. He is four years old. My baby girl is two years old. My health has been good ever since. I now weigh 165 pounds."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets increase the efficiency of "Favorite Prescription" where a laxative is required.

COMMITTEE OF SEVEN CHOSEN

To Formulate Parliamentary Plan Regarding the Prohibition Question.

Ottawa, March 23.—The Legislative committee of the Dominion Alliance met a number of Senators and Commoners in the railway committee room of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa yesterday morning. After considerable discussion a committee of seven, namely, Messrs. Moore, Christie, Ganong, McMullen, Flint, McClure and Senator Forget, was appointed to decide upon a plan of action whereby the members of the House in favor of prohibition might be brought properly before Parliament.

Mr. F. S. Spence of Toronto submitted a resolution: "That in the opinion of this meeting the results of the recent prohibition plebiscite are such as call for legislative action by Parliament."

Mr. McClure moved in amendment to have the committee appointed, and the amendment prevailed.

Major Sutherland declared that the composition and proceedings of the meeting were alike farcical. He called attention to the presence of members and others who did not in any way represent the prohibition committee, and who were voting not from the point of view of temperance, but as politicians.

PAINS SEVERE!

A Port Hope Citizen who Suffered Agony, Promptly Relieved and Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

The terrible pains and aches consequent upon kidney derangement, the Rheumatism, Lumbago, Backache Urinary Difficulties, which follow the failure of these organs to filter the poisons from the blood,—make any sufferer thankful that there is such a remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills. Plenty of Port Hope citizens are testifying to the wonderful power of these conquerors of kidney ills.

Mr. W. A. Russell, the popular district agent for the Singer Sewing Machine Company, proves by the following statement that Doan's Kidney Pills are a positive cure for kidney ills:—

"I suffered for five or six years with pains across my back, headaches, dizziness and kindred kidney troubles. I got very bad, and when driving would have to stop the horse, as the pains were so severe that I could not stand them.

"I tried a great many medicines but they did me no good. I then got DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS at the drug-store, took them for one month, and am completely cured!

"I regard the cure as a remarkable testimony to the virtues of Doan's Kidney Pills, and am only too glad to recommend them to all sufferers from kidney trouble in any form."

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. a box, or 3 for $1.25. The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont. Remember the name Doan's, and refuse all others.

Think Dominion Is Lost.

San Francisco, March 22.—Forty per cent. reinsurance is quoted on the British ship Dominion from Honolulu for Victoria. The Dominion is out nearly two months on a voyage that should not have take more than four weeks. The vessel was in ballast, and it is feared that she was insufficiently weighted down. The supposition is that she was caught in a heavy blow and went down with all hands.

If you have had the grip take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It will brace you up, purify your blood, and overcome all bad effects of the disease.

Montreal, March 23.—Short supplies on the British market forced prices up again to pretty near the recent high level, best beeves in London advancing from ¾c to 1c per pound; choice States steers making 12¾c. Argentines and Canadians 11¾c. Sheep in this market were also stronger and scored an advance of 1½c, selling at 12c. The Liverpool market was in keeping with London, choice States steers advancing to 12 cents and Canadian to 11½c to 12c. Lambs, unchanged, at 15c. Cables from Glasgow show losses to shippers of from three to five dollars per head.

A Warning Unheeded.

Sarnia, Ont., March 23.—Robert Ironsides of Forest, a bachelor of 45, went to bed at the Arlington last night at 11 o'clock. He was accompanied to his room by the clerk, who warned him about turning off the gas. The reply was, "Young man, I was born before you were." These were his last words. It is supposed that in turning off the gas he turned it on again. When the clerk went to call him this morning he found the room full of gas and Ironsides dead in bed.

Children Cry for CASTORIA.

Women's Worst Enemy

Some hesitate before giving an answer, but those who know best will immediately say HEADACHE.

Thousands of women live in misery day after day, and week after week, suffering untold agony from these dreadful headaches. Husbands are disheartened, children neglected, and happy homes ruined. Most women strive to bear in patience the suffering which they consider part of life without looking into the cause or searching for relief. Food cannot digest without the bile which the liver supplies and hence the necessity of keeping the liver in good working order. To cure the headaches you must cure the liver and thus remove the cause of disease.

Dr. Chase spent years of his life in perfecting a medicine which acts directly on the kidneys and liver. Thousands of grateful women have testified during the past ten years to the effectiveness of this remedy for sick headaches. Many a home has been restored to happiness as a result.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the greatest discovery of this great scientist, are put up to sell at 25c dose for 25c. All dealers.

A Popular Librettist Couldn't Withhold a Joke on Prospective Bride.

W. S. Gilbert does not retain all of his humor for use in his librettos.

In the early days of his success, when Gilbert and Sullivan were considered by managers as the "sure winners" in the comic opera field, a young woman who was a member of one of the "Pinafore" companies wrote to Gilbert telling him of her approaching marriage with a young man of good position and family.

Gilbert congratulated the young woman and expressed the hope that her future might be prosperous and happy.

Only a little more than a month passed, and another letter from the same girl reached him, in which she stated that her engagement with the young man had been broken and that she had accepted another suitor.

He replied that he had every confidence in her judgment and again expressed his hearty wishes for her welfare.

It was almost two months after that that Gilbert received a third letter from the same girl, who informed him that young Lord —— had proposed and that she had accepted him after breaking her engagement with No. 2.

Gilbert's humor could no longer withstand the temptation, and he wrote, "I desire to congratulate you on your approaching marriage with"— Here he placed an asterisk and in a footnote added:

"Here insert the name of the happy man."

This is probably as characteristic a piece of humor as any that appears in his "Bab Ballads" or in his works for the stage.—New York Press.

Brady Says Fight.

Seattle, Wash., March 23.—Governor Brady of Alaska has arrived here on his return from Washington, and he says the boundary question is a serious one. He thinks the whole high commission should go out there and investigate the question on the ground. He says significantly: "The Canadians will surely have a fight on their hands if they try to move the boundaries on the Porcupine as they have on the Stikine and the Lynn Canal passes. Do you think 2,000 Americans, every one of them well armed, who have gone into a country and taken up claims on what has always been considered American territory, will let a handful of Canadian policemen move the boundary line at will?"

Feeling Against Bonusing.

Winnipeg, March 23.—Farmers of Virden have passed resolutions unanimously endorsing Government ownership of railways. The feeling is growing stronger every day against bonusing private corporations.

Cancer Cured.

Burdock Blood Bitters again Vanquishes this Terrible Disease.

Mrs. E. J. Tufford, Paris, Ont., tells how it cured Cancer of six years' standing.

Not long ago we published in this paper an account of the case of Mrs. Gilhula, of Buxton, Ont., who was cured of cancer of the stomach 12 years ago by Burdock Blood Bitters, and who, up to the present time, has had no return of the disease.

Now we let Mrs. E. J. Tufford, a fine old lady, 84 years of age, living at Paris, Ont., tell how B.B.B. cured her of cancer of six years' standing. This is her statement: "About six years ago last fall I was afflicted with that terrible disease, a cancer under my left breast, about as large as a saucer. It was between the skin and the body, and fast to the body.

"I wrote to a Chicago specialist about my case and he desired me to go to him and have an operation performed, which I decided not to do on account of my years.

"I had heard a great deal about wonderful cures being made by Burdock Blood Bitters and decided to try it.

"I can assure you if it had not been for B.B.B. I should have gone the way of all flesh long ere this.

"After I had taken seven or eight bottles I found I was greatly benefited, so I continued its use until I was cured.

"People say to me 'you are wonderfully smart for a woman of 84.' I tell them I give B.B.B. all the credit.

"I tell folks they need not have boils, pimples, abscesses, cancers, salt rheum, scrofula or any blood disease if they will only use B.B.B. faithfully according to directions."

A case of such severity as the above ought surely be sufficient to convince the most skeptical of the thorough blood purifying properties of B.B.B.

There is no disease or disorder arising from impure blood, be it the smallest pimple or the worst scrofulous sore or cancer, but what B.B.B. can cure to stay cured.

POPULAR PROVERBS.

SOME THAT ARE FAIRLY BRIMFUL OF ABSURDITY.

Maxims Often Quoted and at Times Advanced as Argument Which Have Neither Wit Nor Wisdom to Commend Them—Contradictory Sayings.

There is a mistaken notion abroad, says a writer in London Tit-Bits, that proverbs are epitomes of wisdom, the concentrated experience of generations, and that to quote one of them in a discussion is to advance an unanswerable argument. And yet what is there to recommend many of them beyond their jingle? Take our familiar friend:

Early to Bed and Early to Rise, Makes a Man Healthy, Wealthy and Wise.—Obviously, the main idea was to find a word to rhyme with "rise," and "wise" was the unfortunate word chosen. And now, trustful little boys are persuaded to go to bed at unreasonably early hours in the hope of becoming a sort of Sandow-Rothschild-Solomon, though we all know milkmen and market gardeners who get up at 5 a. m. and are neither rich nor clever, and members of parliament who go to bed late and are, if not clever, at least not poor and infirm. Since the invention of gas and electric light this ridiculous old proverb has outlived its original modicum of truth, and proves we must not venerate proverbs on account of their hoary antiquity.

The Early Bird Catches the Worm.—The mistake made here is that it assumes we are all birds. But some of us are worms. If we were not, what would become of the birds? And, therefore, while the birds do well to be early, let the worms be late—the later the better.

The Pitcher That Goes Oft to the Well Is Broken at Last.—Note, it does not say "is broken first," but "is broken at last." Of course, every pitcher, whether it goes to the well or stays on the shelf, is broken at last, and the only result of this absurd proverb is to encourage lazy folk to do as little work as possible and unnecessarily keep out of harm's way.

If You Want a Thing Well Done, Do It Yourself.—There's shocking bad advice with which to start a youth on life's journey. If he wants a button well sewed on, he's to do it himself; if he wants his hair well cut, he's to cut it himself. He must mend his own chairs, shoe his own nag, darn his own socks. In short, from buying a horse to blacking his boots, he must do it himself. Poor fellow!

A Contented Mind Is a Continual Feast.—Can any one say what that means? Does it mean that the owner continually feasts on his contented mind or that the contented mind is continually feasting? Probably the latter, as we sometimes hear that "a hungry man's an angry man," and we all know that a satisfied appetite is the source of contentment. Hence it is not the contented mind which makes the feast, as the silly proverb implies, but the continual feast which produces the contented mind.

There's No Rule Without an Exception.—This is not only a proverb; it is also a rule. But obviously there is no exception to this rule, because if there were a rule with an exception this proverb would be untrue. But the proverb is a rule which has no exception, which, as Mr. Euclid would say, is absurd. Which was to be shown.

Where Ignorance Is Bliss, 'Tis Folly to Be Wise.—For oracular stupidity this proverb may be classed with the one about the pitcher. Granting it true, the difficulty is to know where ignorance is bliss and of course the proverb gives no assistance where it is most needed. Most people quote it as "ignorance is bliss," in their blissful ignorance, but if a proverb gives rise to error it is not only absurd; it is also dangerous. When people say—

A Little Learning Is a Dangerous Thing—They make that a reason not for learning more, but for learning less.

Love Me, Love My Dog.—If I go a-courting, and my ladylove bids me love her scented, dyspeptic poodle, which is not necessary to her health and comfort, must I not much more love her glass eye and false teeth and hair, which are? Yet common sense revolts at the notion, and I therefore assume that a proverb which, logically treated, makes such unreasonable demands on my affections is wrong and absurd.

Seeing Is Believing.—How can any reflecting person repeat these words? For very often we believe we see what really we do not. If a conjurer were to take this proverb as his motto, every one would see its absurdity. A straight stick half submerged in water looks crooked. Fortunately, another proverb says, "Trust not to appearances." And this bring us to the exquisite absurdity of popular proverbs which run in contradictory pairs and support both sides of an argument. Thus one proverb says, "Look before you leap;" another, "Who hesitates is lost." Sometimes we hear that "Second thoughts are best;" at other times that "Delays are dangerous." The desperate man relies on "Nothing venture, nothing have;" the cautious man on "Never venture out of your depth till you can swim." The impatient matrimonial candidate believes that "Happy's the wooing that's not long a-doing;" the tardy one that one may "Marry in haste and repent at leisure." And so on ad infinitum. "Absence makes the heart grow fonder"—"Out of sight, out of mind," "It's never too late to mend"—"A fool at 40 will never be wise." "Too many cooks spoil the broth"—"There's safety in numbers" and "Two heads are better than one."

Therefore, let us examine our proverbial coinage before we pass it into the moral currency.

Change Wanted.

What some people need more than anything else is change—they have dollars, and they need sense.—Jewish Comment.

The Making of Citron.

The making of candied peel or what we call citron is a complicated process. A correspondent in Italy of The Table in London gives an account of a visit to a factory devoted to this industry. The fruit from which the finished product is made is like a large lemon eight or ten pounds in weight. It grows in groves in Corsica and Calabria upon trees about six feet in height. The first process is to cut the fruit in halves and take out the cores, which are discarded. The peel is then sealed in barrels of salt water for two or three weeks. It is then withdrawn and soaked for 21 days in a succession of sirups, beginning with eight parts of sugar to 20 of water until the final one contains 20 parts of sugar to one of water.

The fruit thus treated is then cooked in a number of large caldrons, where it simmers for 24 hours. When cool, it is skimmed, cooked again with fresh sirup, cooled and cooked a third time. While still hot it is packed in wooden boxes, in which it is sold by wholesale. The peel thus treated will keep for ten years, although the fresher it is the better. The slightly bitter flavor of preserved citron is caused by the soaking in salt water. Two hundred people are employed in the factory. The women receive 18 cents a day.

Spain's Greatest Need.

Mr. R. P. Olivia, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S. C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest Blood and Nerve Remedy, all pain soon left him. He says this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures all liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthens the nerves, puts vim, vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing, you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. Sold by J. Lynch, Druggist.

Dr. A. W. CHASE

COMES TO THE AID OF

Catarrh Sufferers

SUCCESS in life is almost impossible for a man with bad breath. Nobody wants to do business with him. Nobody wants to associate with him. He is handicapped everywhere. Offensive breath comes from Catarrh; sometimes from Catarrh of the Stomach, sometimes of the lungs, sometimes of the head, nose, and throat. It is from Catarrh somewhere, and Catarrh is another name for uncleanness.

Many men understand this, and make every effort to cure it, but it is beyond the reach of ordinary practice.

No self-respecting man can ignore Catarrh. If he has it in any form he makes constant effort to be rid of it.

There is something about the manner of life and the climate of Canada that seems to breed diseases of the mucous membrane. Medical science ordinarily doesn't try to cure Catarrh; it "relieves" it; but Dr. Chase has been curing Catarrh for over thirty years, and his name is blessed by thousands who have shaken off the grasp of this insidious disease.

Sold by all dealers, price 25 cents per box, blower free.

CONTRASTS IN NAPLES.

Only a Step From Royal Magnificence to Crowds of Half Naked Workers.

One of the strangest contrasts in Naples is to walk from the royal palace, with its fine marble staircase, up the new Corso Re d'Italia and to climb into the steep streets around the Church of San Soverino e Sosio.

These streets are the dwelling places of the dyers, and one steps from regal magnificence into a crowd of seminaked people, who are busily dipping great hanks of cotton or wool into seething caldrons. As elsewhere, the work is carried on in the street, and little streams of water—red, yellow, brown and black—pour over the rough stones and gather in multicolored pools, while on low benches against the walls women are washing clothes, standing in the dirty, soapy water that splashes over from their tubs.

The passersby walk heedlessly through the dye and soapsuds, while the children find pleasant occupation in throwing mud of every variety of color at anybody who chances to be wearing light colored garments. It is a veritable feast of color from the merely spectacular point of view, but a visit to these streets leaves a bodily as well as a mental impression.

Very often in the depths of these sordid alleys one comes across a forgotten old palace, built when carriages were unknown, its great court of honor crowded with booths, its vast halls filled with a heterogeneous collection of men, women and children, fowls, goats, sheep and occasionally a donkey, all living together in the happiest proximity. The massive old walls are hidden beneath centuries of dirt; the woodwork has, for the most part, disappeared; the rooms that once knew the revels of Angevin nobles now shelter the haphazard existence of lazzaroni.—Ludgate.

A Bit of London Weather.

Our weather is grown decidedly good for the last three days—very brisk, clear and dry. Before that it was as bad as weather at any time need be. Long continued plunges of wet, then clammy, glarry days on days of half wet (a kind of weather peculiar to London, and fully uglier than whole wet)—a world of black sunless pluister [a soft mixture, neither one thing nor another], very unpleasant to move about in! The incessant travel makes everything mud here, in spite of all that clats [a clat, a wooden scraper] and besoms can do. A kind of mud, too, which is as fine as paint and actually almost sticks like a kind of paint. I took, at last, into the country, with old clothes and trousers folded up. There the mud was natural mud, and far less of it; indeed little of it in comparison with other country. We dry again in a single day of brisk wind.—Carlyle Cor. in Atlantic.

Effects Were Wonderful.

"I have been troubled for years with pains in my sides and kidneys and had aches in all parts of my body, owing to stomach and liver troubles. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and its effects were wonderful. In a short time I was entirely cured." MRS. FRANCKE, 208 Ossington Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

Hood's Pills are non-irritating and the only cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hourglasses In a London Church.

Nearly everybody is aware that at one time it was the custom in many churches to regulate the length of the sermon by an hourglass, which stood on the pulpit immediately fronting the preacher. Quite a number of these curious relics are preserved in various ecclesiastical edifices throughout the land, but the British and Foreign Sailors' church, situated in what was formerly Ratcliff highway, is the only one possessing four. They are in perfect preservation, and are fixed all together in a framework of solid brass.—London Tit-Bits.

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. A. McIntyre has been appointed Fishery Inspector for Rice Lake. We congratulate the government on its happy choice, in selecting a man so eminently qualified for the position.

At Y. P. C. E. on Monday evening, the Rev. Mr. Bushel discussed the topic "self control" in a very able manner. Should some of our young men profit by his advice the community would be greatly benefitted.

A rink from Peterborough came down on Saturday and defeated a local rink by the close score of 17 to 16.

Our hockey boys are wondering what the Peterborough colts want. Why not give give us a game? Why not even recognise the receipt of two invitations? Have they no secretary? The Lakefield seven seem to be timid about coming to Keene. Don't be shy boys, we will accommodate you with a team to suit your capacity, although the juniors will be disappointed if they are not allowed to face you. The Lakeviews owe us a game and are as mum as mice.

The oyster supper due to the colts by the seniors, was served up on Friday night, when a rink from Hastings were the guests of the evening. Mr. T. Wigmore responded very gracefully to the toast "our guests" "while to the colts" brought forth a speech and such from the host Mr. Kennedy. Mr. Robt. English did himself justice in a happy speech in response to the toast of the ladies. The 17th of March was responded to by Mr. Robt. McCamus, by rendering in his usually splendid voice, The Minstrel Boy. A rousing Auld Lang Syne closed the evening enjoyment

THE KEENE COLTS.

The rinks of the Midland Colts Curling Association will doubtless be augmented next year by the Keene Colts, who this season were so successful in their matches that the club post has dedicated the following verses to them:

A blithesome band with brooms in hand,
Gathered round the pebbled tee;
To cast their stones with greatest pains,
To do or die in victory.

But bide awee and hold your glee
Until ye ken about the strife—
Why Colts so gay 'gainst men half grey
Were thus embattling for dear life.

From early days these iron greys
Did play the game of Scotland's glory,
With wooden bone and iron stones—
At least so runs the oft told story.

In foreign town they won renown
And captured silver medals yearly,
The tankard cup they followed up,
And in Orillia won it—nearly.

They took our arm to teach the charm
Unto the Colt, the wee beginner,
To wick and lie, to draw back high,
To raise the guard or chip the winner.

To draw the port, what merry sport,
To guard the counter squarely,
To take the ice, we played it nice,
They said we curled quite fairly.

And for a bout we might go out
To Campbellford's great bonspiel—
To show our pluck and try our luck,
You boys might win, you can't tell.

Of course we're sure there is no truer,
But don't put us 'way under,
The shots we'll spare white playing there,
Will make the whole town wonder.

The game was played, but why upraid
The old folks as conceited!

The Colts won well, but sad to tell,
The seniors were defeated.

They felt quite bad, yes, really sad,
Yet cheerily did greet us,
An oyster spread they, boasting, said,
They'd wager they could beat us.

They chose the night to have us licked,
The ice was truly handsome;
It suited so the Greys you know,
Their reputation's ransom.

The Roberts three were round the tee,
And William blithe and hearty,
They wiped their hones and broomed their stones,
And felt the winning party.

They lost the toss, an ominous loss,
But far from being discouraged
The first stone played was nobly laid,
And Robert English flourished.

Then followed fast the next on last,
Thus changing places neatly,
And all the head played as we led
But two we count so sweetly.

The second head we also led,
And two more shots we captured,
They count one more, we captured four,
The spectators were enraptured.

Now Campbell fumed, and then assumed
That McIntyre was erring
To play so slow, to have more go
And set our shots all stirring.

This rattled Bob and seemed to rob
Him of his steady shooting,
He never drew but played all through,—
The boys went wild with hooting.

McCamus thought to strive he ought,
To mend this reckless playing,
Our guards he raised, his shots we praised—
Thus good for good repaying.

The oysters how, I felt somehow,
Were ours just for the eating;
For never man, with wits to ken,
Were getting such a beating.

For I was on, my word I'll pawn
That Dawson played a wonder;
And J. R. Mac, our vice-skip crack,
He never made a blunder.

And Mick, our skip, their hopes did nip
When they might chance a scorer;
He'll take it out, without a doubt,
And leave them all the sorer.

But do not boast, our worthy host,
Is proud of all his players;
The Old Heads, too, it may be true,
Have named us in their prayers,

They owned them beat, and then did treat
Us to great commendation,
As players grand, to take our stand
And guard their reputation,

That they for years, through smiles and tears,
Had strove so long to cherish;
They now felt sure it must endure—
In such hands could not perish.

A LONDON CASE.

Proving the value of Dodd's Kidney Pills in Kidney Disease.

London March 20—Mr. Charles Dean, stableman at the City Hotel, comes forward to add his quota to the mass of evidence in favor of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Dean states that he had for three years suffered from severe cutting pains in the small of his back. At times they were so great that he had to lie down to get relief.

Several remedies were used without benefit. A doctor prescribed for him, saying his kidneys were affected, but no good resulted.

Finally he took a friend's advice and used Dodd's Kidney Pills. The usual result followed. Three boxes cured him out and out.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Arthur Moon left here on Monday for Rat Portage.

Mr. J. F. Lillicrap left for Vancouver, British Columbia, on Friday.

Mr. R. Q. Dench has returned home from Ottawa.

Miss Lily Wynne and brother, who have been visiting Mrs. J. E. Richardson for the past few days, returned to their home at Peterborough on Tuesday.

Remember R. Graham & Son's grand millinery opening on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

The Keene correspondent made a reference last week to the hockey match at Lakefield. The score stood exactly as your correspondent stated, Lakefield, 5; Keene, 4.

A number of the members of Clementi Lodge No. 313, A.F. & A.M., went to Port Hope on Tuesday to attend the Lodge of Instruction for Ontario District No. 12. Among the members were V W Bro J Hall, W Bro R J Munro, W Bro W H Casement, W Bro J E Kelly, W Bro W M Graham, Bro J W Ridpath, Bro E Thompson, Bro Charles Boyce, Bro R Q Dench, Bro C D Crawford, Bro John Cooper, Bro William Cox, Bro Dr J R Fraser.

The heavy snowfall of Saturday, Sunday and Monday has blocked the roads through the northern parts of Smith and Douro.

Mr. Sharp, of Harvey, delivered a fine lecture on "Mining in British Columbia," in the Presbyterian church, last Thursday evening.

Rev. Mr. Kennedy, of Toronto, had a good attendance at his lecture in the Baptist church on Monday evening, which was greatly appreciated. He took for his subject "A Man's a Man for a' that."

The Children's Aid Society have for adoption three girls (Protestants), two thirteen years of age and one girl of eight; also two girls (Roman Catholics), the one six years of age, the other three.

The Great Fire at the Windsor, N. Y., Was an awful calamity, but cannot be remedied. Now Catarrhozone can remedy and is a positive cure for catarrh and kindred dreaded diseases. This statement is backed up by bushels of testimonials, which we have and can produce. Snuffs, ointments, washes, &c., have been proved useless in giving relief or curing catarrh, bronchitis, irritable throat, nasal and ear passages, but Catarrhozone, the ozonated air cure, does not only give immediate relief, but effects a permanent cure. Why delay? Send at once for sample bottle and inhaler, 10 cents. Outfit $1.00.

HORRORS OF FAMINE.

People Must Live on Garbage or Die From Starvation.

TYPHUS AND SCURVY RAGING.

Volga Provinces Threatened With a Repetition of the Horrors of 1891-92—Red Cross Society Did Good Work in Relieving Suffering, But Its Means Are Exhausted—Cable News.

St. Petersburg, March 24.—The newspapers of the city publish pitiable accounts of the condition of the so-called famine district of Russia, especially Samara, in the eastern part of European Russia. The efforts of the Red Cross Society have staved off the horrors of actual starvation, but the society's funds are almost exhausted, and the dire distress, compelling the consumption of all kinds of garbage, has produced an epidemic of terrible mortality, with typhus, scurvy and other pestilential diseases. The peasants are compelled to sell everything and are living in cold, damp and filthy cabins, weakened by hunger. They fall ready victims to typhus and acute scurvy. Unless the Government gives prompt aid, the Volga provinces appear doomed to a repetition of the horrors of 1891 and 1892.

WILL GIVE BATTLE.

Aguinaldo, the Insurgent Leader in the Philippines, Preparing to Attack the Americans—His Food Supplies.

Manila, March 24.—Fifteen refugees from Dagupan, in the northern part of Luson, arrived here yesterday. They report that the Filipinos in the north are in sympathy with the insurgents, and are cultivating their crops carefully with a view of later furnishing the rebels with food supplies.

The belief that Aguinaldo's forces on Luson Island are preparing for a general attack on the American lines is gaining ground. The concentration of forces at Malabon and the strengthening of the rebel positions around Malolos convince the American officers that Aguinaldo intends to make a decisive effort. The rebels have destroyed a number of railroad bridges.

DEATH RELEASED HIM.

Michael Munkacsy, the Famous Hungarian Painter, Passes Away.

Berlin, March 24.—Michael Munkacsy, the famous Hungarian painter, who has been secluded in a hospital for the insane at Bonn for more than two years, is dead.

Among Munkacsy's most notable pictures were "The Last Days of a Condemned Prisoner," "The Night Prowlers," "The Studio," "The Two Families," "Milton Dictating Paradise Lost to His Daughters," "Christ Before Pilate," "Christ on Calvary" and "Last Moments of Mozar." Another of his best known works is the "Ecce Homo." The painting shows Jesus leaving the Praetorium and being handed over by Pilate to the people.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND DISPUTE.

Great Britain and France Are Now in a Fair Way of Settling It.

London, March 24.—The Standard this morning makes the following announcement: "We understand that the negotiations between Great Britain and France regarding Newfoundland promise a satisfactory settlement, France being willing to surrender her shore rights there if adequately compensated."

An Alaskan Modus Vivendi.

London, March 24.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. James Francis Hogan, anti-Parnellite, asked whether a modus vivendi had been arrived at in the matter of the Alaskan boundary, and whether information had reached the Foreign Office concerning collisions arising out of the dispute. In reply, the Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, the Right Hon. William St. John Broderick, said proposals for a modus vivendi had been made to the United States Government, and they were now under consideration. The Government, Mr. Broderick continued, had no news of a collision.

Some Other Expeditions.

Paris, March 24.—Official advices received here from Biskaro, a garrison town situated 214 miles southeast of Algiers, say the Foureau-Lamy expedition arrived at Agaides months ago, and that therefore the European expedition announced from Algiers on Wednesday as having been attacked by a party of Touaregs recently while the expedition was on its way to Air, in the Sahara, cannot have been the Foureau-Lamy expedition.

Pope Ignores His Doctors.

London, March 24.—According to the Rome correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, the Pope ignores his doctors' prescriptions and follows his usual occupations, though he is so feeble that it is doubtful if he will be able to hold the next consistory. The question of a conclave is the subject of much secret negotiation.

British Officer Murdered.

Calcutta, March 24.—A dispatch from Peshawur, capital of the Punjab division of that name, on the Afghan frontier, says that two Pathans or Afghans have shot and killed Lieut.-Col. E. H. Le Marchant of the Hampshire Regiment. The murderers have been arrested.

Exceptionally Cold in Europe.

London, March 24.—Exceptionally cold weather continues throughout England, varying from 10 to 20 degrees of frost. There have been heavy falls of snow in the north, and several deaths from exposure are reported. Similar weather prevails on the Continent.

War on Sir Thomas Lipton.

London, March 24.—English temperance societies are denouncing Sir Thomas Lipton for having applied for licenses to sell liquor at his tea stores. The Church of England bishops have started a strongly worded protest against Lipton's object.

The Marquis of Salisbury has arrived at Nice.

PATRICK HUGHES IS DEAD.

One of Toronto's Oldest Citizens—Once Represented Lincoln in Parliament.

Toronto, March 24.—Mr. Patrick Hughes died at the Arlington Hotel about 12.30 o'clock this morning from heart failure. His death was unexpected and came as a great shock to his family, all of whom were present.

The deceased at one time represented Lincoln in the Dominion House. He was a Justice of the Peace and director of the Imperial Bank, the Home Loan & Savings Company, the Canada Life Assurance Company, and trustee of the General Hospital. He was also honorary president of the St. Vincent de Paul Society. Mr. Hughes was born in Newry, Ireland, 71 years ago.

NINETEEN DEAD,

40 or More Missing and a Score Injured In Windsor Fire Record.

New York, March 24.—Nineteen dead, some 40 or more missing and about a score confined to their beds from injuries, is the record so far of the Windsor Hotel fire on Friday last. One more body was found yesterday. This brings the list of unknown dead to nine. The fragments were dug up about 20 feet west of the annex on the Forty-seventh street side, in a part of the ruins where no other bodies or bones have been found.

He Gets a Shilling a Day.

Orono, Ont., March 24.—Some weeks ago Rev. W. H. Adams of this town applied to the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain for the award of a pension to Mr. Henry Gauen of Ivanhoe, Ont. who is, so far as known, the only survivor of the crew of H.M.S. Investigator, which sailed from Plymouth on Jan. 20, 1850, in search of Sir John Franklin. Yesterday morning he was in receipt of letters from the Lords of the Admiralty, and from Ottawa, which state that a pension of one shilling a day for life was awarded Mr. Gauen on the first day of the present month, and that the necessary steps will be taken to enable him to draw this pension.

CANADA'S RAILWAYS.

Annual Report of the Department Submitted to Parliament.

THE MILEAGE IS NOW 16,870.

Hon. Mr. Blair's Report Demonstrates the Greatness of Canada as a Railway Country—The Expenditure by Government for This Purpose—A Handsome Revenue From Government Roads.

Ottawa, March 24.—The annual report of the Department of Railways and Canals was laid on the table of the House by Mr. Blair yesterday. When Canadian railways are mentioned the names of the three great trunk lines, the Canadian Pacific, Grand Trunk and Intercolonial, suggest themselves to the mind, but a reference to the official figures shows that there are no less than 146 railways in actual operation. Some of these are amalgamated or leased, but after allowing for these and excluding the Government railways there are 84 controlling companies in active existence. With all these separate interests it might be expected that the people of Canada would enjoy the boon of competitive rates, but the truth of the statement that competing railways do not compete has been learned to the sorrow and financial loss of many. The completed mileage is 16,870 miles, an increase of 183 miles during the year. This total does not include 2,248 miles of sidings. The magnitude of Canadian railway interests is indicated by the following figures: The paid up capital amounted to $941,297,087, an increase of $19,489,805. The gross earnings amounted to $59,715,105, an increase of $7,861,829, and the working expenses aggregated $39,137,549, an increase of $3,968,884, compared with those of the previous year, leaving the net earnings $20,577,556, an increase of $3,892,945. The number of passengers carried was 18,444,049, an increase of 2,272,711, and the freight traffic amounted to 23,785,908 tons, an increase of 3,485,572 tons. The total number of miles run by trains was 50,658,288, an increase of 4,977,489. The accident returns show five passengers killed.

Government Expenditure.

The Government expenditure on railways prior to and since the date of Confederation (1867) amounts on capital account to $123,551,091 (including a payment of $25,000,000 to the Canadian Pacific Railway Co.), and for railway subsidies charged against the consolidated fund the further sum of $17,619,222.11, making a total expenditure of $140,884,731.29. In addition there has been an expenditure since Confederation for working expenses of $73,029,681.74, covering the maintenance and operation of the Government roads, or a grand total of $213,863,368.03, all of which, with the exception of $13,881,460.65, has been expended on railways during the past 31 years. The revenue derived from the Government roads during the same period amounts to $64,510,650.18.

IN THE COMMONS.

The Debate on the Address in Reply Continued.

The debate on the address in reply was dragged out during the whole of the afternoon and evening sessions of the House yesterday, and had it not been for one or two stirring incidents would have been dull and uninteresting. Mr. Craig was exceedingly anxious to obtain fuller information respecting the implied agreement referred to by the Premier as to the plebiscite vote, and accused the Government of having deceived the prohibitionists by withholding information from the public. Mr. Osler found a ready endorsement from the Government benches in his complaint of the practice of devoting so much of the time of the House to personal abuse, and at once proceeded to make a violent attack upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier. During the course of a brief speech Mr. Osler volunteered an assertion which will be a surprise to people in Ontario, that property-owners were desirous of seeing a second Chamber established in the province for their protection against the reckless laws that are being pushed through the Legislature for party purposes. He also censured the Ontario Government, which he characterized as tottering and tumbling to pieces, for having pronounced upon the question of Senate reform. The speakers during yesterday were Mr. Stenson, Mr. Casgrain, Mr. T. D. Craig, Mr. Talbot, Mr. E. B. Osler, Mr. Britton (Kingston), Mr. Moore of Stanstead, and Mr. Davin moved the adjournment of the debate.

In the Senate.

Ottawa, March 24.—In the Senate yesterday afternoon Senator Clemow presented a petition from David Stock of Toronto, asking for leave to introduce a bill granting him a divorce from his wife, May Spaulding, of the same place.

On motion of Hon. David Mills, it was decided that when the Senate adjourns to-day, that it stand adjourned until Wednesday, April 5, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

William Theaker's Body Found.

Hamilton, March 24.—Last evening about 6 o'clock William Allan, a switchman, saw a body floating on the bay, near the Stuart street yard. He notified the police and P. C. Tulke secured it after much effort, he throwing a rope over it. The body proved to be that of William Theaker, who disappeared one afternoon in January. His skates were on his feet and it is supposed he skated into an air hole. The lad was 17 years old, and two of his brothers are conductors on the city street railway. No inquest will be held.

"Honesty is the Best Policy."

Never was a more pointed saying put into print, and yet to be honest only because it is policy is a poor kind of honesty. Better change "policy" to "principle" and the world will like you better. In the medical world there is one medicine honest for principle's sake—and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It is the specific of the age, for all blood troubles. The liver, kidneys and bowels are all toned up by its action as a cleanser and thus good health ensues. It never disappoints.

Rheumatism—"I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla has no equal for rheumatism. It has done me more good than any other medicine I have taken." MRS. PATRICK KENNEY, Brampton, Ont.

Bad Cough—"After my long illness, I was very weak and had a bad cough. I could not eat or sleep. Different remedies did not help me but Hood's Sarsaparilla built me up and I am now able to attend to my work." MINNIE JAQUES, Oshawa, Ont.

Biliousness—"I have been troubled with headache and biliousness and was much run down. Tried Hood's Sarsaparilla and it gave me relief and built me up." A. MORRISON, 89 Defoe Street, Toronto, Ont.

Heart Trouble—"I had heart trouble for a number of years and different medicines failed to benefit me. I tried Hood's Sarsaparilla and three bottles completely and perfectly cured me." MRS. C. A. FLINN, Wallace Bridge, N. S.

A Safeguard—"As I had lost five children with diphtheria I gave my remaining two children Hood's Sarsaparilla as they were subject to throat trouble and were not very strong. They are now healthier and stronger and have not since had a cold." MRS. W. H. FLECKER, Pembroke, Ont.

Varicose Veins—"I have been a great sufferer from varicose veins, which swelled my foot and limb, discharging watery matter. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla faithfully and the sores healed." MRS. A. E. GILSON, Hartland, Vt.

FRIDAY, MARCH 24, 1899.

A PROMISE FULFILLED.

THE promises made by the leader of the Liberal party previous to the general elections of 1896, in respect of the then existing tariff, was to the effect that the tariff should not be suddenly or violently modified to the injury of the industrial interests of the country. The Liberal measure of tariff reform was in the direction of stimulating manufacturing industries by creating conditions, especially in the matter of raw material, that result in so material improvement of manufacturing conditions that never in the history of the country have our manufacturing industries enjoyed so great a degree of prosperity as they have enjoyed since the tariff reform of the Liberal Government had time to produce its legitimate effects. We all know in Peterborough that the most important of our local manufacturing establishments have been running night and day, and the same conditions prevail throughout the country. These circumstances afford proof that the ante-election promises of the Liberals have been fulfilled in both the letter and the spirit.

ANOTHER THREAT.

THE breezy—windy would be a fitter, but, perhaps, less parliamentary term—character of Sir Charles Tupper's speech, seems to infect his admirers. The Brockville Times concludes an article consisting chiefly of gushing adulation of Sir Charles Tupper, as follows:—"Canada may well feel justly proud of the patriotic Conservative Opposition, and we may rest assured that any attempt to waste or mismanage the national resources or interests will be exposed and repulsed by the watchful guardians in Opposition." There is another mild threat of setting on the Senate watch-dog in case the majority of the House adopts progressive action that Conservative obstructionists may construe into "mismanagement of the natural resources." Conservative orators and organs may talk and write flapdoodle like the foregoing to the end of the chapter, but the country has had too big a dose of Conservative government methods to get the taste off its mouth very speedily.

TUPPERIAN VERBOSITY.

The remarkable speech of Sir Charles Tupper during the debate on the address—remarkable for its vigour and length delivered by a man on the edge of eighty years—naturally attracts attention more for its length than its logic. The Mail and Empire cannot say too much of it. The day after its delivery the organ got off rather a good joke, unconscious to its pur-blind partisanship. It scored Mr. Bell, the mover of the address, for the length of his speech which occupied nearly two hours, and in the next sentence almost, Sir Charles was lauded to the skies for the length of his speech, which occupied four hours and a half in its delivery. Some independent comments on this great speech to show the esteem in which its quantity and quality are held may not be uninteresting. The Ottawa Journal (Independent, with Conservative leanings) says that: "Sir Charles Tupper delivered himself for four and a quarter hours in Parliament yesterday, mostly of chestnuts," and the next day it added that: "Sir Charles Tupper's speech the other day contained 25,000 words. Mr. Foster's three-hour effort held about 17,000, or about as many as the gospel of St. John, which revolutionized the world. It will be observed that some of our political leaders talk many dozens of times as much matter every year as there is met merely in St. John, but in the whole New Testament, yet don't revolutionize anything.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

WILL the apologists of the Senate as now constituted kindly indicate how and when that body exercised a protective influence on behalf of the interests of any of the Provinces—Ontario especially?

ANOTHER proof that we are living in the "growing time" under Liberal rule, which was, according to the blue ruin prophecies of Conservative journals to bring about industrial destruction, is the fact that the McClary Manufacturing Company of London have advanced the wages of their stove hands 10 per cent., and that the stove manufacturers of Hamilton will increase the pay of their moulders 10 per cent. on May 1. This looks something like a combine, among the stove builders, to raise wages. Happily this is the only kind of combine that can now flourish in Canada.

LIVE STOCK BREEDERS.

The Government was recently interviewed by an influential deputation of Ontario live stock breeders, who asked for a grant of $2,000 towards extending interprovincial trade in live stock. It was pointed out that in Manitoba and the Northwest and in the Maritime Provinces the Ontario breeders have to contend against United States competitors, and the former are likely to lose those markets unless they are able to get some assistance. One of the objects desired to be carried out is the more extensive circulation of breeders' lists so as to bring buyers and sellers in closer touch with one another. The deputation were promised a careful consideration of their request, and the opportunity was taken by Mr. Dryden to express hearty appreciation of the good work in which the breeders are engaged.

HIAWATHA.

From Our Own Correspondent.

A respectable audience gathered in our neat church edifice to listen to a lecture by Rev. Newton Hill, of Bellaville, and to music by the choir. The subject of the lecture was "The Tongue—Its Use and its Abuse." The lecture was humourous and practical and was highly appreciated. Mr. Hill may be sure of a warm welcome should he favour us with another lecture, which is not improbable. Mr. Hill is an old friend of the missionary and a former pastor of the latter's mother (the late Mrs. Windess) and family, on the Thornbury circuit. The musical part of the exercise was also enjoyable.

Unfortunately Mr. James Dixon, of Keene, and Mr. Johnston Pandash were unable to attend the lecture, having crossed from Gore's Landing to Bewdley and not returning as soon as they expected.

A week ago Friday Mr. Johnston Pandash made a record, on skates, from Hiawatha to Harwood and return. He accomplished the feat in fifteen minutes. The distance is three miles by the ice.

DEATH OF MR. GALBRAITH.

Canadian Representative of the Scottish-American Journal Passes Away.

Toronto, March 24.—The Scottish people of Canada will regret on learning of the death of Mr. Thomas Galbraith. After an illness of about three months he died at his residence in Port Hope, Ont., on Wednesday evening last. Mr. Galbraith had been travelling agent in Canada for The Scottish-American Journal of New York for the past 27 years, and, although in his 77th year, he never lost a week from his work until his late illness. Previous to his appointment on The Scottish-American, Mr. Galbraith published the first newspaper in the oil town of Petrolea, Ont. He leaves a widow and three sons, Principal Galbraith of the School of Practical Science, Thomas Galbraith, commercial editor of The Evening Star, Toronto, and William Galbraith, manager of the Hudson Bay Company at Prince Albert.

TWO RAILWAY PROJECTS.

Important Delegations Wait Upon the Dominion Minister of Railways.

Ottawa, March 24.—The Minister of Railways was yesterday waited on by a delegation respecting two important railway schemes in connection with the development of the Algoma mining district. The delegation represent the Bruce Mines & Algoma Railway, the Worthington & Onaping Railway Company, and the Rock Lake Mining Company, all of Algoma.

The new lines will run through a rich nickel and copper district, and will pass near the McConnell, Sultana, Ines and Trilla Bell copper mines, through the Levack township nickel range to the placer gold mining district of Vermillion Valley.

A HUNDRED REASONS

Can be given why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best and most effectual cure for every form of indigestion.

They are in the tablet form which retains their good qualities indefinitely, while liquid preparations become stale and useless with age.

They are convenient, can be carried in the pocket and taken when needed. They are pleasant to take.

After each meal dissolve one or two of them in the mouth and, mingling with the food, they constitute a perfect digestive, absolutely safe for the most sensitive stomach.

They digest the food before it has time to ferment, thus preventing the formation of gas and keeping the blood pure and free from the poisonous products of fermented, half digested food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the only remedy designed especially for the cure of stomach and nothing else.

One disease, one remedy; the successful physician of to-day is the specialist, the successful medicine is the medicine prepared especially for one disease.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets make the complexion clear by keeping the blood pure.

They increase flesh by digesting flesh-forming foods.

A whole package taken at one time would not hurt one, but would simply be a waste of good material.

Over six thousand men and women in the State of Michigan alone, have been cured of indigestion and dyspepsia by the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per package.

A TRUE STATEMENT

By Foreman White, of the Hamilton Screw Works.

Hamilton, March 6.—If a vote of the people were to be taken to ascertain which is the most popular medicine on the market, Dodd's Kidney Pills would lead by a large majority.

One of the latest cures by that grand remedy is that of Foreman T. H. White, of the Screw Works here, who testifies that he was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills of Kidney Disease of eight years' standing, after other medicines had failed.

Mr. White says: "One box of Dodd's Kidney Pills relieved me, four boxes cured me. Publish this statement if you wish. It is true in every particular."

THE ODORLESS
CREMATORY CLOSET.

I have been appointed Sole Agent for the Odorless Crematory Closet manufactured by the Crematory Closet and General Heating Co., of Hamilton.

This Closet has found a place in many of the best homes in the province, and all who have used it cannot speak too highly of its merits. Medical men speak of it from a sanitary point of view, claiming that, if health is any consideration, no home should be without one. Here are some of the

TESTIMONIALS.

Alliston, March 1st, 1898.

I have had one of your "Crematory Closets in use now for several weeks and am glad to be able to say that I have found it entirely satisfactory in every respect. I have not been able to detect the slightest odor from it at any time and would not be without it. I am sure it must prove a great convenience to people in the country and in towns where water is not obtainable. Yours respectfully,
JAMES CONWAY.

Elkedon, February 25th, 1898.

I have used it for sometime and find it perfectly odorless. It is a long felt want and I believe it will become very popular especially in rural districts, towns and villages where wells are so frequently contaminated by the ordinary closets. I am, yours, etc.
W. H. MORRISON

Medical Superintendent's Office, Sept. 20th, 1897
Asylum for the Insane, Hamilton.

Gentlemen: I had the opportunity of witnessing yesterday the operation of your Odorless Crematory Closet. It has a large accumulation of fecal matter in the pan when the fire was started, and inside of 20 minutes it was all reduced to ashes. There was no odor before or during the operation of consuming the fecal matter, as the ventilation by the flue seems to carry off all odor at once, before it has a chance to vitiate the surrounding atmosphere.
Yours truly, JAMES RUSSELL, M.D.

Blabrook, Sept. 30th, 1897.

Dear Sirs—Having been present at a private test of your new patent closet yesterday afternoon, I beg to express my satisfaction with it in every way. Neither before, during or after the burning out of its contents did I detect the slightest unpleasant odor. I am satisfied it will be a boon to thousands in rural towns, villages and country homes. Yours truly,
M. J. MULLOCK, M.D.

Good Blood!

Your heart beats ovcy one hundred thousand times each day. One hundred thousand supplies of good or bad blood to your brain.

Which is it?

If bad, impure blood, then your brain aches. You are troubled with drowsiness yet cannot sleep. You are as tired in the morning as at night. You have no nerve power. Your food does you but little good.

Stimulants, tonics, headache powders, cannot cure you; but will. It makes the liver, kidneys, skin and bowels perform their proper work. It removes all impurities from the blood. And it makes the blood rich in its life-giving properties.

CECILIA FRANKS' DEATH.

Jury Discharges Franks, But Coroner Says He Does Not Concur.

Gravenhurst, Ont., March 24.—At the inquest held here yesterday over the death of Cecilia Franks, the Indian woman, Chief Francis Decaire was the principal witness. He produced a letter and a document, written by Joseph Franks. One was written March 13, 1894, to a Miss Mary Taber, who then lived with Peter Stock on the reserve. The letter was in Indian, and was addressed to Mary Taber, making an appointment to meet and discuss "the whole matter," and promising to live with her "for sure."

On April 7 another document was written as follows:

"This writing we have made between us have tied with my blood, for there is no one will break this bargain.—Joseph Franks."

"I sign my name to this.—Mary Taber."

A number of witnesses gave evidence, and the accused man was allowed to tell his story. After hearing him the jurors decided that they had "found no cause to account for any other verdict than of one of death from natural causes."

The coroner, on discharging the jury, announced that he did not concur in the verdict.

Several bottles containing medicine taken from the house of Joseph Franks will be analysed, and when the contents are known, if necessary, a post-mortem examination will be made.

Why Did He Shoot Himself?

Glencoe, Ont., March 24.—Mr. John Hurley, a farmer, living near Windsor, who has been visiting his relatives in the vicinity since Friday last, was found dead in his brother's barn two miles from this village Thursday night about 7 o'clock with a bullet hole in his head. At present no reason can be given for the act. An inquest will be held.

In Morocco.

In Morocco the prevailing tone is grayish white, men's clothes and houses, towns, bushes, tall umbelliferæ, nodding like ghosts in autumn—all are white; white sands upon the shore and in the Sahara and over all a white and saddening light, as if the sun was tired of shining down forever on the unchanging life. In no part of Morocco I have visited does the phrase "gorgeous east" have the least meaning, and this is always united by the wandering moderns, who find the country dull and lacking in color compared with

THE LEGISLATURE

The Revenue Bill Was Discussed at Length in Committee.

REPORTED IN AMENDED FORM.

An Amendment Proposed by Mr. Marter Voted Down by a Vote of 45 to 33 —Announcement of the Premier— Mr. Pattullo Still Following Up the Bonus and Exemption Questions.

Toronto, March 24.—Replying to a query from Mr. Whitney, the Premier stated yesterday that he expected the House would close before Easter. He pointed out, however, that there were a number of bills dealing with knotty municipal questions still to be dealt with, and that it would be impossible to give much time to other than the most important proposed measures. The bill to supplement the revenues of the province passed committee, and was reported with amendments. The discussion centered on the clause declaring that banks, electric lighting, street railway, telegraph and telephone companies shall stand in the same position in regard to municipal assessment as on February 1 last. This, the Toronto members argued, would be most unjust to the city, and Mr. Marter moved to strike out the the clause. His motion was defeated.

The Speaker having announced that he had received the official returns of the South Perth election, Mr. Nelson Monteith was introduced to the House by Mr. Whitney (Dundas) and Mr. Eilber (South Huron). The new member took his seat amid Opposition applause.

On motion of the Attorney-General, it was resolved that for the remainder of the session Government business shall have precedence over all other business except private bills, and also that the House sit on Saturday from 11 till 1 o'clock.

Mr. Pattullo moved for an order of the House for a return giving full information respecting bonuses and exemptions to manufacturing industries granted by each municipality in the province since the year 1870. The order was granted.

The Revenue Bills.

The House went into committee, with Mr. Stratton in the chair, on Hon. Mr. Harcourt's bill to supplement the revenues of the province.

In committee Mr. Marter moved the omission of the clause in the revenue bill which stepped in between the local companies and the municipalities where they operate. He objected to the Government putting into a revenue bill a provision affecting the assessment act in Toronto. Such companies ought to pay their taxes to the municipalities where they operate and not to the Ontario Government.

On a division Mr. Marter's motion for the omission of the clause was lost by 45 votes to 33.

There was very little discussion on the remaining clauses of the bill. The committee rose at 9.30 p.m., and reported the bill.

In Supply.

The House went into committee, with Mr. Stratton in the chair, on the estimates.

An item of $105,200 for legislation was, after discussion, carried; also $183,556 for hospitals and charities; and a number of items for maintenance and repair of Government and departmental buildings, and for provincial institutions. The latter included $5,300 for warden's new residence at the Central Prison, Toronto, and fitting up the present residence for school and hospital; $100 for fittings for the museum at the Normal School, Toronto, and $7,500 for a site for a boys' reformatory at Oxford, the present building to be used as an asylum for chronic and harmless insane.

ASSEMBLY NOTES.

An anti-Sunday car petition is in from Caledonia.

Mr. Stratton has withdrawn his bicycle bill, but will bring the matter up again next session.

A deputation urging a grant for the Central Counties Railway waited upon the Government yesterday.

The report of the factory inspectors states that during the year there were very few accidents in factories in the province, and that the rules laid down by the department are well observed.

The twenty-ninth annual report of the provincial inspector upon the hospitals is ready for distribution. Number of patients treated 21,838, an increase of 2,211 over any previous year. Deaths 1,129, about five per cent. of the patients treated.

Total receipts of Ontario agricultural societies last year were $411,296. Expenditure, $309,394. Assets reach $150,167. Last year $172,880 was given in prizes.

Oakville Town Council has sent $10 to the Provincial Treasurer toward the Gordon memorial college in London. The money has been sent to the Lord Mayor of London.

Many retail merchants were present before the municipal committee yesterday in connection with Mr. German's bill, which proposes to assess the annual sales of the merchant, instead of the stock, as at present, so that the more money the merchant makes the more he is taxed. Under the bill this system of taxation would not be compulsory on the municipalities, but would be left to the option of the various councils. There was considerable discussion on the bill, which eventually passed through the committee on a vote of 19 to 1.

In the municipal committee yesterday there was considerable discussion on Mr. Conmee's bill, which proposes that municipalities which intend to go into the electric lighting business shall first make an offer to any existing private company for its plant, and that, in case the parties cannot agree, the price should be fixed by arbitration. Mr. Conmee stated that, as the law stands at present, it protects waterworks and gasworks, their plants being taken at a price fixed by arbitration. It was simply asked that this provision be extended to electric light companies, not to interfere with existing contracts, but simply with those contracts which have come to an end.

Mr. Pardee's bill to amend the Landlord and Tenant Act provides for arbitration to fix compensation paid by lessee for breach of conditions of lease; provides for relief against forfeiture of lease for breach of covenant not to assign or sublet in any case where it is found that the breach has done no injury and has happened unintentionally or inadvertently or where the breach is reducible to a money compensation, and where offer to pay such compensation has been made before the action is brought.

Mr. German has introduced a bill to amend the Liquor License Act by excepting bona fide travellers and persons lodging in the place from the operation of the section which requires that no liquor should be sold or disposed of on licensed premises between 7 o'clock Saturday night and 6 o'clock Monday morning, and makes the same exceptions in the case of prohibited hours of other days.

Hon. Mr. Gibson has introduced a bill respecting the boundary lines between the provinces of Ontario and Manitoba.

VALUABLE

Residential Properties FOR SALE

In Peterborough.

Having decided to remove to Manitoba in the spring, I have decided to sell the following valuable properties at prices that should secure ready purchasers:

Parcel No. 1. A Brick Terrace of four houses, adjoining the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets, two storys, well built with good stone cellars full size of buildings. Each residence contains six rooms with summer kitchen. This property has always been continuously rented and pays an excellent rate of interest on the investment, and it is practically a new property, being only erected a few years, and in good condition.

Parcel No. 2. Brick residence corner of Reid and Simcoe. Containing ten rooms. House in good condition with all modern improvements, bath, closets, heated with furnace and lighted with electricity.

Parcel No. 3. Brick dwelling corner Aberdeen and Benson streets, facing Dixon Park, containing seven rooms with summer kitchen. This property was erected last season for myself and occupied by myself. Has hard and soft water in kitchen and is a very comfortable residence. This lot is 165 feet square.

Parcel No. 4. Brick residence, corner Wellesley and Benson streets. Two storys, seven rooms with kitchen, pleasantly situated adjoining Dixon Park. Hard and soft water in kitchen. This lot is also 165 feet square and is a similar building to parcel No. 3.

Parties desiring a good paying investment or some will find any of these desirable purchases.

Particulars and terms, which are reasonable, made known on application to the undersigned.

The Edison Vitascope Entertainment.

The Edison Vitascope moving pictures in the Sons of England hall were the attraction that filled that spacious room to the doors last night. Though the pictures were primarily supposed to be illustrative of military operations in the Spanish-American war, yet many other views were shown. Scenes showing the Winnipeg fire department en route to a blaze, and a threshing scene on a prairie farm were very realistic, as were also pictures representing the Jubilee procession, Barnum & Bailey's circus parade, a number of trains in motion, drill of Canadian Dragoons, and their return to quarters, besids many others. During the evening a number of selections were given on a superior phonograph. The Sons of England band was present and played several pieces in an inspiriting manner. The Vitascope pictures will be repeated to-night.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

Nuptials of Mr. F. L. Aunger, and Miss Minnie Mason.

Mr. F. L. Aunger, son of Mr. J. L. Aunger, of Blairton, and Miss Minnie Mason, of Springbrook, were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's parents, on the evening of the 15th inst., by the Rev. Mr. McCullough, Methodist minister, of Marmora.

The bride was richly attired in a cream lustre, trimmed with cream lace and ribbon, and wore orange blossoms in her hair. She was led to the parlour, where the ceremony was performed, by her father.

The bridesmaid was Miss Lilian Aunger, youngest sister of the groom. She wore a dress of cream cashmere beautifully trimmed with cream lace and ribbon, and her head was adorned with a wreath of white blossoms. Mr. Sidney Mason, brother of the bride, was the groom's best man.

Soon after the ceremony which took place at 6.30 o'clock, the friends, 50 in number, repaired to the dining-room where they partook of a most elaborate and sumptuous supper. Gifts to the bride were numerous and costly. While the newly-married couple were entering the carriage for the station, to take the 8.30 train at Springbrook, they were made to walk on flowers, and showers of rice were poured on them. After spending a short time on their wedding trip to Niagara Falls and thence to New York, they will take up their residence in Blairton.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. Wm. Adams, in Omemee Last Week.

Herald.

It is with regret we are called upon to chronicle the death of another highly respected citizen, in the person of Mrs. Wm. Adams, formerly Miss Emily B. Whiting, which took place at her late residence, Walnut St., Omemee, on Thursday last, at the age of 77 years. Deceased lady was born in the State of Maine, and was married to Mr. Benj. Hamlyn some years later. To this union three children were born, two of whom survive her, viz: Messrs Preston of Colorado, and Albert, engineer, of Lindsay, Ont. Mr. Hamlyn died about 40 years ago, and two years later, Mrs. Hamlyn was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Adams at North Bridgetown, Me., and soon after they moved to Omemee. Two children were born to them, viz:—Mrs. W. H. Bate, Carberry, Man., and Mrs. Thos. Henderson, Omemee. The deceased lady was a member of the Methodist church since she was a young girl and has always been kind and courteous to all with whom she came in contact. In the death of Mrs. Adams Omemee loses one of her best citizens, and one who did her duty well. Her bereaved husband, sons and daughters have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in their great loss.

The funeral to the Emily cemetery on Saturday was largely attended, notwithstanding the very inclement weather, showing the great respect in which the deceased lady was held. Rev. E. Roberts conducted the impressive funeral service.

WHAT CAUGHT HAY.

He Expected to Make Money by Extracting Arsenic from Hastings Ore.

Toronto Star.

In the County Court this afternoon, Alexander Elliott of Peterborough, sued John B. Hay, a cattleman, for $300 on a note. Hay says that the money was advanced on an account with the Toronto Smelting Company, in which they were both interested, and for which he was not personally liable. Mr. Hay said that in taking stock in the company himself he had been told by one of the parties interested that they could all make fortunes by extracting arsenic by a new process from North Hastings ores.

SIGNS OF SPRING AND EASTER.

Some Surprising Spring Specialties for Men, Young Men and Boys at H. LeBrun & Co.'s.

The approach of Spring and Easter bring into play thoughts of new clothing. The early spring holidays, beginning with Good Friday, remind gentlemen that their shabby winter attire must be changed for new spring styles. The question is—"Where to get suited?" Visit Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co., and you are at headquarters, where you have your pick from a heaping stock, and where price and style are of equal importance. Men's and young men's nobby spring overcoats, made to order on the premises, are awaiting your inspection, with a $13 price ticket, the best overcoat value in town. Stylish Suits made to order in faultless fashion from $12 to $18. These prices should come home to you. But LeBrun and Co's "Bargain Counter" runs all round the store. Low prices and good qualities are not neglected in ready-made clothing, in which you are certain of finding what you want at a lower price than similiar clothing is sold elsewhere. New Spring Tweed Suits $4, $5 and $6, well worth your critical eyes. New Spring Overcoat at $5, $6, $7 and $8, are rare makes. If they do not look the same at home as they did in the store, return them. Spring Suits for boys, bright new suits that wear long, fit neat, and look better than the general run. Mothers when out shopping should call in and see these nobby little rigs for boys in neat patterns from $1 up. We give Trading Stamps equal to five per cent. on all purchases, to encourage the cash system.—H. LeBrun & Co.

OUR COLUMN OF SPORTS.

SOME TIMELY REMARKS ON SEASONABLE GAMES.

What is Going on in Local and Outside Hockey Arenas—Notes From the Curling Ice.

HOCKEY.

The Invincibles went down to Norwood last night, but the husky braves of that town were too much for them, and administered defeat to the tune of three goals to one. The local team was composed of: Goal, Comstock; point, McCabe; cover point, Glover; forwards, King, Watt, Whitcroft and Morgan. The game was not as fast as that played in Campbellford the night before, but the boys had a good time. They go down to Millbrook to-night.

CURLING.

The third, and final, contest in the Lindsay-Peterborough Cup Competition is being played off. Last night three rinks of Thistles went to Lindsay, and were defeated by 8 shots. To-day three rinks from Lindsay are playing here against the Granites, and it rests with the latter club to make up the deficiency. The scores made in Lindsay last night were as follows:

Lindsay.		Peterborough.
RINK NO. 1.

Majority for Lindsay, 8 shots.

BASKET BALL.

In the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last night a game was played between the senior basket ball team and the intermediates. Rose Dobbin captained the intermediates and Rollie Irwin the senior team. The result of the game was 8—5 in favour of the intermediates.

LACROSSE.

The Peterboroughs reorganize on Tuesday evening.

Uxbridge Journal:—A curios feature of the contest for offices in the C. L. A., and which has probably not been generally noticed, is that all the aspirants, with one exception, reside along the line (not a very long line either) of the Midland division of the G. T. R. We have Hall, at Markham, Stark at Stouffville, McMillan at Beaverton, Kean at Orillia and King at Peterborough. Looks like "hog" up our way.

SIDEPATHS BILL WITHDRAWN.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., has withdrawn the cycling sidepaths bill introduced in the Ontario Legislature at the instance of several officers of the Toronto district of the C. W. A. Mr. Stratton is of opinion that there will not be sufficient opportunity to give the measure the consideration it deserves, and he was probably also influenced by the knowledge that, though the bill was ostensibly in the interests of users of the bicycle, there is serious difference of opinion among wheelmen as to the policy of such a measure and its effect on the good roads movement fostered by the Canadian Wheelmen's Association.

TECUMSEH-ELMS' STRONG TEAM.

The cat is at last out of the bag. The festive feline was let loose last night at the Tecumseh Elms' meeting by a prominent member of the club, who imparted the fact to the Globe that Westwick, Pat Murphy, McGibney, and most probably two other easterners would play with the Island braves this year. It was reported that these players would be found wearing Toronto uniforms this summer, but in view of the fact that the T. L. C. intend putting a purely local team in the field, the Islanders were able to secure these fine exponents of the national game without any trouble. The Tecumseh-Elms' will arrange a number of exhibition games with the crack eastern teams for the Island, and as Harvey, Gorman, Bert Davis, "Bill" Hartley and Grimes, as well as the following members of last year's twelve will be available, the team will be very strong:—Lennox, Soule, Angus, Wilkinson, Elwell, Davis, Shoemaker, Pool and others.

"THE BLACK DOUGLAS."

This is the title of a novel by S. R. Crockett, published by G. N. Morang & Co., Toronto. In typography, make-up and illustrations it is characteristic of the excellent book work of this enterprising publishing company. The contents of the book are also characteristic of the entertaining style of Crockett. The age of the story is in the time of the sixth Earl of Douglas, whose great power and influence were feared by the advisers of the infant King James II. of Scotland. The story deals in the first part with the plot of Sir William Creighton, Chancellor of Scotland, and De Retz, the French ambassador, to destroy Douglas, or De Retz using his unpanny power over the siren-like Sybilla de Thouars to compel her to win the love of the Douglas and entice him with his brother to Edinburgh, where both were cruelly beheaded. The author paints with clever hand these dramatic scenes—the rising of the Douglas clan, the abduction of the sister of the dead Douglas and Maud Lindsay to France where they are kept in the home of De Retz; the quest for the stolen maidens through France; the ghastly doings of De Retz, who, in a compact with the devil, sacrifices children on his diabolical altars to regain his youth, the selection of the Scottish maidens as his victims, the repentance of of Sybilla and the rescue of the imprisoned damsels from the unholy altar on which they were bound, ready for sacrifice—all these invest the story with thrilling interest. In its absorbing interest "The Black Douglas" is a great temptation to read it at a sitting. The edition to hand is brightened with eight full-page illustrations. Toronto: Morang & Co., price 75 cents. At the Peterborough Bookstore.

BICYCLE COMBINE.

With a Capital of $3,000,000—R. M. Jaffray, the Promoter, in the City.

(The Globe.)

R. M. Jaffray, formerly publisher of The Chicago Cycle Age and now President of The Referee Publishing Company, of London, England, which issues The Cycle Referee, is at the Queen's. He is the originator of the scheme to consolidate the Canadian bicycle manufacturing concerns, and he states that the business of amalgamation is now nearly completed. All the larger bicycle companies, he states, have joined the combination, and in a week or so application will be made to the Dominion Government for letters of incorporation. The concern will be known as the Canadian Bicycle Company, Limited, with a total capital stock of $3,000,000, in one hundred dollar shares. Half of the stock will be preferred and half common stock. The plants and business of the companies now doing business will be purchased with stock, and the working capital will be supplied by the sale of the balance of the stock, all of which, Mr. Jaffray says, has been underwritten.

He states also that the object of the combine is not to raise the price of wheels, but to manufacture a line of bicycles that can compete with the cheap grades now imported from the States. Heretofore, he says, Canadian manufacturers have devoted themselves almost entirely to high grade wheels and left the market for cheap lines to the Americans. He says that more bicycles are imported than are manufactured in Canada, and the imported wheels are all of the cheaper grades. The greater portion of the bicycle works will be removed to Toronto after consolidation is obtained.

Lumbago Cured in Hamilton.

Mr. Ed. Swan, merchant, 38 Merrick street, Hamilton, writes: I have found Griffith's Menthol Liniment to be a cure for Lumbago. Have been troubled with this disease for four years. Some months ago I used this remedy, and it gave almost instant relief at the time, and since there has been no recurrence of my former trouble. 25 cents by Ormond & Walsh, Druggists, Peterborough.

FIGHTING THE LICENSE LAW.

The License Holders' Association Will Petition the Legislature.

Mr. E. Dickie, Secretary of the License-holders' Protective Association, has sent to the trade throughout the Province, a circular marked private, in which he says:

"I enclose you forms of petition protesting against the proposed increase in license fees and asking for concessions. Will you have the same signed by the officers and Executive of your Association, and as many others as possible, and forward to your member by the first possible mail. Do not delay in this matter. Time is precious. We cannot expect if license fees are increased in cities that towns, villages and townships will be exempt for any length of time. We are asking for certain concessions for the entire trade. Follow up the petition by individual letters, and bring all the pressure you possibly can upon your representative. Let me know quickly if you will take action, and also the day you forward petition."

Why do you drink Tea?

Merely because you have become accustomed to drinking some discolored water with a bitter taste, or do you drink it for its dainty flavor, fragrant aroma, and the delightfully refreshing sensation it produces? If you relish a cup of really high grade tea, try one package of Ram Lal's Pure Indian Tea. It costs more than much that is offered, but its worth more. It will brew more liquor and the quality will be better.

Ram Lal's Tea

is for those who want good tea. It is not expensive because its great strength necessitates the use of less weight.

It comes only in sealed packages.

PUBLIC CONFIDENCE.

The individual who fulfils his promises gains public confidence, and thus holds one of the strongest levers to success. The same is true of institutions, and in this connection the SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA, has a record in which it can take a pardonable pride.

Instead of over-estimating the profits on its investment policies, the management of the Company has wisely based the calculations on the proper earning power of money, having due regard to contingencies that are bound to arise. As a result of this the holders of matured Endowment policies are from time to time being agreeably surprised, and not disappointed, in the results of their policies.

The following letter speaks for itself and bears the eloquent and substantial evidence of the fact that the Sun Life of Canada keeps faith with its policy holders:

To the District Manager:—

DEAR SIR,—I beg to acknowledge with thanks receipt of cheque for twelve hundred and sixty-four and 95/100 dollars ($1264 95) from The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada to cover Policy No. 15002 on my own life.

This amount represents a return of all premiums which I have paid to the Company and three hundred and thirty-four and 80/100 dollars ($334 80) besides, or about 4½ per cent. compound interest on my investment. In addition to this the Company has carried my risk for thirteen years for nothing, all of which is very satisfactory.

HIDDEN FOES.

Spanish bushwhackers, in the Cuban war, covered themselves with palmetto leaves, and, so disguised, lurked among the bushes undetected by the American soldiers. Diseases as deadly as the bullet from the bushwhacker's rifle, often lurk behind familiar disguises. A "common cold" such as you have "thrown off" a score of times, may now turn out to be the uncommon cold which you cannot throw off. Then you have taken the first steps in a path that ends in consumption.

The great protection against that hidden foe, disease, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It protects the vulnerable points, the stomach, lungs, liver and blood. When the blood is in a healthy condition, disease germs cannot find any permanent lodgement. When the stomach is sound and strong the life is sound and strong also. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is not only the best medicine for impure blood, weak nerves, weak lungs and weak stomach, but is a strictly temperance preparation. No alcohol or whisky in it. No syrup or sugar either. Still it retains its curative powers perfectly in any climate. Dr. Pierce invites you to counsel with him by letter free of all cost. He has treated and cured thousands of cases, many of them doubtless just like yours. It costs you nothing to lay your case before him. Write to-day. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. Charles A. Moore, of Fivemile, Mason Co., W. Va., writes: "I had been afflicted with lung trouble for two years. I tried all the surrounding physicians but they did me no good. After a long period I bought your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and after taking four bottles I was entirely cured. I now feel stronger than I ever did."

Constipation, the cause of so many diseases, is quickly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They regulate and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels. Accept no substitute.

A DEADLY QUOTATION

Sir Charles Tupper in 1888 Confutes the Baronet of To-Day.

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT

Quotes Sir Charles Sane and Responsible in 1888 Against Sir Charles Desperate and Out of Office in 1899—A Very Great Contrast in His Utterances Then and Now—Other Speakers.

Ottawa, March 23.—Another day has been devoted to the discussion of the address in reply to the speech from the throne. Sir Richard Cartwright resumed the debate yesterday, devoting the whole of his address to the discussion of the proceedings of the joint high commission and the refutation of the assertions and charges made by Hon. Mr. Foster and Sir Charles Tupper. From the hon. leader of the Opposition desperate and out of office, he appealed to the same hon. gentleman sane and responsible for the conduct of Canadian affairs, and, with great effect, adopted in justification of the Government's present attitude the arguments presented by Sir Charles Tupper in 1888, when recommending the House to adopt the treaty he had negotiated with the United States. Sir Richard, while insisting upon the value of the United States market to Canada if access to it could be obtained on fair and reasonable terms, was emphatic in the declaration that any proposals for admission to that market which were inconsistent with the honor and dignity of Canada would not be entertained. Replying to the charges respecting the readiness of the Canadian commissioners to make any concession for the sake of some sort of settlement with the United States, Sir Richard said the best answer to that accusation is to be found in the fact that the Canadian commissioners during all that time made no concession whatever, and that when the demand was made by the United States which they thought could not be yielded consistently with the honor of Canada or of England, they at once refused to accede to that demand. (Cheers.)

Hon. N. Clarke Wallace charged that the Government had been neglectful of the interests of Canada in consenting to an adjournment of the commission, thereby tying its hands so far as legislation respecting nickel, lumber and pulp were concerned, and asserted that the lumber industry was not a source of wealth other than to a few lumbermen. Mr. Casey described the three Opposition speakers who preceded him as the "mortar," the "sneerer" and the "snarler." Mr. George Taylor made a long speech in arraignment of the Government, during the course of which Sir Wilfrid Laurier gave an emphatic denial to the statement that the Government had held a Cabinet meeting in New York on Sunday during the progress of the Washington negotiations. Mr. Lemieux of Gaspe spoke in English, and Mr. Monk, who followed, was compelled by the Deputy Speaker, after a rather sharp interchange of words, to retract his assertion that the hon. member for Gaspe had appealed to racial and religious prejudices in the Bagot election.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved that the following members should compose the special committee to select the standing committees of the House: Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Richard Cartwright, Sir Louis Davies, Mr. Casgrain and Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Mr. Stenson moved the adjournment of the debate and the House rose at 11.30 p.m.

Senator's Seat in Danger.

Ottawa, March 23.—In the Senate yesterday Hon. David Mills, Minister of Justice, announced that it was his intention to introduce in the Senate this session a good deal of legislation which would be important, but not of a contentious character, and that he hoped to give notice of some of it before Easter recess.

Senator Boulton then continued the debate on the address, and was followed by Hon. R. W. Scott, who spoke up to 6 o'clock, when the Senate adjourned.

After recess the debate was continued by Senators Perley, MacDonald (Victoria), Dever and Bernier, after which the address was carried.

The Speaker read a certificate signed by the clerk of the Senate declaring that Senator John Sutherland of Winnipeg had absented himself from the sittings of the Senate for two consecutive sessions of Parliament. The communication was referred to the committee on rules and proceedings of the Senate and the privileges of Parliament, and the committee is called to meet and consider the communication this morning.

The Senate adjourned at 10.30 o'clock.

U. S. TROOPS FOR KLONDIKE.

Seward, Tetling and Siahna to Be Occupied by Them.

Washington, March 23.—Captain Abercrombie and party left last night for the west, where they will explore the Copper River country in Alaska. The War Department yesterday named three stations on the Copper River all-American route to the Klondike country in Alaska. The stations are Seward, Tetling and Slahpa. These stations will be occupied by detachments of U.S. troops under similar duty to that performed by the Canadian Mounted Police. The Postoffice Department has been making some inquiries regarding the Copper River route and will endeavor to make contracts for carrying the mails over it.

MR. VIRGIL'S BIG NUGGET.

Weighed Ninety-eight Pounds and Was Worth More Than $11,000.

A single chunk of gold weighing 98 pounds and worth $11,750! This was the size and value of the nugget that E. H. Virgil of East Portland found in French Gulch, near Gold Hill, Columbia county, Cal., in 1857.

"I tell you," remarked Mr. Virgil as his eyes lighted up with the recollection of that famous find, "that was the event of a lifetime and caused much excitement all over the country. Up to that time it was the largest nugget that had ever been uncovered in California. It was a mere accident, and some one else might have been the lucky one.

"I had a partner named West, and we had been mining at French Gulch, but were not doing much, and we decided to go over to the Fraser river, and we sold out the very claim where I afterward found the big chunk of gold. Well, I went up north, but that did not pan out very well, and I decided to return. West and I actually went back and bought back our old claim. We went to work again on the old ground. One day I was working away with my pick, taking out pieces of dull red stone that was so light and porous that it would float in water. While I was digging in the stuff my pick struck something hard. I worked away and finally the lump was exposed. My pick had creased one side, exposing the color of gold. I could not believe my eyes. I took off my hat and threw it on the ground and then tried to lift the chunk, but it was too heavy. It seemed fast to the earth. I cut my finger severely. I called to West, and as he came I thought I could hang my coat on his eyes. Miners gathered from all directions.

"It was a custom for a miner when he found a big nugget to sit down on it and with a dish of beans wait till he could make a safe disposition of it. In this case we formed a procession and took the chunk to the express office, where the amazement of the officials was great indeed. The chunk of gold had some quartz in it, but I received $11,750 for it. I suppose it must have been thrown where I found it from some distance. I and others had passed over the place many times, but never dreamed that it was underneath. We sold out the claim, but it never paid very much afterward."—Portland Oregonian.

A Way to Wealth.

Upon one occasion the late Earl Poulett, who, by the way, was a great spendthrift, was paying his physician, and, on handing the medical gentleman 400 guineas in gold, asked him if he knew how to grow rich. The doctor replied in the negative, and the earl advised him never to pay an account by check, but always in coin, "for," he added, "the more you look at your money the less inclined you will be to part with it."

Took Profits.

"There goes a man who made $200,000 out of a simple little invention."

"What did he invent?"

"He didn't invent anything. He was the promoter."

WORD FROM THE GASPESIA.

A Letter From the Master of the Vessel to Capt. Yates.

Montreal, March 23.—Captain Yates, representing the Canadian Steamship Company, has returned from the lower provinces and gives some information re the ice-bound steamer Gaspesia.

Here is an exact copy of the message which the master of the steamer sent to Captain Yates:

"We are all well aboard. Ship in good condition. Nothing the matter. We have provisions on board for 30 days, and we have 350 tons of coal. The ice is from four to six feet thick about the ship. Open water not far distant from where we lie. I think that if the Stanley could come to our assistance and cut us clear from where we are, we could get out without much trouble. (Signed), McKinnon, Master."

This statement was delivered to Captain Yates just 18 days ago.

DRIVING ROD BROKE.

Train Running 60 Miles an Hour Leaves the Track.

Akron, Ohio, March 23.—The Erie Limited, while running 60 miles an hour early yesterday, jumped the track at Rittman, ten miles west of here. Engineer Logan was killed, and Fireman Barney Ward was dangerously injured. Five coaches, including two sleepers, were thrown into the ditch, the engine and three cars being demolished. The following passengers were injured: Frank C. Wilson, Cincinnati, leg broken and badly bruised on body; H. Little, caught under car, internally injured. Many others were slightly hurt. The wreck was caused by the breaking of a driving rod on the engine.

The C.P.R. in the Pacific.

Vancouver, B.C., March 23.—Mr. William Whyte, manager of the C.P.R. lins west of Fort William, in an interview, said: "The scheme of changing the Empress steamships over to the Australian route, and putting on modern big steamships for the Oriental run has been in consideration for some time. Some such arrangement will be made eventually. The Australian steamship contract runs out next year."

The foregoing has reference to the steamship competition in the Orient put up by the Great Northern Railway, from Tacoma to China and Japan.

Energy Easily Earned.

DR. WARD'S BLOOD & NERVE PILLS

Wasted energy must be made up or the body will weaken and perhaps perish.

For a long time prior to taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills my nerve system was greatly deranged and I was terribly nervous, so much so that in my business (Linesman of the Kingston Electric Light Co.,) my extreme nervousness naturally made the following of my business extremely hazardous. Before taking Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills my kidneys had been affected for some time. I had constant soreness and stiffness across my loins and the small of my back. My appetite was variable and very poor. I also suffered greatly with constant headaches. I am glad to be able to inform you that Dr. Ward's Pills completely cured me of all the above ailments and made me a well man. I have found no medicine like Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills, although I have tried many different kinds. They acted quickly and effectually on my nerve system, making my nerves strong and removing all indications of nervousness. These valuable pills also removed all kidney and back trouble and restored to me a healthy vigorous appetite. I have had no headache since five months ago and feel justified in saying that they are a wonderful remedy. They not only removed nervousness, but gave me healthy kidneys, removed all soreness and stiffness from my back and loins, cured me of headache and gave me a good appetite, consequently I am highly pleased. I know of no medicine that equals Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills for nervousness, chronic headache, sore kidneys and back and loss of appetite. Yours truly, John McCutcheon, 522 Princess St., Kingston, Ont.

A LONDON CASE.

Proving the value of Dodd's Kidney Pills in Kidney Disease.

London March 20—Mr. Charles Dean, stableman at the City Hotel, comes forward to add his quota to the mass of evidence in favor of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Dean states that he had for three years suffered from severe cutting pains in the small of his back. At times they were so great that he had to lie down to get relief.

Several remedies were used without benefit. A doctor prescribed for him, saying his kidneys were affected, but no good resulted.

Finally he took a friend's advice and used Dodd's Kidney Pills. The usual result followed. Three boxes cured him out and out.

AN ARAB SLAVE HUNT

DESCRIPTION OF A RAID ON AN AFRICAN VILLAGE.

The Surprise, the Flight of the Braves and the Capture of the Women and Children—The Ransom, and How It Was Extorted and Paid.

Perhaps the simplest method of describing the raiding system as practiced by the Arab bands in the forest region between the Aruimi and the Kongo would be in the form of a brief narrative of events based upon personal observation. The caravan whose adventures we are about to follow was under the command of Osmani, a middle aged Arab who had penetrated the continent from Zanzibar more than 20 years before. For two weary weeks the wretched party had traveled through an uninhabited portion of the great forest, trudging each day through densely matted undergrowth beneath the impenetrable canopy of primeval trees, and sleeping each night, hungry and weary, upon the sodden ground in the vitiated atmosphere of decaying vegetation.

One afternoon, when the party was almost in a condition of despair, one of the Manyema followers sustained a deep flesh wound from a hard wood spear which had been artfully concealed in the bushes beside a well worn elephant track as a trap, for the natives of the forest are well skilled in woodcraft. Upon discovering this evidence of man's existence in the vicinity the caravan halted, while scouts were sent to survey the surrounding country. In a short time it was reported that within an hour's march a large native village had been sighted. Osmani's instructions were brief. "Two hours before the dawn we march upon that village. Tonight no fires, no noise, Sikia!"

The night air grew gradually colder. A fierce storm swept over the forest, and the rain, filtering through the thick foliage overhead, trickled in continuous streams upon the naked bodies of the raiders. It was still dark and raining when the hoarse whisper, "Tendele—tendele upesi" (March—march quickly) passed from one to another. The party set forth in single file. No word was spoken, and the only sound that betokened their progress was a slight swishing of leaves and the muffled tread of naked feet upon the spongy ground. Upon nearing the village clearing each man buckled his ammunition belt more tightly around his waist and wound a strip of dirty white cotton cloth about his head to serve as a distinguishing mark in the coming attack upon the naked natives.

With a shrill "Hae yah!" the raiders fired their first volley directly toward the huts where the natives were sleeping. "'Llah—la—ihu!" roared the Manyema as they crashed through the bushes into the midst of a multitude of panic stricken savages, chasing the black figures hither and thither. Women and children shrieked, fowls flew cackling toward the woods, men's deep voices shouted incoherently, but the loud rifle reports and shouts of the relentless Manyema drowned all other sounds. Soon the village became enveloped in a dense white fog of sulphurous smoke and mist, in the obscurity of which the raiders' guns flashed forth tongues of fire.

Gradually the tumult ceased. The cool morning breeze dispelled the heavy cloud of mist and smoke, revealing the victorious raiders swaggering through the deserted village, driving scores of miserable women and children secured together in couples by means of lashings around the wrists. Soon the early morning sun shone in all its radiance, its bright beams glinting through the distant trees in sad contrast to the desolation of dead bodies and smoldering huts. By noon the raiders had established themselves in the former homes of the natives, a rough zeriba of brushwood was formed around the outside to serve as a precaution against any sudden attack, and the trembling captives were placed in the center under a watchful guard.

A few days after the attack upon the village the Arab chief Osmani gave instructions for two of the oldest of the captive women to be liberated. Two feeble creatures were brought forth and stood in abject terror before the marauding chief. "Go to your people who are hiding in the forest," said the Arab. "Tell them their women are alive, and tell them that we will set them free when they bring us elephant tusks. For each tusk of an elephant we will give back one woman. If within five days from now they do not come to us with ivory, we will take the women with us to another country and sell them to people who will kill and eat them. Go! Tell our words truly!" When the poor women realised they were free to depart, they darted forward with extraordinary agility into the woods.

On the morning of the fifth day the Arab camp was hailed by a voice from the forest, "Is it true that our women are still alive?" "It is true. It is indeed true," replied a Manyema in the native dialect. "I bring tusks of elephants. But first let me hear their voices that I may know you speak truly." The women were soon produced and were made to shout a reply to the native chief, who was all this time concealed from sight among the trees. After much delay, during which the Manyema in turns coaxed and threatened the timid and suspicious native, the young chief at length mustered sufficient courage to step forth. Depositing his burden of ivory in the open, he glanced meaningly in the direction of the Arab's camp. Instantly several women were liberated, and they rushed to the woods. In this fashion, during several subsequent days, the Arab chief was gradually relieved of his prisoners, and in their place he became enriched by a substantial stock of ivory.—Cassell's Magazine.

WRITES A LETTER ON DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Sufferers are at liberty to correspond with the above address and will obtain full particulars regarding the great cure.

He says: My wife was most terribly afflicted with protruding piles, and contemplated a surgical operation. A friend of ours recommended the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a complete cure. We were so pleased with the ointment that I tried it myself, as I have been troubled with an unsightly skin affliction which covered the lower part of my face.

For 25 years I suffered untold agony, and was treated by the best medical skill in the United States. I consider Dr. Chase's Ointment worth its weight in gold for piles and skin disease.

W TRUE

THEY WENT TO THE CIRCUS.

But as General Lee Took Them It Was All Right.

General Robert E. Lee, the famous Confederate commander, was as kind hearted and simple mannered as he was brave and able. While president of Washington and Lee university, Virginia, in the latter years of his life, he was greatly beloved by the children, whom he loved in return. It was his delight to give the little ones pleasure. Professor Nelson's two little girls were great favorites. The general would turn and ride with them when they met, encourage them to talk of their dolls and playthings and then escort them home with as much gallantry as if they were young ladies. He would alight and, helping them down from the gentle old horse they both rode, he would part with a kiss from each.

Once the strict Presbyterian rule of the Nelson household was rudely shocked by the general. A circus was coming to town and as Professor and Mrs. Nelson left for a visit of several days they charged the children on no account to go. So the two little girls hung over the fence, listened to the music and envied the children that passed on their way to that tented paradise, but they never once hoped to go. Presently a larger crowd of children than ever came along and in their midst was General Lee keenly enjoying the happiness of his little proteges. The little Nelson girls joined the party without a word when he asked them to come along with him. Soon they were all in the tent and when the performance began all were given reserved seats by the owner of the circus.

"Mother, we went to the circus!" was the greeting of the children on their parents' return.

"Why, children, didn't I tell you you must not go?" said their mother.

"But General Lee took us."

"Oh, well," said their mother, "if General Lee took you, that's all right!"

After that going to the circus was a legitimate amusement for children.—Troy Times.

Danish Method of Curing Cheese.

Denmark and Holland are the largest exporters of dairy products in Europe. In both of these countries the most intelligent thought is given to the perfecting of all processes in that branch of agriculture. A Danish method to prevent the generation of mites in cheese is said to be entirely effective. The process consists in continually whitewashing the rooms in which the cheeses are cured until the mites are destroyed, the cheeses before being placed in these apartments being steeped in brine for a whole day. During their stay of a fortnight in the curing room they are carefully scraped and wiped daily. Finally they are washed in limewater and are then stored on thoroughly clean shelves. Unfortunately for a thorough test of this process Danish cheeses are not so subject to the generation of mites as are French and Italian sorts. If these could be freed from the attack of mites through the use of the Danish process, its value would be inestimable.

Galicians to Die May 26.

Winnipeg, March 23.—The Galician murderers were sentenced yesterday to die on May 26. The prisoners, Wasyl Guszczak and Simeon Czuby, were brought, handcuffed together, and placed in the box, when the handcuffs were removed. Czuby was dressed as he was all through the trial, but Guszczak appeared with his blue serge coat, which replaced the customary Galician sheepskin coat.

Guszczak, who is about 25 years old, looked unchanged, but Czuby, who is probably 50, looked the picture of misery. He clasped his hands together, and leaned over the edge of the box, as if suffering great mental agony. The judge then passed judgment upon the two men. At the conclusion of the sentence the men were again handcuffed together and led away into the jail. The Galicians came here in April last.

A NEW INVENTION!

The Newcombe Piano Has It.

It consists of a Patented Practice CLAVIER or STOP which diminishes the tone when required and saves wear on the Piano; it also does away with the old way of having to press down the pedal with the foot in order to soften the tone when running the scales or practicing. Oftentimes the young pupil on the piano cannot press down on the pedal without throwing themselves out of the proper position when they should sit erect. This invention in the NEWCOMBE PIANO will enable children to begin two years earlier on the piano. In addition to the above, the NEWCOMBE PIANO is the finest made in Canada. Children often complain about practicing; they like it if they have a NEWCOMBE PIANO. 1898 Styles are gems of art, containing every late improvement; they possess that beautiful full sweet tone which lights the singer, and so pleases every musical ear. Organs of every description at Wholesale Prices.

Big Bargains now on hand in slightly used. Upright and Square Pianos of the various makes taken in part exchange for the famous NEWCOMBE PIANOS. Every NEWCOMBE PIANO has a new registered scale and the warranty is cast in the plate. For correct and full information regarding the new invention and NEWCOMBE PIANOS, write to our Direct Representative. Easy Prices. Liberal Terms.

PURCHASING WATERWORKS.

Some Figures in Reference to the Matter—Estimates in Belleville, Brockville and Brantford.

As the matter of purchasing the waterworks system is a live issue in Peterborough, the appended discussion in reference to a similar deal by the Belleville City Council will be of interest:

Ald. Hanley wanted to know what the revenue of the Waterworks Company was, and what the advantage to the city would be by purchasing the plant. He understood that the company only paid 4 per cent. If so, where would be the profit to the city?

Mayor Johnston—"If the city takes over the works, the service will be extended, and the present profits are not what they then would be. I will lay before you the facts in reference to Barnstord and Brockville. They purchased their works and each realised $10,000 per year, after paying expenses, providing the interest on the debentures and one year's share of the sinking fund. It is a fair deduction that if those cities could make such a profit, Belleville could also."

Mayor Johnson read the statements of Brockville and Brantford in regard to their works. In Brantford the net earnings were $23,773, from which were paid the interest and sinking fund, $13 538, and a profit of $10 235 into the city treasury. This was after reducing the cost of water to the people by about 25 per cent. The City paid $65,000 for the works, but had greatly extended them, so that the total cost had been $256 000. In Brockville the total revenue was $24 839, the cost of working, $7,774; the net earning, $17,054; from which were paid interest on the debentures and sinking fund, $7 055; leaving a net profit to the city of $9,999. The works in those cities were put into a commission, composed of the Mayors ex-officio, and two members elected by the people. The total cost of the Brockville waterworks had been $165.000, $129,000 paid the Company and $37,000 on extensions. If we purchased our works, at the very least we could wipe out the $7,525 we pay for hydrant rentals, and probably more. It is quite safe to say that what the Company charges $7,525 for does not cost $1000 in extra pumping. If we saved that sum it would take a mill and a half off the taxation.

Ald. Robinson—"How many consumers are there in Belleville?"

Ald. Jones—"740."

Ald. Jones then read the financial statement of the Waterworks Company for three years: 1895, income $16,094; expenditure, including interest, etc., $13,880; balance, $2,214; 1896, income, $16,950; expenditure, $13,950; balance, $2,900. 1897, income, $17,798; expenditures, $14,087; balance, $5,709.

Mayor Johnston—"I have a statement for 1897 from the same authorities which is different from yours. The revenue, according to it, is derived as follows: D. & D. Institute, $900; G. T. R., $1 850; Intelligencer, $300; Sun, $300; City, $7,000; others, $6,810; total, $17,660. The expenditure not including interest was $6,092.

The mayor then read a carefully prepared statement from City Treasurer Thompson, which, allowing everything at outside figures, showed that the works could be run at a profit by the city.

Ald. Robinson—"Won't the present works wear out, when we would have to put in a new system?"

Mayor Johnson—"I am told that the life of water pipes is as yet unknown. If well put in and well tarred they will be as good fifty years from now as they are to-day. In forty years, anyway, the present works would be paid for."

Ald. Doyle—"Mr. Chipman states that within fifteen years new boilers and pumping machinery would have to be put in."

Mayor Johnson—"The treasurer allows $500 a year in his estimate for repairs. That would cover the cost of new boilers."

The estimates of the different engineers were laid on the table. The totals were: Chipman, $170.000; Lee, $166,859; Rust & St. George, $177 351.

Ald. Bogart—"The Company's offer is $177,000. I suppose we must accept that or arbitrate."

Ald. Jones said he had been informed by Mr. Tannahill that the original Waterworks Company had offered him the works for $150 000.

Ald. Robinson thought we should offer $173,000 for the works, or $4,000 a year for the city's hydrant service.

Mayor Johnston—"I will never vote for that. That $4,000 might as well be in the people's pockets. Almost every other place in the Province has purchased its works and made them pay and I think we can."

After a little more of this see-sawing, Ald. Hanley brought things to a head by moving that his Worship the Mayor be authorized to wait upon the Company and offer them the amount of Rust & St. George's award, and to make the best arrangement possible about the extras.

OUR MANITOBA LETTER.

When the cold spell which visited our province during the first two weeks in January had passed away, and mild weather had set in, people began to congratulate themselves on the prospect of a mild winter, but disappointment was certainly in store for them, for the last three days in January and the first eleven days in February the weather was very cold, the thermometer averaging about forty below. Old settlers claim that this is the longest period of intense cold known in the country. Except in the mountainous districts not more than six inches of snow covered the prairie at any time during this winter. At the time of writing, March 14th, a recent skift of snow covers the ground, while the frost has penetrated the ground to a great depth.

It is hard to predict the exact time at which seeding will begin, but we are perfectly safe in saying that little, if any, seeding will be done in March. Snow disappears here very rapidly in the spring, and a day or two after the snow is gone the farmer is able to place the harrow on the land. Only two or three inches of the top soil would then be free from frost, but that is sufficient. The grain is now sown on this and the gradual extraction of the frost imparts a moisture to the soil, especially needed in a dry spring.

At this particular time of the year the immigration agents of the Government see the best results of their efforts. Every train coming from the south and east now brings its band of immigrants, but the influx will not have reached its heighth till about April 1.

It is contended by those who are in a position to know that much larger immigrations than usual will arrive this spring from the older Provinces and from the United States.

The Government of Manitoba has an outlined immigration policy and through pamphlets and other literature informs the eastern people of the vast resources of this Province. They have a number of immigration agents in Canada, United States and England. The Northwest Territories have no immigration policy, but look well after the settler and thus every settler becomes an advertiser of his territory.

The Deputy Minister of the Interior gives the following figures as an approximation of the immigration to the Province this spring: British, 20 000; Americans, 10 000; Galicians, 6,000; Doukhobors, 8,000; probably six or eight thousand from other European countries will make a total of over 50,000.

It is claimed and it certainly is a fact that there is a much larger acreage per farmer ready for crop at the present time than ever before.

The Government Crop Bulletin gave these figures for last year:

Wheat—one and a half million acres, yield 17 bushels per acre.

Coarse grains—one million acres, yield 30 bushels per acre.

Potatoes—20,000 acres, yield 165 bushels per acre.

This year fully two and one-half millions of acres will be sown with wheat.

Concerning the growing of potatoes many people of the east have very erroneous ideas, believing that this crop is practically a failure here. Such is not the case, the very opposite being true. Enormous crops of this root are raised here, the returns being much larger here than in Ontario.

Much regret is expressed throughout the Province at the death of Mr. Jameson, M. P. for Winnipeg.

The Dominion Government appear to have the universal confidence of the people and it is quite probable that the Government will shortly have a supporter from Winnipeg without a contest.

The Conservatives throughout the Province have organised for the next Dominion campaign and meetings are been held in all the towns. One Conservative spouter on being asked what the Conservative platform was this time, replied, "The same old policy." If so, it must have "the same old result"—defeat.

MILLINERY PAR EXCELLENCE!

Reception Days

—AT THE—

GOLDEN LION.

Our Spring Millinery Exhibit, resulted—as we intended it should result—in far surpassing all and any other exhibit of this or past seasons.

The Formal Opening Days were attended with a fascination which attracted crowds of ladies to our Millinery and Cloak Parlours and filled the store with great activity.

The scores of High-class Novelties from Paris, London and New York made a magnificent showing, and ladies were not only profuse in their congratulations but liberal in their patronage.

RECEPTION DAYS

Will continue all next week, when our Extreme Novelties in Hats, Bonnets, Jackets, Capes, Flowers, Feathers, Millinery, Ribbons, Trimmings and Ornaments will justify our claims to being the leaders in Millinery par excellence.

Our recent arrivals of New York Novelties will enhance the display. These are beauties which have no counterpart in town.

The approach of Easter will be marked by everything that's new and novel in woman's dress. The forenoon is the best time to come.

AN ANGLO-RUSSIAN AGREEMENT

Germany Bitter Over the Samoan Affair—Demands the Recall of Chief Justice Chambers—A Voice From the South Pole—A Remarkable Linguist Dead—The News by Cable.

Paris, March 25.—In the Court of Cassation yesterday, M. Ballot de Beaupre, president of the civil section of the Court of Cassation, read a report recommending the rejection of the application of Mme. Dreyfus for the exclusion from the revision inquiry of three judges, MM. Petit, Crepon and Lepelletier, who, in the early stages of the proceedings, decided unfavorably on a Dreyfus question.

The public prosecutor recommended that contrary action be taken, formally supporting granting the application of Mme. Dreyfus. After a long deliberation, the court decided to reject the application and condemned Mme. Dreyfus to pay a fine of 100 francs. The fining of Mme. Dreyfus was a formal matter.

FIRST FRUITS OF PEACE.

Czar's Temper Leads to a Partial China Agreement With Britain.

London, March 25.—The Daily Graphic will make the following announcement to-day: "The Anglo-Russian negotiations have resulted in a partial agreement. The question of the Niuchwang Railway extension loan contract has been settled on a permanent basis, completely satisfactory to England, Baron de Stael (Russian ambassador to Great Britain), representing that the Russian concession in this matter is due to the anxiety of Emperor Nicholas, on the eve of the conference for the limitation of armaments, to give Great Britain a tangible proof of his peaceful and amicable disposition. The negotiations regarding general questions are also well advanced, and there is every reason to hope that a convention will shortly be signed."

Germans Are Growling.

Berlin, March 25.—The newspapers here aggressively discuss the Samoan question and a portion of the press maintain that Germany must adequately protect German interests there.

The correspondent here of the Associated Press learns from an authoritative source that Germany does not intend to remove Herr Rose, the German consul at Apia, unless Great Britain and the United States remove their consuls.

A Threat From Germany.

London, March 25.—The Berlin correspondent of The Morning Post says: "I am informed that Germany regards the withdrawal of Chief Justice Chambers from Samoa as imperative, and that a refusal on the part of the United States to withdraw him would be equivalent to the abandonment of negotiations concerning Samoa."

Germany Means Business.

Tangier, March 25.—The German cruiser Bussard arrived here yesterday to support the German school ships Charlotte and Stoch in enforcing the demands made by the German Government for the payment of an indemnity to the German victims of Moroccan outrages, the Sultan still delaying to act up to the agreements arrived at in the matter. If the claims are not speedily settled, complications are threatened.

A MOST REMARKABLE STORY.

Marquis de Dangley Says He Has Visited the South Pole.

Paris, March 25.—A man who calls himself Marquis de Dangley is attracting attention here by a remarkable story. He says he was wrecked on the Antarctic continent in the ship Oregon in 1868. There was aboard a French colony made up of descendants of refugees who left Europe at the time of the Napoleonic wars. Later, he says, they organized themselves into a kingdom named Adelia. The country which they inhabit in the Antarctic is fairly temperate. The Marquis says that while among them he visited the South Pole three times, and describes it as a huge volcano. Gold, he says, is abundant in the region. The old man says he recently made his way to Australia, after being shipwrecked twice. He exhibits many peculiar relics to support his story. Maritime records show that the Oregon was wrecked in the Antarctic Sea in the year mentioned.

THE TRADE CONDITIONS.

Although American Exports Are Great, Britain's Trade Is Satisfactory.

London, March 25.—In the House of Commons yesterday Sir Charles Howard Vincent, Conservative, asked whether, in view of the enormous increase of exports from the United States, while the exports of the United Kingdom do not show such vitality, the Government is prepared to issue a royal commission to appoint a select committee to inquire into the cause of such a condition.

The president of the Board of Trade, Mr. C. T. Ritchie, replied that the facts and figures set forth were substantially correct. The causes of such a condition of things, he added, were generally well-known and there was no necessity for a special inquiry into the matter, especially as there was no reason to regard the condition of trade and industry in Great Britain as other than satisfactory.

A Great Linguist Dead.

Bonn, Germany, March 25.—G. W. Leitner, the linguist, is dead.

Gottlieb Wilhelm Leitner was born in 1830. He was the first interpreter of the British army operating in the Crimea, and later became professor of the Arabic language and literature of the Royal College, London. In 1864 he was appointed rector of the College of Lahore. Some time later Leitner was entrusted with an important mission into the least known parts of Thibet, which took him two years to accomplish. While on this mission he endured great suffering, and passed through many dangers, but obtained the material for an important work. At the Universal Exposition of Vienna in 1875 he obtained the only grand diploma of honor accorded for the advancement of Oriental languages, and it was said of him that he spoke and wrote in at least 25 idiomatic languages, and was familiar with 25 others.

AGUINALDO DEFEATED.

Sweeping Victory Gained by the United States Troops at Manila.

New York, March 25.—The World to-day prints the following Manila cable under date of March 24:

"A sweeping victory over Aguinaldo's forces has just been won by the United States troops. The total American loss is estimated at about 100, including both the killed and wounded. The Filipino loss is between 300 and 400."

THE ENEMY'S MOVEMENTS.

Filipinos Likely to Risk an Engagement—Otis' Plan of Campaign.

Manila, March 25.—Two Spanish prisoners, who have escaped from Polo to the lines of the Kansas Regiment, report that the Filipinos have concentrated their forces at Malabon and Polo. They say that only Aguinaldo's body guard is at Malolos and that the rebel leaders apparently intend to stake their fortunes on a fight at Malabon. There it was expected an engagement would take place yesterday. If defeated, the rebels intend to disperse to the swamps and mountains. The rebels were putting their Bolos in front, believing that the Bolo men's charms would avert the bullets. The Bolos of the Filipinos greatly outnumber the rifles in their hands. The rebels are further said to have admitted that they could not stand the American shells and bayonet charges. The escaped Spaniards corroborate the stories told of food shortage among the rebels, and add that their hospitals are short of supplies.

Otis' Plan of Campaign.

Washington, March 25.—It is understood here that General Otis has so far matured his plans of campaign that within a week or ten days he will be able to begin the movement which is expected to mark the destruction of Aguinaldo's army. The new movement will be, it is understood, by a combined land and water attack. Gen. Otis has procured 13 of the gunboats formerly owned by the Spanish Government, and these are to play an important part in the development of the campaign. It is believed that Gen. Otis will place a complete brigade on board vessels, steam rapidly northward and land them beyond the insurgent headquarters at Halolos. If this movement succeeds the insurgent army will find itself completely penned in with no open or retreat.

FILIPINOS VERY ACTIVE.

They Claim That 1,000 Americans Have Already Been Killed.

Manila, March 25.—The enemy are extremely active in the vicinity of Malabon, in preparing defenses, evidently anticipating an attack. They keep well under cover. A small body, however, emerged from the jungle on the extreme left yesterday and fired upon the Kansas troops in the trenches, fatally wounding Private Cohen of Company B, and Private Musser of Company E.

According to Filipino accounts, 1,000 Americans have been killed, the fatalities being especially heavy at Caloocan, where the United States troops "rushed like mad men against a storm of bullets."

A LABOR WAR AVERTED.

There Will Be no Strike Among the Scotch Coal Miners.

Edinburgh, March 25.—A great labor war throughout Scotland was averted yesterday by mutual concessions. The coal miners of the district had given notice that they would strike for an advance in wages. Representatives of the employers and of the miners met in conference yesterday and agreed to leave to a conciliation board the defining of the concessions to be made by both sides.

A strike, at this time especially, would have been a calamity to every department of Scottish industry, for all the trades dependent on the coal supply are now working at high pressure.

The Khalifa Powerless.

London, March 25.—Replying to questions in the House of Commons yesterday, Right Hon. William St. John Brodrick, Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, said it was not expected that it would be necessary to send an expedition against the Khalifa, a majority of whose followers now, he added, were not armed with rifles.

Women May Hold Seats.

London, March 25.—In the course of the discussion of the London Government bill in the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury, explained that by the operation of the measure woman would be qualified to hold seats in the councils. He was not certain, however, that they would be eligible to the office of Lord Mayor or alderman.

Passed the First Reading.

The House of Commons last evening passed to a second reading the London Local Government bill, which will transform the metropolitan parishes and sanitary districts outside the city of London proper into local self-governing bodies, subject to the reservation of general authority in the London County Council.

Plains of Abraham.

London, March 25.—The Morning Standard comments editorially yesterday on the imminent danger of losing the historic Plains of Abraham, at Quebec, which a recent cablegram reports are to be mapped out into building lots, and says: "Surely something can be done to save from desecration the graves of the gallant combatants of England and France, and preserve the historic site of Wolfe's great victory from the speculative builder."

A Famous Missionary Dead.

London, March 25.—A despatch from Kimberley, in Griqualand, West South Africa, reports the death of the famous missionary, Rev. John Mackenzie. Mr. Mackenzie worked in the same sphere as Dr. David Livingston and Dr. Moffatt, the former of whom died in 1885 and the latter ten years later. He preceded Mr. Cecil Rhodes as deputy commissioner of Bechuanaland and fought for the Bechuana tribes against the immigrant Boers.

The Ameer Sick Again.

London, March 25.—The Vienna correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, confirming the report of the ill-health of the Ameer of Afghanistan, says that his condition is serious, that he has declared his son, Habib Gullah Khan, his successor, and willed him two-thirds of his fortune.

FISTS INSTEAD OF PEN.

E. W. Morrison of The Citizen Charged With Doing Harm to W. R. Wrightson of The Ottawa Tribune.

Ottawa, March 25.—E. W. Morrison, editor of The Citizen, and W. R. Wrightson, editor of The Tribune, had a fight the other night on Parliament Hill. Morrison says he trounced The Tribune man. Informations were sworn out yesterday at the police station by Mr. H. B. Rathbone, Mr. Wrightson's partner, against Messrs. E. W. Morrison and Carrique, charging them with assault, occasioning actual bodily harm. Another information was also sworn out, charging Mr. Morrison with using threatening language.

The summonses have been issued and the case will be heard in court as soon as Mr. Wrightson is sufficiently recovered to give evidence. Mr. W. R. Wrightson was yesterday seriously ill. He is confined to a darkened room, where, with his head swathed in bandages, he tosses about on the bed. Yesterday morning Wrightson had several convulsions. His nerves seem to be entirely unstrung, and he is unable to see anyone.

The Ponton Appeal Allowed.

Toronto, March 25.—The appeal in the Ponton case against the decision of the local master at Belleville, postponing W. H. Ponton's civil suit for $50,000 damages until after the disposition of the criminal action, was heard by Chief Justice Armour yesterday in the chambers. The Chief Justice allowed the appeal with costs. At present, therefore, the case will go on at Cobourg next week before Mr. Justice Street. An appeal has been entered in the Divisional Court.

St. Catharines Man Killed.

St. Catharines, March 25.—John O'Mara, an old resident of this city, was accidentally killed on Welland avenue yesterday morning. He was holding his team of horses by the head while his wagon was being loaded with piping. The horses became frightened, broke away, and a piece of the piping struck him in the head, killing him instantly.

J. SUTCLIFFE & SONS,

R. H. KELLS & CO'S. OLD STAND.

"Only the First Step Is Difficult."

The first step in Spring should be to cleanse Nature's house from Winter's accumulations. Hood's Sarsaparilla does this work easily. It is America's Greatest Spring Medicine. It purifies the blood, as millions of people say. It makes the weak strong, as nervous men and women gladly testify. It cures all blood diseases, as thousands of cured voluntarily write. It is just the medicine for you, as you will gladly say after you have given it a fair trial.

Tumors—"A tumor as big as a large marble came under my tongue and instead of letting my physician operate on it, I used my favorite spring tonic, Hood's Sarsaparilla. The bunch soon disappeared." MRS. H. M. COBURN, 579 Mer'k St., Lowell, Mass.

Rheumatism—"I had rheumatism for five years and can conscientiously say that Hood's Sarsaparilla has given me entire relief. As a blood purifier it has helped my children wonderfully." MRS. E. A. SAGAR, 23 Franklin Avenue, Passaic, N. J.

Dyspepsia—"For many years I suffered with dyspepsia. I resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla and its continued use entirely cured me." HARRY L. MORRIS, 100 Mulberry Street, Newark, N. J.

Catarrh—"I suffered twelve years with eczema. Tried different medicines and physicians with only temporary relief. Finally took Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills patiently for six months and am entirely cured." D. J. BURR, U. S. Pension Office, Indianapolis, Ind.

Backache—"I was miserable and tired, had no appetite and felt sore all over. My back ached so that when I stooped I could hardly straighten up. First bottle Hood's Sarsaparilla helped and three bottles made me strong and well." J. J. EICHBAUER, 923 Meldrum Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Bad Blood—"When 65, a cancerous eruption appeared under my eye. Hood's Sarsaparilla purified my blood and the eruption disappeared." JOHN M. KERR, 3619 Wood St., Chicago, Ill.

Neuralgia—"I had dreadful neuralgia, miserable for months. Neighbors told me to use Hood's Sarsaparilla; it cured me perfectly." MRS. FRED TURNER, Barre, Vt.

Dyspepsia—"I know a positive relief for dyspepsia and that is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It cured me. My neuralgia also stopped." W. B. BALDWIN, 166 Oak Street, Binghamton, New York.

Indigestion—"I now have a good appetite, eat well, sleep well and my dyspepsia and indigestion have left me. The reason is I took Hood's Sarsaparilla which entirely cured me. I am Baggage Master on the B. & O. Railroad." THOMAS COLES, 119 Carr St., Sandusky, Ohio.

Hip Disease—"I had running sores for eight years on my hips. I was confined to my bed at times and at others used crutches. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured my hip and gave me permanent health." OLLIE J. ARCHER, 139 Dudley Street, Dayton, Ohio.

Goitre—"Goitre was so expensive in medical attendance that I let mine go. It made me a perfect wreck, until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla which entirely cured me." MRS. THOMAS JONES, 120 South St., Utica, N. Y.

Running Sores—"Five years ago my affliction came, a running sore on my leg, causing me great anguish. Hood's Sarsaparilla healed the sore, which has never returned." MRS. A. W. BARNEY, 30 Powell Street, Lowell, Mass.

Catarrh—"I suffered from childhood with catarrh. Was entirely deaf in one ear. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me and restored my hearing." MRS. W. STOKES, Midland, Tex.

Sore Eyes—"Humor in the blood made my daughter's eyes sore, so that we feared blindness, until Hood's Sarsaparilla made her entirely well." E. B. GIBSON, Henniker, N. H.

Salt Rheum—"My mother was seriously afflicted with salt rheum and painful running sores. No medicine helped her until Hood's Sarsaparilla was used, which made her entirely well." EZRA E. MAPLESTONE, 356 Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

Tired Feeling—"I had that tired, dull feeling, dyspepsia, headaches and sinking spells, but Hood's Sarsaparilla made me a new man. I never was better than now." JOHN MACK, Oskaloosa, Iowa.

Tired Feeling—"My appetite was capricious, my liver disordered and I was tired. Hood's Sarsaparilla relieved it all. It cured a friend of mine of female weakness." MRS. JESSIE A. MEARNS, Clayton, Del.

Erysipelas—"A running sore on my limb developed into erysipelas. The faithful use of Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplished a cure. I am stronger than ever." MRS. W. KANE, Media, Pa.

The Grip—"After the grip I was run down, appetite poor and health bad. Hood's Sarsaparilla purified my blood, restored my appetite, pains entirely gone. I am a surveyor." A. W. JUDSON, Sandusky, Ohio.

A GREAT CHANCE MISSED.

If the Senate is the watch dog, key-stone, corner-stone, palladium, bulwark, etc., which the Opposition describe it, it is singular that Mr. Whitney and his party in the Legislature haven't made a move to have a Senate attachment provided for the Ontario Legislature. The fact that neither the present leader of the Opposition nor his predecessors have undertaken the laudable work is proof that a single chamber system has worked well in Ontario. If the Opposition leaders had believed a Senate or Legislative Council to be the great safeguard they now pretend it is, they would certainly have taken some measures to, at least, place themselves on record as in favour of a reform that should thus provide a remedy for the results of "hasty legislation." They have missed a great chance. If a score of years ago a Legislative Council could have been procured for Ontario the present Opposition would have had as pliant a tool and as stolid a stumbling block to progress as the Opposition at Ottawa possesses in the Senate as now composed. The Conservatives were in power at Ottawa nearly twenty years. They had the appointment of the Lieutenant-Governors, and the Lieutenant-Governors have the appointment of Legislative Councillors. There you have the whole thing in a nut-shell. All the Legislative Councillors would have been Conservatives and, no doubt, as biddable as the venerable Senators are. Neglect to attend to this matter on the part of the Opposition represents a great opportunity unimproved.

PUBLIC OPINION AND FREE SUGAR

The press of this province is freely expressing its opinion on the sugar combine and its methods, and if we may judge by what we see in our exchanges, public opinion would warrant the Government considering the propriety of putting sugar on the free list, as provided for in the anti-combine clause of the tariff law.

The Kingston Whig points out that the effect of the combine is to stifle all competition and so allow the price of sugar to be advanced to a point far above that contemplated by Parliament when it fixed the ratio of duties on raw and refined grades. In this way the ring is enabled to override the findings of Parliament and usurp tax-levying powers, which are supposed in free countries to rest only in the hands of the people's representatives in Parliament assembled.

The Toronto Globe commenting on the Whig's exposure says:—The Whig points out that the refiners have, usurping the power of Parliament, adding to the protective duty in this way: A ring has been formed, composed of the refiners and the wholesale grocery guild. The members of the guild bind themselves (1) to abrogate their right of importing or handling foreign refined sugars no matter how low, relative to ring prices, they may be quoted in British or other foreign markets, and (2) to sell domestic refined sugars at uniform prices to be dictated to them from time to time by the refiners. The Whig adds that any wholesale firm not complying with the conditions of the combine is black-listed and cannot buy sugars at inside discounts accorded to guild firms. It declares further that the Canadian sugar ring is a copy of the American sugar trust:—

"But the Arbuckle refineries competing with the American sugar trust for a share in this rich plunder of seventy million consumers brought on a sugar war that raged till the difference in open market quotations for 96 test raw sugar and standard granulated fell from 93 cents to 39 per hundred pounds. Then one or two Canadian firms not in the ring, taking advantage of the margin between the higher Canadian ring prices and American sugar war prices, and also of favouring free trade values in Great Britain, were enabled to do some importing, and have in a measure hampered the Canadian sugar combine's game of plunder. It is this importation of outside refined sugar which, having somewhat checkmated the ring's designs by compelling lowered prices, that is now being made the excuse for the proposed raid on Parliament with the cry for 'more protection.'"

If The Whig's charges are well founded the refiners have not only deprived themselves of all ground for further protection, but they have imperilled the protection they now enjoy by bringing themselves under the provision of the tariff law relating to trusts. The law declares that whenever the Governor in Council has reason to believe that a trust or combine exists in regard to any manufacture he may order a judicial inquiry, and if the trust is found to exist and to work to the disadvantage of the consumer, the Government may lower or remove the duty. The law says to the manufacturer: We give you a certain protection; but if you choose to take the law into your own hands and make a tariff for yourselves you must give up the advantage you enjoy under the general tariff. The refiners, of course, have a right to present their side of the question, but on the statement of The Whig a judicial enquiry is in order, and at all events the refiners will have no sympathy in their demand for more protection if it is true that they have been abusing the protection accorded to them by the law. Parliament ought to guard very jealously its control over the tariff, and ought to be very stern and summary in dealing with combines and railway companies which undertake to frame tariff laws for their own benefit.

The London Advertiser believes that "if the Government could spare the revenue, free sugar would not only take a heavy tax off the community, but it would be a boon to the large sugar-using industries which employ more labour than the refineries."

The Belleville Ontario, circulating in a district in which are large fruit raising and canning interests, demands cheaper sugar as a raw material for the canning industry.

With a surplus of over three millions the Government might, it seems, do a wise thing to put sugar on the free list. This would be only fairplay to the canners and other sugar using interests and remove an unwise handicap from their export business.

British jam makers are asking for raspberry and other fruit pulps. Cheap sugar would ensure an enormous increase in this branch of trade and secure an almost unlimited market for berries and other fruits too tender to be largely exported in a natural condition.

The St. Thomas Journal says: "There are good reasons for the Government abolishing the sugar duties altogether. If a few refiners should lose by it, it would largely benefit the industries using sugar, such as fruit canning, which employs more labour than sugar refining."

Compared with what the British consumer pays, the Canadian housewife has to part with a dollar to get only about sixty cents worth of sugar, the balance, nearly forty cents, being taxation, of which less than twenty cents finds its way past the rings and protected refiners to the public chest.

Had we free sugar, the good housewife would get the same quantity and nearly forty cents change back from the retailer, who, lacking both ring and tariff protection, is forced by open competion to handle sugars at bare cost.

With this heavy tax lifted and the amount of it left with the consumer, it would be spent with the merchant for other goods, on which he would make some profit, and that his customer would be very glad to have.
